TREASURY, Whitehall, S. W. 1.

The Lord High Treasurer of England is the Third Great Officer of State, the office having been "in commission" (with certain intervals) since 1612. The Commissioners of the Treasury of the United Kingdom consist of the First Lord, who is usually Prime Minister, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and some Junior Lords, with certain Secretaries and a staff of officials. The duties of the First Lord are mainly political, as also are those of the Parliamentary Secretary and the Junior Lords; the duties of the Chancellor of the Exchequer are mainly financial, in that he performs the ancient duties of the Under-Treasurer and, after agreement with the heads of the great spending departments, arranges for the great collecting departments to provide sufficient moneys to meet the needs of the year. The papers are laid before Parliament in the form of a Budget, which the Chancellor opens and expounds to the House these plans being accepted, modified, or rejected by the House.

WHEAT COMMISSION.

10 Smith Square, Westminster, S.W. 1.

The Wheat Commission are a body corporate constituted under the Wheat Act, 1938, for the purpose of administering that Act. The Act secures to growers of home-grown millable wheat a standard price and a market therefor. The Commission collect from millers and importers of flour "quota payments" in respect of flour milled in or imported into the United Kingdom, and the sums so received are paid into the Wheat Fund. From this Fund the Commission pay "deficiency payments" (i.e., the difference between the ascertained average price and the "standard price" of wheat, less administrative expenses) to registered growers in respect of home-grown millable wheat sold by them in accordance with the provisions of the Act and the Byelaws made thereunder.

In Scotland the principal local court is the Sheriff Court. The Judge Ordinary is the Sheriff-Substitute, and the Sheriff is an Appeal Judge. The jurisdiction of the Sheriff Court is both civil and criminal. In civil questions, apart from Divorce and a few unimportant exceptions of a technical nature, the jurisdiction is unlimited within the Sheriffdom. On the criminal side the Court has cognizance of practically all serious crime except murder, treason and rape, but the power of punishment is limited to fine and imprisonment; it does not extend to penal servitude.

The Sheriff Clerk is the Clerk of the Sheriff Court, and his duties correspond nearly to those of a Registrar in the English Courts.

Prosecutions are conducted by Crown officials at the public expense; the Lord Advocate and his deputies prosecute in the High Court; the Procurators-Fiscal in the Sheriff Court.

The Address of the Secretary of the Sheriffs-Substitute Assoc. is County Buildings, Glasgow.

ADOPTION OF CHILDREN.

In England and Wales the adoption of children is regulated by the Adoption of Children Act, 1926. An Order of Court is necessary to legalize the adoption, and the Act provides a number of safeguards (see Adoption Rules 1935, made by Lord Chancellor). Adoption puts the child adopted practically on the same footing as a child born to the adopter in lawful wedlock, in all matters of custody, education and maintenance; but does not alter the child's rights in property of his real parents (e.g., on intestacy) nor give the child rights in respect of the adopter's property. (But, under the Statutes 24 & 25 Geo. 5 (a) cap. 34 and (b) cap. 41, adopted children, and adopters, are given rights as claimants (a) under the Workmen's Compensation Acts and (b) under the Fatal Accidents Acts 1846 to 1908.) The Act provides for a register of adopted children. Applications are made to the High Court (Chancery), County Court, or Magisterial Bench. Orders will not usually be made for a man to be sole adopter of a girl, and applicant must be twenty-five years of age, or older, and more than 21 years older than the child to be adopted. Adoption will regulate questions of removability and settlement under the Poor Laws.

Scotland.—The Adoption of Children (Scotland) Act, 1930 (as amended by the Adoption of Children Act (Scotland) 1931), makes similar regulations for Scotland as from Oct. 1, 1930, and directs the Registrar-General for Scotland to establish and maintain an Adopted Children Register. Applications are made to the Court of Session, or the Sheriff Court within whose jurisdiction either the applicant or the child resides at the date of application.

AFFIDAVITS.

Affidavits are written declarations on oath used (principally in Court proceedings) for supplying evidence in writing instead of by oral testimony in open Court. The person making the Affidavit is termed the Deponent. Statements of facts in an Affidavit must be within the Deponent's own knowledge. Any document or writing, e.g., a deed, letter, &c., referred to in an Affidavit and annexed to it, is termed an Exhibit. Affidavits may be sworn in England before a Commissioner for Oaths and certain Court officers so authorised. (Commissioner's fee, 2/-.)

Instead of the more solemn Oath or Affidavit, a Statutory Declaration is sometimes used. The form begins:—"I .....do solemnly and sincerely declare," and ends:—"I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true and by virtue of the provisions of the Statutory Declaration Acts 1835." Examples of its use are:—To prove possession and ownership of land. To prove handwriting. As to pedigree. To explain loss of a document, e.g., Share Certificate, Pawn Ticket, &c. They may be made before any Justice of the Peace (without fee) or other officer authorised to administer oaths. (Commissioner's fee, 2/-; Stamp Duty, 2s. 6d.)

It is Perjury knowingly to make a false statement on oath, e.g., in an Affidavit. It is a Misdemeanour to make a false Statutory Declaration (Perjury Act 1911, Sec. 1 & Sec. 5).

In Scotland offences are punishable under the False Oaths (Scotland) Act, 1933.

BIRTHS (REGISTRATION).

(For Certificates, see p. 384.)

of it must be given to the local Registrar of Births and Deaths, and the register signed in his presence, by one of the following persons:—

1. The father or mother of the child. If they fail, 2. The occupier of the house in which the birth happened; 3. A person present at the birth; or, 4. The person having charge of the child. The duty of attending to the registration therefore rests firstly on the parents. The registration must be made within 42 days (Scotland 21 days) of the birth. Failure to do this, without reasonable cause, involves liability to a penalty of forty shillings. If at the end of 42 days the birth is not registered, the Registrar may require any one of the above-mentioned persons to attend to register at a stated time and place. Failure to comply involves a penalty of forty shillings. The registration of a birth will be free when it takes place within 42 days (in Scotland 21 days), unless the Registrar is requested to attend at a residence or at the house where the child was born, when he may claim a fee of one shilling. After three months a birth cannot be registered except in the presence of the Superintendent Registrar, and on payment of fees, amounting to five shillings, to him and the Registrar. After twelve months no birth can be registered without the Registrar-General's consent, and on payment of further fees, amounting to ten shillings. In Scotland, after the lapse of three months, it can only be registered by the district examiner and on the authority of the County Sheriff. (The district examiner is entitled to a fee of 2s.) The regulation that no birth in England and Wales could be registered after seven years was revoked in 1922, but late registration cannot be allowed unless satisfactory evidence is supplied to the Registrar-General. The only legal proof of age and place of birth is afforded by the civil registers, which the law now requires to be made as above described. In districts under the Notification of Births Act, 1907 (as extended by an Act of 1915), notice of every birth must be given by the father, or person in attendance on the mother, to the district medical officer of health by post within 36 hours of the birth. This is in addition to the registration already mentioned.

A "Stillbirth" must be registered, accompanied by either a certificate of doctor or midwife, or a declaration that no doctor or midwife was present at the birth, and that the child was not born alive. (Still-born children are not registered in Scotland.)

The re-registration of the birth of a person under the Legitimacy Act, 1926, is provided for in that Act (see p. 389). In Scotland re-registration of a child legitimated per subsequens matrimonium is provided for by 24 & 25 Geo. 5, cap. 19.

Birth at Sea: The master of a British ship must record any birth on board and send particulars to the Registrar-General of Shipping.

Birth Abroad: Consular Officers are authorised to register births of British subjects occurring abroad. Certificates are procurable in due course at Registrar-General's office, London.

BRITISH NATIONALITY.

The law as to British Nationality is mainly to be found in the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 1914, as amended by Acts passed in 1918, 1922 and 1933. It is important to notice that the Act of 1914—which defines a natural-born British Subject—does not affect the status of any person born before Jan. 1, 1915.

The following are deemed to be British Subjects, namely:

1. Any person born within His Majesty's dominions and allegiance.
2. Any person born out of His Majesty's Dominions, before Jan. 1, 1915, whose father's father was born within His Majesty's Dominions, provided that the grandfather was, at the time of the father's birth, a British subject.
3. Any person to whom a Certificate of Naturalization has been granted, or who has acquired British nationality by reason of annexation of territory, or by special Act of Parliament.
4. The wives (whatever their nationality of origin) of British subjects.
5. The children of naturalized British subjects born out of His Majesty's Dominions, provided that they comply with one of the following conditions:—

(a) in the case of a child born before January 1st, 1915,

- (i) if a Certificate of Naturalization has been granted to his father or his mother (being a widow) before January 1, 1915, and he has become resident with such father or mother (being a widow) in the United Kingdom before that date while under age, or
- (ii) if a Certificate of Naturalization is granted to his father or his mother (being a widow) after January 1, 1915, and his name is included therein.

(b) in the case of a child born after January 1, 1915,

- (i) if before his birth a Certificate of Naturalization had been granted to his father or his mother, or
- (ii) if a Certificate of Naturalization is granted to his father or his mother (being a widow) after January 1, 1915, and his name is included therein.

6. Any person born out of His Majesty's dominions whose father was at the date of the birth a British subject, and who fulfils any of the following conditions—e.g., if either

- (i) his father was born within His Majesty's allegiance; or
- (ii) his father had a certificate of Naturalization; or
- (iii) his father had become a British subject by reason of any annexation of territory; or
- (iv) his father was, at the date of the birth, in the service of the Crown; or
- (v) his birth was registered at the British Consulate within one year or, in special cases, two years or, in the case of a person born on or after January 1, 1915, who would have been a British Subject if born before that date, within 12 months after August 1, 1922.

A child of a British Subject is deemed to have been born within the allegiance if born anywhere where by treaty, &c., His Majesty exercises jurisdiction over British subjects.

A person whose British nationality depends upon his registration at a Consulate ceases to be a British Subject unless he asserts his nationality by declaration within a year after attaining 21, and abandons any other nationality he may have acquired.

7. A person born on a British ship (but persons born on foreign ships in British territorial waters do not, on that account alone, become British subjects).

LOSS OF BRITISH NATIONALITY.—A British subject loses his British nationality:—

- (a) if by any voluntary or formal act he becomes naturalized in a foreign country;
- (b) if, in certain cases, he makes a declaration of alienage. These cases are:—
  - (i) where a person is a British subject by reason of birth in His Majesty's Dominions and allegiance or on board a British ship and is also by birth or becomes during minority a subject of any foreign State,
  - (ii) where a person is a British subject, but was born out of His Majesty's Dominions, and
  - (iii) where a Convention has been made between this country and any foreign State, to the effect that any subject of that state who has been naturalized as a British subject may divest himself of that Status;
  - (iv) the child of a naturalized British subject who became a British subject by his name being mentioned in the Certificate of Naturalization granted to his father, may make a declaration of alienage within a year after attaining majority;
- (c) if during his minority his father loses British nationality in circumstances which involve the acquisition by the child of a new nationality;
- (d) in the case of a woman, if she marries an alien; but only if by reason of her marriage she acquires her husband's nationality;

(N.B. A woman who was originally a British subject and loses British nationality by marriage with an alien does not regain British nationality on the death of husband or the dissolution of her marriage. If in such a case she desires to resume British nationality she must apply for a Certificate of Naturalization.)

- (e) in the case of a woman whose husband ceases to be a British subject, she herself only loses her British status if, owing to her husband's new nationality, she also acquires that nationality. In such case, however, she may retain her British status by making the appropriate declaration;
- (f) in the case of a person to whom a Certificate of Naturalization has been granted if the Secretary of State revokes the Certificate;
- (g) if the territory of which he is an inhabitant is severed from the Crown; cf., e.g., the cases of the inhabitants of Hanover and Heligoland.

ACQUISITION OF BRITISH NATIONALITY.—An alien may acquire British nationality:—

- (a) by special Act of Parliament;
- (b) by the conquest, annexation, or cession of the territory of which he is an inhabitant;
- (c) in the case of a woman, by marriage with a British subject, and
- (d) by naturalization. (Note.—An alien, upon naturalization, does not confer British status upon his wife, unless she makes the appropriate declaration of her desire to acquire British nationality.)

Naturalization.—All Certificates of Naturalization granted in the United Kingdom between May 13, 1870, and December 31, 1914, were granted in accordance with the provisions of the Naturalization Act, 1870. And this Act did not secure that a Certificate granted in any part of the Empire should be valid throughout the Empire.

Under the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 1914, every person to whom a Certificate of Naturalization is granted in accordance with its provisions after January 1, 1915, is a British subject, not only in that part of the British Empire where the Certificate is granted, but also in the United Kingdom and in any Dominion which has adopted the Act, and in any other British Possession.

Persons naturalized prior to January 1, 1915, may, after that date, apply for a fresh Certificate of Naturalization under the new conditions.

In order to be eligible for the grant of such a Certificate in the United Kingdom, an alien must:—

- (a) during the eight years preceding his application have resided for not less than five years in His Majesty's Dominions (of which not less than one year immediately preceding the application must have been spent in the United Kingdom) or have been for not less than five years in the service of the Crown;
- (b) be of good character and have an adequate knowledge of the English language; and
- (c) intend to reside in His Majesty's Dominions or to enter or continue in the service of the Crown.

Instructions for the guidance of persons desiring to apply for a Certificate of Naturalization are supplied with the form of application for a certificate which may be obtained (price 6d.) from H.M. Stationery Office.

The fee payable to the Home Office in respect of the grant of a Certificate of Naturalization is fixed by the Government of the day, and is at present £10, of which £1 is payable on submission of the application and the remainder on the grant of the Certificate. The £1 payable on submission of the application is not returnable, whether or not a Certificate is granted.

N.B.—In the case of a woman who was a British subject previously to her marriage to an alien, and whose husband has died or whose marriage has been dissolved, the above requirements, both as to residence and as to fee, are relaxed.

STATUS OF ALIENS.—Property may be held by an alien in the same manner as by a natural-born British subject, but the title to such property does not confer any right on an alien to hold real property out of the United Kingdom, or qualify him for any franchise or the right to own a British ship.

Aliens are not entitled to be tried by a jury de medietate lingue, but are triable in the same manner as if they were natural-born subjects.

ADMISSION, SUPERVISION AND DEPORTATION OF ALIENS.—Under the Aliens Order, 1920, any alien coming from outside the United Kingdom must obtain the leave of an Immigration Officer to land in the United Kingdom and such leave is refused in many cases, e.g., where the alien is without means, or (if he is seeking employment) is unable to produce a Permit issued by the Minister of Labour. Provision is also made (Article 6 of the Order) for the registration of resident aliens and (Article 12) for the deportation of aliens by order of the Secretary of State, which can be made on various grounds. The Aliens Order, 1920, was made under the Aliens Restriction Act, 1914, as amended and extended by the Aliens Restriction (Amendment) Act, 1919.

BUSINESS NAMES REGISTRATION.

REGISTRATION OF BUSINESS NAMES ACT, 1916.

This Act received the Royal Assent on 22 Dec., 1916, and its provisions were explained on pp. 414-415 of the 1921 "WHITAKER." The Office of the Registrar of Business Names is at 37 Kingsway, W.C. 2.

CERTIFICATES

OF BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, OR DEATHS.

England and Wales.—Certificates of Births, Deaths, or Marriages can be obtained at the General Register Office, Somerset House, on payment of fees amounting to 3s. 7d., viz., 1s. for search, 2s. 6d. for the certificate, and 1d. for the stamp affixed thereto. (When application is made by post the charges are 5s. 1d.) They can also be obtained from the registration officer having the legal custody of the register book containing the entry of which a certificate is required. Certificates of marriages in churches of the Church of England can also be obtained from the incumbent of the church in which the marriage took place.

Certificates at reduced rates can be obtained for the purposes of certain Acts of Parliament: Friendly Societies Act, 1896, Birth or Death, 1s.; Factory and Workshop Act, 1901, and for purposes of Elementary Education, Birth, 6d.; Savings Banks Act, 1887, Birth, Death, or Marriage, 1s.; National Insurance Acts, 1911 and 1913, Birth, 6d., Marriage, 1s.; Industrial Assurance Companies Act, 1896, and Trade Unions Amendment Act, 1876, death of child under 10 years of age, 1s., but only from the local Registrar.

English Registers.—Birth registration exists at Somerset House from 1837. An index to earlier entries (Births and Marriages) can be consulted at the Society of Genealogists at Chaucer House, Malet Place, London, W.C. 2.

Scottish Registers of Births, Marriages, and Deaths.—Parish registers were instituted for these in 1552, but until the Registration of Births, &c. (Scotland), Act, 1854, they were not properly kept in many cases. Extracts may, however, be obtained from them on payment of 2s. 1d. for each entry, but to be valid evidence it must be shown that the registers from which the entries are taken were regularly kept. Lists of the old parish registers may be consulted in the offices of the Registrar-General, H.M. General Register House, Edinburgh, or of local Registrars. These old registers are in the charge of the Registrar-General, and since 1854 local registers have been transmitted to him at stated periods. Registers up to the end of 1919 are now in his possession. There is a general index to the registers which may be searched on payment of 2s. A search of the index of a particular parish is 1s. A fee of 20s. is payable for a search of all the Scottish registers, and 1s. is payable for a search of a particular parish. An extract of an entry may be obtained on payment of 2s. 1d. Extracts of entries are issued at reduced rates for specified purposes as in England. The Registrar-General may permit searches to be made by and extracts to be given gratis to persons unable to pay the fees. The office of the Registrar-General is open on weekdays between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

COPYRIGHT.

The law of copyright is contained in the Copyright Act, 1911, under which copyright subsists automatically, without registration, in every original literary, dramatic, musical and artistic work. The provisions of the Act were explained on pp. 415-416 of the 1921 "WHITAKER." The Copyright (Rome Convention) Order, 1933, extends the Copyright Act 1911 to works by citizens of foreign countries in the Copyright Union on conditions set out in the Order.

Voluntary Registration at Stationers' Hall.—Compulsory registration at Stationers' Hall terminated on Dec. 31, 1923, but in the following year the Stationers' Company established a new Register in which Books and Fine Arts can be registered. A copy has to be filed at Stationers' Hall and certified copies of the entries are issued, the fees being 5s. for a Book, and 2s. 6d. for Fine Art; certified copies 5s. in either case. (Office open on Wednesdays only, 11 a.m. to 12 noon, and 2 to 4 p.m.) Such entries are of value in proving the existence of a work on a given date in the case of infringement.

COUNTY COURTS.

The whole law relating to the constitution, jurisdiction and procedure of County Courts has been consolidated and is contained in the County Courts Act, 1934. Appeals from a County Court now lie to the Court of Appeal direct instead of to the High Court. (Administration of Justice (Appeals) Act, 1934.)

DEATHS.

(For Certificates, see p. 384.)

In Eng'land and Wales.—When a death takes place, personal information of it must be given to the local Registrar of Births and Deaths, and the register signed in his presence, by one of the following persons:—1. A relative of the deceased present at the death, or in attendance during the last illness. If they fail, 2. Some other relative of the deceased. In default of any relatives, 3. A person present at the death; or, the occupier of the house in which the death happened. If all the above-named fail, 4. An inmate of the house, or the person causing the body to be buried. Relatives present or in attendance are first required to attend to the registration. The registration must be made within five days of the death, or within the same time written notice of the death sent to the Registrar, accompanied by a certificate of the cause of death, signed by a registered medical practitioner, if any such attended the deceased during his last illness. If notice is sent, information must nevertheless be given and the register signed within fourteen days from the death. It is important that every death should be registered and a certificate obtained before the funeral and delivered to the clergyman or other person who performs the funeral or religious service. No fee is chargeable for this certificate. If at the end of fourteen days the death is not registered, the Registrar may require any one of the above-mentioned persons to attend to register at a stated time and place. Failure to comply involves a penalty of forty shillings. The registration of a death is free of charge when it takes place within the above-mentioned periods, unless the Registrar is requested to attend at a residence, when a fee of one shilling is payable. After twelve months no death can be registered without the Registrar-General's consent and on payment of fees amounting to ten shillings.

A body must not be disposed of until (1) either the Registrar has given a certificate to the effect that he has registered the death, or (2) until the Coroner has made a disposal order. (Births and Deaths Registration Act, 1926, ss. 1, 2.)

A person disposing of a body must within ninety-six hours deliver to the Registrar a notification as to the date, place, and means of the disposal of the body (ib. s. 3).

"Still-born" child. (See under Births (Registration), p. 382.)

Death at Sea.—The master of a British ship must record any death on board and send particulars to the Registrar-General of Shipping.

Death Abroad.—Consular Officers are authorised to register deaths of British subjects occurring abroad. Certificates are procurable at the Registrar-General's Office, Tower Hill, London, from whom certified copies may be obtained. If the deceased was of Scottish nationality, particulars are sent to the Registrar-General for Scotland.

In Scotland, the rules of registration are similar, but (1) the death must be registered within 8 days; (2) the medical man concerned must give a certificate of death to the Registrar in terms of the Registration of Births, &c. (Scotland) Act, 1854, within 7 days; (3) the informant of a death receives from the Registrar a certificate that the death has been registered. This is given to the undertaker, who delivers it to the keeper of the cemetery. Failure to comply is under penalty in all cases.

CORONERS' INQUESTS.—Coroners' inquests are held in cases of violent and unnatural deaths, such as the case of a person slain or drowned, or dying suddenly, and of any person dying in prison. Coroners do not obtrude into the houses of persons for the purpose of holding inquests, but are sent for by the peace officers, to whom it is the duty of those in whose houses violent or unnatural deaths occur to make immediate communication, whilst the body remains in the same situation as when the death occurred. Inquests are not to be held on Sunday. With a view to avoiding duplication of proceedings it is now provided that if some person has been charged before examining Justices with murder, manslaughter or infanticide, the Coroner shall adjourn his inquest until after conclusion of the criminal proceedings (Act of 1926, s. 20). On application by the Attorney-General the High Court may order a new inquest if the interests of justice so require. A jury is only essential in the five cases specified in the Coroners' (Amendment) Act, 1926, but may be summoned in any other case if the Coroner thinks fit. The jury is to be composed of not more than 11 nor less than 7 "good and lawful men" (sex disqualification now removed). If the minority is not more than two the Coroner may accept the verdict of the majority of the jury. The jury is usually summoned from the householders residing in the neighbourhood in which the death took place. Any person summoned as a witness is bound to attend. The fine for defaulting jurymen or witness is any sum not exceeding £5. (See, generally, the Coroners' Act, 1887, and the Coroners' (Amendment) Act, 1926.)

In Scotland there is no Coroner. In ordinary cases of sudden death a private inquiry is held by the Procurator Fiscal (a Crown official who is the Public Prosecutor in criminal cases in every County, see p. 381). The result of such inquiry is reported to the Lord Advocate. In the case of a death occurring in the course of an industrial employment, and in every case in which the Lord Advocate may so order, a public inquiry is held before the Sheriff and a jury.

BURIALS.

The duty of burial is incumbent on the deceased person's Executors (if any appointed); it is also a recognized obligation of the husband of a woman, and the parent of a child, also of a householder where the body lies. Funeral expenses of a reasonable amount will be repayable out of deceased's estate in priority to any other claims. Directions as to place and mode of burial are frequently contained in the deceased's will, or in some memorandum placed with private papers, or may have been communicated verbally to a relative. Consequently steps should be immediately taken to ascertain the deceased's wishes from the above sources. If Cremation is desired, it is advisable for deceased to leave instructions in writing to that effect. Cremation may not take place if deceased has prohibited that form of burial. Under the Cremation Act, 1902, regulations are made by the Home Secretary dealing fully with the cremation of a body, disposal of ashes, etc., and containing numerous essential safeguards. A person may legally leave directions for the anatomical examination of his body. As to place of burial—unless closed by order in Council—the parish churchyard is the normal burying place for parishioners, or any person dying in the parish, but this will only nowadays apply in villages and the smaller towns. In the more populous districts cemeteries have long been established either by the local council, or a private company, and burials will take place there in accordance with the Cemetery Regulations. For an exclusive right to a burial space in the churchyard a faculty is required from the Ecclesiastical Court. Poor persons may be buried at the public expense by a County Council or County Borough Council; and as to place of burial, &c., see Poor Law Act, 1930, ss. 75 to 78. A person being found drowned on the sea shore is to be buried by the local Public Assistance Authority. As to the necessity for registration of a death before burial see Notes under Deaths, p. 385.

DIVORCE.

Preliminary.—Matrimonial suits may be conveniently divided into three classes, viz. (1) those in which a declaration against marriage is sought; (2) those in which the marriage is sought to be upheld; and (3) those in which, the marriage being admitted, partial or complete divorce is sought.

(1) Nullity of Marriage.—Marriage is void ab initio if the parties were in the prohibited degrees of affinity, if it was bigamous, if there was no consent, if one of the parties was insane, or if one of the parties was under the age of consent, i.e. 16—Age of Marriage Act, 1929. Inability to consummate a marriage may also be a ground for avoiding it. In such a case a decree of nullity may be obtained.

(2) Restitution of Conjugal Rights.—This is a form of relief generally sought by a spouse who has been deserted. Disobedience to a decree of restitution of conjugal rights, although two years have not elapsed, at once constitutes desertion; and such desertion, if coupled with the husband's adultery, whether committed before or after the decree of restitution, is a ground for granting to the wife a decree of dissolution of marriage.

(3) Judicial Separation and Divorce.—The third class of suit includes the suit for judicial separation (which does not dissolve a marriage), and the suit for divorce proper (which, if successful, dissolves the marriage contract altogether and leaves the parties at liberty to marry again). Either spouse may petition for judicial separation on the ground of adultery, or cruelty, or of desertion without cause for two years or upwards. In such a petition a husband may claim damages from the co-respondent. A decree of judicial separation is often made the ground of a petition for divorce. A petitioner who has committed adultery which has not been condoned cannot obtain a judicial separation or a decree of restitution of conjugal rights unless there has been condonation. The fact that a petitioner has been guilty of cruelty or desertion does not, however, debar him from a decree of judicial separation on the ground of adultery unless his conduct has conduced to the adultery.

Divorce.—Where partial or complete divorce is sought, relief can only be obtained upon proof of certain offences which fall under two heads, namely (1) those which are offences under ecclesiastical law, e.g., cruelty, adultery, and unnatural offences; (2) those which are offences by statute, e.g., incestuous adultery, bigamy with adultery, rape, and desertion.

If a husband seeks divorce, it is sufficient for him to prove the wife's adultery, in which case he may obtain damages from the adulterer. In the case of a wife it was formerly not sufficient that she prove mere adultery; but now, by an Act which came into force on July 28, 1923, she may petition for divorce on the ground that, since the marriage and the passing of the Act, her husband has been guilty of adultery. A wife can also obtain divorce if the husband has been guilty of bigamy with adultery, or rape, or certain other criminal offences, or of adultery coupled with such cruelty as without adultery would have entitled her to a divorce a mensa et thoro, or of adultery coupled with desertion. "Cruelty" is conduct of such a character as to have caused damage to life, limb, or health (bodily or mental), or as to give rise to a reasonable apprehension of such danger. It is cruelty wilfully and recklessly to communicate a venereal disease; and a course of conduct calculated to break the spirit of the sufferer (generally the wife), continued until health breaks down or is likely to break down under the strain, is also a ground for relief.

If a wife gives birth to a child of which her husband could not possibly be the father, that is sufficient proof of adultery.

It is desertion in the legal sense if one party to a marriage, without the consent or against the will of the other, wilfully without cause or reasonable excuse makes the other live apart for two years or more; and constructive desertion includes the case where the conduct of one party has driven the other out. Powell v. Powell (1922) & Jackson v. Jackson (1924). Formerly the only remedy for desertion was a suit for the restitution of conjugal rights: but now desertion without cause may enable the deserted spouse to obtain a decree of judicial separation and if coupled with adultery, a divorce.

When the decree will be refused.—A decree must be refused, even if the suit is undefended, if the allegations in the petition for divorce are not proved. There is no such thing in the Divorce Court as judgment by default. Other absolute bars to relief are (i) connivance at the adultery of the respondent; (ii) collusion, as where the initiation of the suit is procured by agreement or bargain (but this does not prevent a fresh suit being brought free from collusion); (iii) condonation, i.e. complete forgiveness which restores the status quo. Forgiveness, without restoration of the wife to her former position, cannot amount to condonation. (Crocker v. Crocker (1921), P. 15.) There are also certain discretionary bars, as, e.g. where the petitioner has been guilty of unreasonable delay, or has been guilty of such wilful neglect or misconduct as has conduced to the adultery.

Intervention by King's Proctor.—At any time during the progress of a suit for dissolution or nullity of marriage, and before the decree nisi is made absolute, the King's Proctor may intervene to show cause against making a decree absolute.

Decree Absolute.—Every decree of dissolution or nullity is in the first instance a decree nisi, and is not made absolute until the expiration of six calendar months. The marriage subsists until the decree is made absolute. After that date either spouse may marry again; but a man may not marry the sister of his divorced wife whilst the divorced wife is alive. A divorced wife may call herself by her late husband's name. Persons who have been divorced may re-marry.

Children.—When a suit has been commenced, the children should not be removed from the person in whose custody they are at the time. Until a suit for judicial separation, nullity, or dissolution of marriage has been dismissed, the Court may make orders for the custody, maintenance, and education of children. Either spouse may make applications for access to the children.

Alimony.—A wife may in any cause file a petition for alimony (i.e., means of support) pending suit, provided evidence of the marriage is adduced. The right to alimony continues until there is a decision against the wife in the court of first instance. The amount may be agreed between the parties, otherwise one-fifth of the joint incomes is generally allowed. An order for permanent alimony may be obtained by a wife who has obtained a final decree of judicial separation.

Maintenance, &c.—Permanent maintenance may be awarded against a husband, after a decree absolute, having regard to his ability and the conduct of the parties. The Court may order a settlement of a wife's property for the benefit of husband and children. The Court also has power to vary existing marriage settlements.

Protection Orders.—A deserted wife may apply to a court of petty sessions or to the Divorce Division for an order to protect any money which has come to her after such desertion against her husband and his creditors. Disobedience to the order renders a party retaining the property liable to restore it and to pay twice the value thereof.

Costs.—Where a suit is about to be set down for hearing, the wife, if she has not sufficient separate estate, may obtain payment from her husband of a sum sufficient to cover her costs to date; and where a decree has been obtained against her for judicial separation on the ground of adultery, she may defend herself at his expense should he afterwards bring a suit for dissolution of marriage. If a suit be decided against a wife who has separate estate, she may be condemned in costs. A co-respondent may be ordered to pay the whole or any part of the costs of the proceedings.

SEPARATION BY AGREEMENT.

Husband and wife may agree, with or without consideration, to separate and live apart, but the agreement, to be valid, must be followed by an immediate separation. Although usually made by deed, a mere oral agreement is binding. If made, however, with a view to facilitating divorce proceedings it is void. A wife is not bound by a separation agreement if she was forced to make it by threats of violence. A clause which binds the husband to give up the custody of the children will be enforced, unless the Court is of opinion that it is not for their benefit. The agreement usually contains mutual covenants not to sue for the restitution of conjugal rights—a covenant by the husband not to molest the wife, and a covenant by the wife or her trustee to indemnify the husband against debts contracted by her during the separation. The remedy for a breach of the agreement is specific performance. A clause that no matrimonial offence of either party before the date of the Deed shall be taken advantage of in subsequent proceedings is valid. (Rose v. Rose.)

SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

When a husband has been guilty of assault or has deserted his wife, or has been guilty of persistent cruelty, or of wilful neglect to maintain her or her infant children, or where he is an habitual drunkard, the wife may obtain relief from a Court of Summary Jurisdiction. By an Act which came into force on Sept. 30, 1925, the following grounds for an application were added to those already existing (a) cruelty to her children, (b) that her husband insists on having marital relations while suffering from a venereal disease, (c) that he has compelled her to submit herself to prostitution. A husband may apply on the ground that the wife has been cruel to his children. Relief may also be obtained by a husband whose wife is an habitual drunkard. The Court may declare that the applicant is no longer bound to cohabit with the other spouse. Where a wife is the applicant, the legal custody of children under sixteen may be given to her, and the husband may be ordered to pay a weekly sum not exceeding £2. Where the husband applies, the custody of all the children of the marriage may be given to him, and the wife may be committed to an inebriates' home. If the wife has been guilty of adultery, no order will be made on her application unless there was condonation; and if, having obtained an order, she commits adultery, the order may be discharged, but not if the court is of opinion that the husband conduced to the adultery by failing to make payment of the separation allowances. An order may be altered, varied or discharged at any time on cause being shown. All applications for relief must be made within six months of the ground of complaint.

DOGS.

For Licences.—See p. 646.

Dog Collars.—A dog whilst in a highway or place of public resort must have a collar with its owner's name and address. (Dogs whilst in use for sport, or tending cattle or sheep, are exempt from this Order.)

Dangerous Dogs.—Magistrates may order a dangerous dog to be kept under proper control by the owner or destroyed. Injuring cattle or poultry or chasing sheep renders the dog liable to be dealt with as dangerous.

Owner's Liability.—An injured party must prove that the dog was known by its owner to be ferocious towards mankind—hence the expression “a dog is entitled to its first bite.” This rule of law, however, no longer applies in the case of the worrying of cattle or poultry, the dog owner being now, in any event, liable for such damage (Dogs Act, 1906). Note.—It is unlawful to shoot a dog which is merely trespassing.

DOMESTIC SERVANTS.

“Domestic Servant” signifies, in law, a person employed in and about a residence, e.g., cook, butler, gardener, &c.; but does not include, e.g., a governess or tutor. By general custom, one calendar month's notice, given at any time on either side, is required to terminate the contract of domestic service, but the Courts have recognized a custom for termination at the end of the first month if notice is given at the end of the first fortnight.

Dismissal without notice is justified in the event of wilful disobedience to a reasonable order, gross misconduct, dishonesty, incompetence, or permanent incapacity. A “character,” however unfavourable, is a privileged statement, so long as given without malicious intent.

The Workmen's Compensation Acts impose serious liabilities upon an employer in the event of death or disablement of a servant from an accident in the course of employment, and prudent employers will protect themselves by a Policy, which can be obtained through the leading Insurance Companies for a small annual premium.

THE FRANCHISE.

The Representation of the People (Equal Franchise) Act, 1928, considerably amended both the qualifications for the franchise and the mode of registration of electors, and assimilated the franchises for men and women both for Parliamentary and Local Government elections.

PARLIAMENTARY.

The qualifications for the franchise are now the same for men and women. A person is entitled to be registered as a Parliamentary elector who is 21 years of age, and not subject to any legal incapacity; and

(a) Has the requisite residence qualification; or (b) has the requisite business premises qualification; or (c) is the husband or wife of a person having a business premises qualification.

Residence is the actual inhabitation of premises, i.e., where a person's home is and where he sleeps. The residence must have been during the whole of the qualifying period, i.e., three months, in the constituency or in another constituency in the same Parliamentary borough or Parliamentary county. If not it is essential that the residence should have been successive from a Parliamentary borough or Parliamentary county contiguous to that borough or county. The Administrative County of London is treated as a Parliamentary borough.

Business premises means land or other premises of at least £10 yearly value. The business premises must be occupied for the purpose of the business, profession, or trade of the person to be registered.

Universities.—A person of full age, and not subject to any legal incapacity, who has received a degree, is entitled to be registered as a Parliamentary elector for a University constituency; also a woman who has passed the final examination and fulfilled the conditions required of women by a University which did not, at the time the examination was passed, admit women to degrees.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

The qualifications for the Local Government franchise are now the same for men and women. A person is entitled to be registered as a Local Government elector who is 21 years of age, and not subject to any legal incapacity; and (a) is on the last day of the qualifying period occupying as owner or tenant land or premises in the electoral area; and (b) has during the whole of the qualifying period occupied as owner or tenant any land or premises in that area; if that area is not an administrative County or a County borough, then in any administrative County or County borough in which the area is situate; or (c) is the husband or wife of a person who is entitled to be registered in respect of premises in which the person entitled, and the husband or wife reside. There is also a service qualification for the Local Government franchise. A person (man or woman) who inhabits any dwelling-house by virtue of any office, service or employment is deemed to occupy the dwelling house as tenant and so obtains the Local Government franchise provided the dwelling house is not inhabited by the employer.

REGISTRATION.

Each parliamentary borough and Parliamentary county is an electoral registration area, and for each registration area there is a Registration Officer. Normally, the Town Clerk is the Registration Officer for the Parliamentary Borough and the Clerk to the County Council for the Parliamentary County. It is the duty of the Registration Officer to compile the register of all persons entitled to vote as parliamentary electors or local government electors in his area. It is also his duty to comply with any directions given by the Secretary of State as to the arrangements to be made by the Registration Officer in carrying out the registration.

The electoral lists when prepared are published by the Registration Officer. A copy can always be inspected at his office, and generally at the chief post offices and other convenient places in the area, including Church Porches, Public Libraries, and Local Council Offices. The lists should be examined to see if the entries have been correctly made. If not, claims and objections may be made as by notice directed.

The Index letters showing the nature of the qualifications of an elector are:—

Men. Women.

R Rw = Residence.

B Bw = Business premises.

O Ow = Occupation.

D Dw = Through wife's (husband's) occupa-

RIGHT TO VOTE.

Every person registered as a parliamentary elector is entitled to vote at an election of a member to serve in Parliament. But at a General Election a person shall not vote for more than one constituency for which he or she is registered by virtue of a residence qualification, or for more than one constituency for which he or she is registered by virtue of other qualifications of any kind; which means that a person (man or woman) may, if qualified, lawfully vote twice at a General Election, but one vote must be in respect of a residence qualification, and each vote must be recorded in a different constituency.

The Blind Voters' Act, 1933, enables a blind voter to be assisted in voting by a relative or friend.

ILLEGITIMACY AND LEGITIMATION.
ENGLAND AND WALES.

A man may be summoned to petty sessions on the application of the mother of a bastard child, or by the Public Assistance Authority where the child becomes chargeable to the Parish; and the Justices, on his being proved to be the father of the child, may make an order requiring him to pay for its maintenance and education a sum not exceeding 20s. a week. The evidence of the woman must be corroborated in a material particular. The mother has the custody of her bastard children. No person is required as father of an illegitimate child to give information concerning the birth of such child, and the registrar is forbidden to enter in the register the name of any person as father of the child unless at the joint request of the mother and father. Such person is in that case required to sign the register, together with the mother. Prima facie every child born of a married woman during a marriage is legitimate; and this presumption can only be rebutted by strong, distinct, satisfactory and conclusive evidence. An unmarried domestic servant found to be enceinte may be peremptorily dismissed without notice; but any attempt to examine without her consent a servant supposed to be enceinte renders the employer liable to an action.

LEGITIMATION.—By the Legitimacy Act, 1926, which came into force on Jan. 1, 1927, where the parents of an illegitimate person marry or have married whether before or after that date, the marriage, if the father is at the date thereof domiciled in England or Wales, renders that person, if living, legitimate as from Jan. 1, 1927, or from the date of the marriage, whichever last happens. This does not legitimate a person whose father or mother was married to a third person at the time when the illegitimate person was born. It is the duty of the parents to supply information for re-registration of the birth of a legitimated child.

How to Secure Legitimacy.—A person claiming that he, his parent, or any remoter ancestor has become legitimated, may petition the High Court under the Legitimacy Declaration Act, 1858, or the County Court for the necessary declaration.

Rights of Legitimated Persons to take Interest in Property.—A legitimated person may take property under an intestacy occurring after the date of legitimation, or under any disposition (e.g. a will) coming into operation after such date, as if he had been legitimate.

Rights and Duties of Legitimated Person.—He must maintain all persons whom he would be bound to maintain had he been born legitimate, and he is entitled to the benefit of any Act of Parliament which confers rights on legitimate persons to recover damages or compensation. The Act specially provides that nothing therein contained is to render any person capable of succeeding to or transmitting a right to any dignity or title.

Persons Legitimated by Extraneous Law.—Broadly speaking, the Act provides that persons properly legitimated abroad shall be recognized as legitimated in England and Wales.

SCOTLAND.

Illegitimate Children (Scotland) Act, 1930.—The mother of an illegitimate child may obtain a decree of affiliation and aliment against the father. The process may be raised either in the Court of Session or the Sheriff Court, but usually is in the Sheriff Court. Where in any action of affiliation and aliment the Court finds that the defender is the father of the child, the Court shall in awarding any sum in name of inlying expenses, or in name of aliment, have regard to the means of the pursuer and the defender, and the whole circumstances of the case. The court may, upon application by the mother or by the father of any illegitimate child, or in any action for aliment for an illegitimate child, make such order as it may think fit regarding the custody of such child and the right of access thereto of either parent, having regard to the welfare of the child and to the conduct of the parents and to the wishes as well of the mother as of the father and may on the application of either parent recall or vary such order. The obligation of the mother and of the father of an illegitimate child to provide aliment for such child shall (without prejudice to any obligation attaching at common law) endure until the child attains the age of sixteen years.

By Scots Law an illegitimate child is legitimated by the subsequent marriage of its parents provided there was no impediment to the marriage of the parents at the time of the conception of the child. Such legitimation is recognised by International Law so far as the laws of particular countries allow it and is valid to that extent in England. By the Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Scotland) Amendment Act, 1934, a child so legitimated, who has already been registered as illegitimate, may, in certain circumstances be re-registered as legitimate.

JURY SERVICE.

Preliminary.—The juries with which the public are most concerned are the grand juries; juries summoned to try causes in the High Court, at assizes and county courts; and those summoned to try criminal cases at assizes, the Old Bailey, and courts of Quarter Sessions, and coroners' juries.

Qualifications.—All natural-born subjects of the King and aliens domiciled for ten years or more, being men or women between 21 and 60, are liable to serve as jurors.

The sex disqualification was removed in 1919, and women are now liable to serve, but a judge may order that the jury shall be composed of men only or of women only, or may, on an application made by a woman, grant her exemption in respect of any case by reason of the nature of the evidence to be given or of the issues to be tried.

The qualification of a juror is a property one—that is to say, he or she must be a person who owns property or pays rates. A householder or shopkeeper in the City of London who owns personal estate worth £100; a resident in a county or borough owning £10 a year in real estate or rent charge, or £20 in leaseholds; or a householder in a county or borough occupying property whose net annual value is assessed at not less than £30 a year in Middlesex and the County of London, or £20 in other counties, and occupiers of houses with not less than fifteen windows, are all compellable to serve as jurors unless exempted or disqualified.

Exemptions and Disqualifications.—Aliens (subject as above), felons, lunatics, imbeciles, deaf or blind persons are disqualified from serving on juries, while the following classes of persons (amongst others) are exempt—peers, members and officers of both Houses of Parliament, clergymen and priests, ministers of any congregation of Protestant dissenters and Jews, whose meeting place is duly registered, judges, barristers, solicitors (if practising), officers of the supreme court, magistrates, clerks of the peace, sheriffs' officers and servants of such officers, justices of the peace, members of local bodies, governors of prisons and gaolers, superintendents, &c., of lunatic asylums, doctors and pharmaceutical chemists (if actually practising), dentists, officers and men in Navy, Army, Air and Territorial Forces, licensed pilots, postal, custom and inland revenue servants.

Special Exemption.—A judge, and, by virtue of S. 3 of the Juries Act, 1922, the sheriff, may for good reason excuse attendance on any particular jury.

Jury Lists.—Lists of juries are now prepared in accordance with the Juries Act, 1922. The names of persons apparently qualified as Jurors being so marked on the Electors Lists (exhibited at Town Halls, Public Libraries, in church porches, &c.). Persons who deem themselves to be entitled to be exempted should communicate with the registration officer, for all whose names appear on the Jury List as finally settled are liable to serve.

Grand Juries.—Grand juries were abolished by the Administration of Justice Act, 1933, except in the case of indictments for offences under certain Acts of Parliament (6 only) before grand juries of London and Middlesex.

Juries in Criminal and Civil cases.—An accused person indicted for an offence is tried by a "jury sworn." A "panel" of jurors are summoned to attend the court on a particular day, and it is from amongst them that the jury who are to try the prisoners are selected at random (an interesting note on the selection of jurors will be found in Halsbury's Laws of England, Vol. 28, p. 246). In a criminal case the prisoner has a right of challenge which is of two kinds—a challenge to the array—i.e., the whole number of jurors summoned (which is so rare that it need not be further considered) and a challenge to the poll, i.e., to individual jurors, which may be peremptory or for cause. Peremptory challenge, or challenge without cause, exists only as of right in treason and felony, and the prisoner can only challenge a limited number without reason. In the exercise of this right prisoners frequently object to the women on the jury. "Challenge for cause" sometimes takes place on the ground that the proposed juror is a peer or is alleged to have committed some crime which makes him infamous.

Except upon trials for murder, treason, and treason felony juries after being sworn may separate, e.g., for lunch and at night. The verdict must be given in open court in the presence of all the jurors, and in cases of treason and felony in the presence of the defendant. It must be unanimous, except that in civil cases the parties may agree to take a majority verdict.

Special Juries.—Special Jurors are selected from persons having larger property qualifications, e.g., the occupier of dwelling house in a large town rated at not less than £100. Trial is generally by Common Jury, but in any cause or matter at Assizes or in the High Court an order for a Special Jury may be obtained in certain cases.

Payment of Jurors.—A Special Juror is entitled to a fee of one guinea for each case in which he is sworn to act, whereas a Common Jury is only entitled to 2s. on each cause tried in the High Court or a County Court; and on Circuit, 8d. In Criminal Cases the jury is entitled to and, in fact, receives nothing. At Inquests, held before Coroners, the jurors are entitled to such fee as the local authority may permit the coroner to pay.

A juror is not accountable for, nor will any action lie against him, in respect of anything said or done by him in discharge of his office. If he fail to appear in the High Court or at assizes when duly summoned he may have to pay a fine of £10, while non-appearance at a county court may involve a fine of £5.

Coroners' Juries.—(See Deaths—Coroner's Inquests, page 385.)

LEGAL AID FOR THE POOR.

Civil Cases.

A system now exists for giving legal aid to poor persons in civil proceedings—including divorce—administered by the Law Society, Chancery Lane, W.C.2, and through various Provincial Law Societies. Under this system committees are now established throughout England and Wales. Anyone desiring this form of aid may apply to the nearest "Poor Persons Committee" for a Poor Persons Certificate, and if this is granted a Solicitor and Counsel will be allotted to act without remuneration. The Certificate can be given if the poor person is not worth £50 (excluding wearing apparel and trade tools) and the usual income does not exceed £2 a week. In special circumstances above figures may be £100, and £4 a week. The Committee may require the poor person to deposit a sum not exceeding £5 (in the first instance) to cover out-of-pocket expenses of the conducting solicitor.

Divorce proceedings under the Poor Persons system may be commenced at the Divorce Registry in London or in one of the numerous District Registries in the Provinces now authorised for the purpose, and the trial or hearing may be in London or at the Assizes at one of the many towns at which Divorce business may now be taken under the Rules of the Supreme Court.

Criminal Cases.

The Poor Prisoners Defence Act, 1930, provides for free legal aid in criminal proceedings in specified cases, and official lists are kept of solicitors and barristers willing to undertake the defence of poor prisoners. On trial for an Indictable offence the person charged may have free legal aid, if Justices or Judge of trial court grant a Defence Certificate. If the person's means are insufficient, such Certificate may be granted in cases where desirable, and must be given for a murder charge. In Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, assuming insufficient means, a Defence Certificate may be granted to a person if considered desirable to do so owing to gravity of charge or exceptional circumstances.

Scotland.—In every town there are Solicitors for the Poor, and in the Court of Session there are Counsel for the Poor, all of whom act gratuitously. Any class of litigation may be undertaken for poor persons, but the operation of the "Poors' Roll" is chiefly important in matrimonial and bastardy cases. Legal services are rendered free of charge, and no Court dues are payable. In cases of divorce application must be made to the Court of Session. In cases of separation simply, application may be made to the Sheriff Court. The means that preclude a person from the benefit of the Poors' Roll are not fixed, and each application depends on its own circumstances. The Poors' Roll was established in 1424.

MARRIAGES.

BY BANNS OR LICENCE.

BANNS OF MARRIAGE.—The Marriage Act, 1823, prescribes audible publication according to the rubric, on three Sundays preceding the ceremony, after the Second Lesson. Where the parties reside in different parishes, the banns must be published in both, the minister giving his certificate of the same to be handed to the minister of the parish where the marriage takes place. Under the Marriage Measure 1930, banns may be published and marriage solemnized in the parish church which is the usual place of worship of the persons to be married or either of them although neither of such persons dwells in such parish; but this publication of banns is in addition to any other publication required by law. The law provides specially for the case where one of the parties resides in Scotland, the publication being then in the place in England in which the party resides, and according to the custom in Scotland in the place where the other party reside. It may be noted that, by Scottish law only, omission to publish the banns does not invalidate the marriage, because it would still stand as an irregular marriage carried out by consent before witnesses (see sub-tit., "Marriages in Scotland," post). The names by which the parties are known are sufficient for publication of banns, so that a variance from the strict baptismal name is not important. Where wrong names are designedly given, for the purpose of concealment or otherwise, the case is different, and the marriage may be null and void (Midgley v. Wood, 30 L.J. (P.M.A.) 57), but if a wrong and fraudulent name is given by one party, and the other party is innocent, the validity of the marriage is not affected.

After the lapse of three months from the last time of publication, the banns become useless, and the parties must either obtain a licence, or submit to the republication of banns. The minister ought to satisfy himself that the parties are of full age, or that the consent of parents is obtained, and it is usually on the score of insufficiency of age that banns are "forbidden." By the Marriage Act, 1836, a marriage may be performed in church on the superintendent registrar's certificate without banns, provided that the incumbent's consent is obtained. One of the parties must be resident within the Ecclesiastical parish of the church in which the marriage is to take place.

MARRIAGE LICENCES are of two kinds—(1) a Common or Ordinary licence dispensing with the necessity for Banns granted by the Archbishops and Bishops, through their Surrogates, for marriage in any church or chapel duly licensed for marriages; (2) a Special Licence granted by the Archbishop of Canterbury for marriage at any time or in any place on good reason being shown (see below). It is a felony for any clergyman to marry the parties in the absence of banns or licence; and every Registrar or other person who knowingly unduly solemnizes a marriage is also guilty of felony. The hours for marriage are now from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. (Marriage Act, 1934.)

GENERAL NOTES.—The minister should be careful that there are two or more witnesses present, and that two witnesses attest the entries in the register books, which are kept in duplicate.

All civil jurisdiction over marriage was taken away from the Ecclesiastical Courts by the Divorce Act of 1857. An incumbent may refuse to marry a divorced person whose marriage has been dissolved for his or her adultery, but must allow another clergyman of the diocese to perform the service.

A MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE is nothing more than a copy of the entry in the church register; and the customary fee is 2s. 6d., and a stamp duty of 1d. Searches in the register-books may be made on payment of small fees, viz., 1s. for a single year, and 6d. additional for every other year. There are small fees, regulated by custom, on the certificate given of banns in one parish for marriage in another. MARRIAGE FEES are not uniform, and if excessive there is power with the Diocesan Chancellor to moderate them. With those who are in a position to afford it, it is usual to pay a guinea to the clergyman, and 5s. to the clerk; and the usual fees are paid although a stranger-clergyman be invited to perform the service.

INFANTS cannot be lawfully married without the consent of certain persons (vide Guardianship of Infants Act, 1925, Sec. 9 and Schedule.) Where both parents are living both must consent; where one is dead, the survivor; or if there is a guardian appointed by the deceased, the guardian and the survivor. The Age of Marriage Act, 1929, prohibits any marriage where either party is under 16 years of age.

MARRIAGE LICENCES FOR ESTABLISHED CHURCH.

MARRIAGE LICENCES can be obtained in London by application at the Faculty Office (23 Knight-ridge St., Doctors' Commons, E.C.4), at the Vicar-General's Office (1 The Sanctuary, Westminster, S.W.1), and at the Bishop of London's Diocesan Registry (1 Dean's Court, Doctors' Commons, E.C.4), by one of the parties about to be married. In the country they may be obtained at the offices of the Bishops' Registrars, but licences obtained at the Bishop's Diocesan Registry only enable the parties to be married in the diocese in which they are issued; those procured at the Faculty Office are available for London and all England and Wales; those procured at the Vicar-General's Office (hours in both offices 10 to 4; Saturdays 10 to 2) are available for London and all England, except the Province of York. No instructions, either verbal or in writing, can be received, except from one of the parties. Affidavits are prepared from the personal instructions of one of the parties about to be married, and the licence is delivered to the party upon payment of fees amounting to thirty shillings, in addition to the cost of stamp, 10s. 6d. No previous notice is required and the licence is available as soon as it is issued. The cost of licences through a clerical surrogate in the country varies, according to the diocese, from £1 15s. to £2 12s. 6d. By the 4th George IV. c. 76, it is enacted, in order to avoid fraud and collusion in obtaining licences for marriage, that before any such licence be granted one of the parties shall make an affidavit that there is no legal impediment to the intended marriage; and also that one of such parties hath had his or her usual place of abode for the space of fifteen days immediately preceding the issuing of the licence within the parish or ecclesiastical district in the church of which the marriage is to be solemnized. In the country there may generally be found a parochial clergyman (Surrogate) before whom the affidavit may be taken, and whose office it is to deliver the licence personally to the applicant. (In some Dioceses it is necessary for the Surrogate to procure the licence from the Bishop's registry.)

A licence continues in force for three months from its date.

SPECIAL LICENCES are granted by the Archbishop of Canterbury, under special circumstances, for marriage at any place with or without previous residence in the district, or at any time, &c.; but the reasons assigned must meet with his Grace's approval. Application must be made to The Faculty Office, 23 Knightbridge Street, Doctors' Commons, E.C. 4 (tel., 6834 Central). Fees for licence stamp, &c., £25.

BEFORE A REGISTRAR AND IN NON-CONFORMIST BUILDINGS.

Marriage can take place in a District Register Office or in a Nonconformist building registered for marriages, (1) by Certificate, (2) by Licence. Notice of such marriages must be given personally to the Superintendent Registrar, a Registrar of Births and Deaths, a Registrar of Marriages, or the deputy of such officer. A marriage at a register office takes place in the presence of the Registrar of Marriages and the Superintendent Registrar; a marriage at a registered building takes place in the presence of the Registrar of Marriages, unless it is had under the provisions of the Marriage Act, 1898, respecting which see below. In each case the presence of at least two witnesses is necessary.

NOTICE OF MARRIAGE BY CERTIFICATE.

If both parties reside in the same registration district, they must both have resided there for seven days before the notice can be given. It may then be given by either party.

If the parties reside in different registration districts, notice must be given by each to a registration officer in the district in which he or she resides, and the preliminary residential qualification of seven days must be fulfilled by each before the notice can be given.

NOTICE OF MARRIAGE BY LICENCE.

One notice only is necessary, whether the parties live in the same or in different registration districts, and either party may give the notice.

If both live in the same district, one of them must have lived there for fifteen days before the notice can be given.

If they live in different districts, and both have fulfilled the necessary residential qualification, notice may be given in either district. If one only has fulfilled the qualification, the notice must be given in the district in which the residence has been fulfilled, and the other party must be resident in England or Wales when the notice is given.

The notice contains particulars as to names, ages, residence, length of residence, and the building in which the marriage is to take place. It also contains a declaration that there is no legal impediment to the marriage, and, in the case of minors, that the consent of the person whose consent to the marriage is required by law, has been duly given. A person making a false declaration renders himself or herself liable to prosecution for perjury.

ISSUE OF CERTIFICATE (WITHOUT LICENCE).

After the lapse of twenty-one clear days from the date of the entry of the notice in the notice-book, the Superintendent Registrar may, provided no impediment is shown, issue his certificate for the marriage, which can then take place at any time within three calendar months from the date of the entry of the notice.

ISSUE OF CERTIFICATE AND LICENCE.

After the lapse of one week-day (not Christmas Day or Good Friday) from the date of entry of the notice, the Superintendent Registrar may, provided no impediment is shown, issue his certificate and licence for the marriage, which can then take place on any day within three calendar months from the date of entry of the notice.

DOCUMENTS TO BE PRODUCED AT THE MARRIAGE.

(1) Marriage by Certificate :—(a) If both parties live in the same district :—The certificate of the Superintendent Registrar of that district. (b) If they live in different districts :—A certificate from the Superintendent Registrar of each district.

(2) Marriage by Licence :—The certificate and licence of the Superintendent Registrar of the district in which the notice is given.

PLACE OF MARRIAGE.

The marriage must generally take place at a building within the district of residence of one of the parties, but if the usual place of worship of either is outside the district of his or her residence, it may take place in such usual place of worship, provided that it is not more than two miles distant from the boundary of the district in which the notice is given; and if there is not within the district of residence of either party a registered building within which marriages are solemnized according to the rites and ceremonies of the religious denomination to which the parties belong, it may take place in a registered building of the required denomination in the nearest district.

MARRIAGE CEREMONY.

The marriage must be solemnized between the hours of 8 a.m. and 6 p.m., with open doors (Marriage Act, 1934). Each of the parties must declare as follows :—"I do solemnly declare that I know not of any lawful impediment why I, A. B., may not be joined in matrimony to C. D."; and each of the parties must say to the other :—"I call upon these persons here present to witness that I, A. B., do take thee, C. D., to be my lawful wedded wife [or husband]." A wedding-ring may be, and is generally used at a marriage at a register office.

MARRIAGE ACT, 1898.

The presence of a Registrar of Marriages is not necessary at marriages at Nonconformist registered buildings which have adopted the provisions of this Act. The Act (which does not apply to Scotland or Ireland, or to marriages according to the usages of the Jews or of the Society of Friends) provides for the appointment of an "authorised person" (a person, usually the minister or an official of the building certified by the trustees or governing body as having been duly authorised for the purpose) who must be present at and must register the marriage. If the presence of a Registrar is required at a marriage at a building at which the provisions of the Act have been adopted, the fact must be stated when notice of the marriage is given, and the consent of the minister or trustees to the Registrar's attendance must be obtained.

The parties must at some time during the ceremony make the following declarations:—

"I do solemnly declare that I know not of any lawful impediment why I, A. B., may not be joined in matrimony to C. D."

Also each of the parties must say to the other:—

"I call upon these persons here present to witness that I, A. B., do take thee, C. D., to be my lawful wedded wife (or husband)"; or, in lieu thereof:—

"I, A. B., do take thee, C. D., to be my wedded wife (or husband)."

FEES OF SUPERINTENDENT REGISTRARS.

For entering notice of a marriage by certificate in the marriage notice-book	s. d.
Do. by licence in the marriage notice-book	1 0
For a certificate for marriage without licence	1 0
For a certificate for marriage by licence	1 0
For a licence for marriage	30 0
Stamp duty on a licence for marriage	10 0
For a marriage by certificate in the presence of a Registrar	5 0
For do. by licence do.	10 0

Exclusive of the fee for a certificate of the marriage ("marriage lines"), the total fees for a marriage by certificate, when the parties live in the same district, amount to 7s.; if they live in different districts, to 9s.

For a marriage by licence the total fees are £2 12s. 6d.

NAVAL MARRIAGES ACT, 1908.

Any officer, seaman, or marine borne on the books of one of His Majesty's ships at sea who wishes to marry may, if the marriage is to take place at a register office or a Nonconformist registered building, give notice to his commanding officer, who, after the lapse of twenty-one clear days, can issue a certificate for the marriage. The other party must give notice in the usual way to a registration officer in the district in which she resides.

If the marriage is to take place by ceremony of the Church of England, the chaplain or commanding officer must publish the banns on board the ship on three successive Sundays: he can then issue a certificate of publication of banns. The banns must also be published in the church in which the marriage is to take place.

No marriage by licence can take place under this Act.

MISCELLANEOUS INFORMATION RESPECTING MARRIAGES.

"Naval, Military and Air Force Chapels.—The use of such Chapels for solemnization of marriages, either according to the rites of the Church of England, or otherwise, and for the publication of Banns, &c., is now regulated by the Marriage (Naval, Military and Air Force Chapels) Act, 1932."

In Wales, and in places where the Welsh tongue is used, the declaration and contracting words may be said in Welsh, as provided by Section 23 of the Marriages and Registration Act, 1837.

Jewish Marriages.—If both parties are Jews, they must give notice to a registration officer in the usual way, and may marry according to their usages in a synagogue, which has a certified marriage secretary, or private dwelling-house at any hour; the marriage must be registered by the secretary of the synagogue of which the man is a member.

Friends.—If both parties are members of the Society of Friends (Quakers), or if, not being in membership, they have been authorised by the Society of Friends to solemnize their marriage in accordance with its usages, they must give notice to a registration officer, and may be married in a Friends' meeting-house; the marriage must be registered by the registering officer of the Society appointed to act for the district in which the meeting-house is situated.

The presence of a Registrar of Marriages is not necessary at such marriages of Jews or members of the Society of Friends.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES.

A marriage may take place at a registered building before a Registrar without religious ceremony if the consent of the trustees is obtained.

If parties who have been married at a register office desire to go through a religious ceremony at a church, they may do so on production to the incumbent of a certificate of the register office marriage, but this ceremony is not recorded as a marriage in the register books.

A divorced person desiring to marry again in a register office or registered building must give notice to the Superintendent Registrar, to whom a copy of the divorce decree must be produced.

Relaxations have been made by Marriage (Prohibited Degrees of Relationship) Acts, 1907 to 1931, which successively permitted the following marriages, i.e., with a

- Deceased wife's sister (1907).
- Deceased brother's widow (1921).
- Deceased wife's brother's daughter (1931).
- Deceased wife's sister's daughter (1931).
- Father's deceased brother's widow (1931).
- Mother's deceased brother's widow (1931).
- Deceased wife's father's sister (1931).
- Deceased wife's mother's sister (1931).
- Brother's deceased son's widow (1931).
- Sister's deceased son's widow (1931).

No clergyman can be compelled to solemnize any of the foregoing marriages, but he may allow his church to be used for the purpose by another minister.

During the lifetime of a person upon whose decease a marriage is now authorized (but which would otherwise be prohibited owing to affinity), it is not lawful for such a marriage to be contracted.

MARRIAGE IN ENGLAND OR WALES WHEN ONE PARTY LIVES IN SCOTLAND OR IRELAND.

Notice for a marriage by a Superintendent Registrar's certificate in a register office or registered building may be given in the usual way by the party resident in England. As regards Scotland, the party there, after a residence of fifteen days, should apply to the session clerk to publish banns; as regards Ireland, the party there, after a residence of seven days, must give notice to the District Registrar of Marriages. Notice cannot be given for such marriages to take place by the licence of the Superintendent Registrar.

Marriage of such parties may take place in a church of the Church of England after the publication of banns, or by Ecclesiastical licence.

MARRIAGES OF BRITISH SUBJECTS ABROAD.

British subjects may contract a valid marriage in a foreign country provided they conform to the provisions of the Foreign Marriages Act, 1892. One of the parties to the marriage only need be a British subject.

Where a marriage according to the local law of a foreign country is valid by English law, then, before the marriage is solemnized in that country under the Act, the marriage officer as defined by the Act must be satisfied—

- (a) That both parties are British subjects; or,
- (b) If only one of the parties is a British subject, that the other is not a subject or citizen of the country; or,
- (c) If only one of the parties is a British subject and the other a subject or citizen of the country, that sufficient facilities do not exist for the solemnization of the marriage in the foreign country in accordance with the law of that country; or,
- (d) If the man is a British subject and the woman a subject or citizen of the country, that no objection will be taken by the authorities of the country to the solemnization of the marriage under the Act.

In the case of any marriage under the Act, where the woman is a British subject and the man a foreigner, the marriage officer must be satisfied—

- (a) That the marriage will be recognized by the law of the country to which the foreigner belongs; or,
- (b) That some other marriage ceremony in addition to that under this Act has taken place, or is about to take place, between the parties, and that such other ceremony is recognized by the law of the country to which the foreigner belongs; or,
- (c) That the leave of the Secretary of State has been obtained.

The marriage must be solemnized by or before a marriage officer as defined by the Act.

It is necessary for one of the parties to the intending marriage to sign a notice stating the name, surname, profession, condition, and residence of each of the parties, and whether each of the parties is or is not a minor, and to give the notice to the marriage officer within whose district both of the parties have had their residence not less than one week then next preceding, and the notice must state that they have so resided.

If the parties reside in different districts, such notice must be given to the marriage officer of the district before whom the intended marriage is to be solemnized, by the party who has resided for a period of not less than one week within the district of such marriage officer.

If one of the parties resides (a) in the United Kingdom, or (b) in a Colony or India (a) notice must be given in like manner as if the party so resident were about to be married in that part of the United Kingdom in which he or she resides, and in England or Ireland must be given to the superintendent registrar or registrars, and in Scotland must be given by proclamation of banns, and (b) such notice must be given by the party dwelling in such Colony or in India as may be provided by any law of that Colony or of the Governor-General of India in Council, or in like manner as if the party were about to be married in that place.

If the non-resident party has dwelt in the district of a marriage officer in a foreign country notice must be given by that party in like manner as if the marriage were to be solemnized by or before such marriage officer, or if the place in a foreign country at which the non-resident party has dwelt is not within the district of a marriage officer the notice may be given to any person authorised by the Secretary of State to receive such notices. Where neither party has resided for a period of not less than one week within the district of the marriage officer before whom the intended marriage is to be solemnized, and (a) the marriage cannot conveniently be solemnized at the place where either of the parties has had his or her usual place of abode, or (b) the permission of the Secretary of State has been obtained, notice must be given by each of the parties in the place where he or she has had his or her usual place of abode for a period of not less than one week immediately preceding the giving of such notice in the prescribed manner, and a certificate of the giving of such notice obtained.

If the Secretary of State is satisfied that for some good reason the party has not been able to give the required notice and that the marriage is not clandestine and that adequate notice has been given, he may permit the marriage to be solemnized.

Before the marriage is solemnized each of the parties must make an oath

- (a) That he or she believes that there is no impediment; and
- (b) that both the parties have had their usual place of residence in the district of the consular marriage officer for three weeks immediately preceding, or if they have not both resided there during three weeks then that one of them has so resided, and stating the place where the party who has not so resided has within three months immediately preceding had for three consecutive weeks his or her usual place of abode, and the notice that has been given in that place, or, if neither party has resided there, stating the place or places where each party has within three months immediately preceding had for three weeks his or her usual place of abode, and the notices that have been given in those places.

After the expiration of 14 days after the notice of an intended marriage has been entered, then if no lawful impediment to the marriage is shown, and the marriage has not been forbidden in manner provided by the Act, the marriage may be solemnized. A consular officer holding a warrant for a district can only solemnize a marriage at his own official house. Parties residing within a consular district who may wish to be married under the Act must go to the consular officer provided with a warrant for that district; two or more witnesses are required to be present.

For receiving notice of an intended marriage.....	£	s.	d.
For receiving notice of a caveat.....	0	10	0
For every marriage solemnized by or in the presence of a Marriage Officer and registered by him .....	1	0	0
For certificate by a Marriage Officer of notice having been given and posted up, in case of one of the parties residing outside the consular district in which the marriage is to take place.....	0	10	0
For attendance by consular officer at a marriage solemnized in accordance with the local law and for registration of the same .....	0	5	0
Marriages may be solemnized 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.	1	0	0

No religious ceremony is required, but any form according to the creed of the contracting parties may be used. The presence of the duly authorised Marriage Officer is, however, necessary to render the marriage valid. If the ceremonial be that of the Church of England, it can only be performed by a clergyman of that Church.

Marriages solemnized under the Foreign Marriage Acts are legal by English law when both parties are British subjects, and also when only one of them is a British subject, but such marriages are not necessarily valid out of His Majesty's dominions. In cases where one of the parties is a subject of the country where the marriage is proposed to take place, or of a third country, the party in question must previously comply with the requirements of the marriage law of the country to which he or she belongs, so far as it may be possible to do so, in order to render such marriage also valid by the law of that country.

An Englishwoman married to a foreigner follows the nationality of her husband except as provided for by the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 1933.

In Germany and Switzerland marriages by any foreign consular officer are, in the absence of any treaty stipulations, strictly prohibited.

A marriage which would not be valid in England would be equally invalid if solemnized in an embassy, legation, or consulate abroad. For instance, marriages within the prohibited degrees of consanguinity or affinity would not be valid.

A marriage between Christians in India may be proved in England by an India Office certificate (Braid v. Braid, 1909, 25 T.L.R. 646).

Marriages may also be solemnized under the "Foreign Marriages Act, 1892," before the commanding officer of any of His Majesty's ships on a foreign station provided he be of such rank and of such vessel as is for the time being authorised for that purpose by Admiralty instructions.

MARRIAGES ABROAD WITH FOREIGNERS ACCORDING TO FOREIGN LAW.

ACT OF 1906.—Under the Marriage with Foreigners Act, 1906, any British subject desiring to be married in a foreign country to a foreigner according to the law of the country may, after giving notice of the marriage, obtain a certificate from the registrar that there is no legal impediment to the marriage. In order to obtain the certificate, the rules set out in the schedule to the Act must be complied with. Any persons may enter an objection to a certificate, the validity of which will be decided by the Registrar-General.

A marriage by repute which is valid by the law of the domicile in a foreign country will be recognised as valid by the English courts (re Green Noyes v. Pitkin, 1909, 25 T.L.R. 222).

MARRIAGES IN SCOTLAND.

According to the law of Scotland marriage is a contract which is completed by the mutual consent of parties. No formalities are required and no consent of parents or guardians is necessary. It can be contracted by a male over 16 years of age and a female over 16 (Age of Marriage Act, 1929). Marriages may be "regular" or "irregular."

A regular marriage is one which is celebrated by a Minister of religion after due notice by the publication of banns or publication by the Registrar. Any Minister of any denomination (including a person officiating at a Quaker wedding) who performs the ceremony is reckoned to be a minister of religion. It must be performed before two witnesses and one of the parties must have resided in the parish for at least 15 days before the ceremony. No form, place or house is prescribed by law. There are no canonical hours as in England. Public proclamation is made by (a) banns or (b) notice by the Registrar. Banns must be proclaimed in the parish church of both parties. It is ordered that the proclamation of banns should be made three times, but by immemorial practice proclamation on one Sunday is sufficient. The Clerk of the Kirk Session of the Parish takes in notices of banns and issues certificates of proclamation. The fee for proclamation may not exceed 2s. 6d. A certificate of proclamation of banns is only valid for three months.

Under the Marriage Notices (Scotland) Act, 1878, a notice posted up in a conspicuous or accessible place on the board or outer wall of the Registrar's office is equivalent to the proclamation of banns, but a minister of the Church of Scotland is not bound, although he is entitled, to celebrate a marriage not preceded by banns. The statute is limited to persons living in Scotland, i.e., for at least 15 clear days prior to the notice. Exhibition is made for 7 consecutive days, during which time any person may appear personally and lodge an objection in writing subscribed by him. If no objections are lodged the Registrar issues a certificate: fees, 2s. 6d. Such certificate of publication is only valid for three months. Under the Naval Marriages Act, 1908, banns may be published on board one of His Majesty's ships where an officer, seaman or Marine on the ship's books wishes to contract a marriage in Scotland. A declaration under the Marriage Notices (Scotland) Act already referred to may also be filled up and the officer commanding the ship may grant a certificate.

Irregular Marriages are survivals of modes of marriage which were general throughout Europe in mediæval times, Scotland having disregarded the decrees of the Council of Trent invalidating irregular marriages; Scotland following the ancient Canon law. These marriages may be contracted in three ways: (1) by exchange of consent before two witnesses (called in legal language per verba de presenti); (2) by promise of marriage followed by intercourse on the faith of the promise (called marriage by promise, subsequente copula); the promise, however, can only be proved by the writing or the oath of the party when action is brought; (3) by constant living together as husband and wife (called marriage by habit and repute, i.e., the general repute of the neighbourhood supported by consistent conduct. Marriage by the first mode is only valid if one of the parties has been resident in Scotland for 21 days before the contract is entered into. (This is the result of legislation and not part of the common law of Scotland.) "Gretna Green" marriages were abolished in 1856 by the Act 19 and 20 Victoria, Chap. 96. Marriages thus contracted may be registered if the parties appear before the Sheriff with their witnesses and petition for registration within three months. On the Sheriff granting warrant the Registrar registers the marriage for a fee of 5s. 1d. The other two forms of marriage before they are held to be valid must be declared by a decree in the Court of Session.

Marriage with a foreigner may be solemnized regularly if one of the parties has a residential qualification and provided that one party has resided in Scotland for 21 days and the minister agrees to dispense with the proclamation of banns in the case of the foreigner. Marriage of a Scottish person with a foreigner, or marriage of two foreigners, may be contracted irregularly if one or other of the parties has resided in Scotland for 21 days.

MOTOR LAW.

The modern Charter of Motor Law is the Road Traffic Act, 1930. This Act not only consolidated the law by repealing some thirty earlier Acts, but made numerous amendments and new provisions to keep abreast with the rapid development and universal use of motor vehicles. The Road and Rail Traffic Act, 1933, dealt specially with motor vehicles used for the carriage of goods. Numerous additions to and amendments of the Law have been made by the Road Traffic Act, 1934. The Minister of Transport has wide powers of making Regulations under the above-named Acts.

The following matters have been selected for special reference in these Notes.

Age of Drivers.—The minimum ages are:—for motor cycle or three-wheel combination, 16 years; for private car, 17 years; for vehicle weighing  $\frac{1}{2}$  tons unladen (or over), 21 years.

Driving Licence.—As to fee, &c., see p. 648. No person to drive without a licence, nor employ a person to drive who is not licensed. To be produced to police constable on demand; but no conviction if licence produced at a police station within five days. On application for licence declaration must be made as to any physical disability, &c., certain disabilities will involve refusal of licence. "Competence" tests are now imposed under S. 6 of R. Traffic Act, 1934.

Speed Limits.—For ordinary passenger motor cars (carrying not more than 7 persons, excluding driver) there is now prescribed—Road Traffic Act, 1934—a general speed limit of 30 miles per hour in "built-up areas."

Speed limits for other classes of motor vehicles are prescribed in the same Act—First Schedule. Heavy penalties may be incurred for driving recklessly or at a speed or in manner dangerous to the public having regard to all the circumstances, nature and condition of road, amount of traffic at the time, &c. (Maximum penalty for this class of offence is now 2 years imprisonment.)

Pillion Riding.—Only one person (pillionaire) on a motor-cycle in addition to driver, and then only on proper seat securely fixed behind the driver.

Third Party Insurance.—No person may use, or permit to be used, a motor vehicle unless covered by a Policy of Insurance in respect of third-party risk. There is to be a "Certificate" of such insurance, and this certificate of insurance must be produced by a driver to a constable on demand. Under the Regulations of Transport Ministry an applicant for a car licence under the Finance Acts must with his application produce to the Licensing Authority his Certificate of Insurance. Under the Road Traffic Act, 1934, it is now the duty of Insurers to satisfy claims in respect of Third Party risks notwithstanding provisions in the Policy entitling them to avoid liability, unless the Policy was obtained by misrepresentation.

Highway Code.—The Minister of Transport has compiled a Highway Code as authorised by the Act. It is issued with driving licence, and copies may be obtained from H.M. Stationery Office or booksellers, price 1d. The code is intended as a guide to persons using the road, and may be revised from time to time. Failure to observe any provision of the code is not an offence of itself, but it may be relied on as tending to establish or negative the liability of a party in any proceedings—whether civil or criminal.

Accidents.—In the case of an accident causing damage to any person, vehicle or animal, the driver of the motor vehicle must stop, and on request of any person having reasonable grounds for so requiring, give his name and address and identification of his vehicle. If this is not done on the spot then the accident must be reported at a police station or to a constable as soon as possible, and in any case within 24 hours. Hospitals now have a right to claim the reasonable expenses of hospital treatment from the Insurance Company which is meeting claims under a Third-Party Insurance Policy (Road Traffic Act, 1930, S. 36). Doctor's fee (12s. 6d.)—plus 6d. per mile (over two miles)—is now recoverable for treatment to an injured motorist. (Road Traffic Act, 1934, S. 16).

Reflecting Mirrors, &c.—Every motor vehicle, but not motor-cycle, must now be fitted with a reflecting mirror. Pedal cycles are now required to exhibit a white surface, as well as rear reflector.

Motoring Organizations.—A.A. (Automobile Association), Fanum House, New Coventry Street, London, W.1; R.A.C. (Royal Automobile Club), Pall Mall, London, S.W. 1; R.S.A.C. (Royal Scottish Automobile Club), 163 West George Street, Glasgow; R.I.A.C. (Royal Irish Automobile Club), 32-34 Dawson Street, Dublin, I.F.S.

NAME.

A surname may be changed without any formality by mere usage and repute over a long period. A Deed Poll, however, is advisable. This is a formal document (stamp 10s.), enrolled in the Supreme Court and then advertised in The London Gazette and other selected newspapers. Not infrequently a devisee of an estate is required to assume a particular name and arms. The necessary authority is granted by a Royal Licence issuing from the College of Arms, London. Aliens may only use the name ordinarily used prior to August 4, 1914, unless exempted on special grounds, such exemption being duly advertised (Aliens, &c., Act, 1919).

PASSPORT REGULATIONS.

Applications for Foreign Office Passports must be made in the form printed on the back of the Regulations (to be had on application), and enclosed in a cover addressed to "The Passport Office, 1 Queen Anne's Gate Buildings, Dartmouth Street, Westminster, S.W. 1," or to "The Branch Passport Office, 36 Dale Street, Liverpool." The charge for a Passport is 15s. Passports are issued in London between the hours of 10 and 4 (Saturdays, 10 to 1), and in Liverpool, 9.30 to 4 (Saturdays, 9.30 to 1). The Passport Offices are closed on Sundays and Public Holidays (except in London between the hours of 10 a.m. and noon for cases of special emergency only). Passports may be obtained through the post if a Postal Order for 15s., which should be crossed, made payable to the Passport Office, is forwarded with the application. Cheques, Treasury notes or postage stamps should not be sent in payment. Application should, if possible, reach the Passport Office not less than four days before that on which the Passport is required.

Foreign Office Passports are granted:—

(i) To natural-born British subjects, and to British subjects by naturalisation in the United Kingdom, in the British Dominions or Colonies, or in India.

(ii) To the wives and widows of the above persons.

(iii)—(a) To married women who were British subjects at the time of their marriage and have not, by reason of marriage to an alien, acquired the nationality of their husbands.

(b) To married women whose husbands have, during the continuance of marriage, ceased to be British subjects, unless by reason of the acquisition by their husbands of a new nationality they also have acquired that nationality.

Passports are available for five years, in the first instance, unless otherwise stated. They may be renewed from time to time for further consecutive periods of one to five years from the date of expiry, provided the total period of validity of ten years from the original date of issue is not exceeded. They are not available beyond ten years from the original date of issue. Thereafter, or if at any time the Passport contains no further space for visas, a new Passport must be obtained.

A Passport including particulars of the holder's wife is not available for the wife's use when travelling alone.

Children who have reached the age of sixteen years require separate Passports. When applying for a Passport they should send with their application the written consent of parent or guardian.

The declaration of the applicant must be verified by a Declaration made by a member or official of any Banking Firm established in the United Kingdom, or by any Mayor, Magistrate, Provost, Justices of the Peace, Minister of Religion, Barrister-at-law, Notary, Solicitor, Physician, Surgeon or Chartered Accountant, resident in the United Kingdom and being himself a British subject. The applicant's Certificate of Birth and other evidence may also be required. Applicants serving in His Majesty's Forces may have their declarations verified by their Commanding Officers. In the case of children under the age of 16 years requiring a separate Passport, a Declaration must be made by the child's parent or guardian in a Form (B), to be obtained upon application to the Passport Office.

In the case of persons naturalised in any of the British self-governing Dominions, a letter of recommendation should be produced from the High Commissioner or Agent-General in London of the State concerned. Persons naturalised or ordinarily resident in any of the Crown Colonies may be required to obtain a letter of recommendation from the Colonial Office.

If the applicant for a Passport be a British subject by naturalisation, the Certificate of Naturalisation must be forwarded to the Passport Office with the Declaration or letter of recommendation. British subjects by naturalisation will be described as such in their Passports.

British Passports are only available for travel to the countries named thereon, but may be endorsed for additional countries. The possession of a Passport so endorsed does not, however, exempt the holder from compliance with any Immigration Regulations in force in British or foreign countries, or from the necessity of obtaining a visa where required.

Passports endorsed as valid for the British Empire are also available for travelling to territory under British protection or mandate, not, however, including Palestine or Transjordan, for which the Passport must be specially endorsed, or the Aden Protectorate, for which both an endorsement and a visa are required.

A Passport cannot be issued or renewed by the Foreign Office on behalf of a person already abroad; such person should apply, in a foreign country, to the nearest British Mission or Consulate, or, within the British Empire, to the nearest Passport issuing authority.

Persons resident in the Irish Free State should make application for their Passports to the Passport Department, Ministry of External Affairs, Dublin.

CERTIFICATION OF PHOTOGRAPHS.

Note.—It is essential that one of the two photographs of the applicant (and wife, if to be included on the Passport) should be certified on the back as shown on the Application Form.

Safe Custody of Passports.

Passports, when not in use, should be kept in a secure place. At the expiration of the period of validity a Passport should be returned to the Passport Office.

PAWNBROKERS' REGULATIONS.

For the TICKET—

On goods pledged for 10s. or less..... ½d.
On goods pledged for more than 10s..... 1d.

Note.—In addition to the above, an additional charge for any sum not exceeding 40s. of ½d. for each 5s. or part of 5s. lent is authorized.

For INTEREST—

On pledges not exceeding 40s., for every 2s. or part of 2s., per month..... ½d.

On pledges exceeding 40s., for every half-crown or part of half a crown per month ½d.

And after the first month any time not exceeding 14 days to be charged as half a month.

INSPECTION, &c.

Charge on Inspection of Sale-Book ..... ½d.

Charge on Form of Declaration (when pawn ticket is lost, &c.) where loan is of 5s. or less ..... ½d.

Where loan is of more than 5s. .... 1d.

If any pledge is destroyed or damaged by fire, the pawnbroker will be bound to pay the value of the pledge (i.e., the loan and profit and 25 per cent. on the amount of the loan) after deducting the amount of the loan and profit.

The pawnbroker is entitled to compensation for depreciation in the value of the pledge if he can show that it was due to the pawnbroker's fault. He must show actual fault or neglect, as this is not presumed in the case of accident.

If any ticket is lost, mislaid, or stolen, the pawnbroker should at once apply to the pawnbroker for a form of declaration to be made before a magistrate, or the pawnbroker will be bound to deliver the pledge to any person who produces the ticket to him and claims to redeem the same.

When the loan is 5s. or under, the charge on form of declaration is one halfpenny; when the loan is above 5s., one penny.

SPECIAL CONTRACTS.—A pawnbroker may make a special contract with a pawnbroker in respect of a pledge on which the pawnbroker makes a loan of above 40s., provided that—

(1.) The pawnbroker at the time of the pawning shall deliver to the pawnbroker a special contract pawn-ticket, signed by the pawnbroker.

(2.) The duplicate of the special contract pawn-ticket shall be signed by the pawnbroker.

The pawnbroker may also charge:—For ticket, profit per calendar month, for storage of the pledge, and payment to inspect account of sale, such sums and rates as may be agreed upon at the time of making the contract.

After the first calendar month any time not exceeding fourteen days will be charged as half a month, and any time exceeding fourteen days and not more than one month as one month.

The charge for storage of the pledge will be per calendar month, or any part of a month, in addition to the charges above mentioned.

Pledges may be pawned under special contract for a period of not less than three months.

In all other respects pledges under special contract are subjected to the same rules as to sale by auction, inspection of account of sale, payment of surplus produced by sale, and loss of ticket, as in the case of ordinary pledges for more than 10s.

Scotland.—The law relating to Pawnbrokers is substantially the same in Scotland as in England.

POOR LAW.

The Poor Law in England and Wales is now administered through Public Assistance Committees, constituted for Counties and County Boroughs, which take the place of the old Boards of Guardians. The law is consolidated in the Poor Law Act, 1930.

RECEIPTS.

RECEIPTS should be kept for six years from the date of payment, after which period no action can be brought concerning the goods, &c., received.

VACCINATION.

In England and Wales vaccination is compulsory within six months from birth, the obligation to comply with the law being imposed on the parent or other person having custody of the child. The local Public Vaccinator (a doctor appointed by the local authority) will vaccinate free of charge. Penalties are incurred for non-compliance with the law.

Exemption may be obtained if a parent, within four months from the birth, makes a declaration that he conscientiously believes that vaccination would be prejudicial to the health of the child.

WARD OF COURT.

By appropriate legal process an Infant may be made what is termed a Ward of Court in the Chancery Division of the High Court. In this way judicial control of the Infant may be secured, the court assuming and exercising wide powers in respect both of the person and property of Wards of Court. Legal advice will obviously be necessary as to the circumstances in which an order might be made in any particular case.

WILLS.

REASONS FOR MAKING A WILL.—Every man having a wife and family should make his will. However small his estate, it is an imperative duty in most cases, and is safer in every case, to protect the interest of the survivors by a will, and by the appointment of one or more trustworthy persons to carry his wishes into effect. When persons die intestate, having foolishly put off making a will until it is too late, their negligence may deprive those for whom they were most anxious to provide. The help of a lawyer in making a will is not in every case essential, but it is always advisable, particularly where there is a desire on a testator's part to provide for his property being "settled" as it is called—e.g., the income being paid to his widow and the capital being ultimately divided among his children, for this requires the skill of a practised lawyer. Assuming a lawyer is not employed, a person having resolved to make a will must not regard it as a light matter, to be got rid of in a few minutes, but one demanding the most serious attention. It is only after a person is dead, and cannot explain his meaning, that his will can be open to dispute. It is the more necessary, therefore, to express what is meant in language of the utmost clearness, avoiding the use of any word or expression that admits of another meaning than the one intended. It is better to be prolix than to leave the smallest room for doubt or uncertainty, although the same name or word be often repeated. Sounding phrases are entirely out of place. Avoid the use of "legal terms," such as "heirs" and "issue," when the same thing may be expressed in plain language. If in writing the will a mistake be made, it is better to rewrite the whole. Before a will is executed, that is, signed by the testator in presence of two witnesses, an alteration may be made by striking through the words with a pen, but opposite to such alteration the testator and witnesses should write their names or place their initials. Never scratch out a word with a knife or other instrument, and no alteration of any kind whatever must be made after the will is executed. Any purported disposition which is underneath a signature, or which follows a signature, is void. If the testator afterwards wishes to change the disposition of his estate, it is better to make a new will, revoking the old one, or to add a codicil to the first, which must be duly executed and attested in the same manner as the original will. A will should be written in ink and very legibly on a single sheet of paper. Although, of course, forms of wills must vary to suit different cases, the following directions may be found useful to those who, in cases of emergency, are called upon to draw up wills, either for themselves or others:—

TESTATOR OR TESTATRIX.—The person who makes the will is the testator, or if the will-maker be a woman, the testatrix.

ESTATE.—By this word is to be understood property of all kinds, both real and personal.

Real property includes tithes and advowsons, as well as freehold land and houses; while personal property includes debts due, arrears of rents, money, leasehold property, house furniture, goods, assurance policies, stocks and shares in companies, and the like. The words "my money," apart from the context, will normally only include actual ready money.

RESIDUARY LEGATEES.—It is well in all cases to leave to some person or persons "the residue of my estate and effects," although it may be thought that the whole of the property has been disposed of in legacies already mentioned in the will. It should be remembered that a will operates on property acquired after it has been made.

TO BEGIN A WILL.—A form in which a will may be commenced is:—"This is the last will of me, Thomas Smith, of Vine Cottage, Silver Street, Reading, in the county of Berks, whereby I revoke all previous wills and testamentary dispositions."

TO END A WILL.—After disposing of the property, the will may be ended as follows:—"And I hereby appoint the said — sole (or joint) executor(s) of this my Will. Dated this — day of —, 19—."

EXECUTION OF A WILL AND WITNESSES.—The testator should sign his name at the foot or end of the will, in presence of two witnesses, who will immediately sign their names in his and in each other's presence. A person who has been left a legacy or share of residue in the will, or whose wife or husband has been left a legacy, should not be an attesting witness. Their attestation would be good, but they would forfeit the legacy. It is better that a person named as executor should not be a witness. Husband and wife may both be witnesses, provided neither is a legatee. If a solicitor be appointed executor, it is lawful to direct that his ordinary fees and charges shall be paid; but in this case he (as an interested party) must not be a witness to the will.

Opposite to or beneath the testator's signature should be written the attestation clause. The following form of attestation will be found sufficient:—

Signed by the testator [or testatrix, as the case may be], in the presence of us, both present at the same time who in his [or her] presence and in the presence of each other have hereunto set our names as witnesses.

William Jones, of Vine Cottage, Silver Street, Reading, Tailor. Henry Morgan, of North Street, Reading, Esq.

It is desirable that the witnesses should be fully described, as they may possibly be wanted at some future time. If the testator should be too ill to sign, even by a mark, another person may sign the testator's name to the will for him, in his presence and by his direction, and in this case it should be shown that the testator knew the contents of the document. The attestation clause should therefore be worded: "Signed by Thomas Brown, by the direction and in the presence of the testator, Thomas Smith, in the joint presence of us, who thereupon signed our names in his presence and in the presence of each other, the will having been first read over to the testator, who appeared fully to understand the same."

A blind person may make a will by Braille. If the testator be blind the will should be read aloud to him in the presence of the witnesses, and the fact mentioned in the attestation clause.

If by inadvertence the testator should have signed his will without the witnesses being present, then the attestation should be:—"The testator acknowledged his signature already made as his signature to his last will and testament, in the joint presence," &c. Any omission in the observance of these details causes delay and expense, and sometimes great difficulty is experienced in procuring an affidavit by one of the attesting witnesses before the will can be admitted to Probate. The stringency of the law as to signature and witnessing of a will is only relaxed in favour of soldiers, sailors and airmen in certain circumstances.

CODICIL.—When any change is required to be made in the disposition of property as stated in the will, the change should be embodied in a codicil. A codicil should begin:—"This is a codicil to the will of me, Thomas Smith, of Vine Cottage, Silver Street, Reading, in the county of Berks, the said will bearing date," &c. A codicil must be dated at the end, and signed and witnessed with exactly the same formalities as the will.

EXECUTORS.—It is usual to appoint two executors, although one is sufficient; any number up to and including four may be appointed. The name and address of each executor should be given in full, as follows:—"I appoint John Jones, of number twenty-one, London Street, Ipswich, and Edward Matthews, of number seventeen, Market Street, Lincoln, executors of this my will." An executor may be a legatee. Thus a child or wife to whom the whole or a portion of the estate is left may be appointed sole executor, or one of two executors. The addresses of the executors are not essential; but it is desirable, here as elsewhere, to avoid ambiguity or vagueness.

APPOINTMENT OF TRUSTEES.—The form of appointment of executors will also serve when the estate is left in care of trustees, except that the persons should be designated "executors and trustees." Where real property is settled there must be at least two trustees or alternatively, a trust corporation. The Public Trustee may be appointed executor or trustee of a will. See PUBLIC TRUSTEE, post.

TRUSTS OF THE WILL.—When the estate is wholly for the children, the will may read, after the appointment of the executors and trustees:—"I give and devise all my estate and effects, real and personal, of which I may die possessed or entitled to, unto the said John Jones and Edward Matthews, upon trust in equal shares for all or any my children or child living at my death who being sons or a son attain the age of 21 years or being daughters or a daughter attain that age or marry. And for all or any the children or child living at my death, who being male attain the age of 21 years or being female attain that age or marry, of any child of mine who dies in my lifetime leaving children or a child living at my death, such last-mentioned children or child to take the share or shares which their parent would have taken if living at my death, and so that no grandchild of mine shall take whose parent is living and capable of taking." Where the widow is to have a life-interest use the following words: "upon trust for my wife during her life [or during her widowhood], and after her death [or second marriage, which first happens] upon trust in equal shares for all or any my children or child" &c. as before. The words in square brackets will only be used where the widow is to lose her interest if she marries again.

TESTAMENTARY CAPACITY.—A minor cannot make a will. A married woman (married since January 1, 1883) may dispose by will of any real or personal property as if she were a feme sole. As to the powers of a woman married before that date it is advisable to consult a solicitor.

REVOCATION.—A will is revoked by a subsequent will (but only so far as such subsequent will operates as a virtual revocation, as by making other provisions inconsistent with the previous will; for this reason a will should always have a clause revoking previous testamentary dispositions), or by burning, tearing, or otherwise destroying the same. It is not sufficient to obliterate the will with a pen. Marriage in every case acts as the revocation of a will, unless, in the case of a will made on or after Jan. 1, 1896, it is expressed to have been made in contemplation of marriage (Law of Property Act, 1895, s. 177); so that after marriage the old will should be re-acknowledged, or a new one made.

LAPSED LEGACIES.—If a legatee die in the lifetime of the testator, the legacy or share of residue lapses and falls into the residue, excepting only in cases where the legatee is a child or "other issue" of the testator and leaves issue living at the testator's death, and the will does not provide for the class of children or issue being ascertained at some period other than the death of the testator. For instance, if a share of residue is left to "all my children living at my wife's death," the share of a child who died in the wife's lifetime would lapse even though the child should leave issue. Where a residuary legatee predeceases the testator, his share of the residuary estate will not pass to the other residuary legatees, but will pass to the persons entitled on the deceased's intestacy. Debts and funeral and testamentary expenses will be primarily chargeable upon this share.

TO ONE PERSON ABSOLUTELY.—When it is the intention to leave all the property to one person, as for instance a wife or child, the will may read:—"I devise and bequeath all my estate and effects, real and personal, which I may die possessed of or entitled to, unto my wife Mary Smith, absolutely."

TO CHILDREN UNDER AGE.—When estates are left wholly or in part to children under the age of 21 years, trustees should be appointed to hold the property in trust for those to whom it will ultimately belong. The trustees will have power to apply the annual income for their maintenance. A wife may be appointed a trustee, or may be sole trustee. It is also usual to appoint the executors or some near relative, guardians of children under age. By the Guardianship of Infants Act, 1896, the mother of a child, if she survives the father, becomes the guardian of such child, either alone, if no guardian is appointed, or jointly with any guardian appointed by the father.

ALL PROPERTY TO BE INVESTED.—Executors and trustees may be empowered to sell and dispose of an estate, and after the payment of all just debts and expenses to invest the remainder. For this purpose the section headed "Trust Investments" should be consulted.

DUTIES OF EXECUTORS.—After the death of the testator, the duties of the executor are briefly as follows:—The first duty of the executors, or of one of them, is to see that the funeral takes place in a suitable and becoming way; then to make lists of the debts and the assets or property. For purposes of duty it is necessary to estimate the value of the real and personal property left, or get it valued. (For scale of duty see Index, "Estate Duty.") Under the Finance Act, 1894, duties are charged on all property passing on the deceased's death—e.g., property in which deceased had only a life interest—and the value thereof is usually aggregable for duty purposes with the testator's own property, unless the value of the latter does not exceed £1,000. The executor must take the will to the Principal Probate Registry, Somerset House, or to the local District Probate Registry, or to a solicitor, and prove the will. Collect all the property of the deceased and pay all his just debts, and before distributing the estate, if it be a large one, it is necessary in order to relieve the executors from personal liability to advertise in certain London and local newspapers for all claims against the estate to be sent in before a specified date. Pay the legacy or succession duty. Dispose of the residue of the property as directed in the will. All the testator's real estate becomes vested in the executors, who hold the same as trustees for the persons beneficially entitled under the will or otherwise, and such persons can only acquire a title to the estate through the executors, after payment of all charges and liabilities to which the same is subject. In the absence of any contrary provision, Estate Duty and Succession Duty (if any) payable in respect of real property are charged upon that property and not upon the residuary estate. Executors are not obliged to act neither is it necessary that all the executors should act: one alone is competent to prove a will and carry out its provisions. In small estates, probate and letters of administration may be obtained through an Inland Revenue Office.

ADMINISTRATORS.—If an executor has not been appointed in the will, or if the executor be dead, or does not wish to act, the residuary legatee nearest of kin to the deceased, or a legatee under the will, is entitled to act and administer the will, and is called administrator.

WHERE TO FIND A PROVED WILL.

To find a will proved before Jan. 1, 1858, the date on which the Court of Probate Act, 1857 (20 & 21 Vict. c. 77), came into operation, it is best to search first—if the testator was a man of substance—the index to the wills proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, which is kept at Somerset House. Failing this, the will is probably to be found in the registry of the district in which it was proved. The wills proved prior to 1858 were all distributed among the district registries when these institutions came into existence. This is the only broad rule which can be laid down to guide a searcher. To find a will proved since 1858 is a far simpler task. It must have been proved either at the Principal Registry at Somerset House, or a District Registry. In the former case the original will itself is carefully preserved at Somerset House, the copy of which probate has been granted is in the hands of the executors who proved the will, and another copy for Parliament is bound up in a folio volume of wills made by testators of that initial and date; the indices to these volumes fill a room of considerable size at Somerset House, where the indices may be examined and a copy of any will read on payment of a search fee of one shilling. In the latter case, the original will, proved in the District Registry, is there kept, and may be seen or a copy obtained, but a copy is sent to and filed at Somerset House, where also it may be seen. A general index of grants, both probate and administrations, is prepared and printed annually in lexicographical form, and may be seen at either the Principal or a District Registry. This index is usually ready by about October of the following year. The reader may not copy any part of the will except the names and addresses of the executors and the date and private number of the will. If he desires a copy, he can order one to be made, for which he will pay according to the length of the will, at the rate of sixpence a folio (ninety words) for an ordinary copy, and ninepence a folio for a certified copy, which can be produced and read in any court of law. The 29 District Probate Registries established by the Act of 1857 are at:—Bangor, Birmingham, Blandford, Bodmin, Bristol, Carlisle, Carmarthen, Chester, Durham, Exeter, Gloucester, Ipswich, Lancaster, Leicester, Lewes, Lincoln, Liverpool, Llandaff, Manchester, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Norwich, Nottingham, Oxford, Peterborough, Shrewsbury, Taunton, Wakefield, Winchester, York. At the following sub-registries applications for grants will be received once a week by an officer of the registry specified in brackets: Canterbury (Principal Probate Registry), Derby (Nottingham), Hereford (Gloucester), Northampton (Birmingham), St. Asaph (Bangor) and Salisbury (Winchester). An applicant, before attending, should write to the chief registry to which the sub-registry belongs to ascertain upon what day the sub-registry is open.

SAFE CUSTODY OF WILLS.

There is a depository for the safe custody of the Wills of living persons at Somerset House. A will may be deposited personally, or through the Registrar of a District Registry, who will transmit the will to London in a registered letter. The fee is 15s., with an additional 5s. if forwarded by a District Probate Registrar. A will once deposited will not be given up to anybody, but must remain in the registry until the testator dies. Any will appointing the Public Trustee as Executor may be deposited with him for safe custody. (See PUBLIC TRUSTEE, post.)

PROBATE OF WILLS.

OBTAINING PROBATE OR ADMINISTRATION WITHOUT THE AID OF A SOLICITOR.

The entrance to the office for personal applications is in the south-east corner of the Quadrangle of Somerset House, Strand, Room 44. The applicant should attend between 10 and 4 (Saturdays 10 and 1) and bring the registrar's certificate of the death of the deceased, or an official certificate of burial, and the will, if there be one, and full details of the property and debts of the deceased. A second attendance is necessary after the forms have been completed and instructions received.

If there be no will or no executor be appointed, or the executor will not act, two sureties must be obtained to enter into a bond for the faithful administration of the estate, unless the whole personal estate does not exceed £50, when one surety only will be required. Sureties should attend on the second occasion. Stamp duty of 5s. is payable on the bond if the gross estate exceeds £100.

In no case can any correspondence be entered into; nor can an interview be given to any agent. The business of the department can be transacted only with the applicant in person.

Application may be made at a District Probate Registry instead of at Somerset House.

Where the whole real and personal estate, without the deduction of debts or funeral expenses, does not exceed £500, application may be made at one of the Inland Revenue Offices in the suburbs and many principal towns throughout the country.

Where the deceased has left no will, and the whole personal estate does not exceed £100, the widows, or children, if residing at more than three miles from any Probate Registry, may apply to the Registrar of the County Court. The Probate Court fees payable by a widow or a child of an Intestate whose gross personal estate does not exceed £100 vary from 5s. to 12s. In all other cases where the gross estate does not exceed £500, a fixed Probate Court fee of 15s. may be paid.

Scotland.—"Confirmation" is the Scottish equivalent of Probate. That is obtained in the Sheriff Court of the County in which the deceased was domiciled at the date of his death or where he had no fixed domicile or died abroad, in the commissariat of Edinburgh. Executors are either "nominate" or "dative." An Executor nominate is one nominated by the deceased in his will. An Executor dative is one appointed by the Court (1) in the case of intestacy or (2) where the deceased had failed to name an executor in his will. In the former case the deceased's next-of-kin are all entitled to be declared executors dative. An inventory of the deceased's estate and a schedule of debts, together with an affidavit, must be given up. If the deceased had personal property in England or Ireland it is shown in the inventory, and then the confirmation is produced in the principal Court of Probate in England or Ireland. It is then sealed in such Courts and has the effect of probate or letters of administration in England or Ireland. In estates under £500 confirmation is obtained at reduced fees.

SCOTS LAW OF WILLS.

A domiciled Scotsman, unlike a domiciled Englishman, cannot in certain circumstances, dispose of the entirety of his estate. If he leave a wife and children, the wife is entitled to a one-third share in the whole of the moveable estate (her jus relictæ), and the children are entitled to another one-third share equally between them (their legitim). If he leave a widow but no children—or children but no widow—the jus relictæ or legitim is increased to a one-half share in the estate. The remaining portion is known as the dead's part. The wife is also entitled to a liferent in one-third of her husband's heritable property. A surviving husband and children have similar rights in the wife's moveables, but the husband is entitled to a liferent in the whole of his dead wife's heritage. The dead's part is the only portion of which the testator or testatrix can dispose. All burdens falling upon the representatives in moveables are payable out of the whole of the moveables before any division. Burdens in the nature of legacies are payable out of the dead's part. Males under 14 and females under 12 cannot make wills. Males between 14 and 21, and females between 12 and 21 may dispose of moveables without the consent of any other person; but minors (unless they be serving in H.M. forces) cannot dispose of heritage. Soldiers and sailors on active service may dispose of all property verbally before a sufficient number of witnesses. The only formalities required by the Law of Scotland as regards due execution of a will are for purposes of authentication. A will must be in writing (except that a person may leave a legacy verbally if the amount of that legacy does not exceed 100 Scots (£8 6s. 8d. sterling) and may be typewritten or even in pencil. A will may be either (1) holograph, i.e., written by the testator himself, in which case no witnesses are necessary; a printed form filled up by the testator is not necessarily holograph but may be made effectual when it has clearly been adapted as holograph. Words written on erasure or marginal additions or interlineations in holograph writings, if proved to be in the handwriting of the maker of the deed are valid; (2) tested, which means that it is signed in presence of two witnesses. It is not necessary that these witnesses should sign in presence of one another, or even that they should see the testator signing so long as the testator acknowledges his signature to the witnesses. If the testator cannot write, his will may be authenticated by a notary and two witnesses. It is better that the will be not witnessed by a beneficiary thereunder, although this circumstance will not invalidate the attestation of the will or (as it would in England) the gift. A parish minister may act as a notary for the purpose of subscribing a will in his own parish. Wills are registered for execution purposes in the Books of the County in which the deceased died domiciled, and in the Books of Council and Session, H.M. General Register House, Edinburgh, for preservation. The original deed may be inspected in the General Register House on payment of a small fee. A certified official copy may be obtained from either register on payment of stamp duties and writing fees. A Scottish will (unlike an English) is not revoked by the subsequent marriage of the testator, the wife and issue of the marriage being provided for by way of jus relictæ and legitim.

TRUST FUNDS AND INVESTMENTS.

By the Trustee Act, 1925 (which came into force on Jan. 1, 1926), a trustee may invest trust funds in (a) any parliamentary stocks or Government securities of the United Kingdom; (b) on real or heritable securities of the United Kingdom; (c) in stock of the Bank of England or Ireland; (d) in India 7,  $5\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $4\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $3\frac{1}{2}$ , 3 and  $2\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. stock or other stock issued by the Secretary of State for India charged on Indian revenue; (e) in securities the interest of which is guaranteed by Parliament; (f) in Consolidated Stock of the Metropolitan Board of Works, or of the London County Council, or Debenture Stock of the Receiver of Police, or Metropolitan Water Stock; (g) in Debenture, Guaranteed or Preference Stock of any railway in the United Kingdom incorporated by special Act, and having paid a dividend of not less than 3 per cent. on its Ordinary Stock for 10 years; (h) in United Kingdom Railway Stock when the railway is leased in perpetuity to any railway such as that mentioned in (g) supra; (i) in Debenture Stock in Indian Railways; (j) in "B" annuities of the Eastern Bengal East Indian, the Scinde, Punjab and Delhi, Great Indian Peninsula and Madras Railways, and in Deferred Annuities in the register of holders of Class D Annuities comprised in the register Class C of the East Indian Railway Company; (k) in the stock of any Indian railway upon which a fixed or minimum dividend is guaranteed by the Indian Government, or upon the capital of which the interest is so guaranteed; (l) in the Debenture or Preference Stock of any Water Company supplying water for profit, and incorporated by special Act or Royal Charter, which has paid a dividend of not less than 5 per cent. on Ordinary Stock for 10 years; (m) in the nominal or Inscribed Stock of any Municipal Borough in the United Kingdom having a population of more than 50,000, or of any County Council; (n) in the Nominal or Inscribed Stock of any commissions supplying water by statute, and having power to levy rates over an area embracing not fewer than 50,000 persons, provided the rates for 10 years have not exceeded 80 per cent. of the amount authorised to be levied; (o) in Stocks authorised under the Colonial Stock Acts, 1877 to 1934; (p) in local bonds issued under the Housing (Additional Powers) Act, 1919; (q) in any Stock or Securities issued in respect of any Government loan in Northern Ireland; (r) in Stocks, &c., authorised for the investment of cash under the control of the Court. All such investments may be varied. As regards railway investments, the L. & N.E. Ry., the S.Ry., the L.M. & S. Ry., and the G.W. Ry., are to be treated as if they were a company which had in each of the ten years before amalgamation paid a dividend of not less than 3 per cent. on its Ordinary Stock. All the Stocks above mentioned may be purchased, although they are redeemable, and the price exceeds the redemption value; but as to those mentioned in paragraphs (g), (i), (k), (l), (m), (o), (p) and (q), supra, if any of them is liable to be redeemed at par or at some other fixed rate, a trustee may not purchase (a) at a price exceeding 15 per cent. above par or such other fixed rate; nor (b) if the stock is liable to be so redeemed as aforesaid within 15 years of the date of purchase at a price exceeding its redemption value. §§ 3 to 11 of the same Act contain various important provisions as to the rights of trustees in the matter of investing trust monies.

As to the investments permitted by The Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, see "WHITAKER" for 1927, p. 254.

THE PUBLIC TRUSTEE.

This is a Government Office (opened in 1908) by means of which the State acts as Executor and Trustee under a Will, or as Trustee under a Settlement, and in other capacities of a like nature. The value of the trusts accepted up to March 31, 1936, was £384,262,944.

The facts of any trust, new or old, in which it is desired that the Public Trustee should act may be brought to his notice by letter or by personal interview. The appointment is effected in the same way as a private trustee, or by an Order of the Court. He can act solely or jointly with others.

In the case of a Will, all that the testator need say is, "I appoint the Public Trustee executor and trustee of this my Will"; or the appointment may be a joint one with others. Executors who have obtained probate can transfer their duties to him under an Order of the Court. He can also act as Administrator with, or without, the Will annexed.

Strict secrecy is observed in all matters dealt with in the Department. Accounts in simple form are furnished to the beneficiaries as required. An interview with the Public Trustee or with any of his senior officers can be arranged at any time. A pamphlet giving particulars and details of the fees can be obtained free of cost from the Office of the Public Trustee, Kingsway, W.C. 2 or at any Post Office.

There is a branch office in Arkwright House, Parsonage Gardens, Manchester 3.

The succession to the property of a person dying Intestate on or after January 1, 1926, is regulated by The Administration of Estates Act, 1925, which repealed the old law and established one new Code applicable both to Real Estate (land, &c.) and Personal Estate (leaseholds, chattels, investments, &c.). The Act abolished the rule of Primogeniture (inheritance by eldest son), the rights of dower (widow's third) and of curtesy (husband's life interest), and all special customs (e.g. gavelkind and Borough English). As to Personal Estate: Parents were placed on an equal footing; a mother regained her ancient preference over an intestate child's brothers and sisters; relatives of the whole blood obtained priority over those of the half blood; and relatives more remote than first cousins were excluded from the distribution. "The widow's £500" under the Intestates Estates Act, 1890, was increased to £1,000, whether there be issue or no issue, and given also to a husband; whilst the widow or husband now also takes all the "personal chattels."

TABLE OF EXAMPLES.

Important.—NOTE.—By Section 46 of the Administration of Estates Act, 1925, a surviving husband or wife takes absolutely (i) the "personal chattels"; and (ii) £1,000 free of death duties and expenses. The "residue" is then distributed as indicated in the Table.

"Personal chattels" are:—Articles of household use or ornament, &c. (not used for business purposes).

In each instance it is supposed there are no nearer relations than those named.

If the Intestate leaves:

The Estate is distributed as follows:—

1. Widow (or husband), and children .....	{ One half to widow (or husband) for life, and then to children equally. Other half to children equally at once.
2. Widow (or husband), and father and mother .....	{ Widow (or husband) for life, and then to father and mother equally.
3. Widow (or husband), and either father or mother, not both .....	{ Widow (or husband) for life, and then to father or mother absolutely.
4. Widow (or husband), and brothers or sisters of whole blood .....	{ Widow (or husband) for life, and then to brothers and sisters equally.
5. Widow (or husband), and brothers or sisters of half blood .....	{ Widow (or husband) for life, and then to brothers and sisters equally.
6. Widow (or husband), and nephews or nieces .....	{ Widow (or husband) for life, and then to nephews and nieces per stirpes .
7. Widow (or husband), and grandparents .....	{ Widow (or husband) for life, and then to grandparents equally.
8. Widow (or husband), and uncles or aunts .....	{ Widow (or husband) for life, and then to uncles and aunts equally.
9. Widow (or husband) but none of above relations or descendants .....	{ All to widow (or husband).
10. Children, and grandchildren (issue of deceased child) .....	{ Amongst children in equal shares, the grandchildren taking equally their deceased parent's share.
11. Father and mother .....	{ Father and mother equally.
12. Father or mother, not both .....	{ Father or mother.
13. Brothers or sisters of whole blood, and of half blood .....	{ Brothers and sisters of whole blood equally.
14. Brothers or sisters, and nephews or nieces (children of deceased brother or sister) .....	{ Amongst brothers and sisters in equal shares, the children of deceased brother or sister taking equally their deceased parent's share.
15. Brothers or sisters, and grandparent .....	{ Brothers and sisters equally.
16. Grandparents, paternal or maternal .....	{ Grandparents equally.
17. Grandparent, and uncles or aunts .....	{ Grandparent.
18. Uncles or aunts of whole blood, and of half blood .....	{ Uncles and aunts of whole blood equally.
19. Uncles or aunts, and deceased uncle's or aunt's children .....	{ Amongst uncles and aunts in equal shares, the children of deceased uncle or aunt taking equally their deceased parent's share.
20. Uncles or aunts, and nephews or nieces .....	{ Nephews and nieces per stirpes .
21. Cousins, i.e. deceased uncle's or aunt's children or grandchildren .....	{ Cousins per stirpes .
22. Any other relation than those named in preceding examples (e.g. Great grandparents) and no widow or husband .....	{ The Crown.

NOTES.—The life interest of a husband or wife may be redeemed by payment of a lump sum.

In ascertaining the persons entitled, regard must be had to the rule that the relative must have attained or attain the age of 21 or have married or marry under that age.

Advances to a child in the Intestate's lifetime are to be brought into hotchpot, i.e. into account upon distribution of the Estate.

Taking per stirpes is taking by descent or representation. Thus, in Example 6, nephews and nieces take amongst them the share which their deceased parent would have taken if he or she had survived the Intestate.

Since January 1, 1927, in certain circumstances the mother of an illegitimate child, and an illegitimate child, may succeed to real or personal property on the intestacy of the other. (Legitimacy Act, 1926, s. 9.)

I.—MOVABLES.

By the Intestate Husband's Estate (Scotland) Act, 1911, the widow of a man dying intestate and without issue is entitled to the whole estate both heritable and moveable if under £500 in value; if over that amount she takes £500, together with interest at 4 per cent. from the date of death, out of the heritable and moveable estate rateably before any division is made. This right is additional to, and not in prejudice of, her right of terce and her jus relictæ. A surviving husband is not entitled to any such payment.

Relations are entitled to take in the order shown in the following table:—

1	Living children, as next of kin per capita . Dead children's issue, as next of kin per stirpes . One-third of the total estate.	Living children, as legitim. One-third of total.	Widow or widower one- third as jus relictæ (2).
2	Grandchildren living per capita . Dead grandchildren' issue per stirpes . And so downwards.	Two-thirds of the total estate.
3	Living brothers and sisters of the full blood per capita . Issue of dead brothers and sisters per stirpes . One-half of dead's part.*	Father one-half of dead's part— but if no father, then Mother	Widow or widower one- half of total as jus relictæ (2).
4	Nephews and nieces of the full blood per capita . Issue of dead nephews and nieces per stirpes . One-half of dead's part.*	one-half of dead's part*; fail- ing such father or mother, the persons to the left of this column will take the whole of the dead's part.
5	Great nephews and nieces by full blood per capita . Children of No. 4. Issue of great-nephews and nieces per stirpes . One-half of dead's part.* And so downwards.
6	Living brothers and sisters, consanguinean per capita . Issue of dead brothers and sisters per stirpes . One-half of dead's part.*
7	Nephews and nieces (children of No. 6) per capita . Issue of dead nephews and nieces per stirpes . One-half of dead's part.*
8	Great-nephews and nieces (children of No. 7) per capita . Issue of dead great-nephews and nieces per stirpes . One-half of dead's part.* And so downwards.
9	Father.
10	Mother.†
11	Uncles and aunts paternal per capita . One-half of dead's part.*	Brothers and sisters uterine and issue one- half of dead's part*; failing such brothers and sisters, the per- sons to the left of this column will take the whole of the dead's part.
12	Cousins german † (children of No. 11) per capita . One-half of dead's part.*
13	Children of No. 12 per capita . One-half of dead's part.* And so downwards.
14	Grandfather paternal. One-half of dead's part.*
15	Great-uncles and aunts paternal (children of No. 14) per capita . One-half of dead's part.*
16	Children of No. 15 per capita . One-half of dead's part.* And so downwards.
17	Great-grandfather paternal. One-half of dead's part.*
18	Children of No. 17 per capita . One-half of dead's part.* And so downwards.

NOTE A. In Scotland, a house on intestacy and in the absence of any destination descends to the heir-at-law.

NOTE B. When a person dies intestate leaving heritable estate as well as moveables, the heir to the heritable, if he is also one of the next of kin, is not entitled to any of the moveables if he takes the heritable. He may, however, "collate" the heritable, i.e., share it with the other next of kin, and thus get an equal share of the mixed estate.

NOTE C. Per capita means by the head; per stirpes means inheriting through a parent deceased. Moveables taken per capita divide into as many shares as there are children. Where representatives of a deceased parent take per stirpes they take equally amongst them the share that would have fallen to the deceased had he or she survived.

* As to the meaning of legitim, jus relictæ (relictæ) and "dead's part," see under WILLS (Scotland). Where there are no such rights, "dead's part" refers to the entire estate.

† The rights are otherwise if the intestate died before the Intestates' Moveables Succession Act, 1929.

‡ At the mother took one third.

§ Note that where there are no surviving brothers or sisters, nieces and nephews take per capita.

¶ "Consanguinean," i.e., of the same father but of a different mother from the intestate.

** "Consanguinean," i.e., "fellow-kin," take per capita, because representation is not allowed after descendants of brothers and sisters. (Intestates' Moveables Succession Act, 1855.)

*** "Uterine," i.e., of the same mother but of a different father from the intestate.

II.—HERITAGE.

Table of Succession to heritable property in Scotland on intestacy and in the absence of any destination in the property writs, other than "to heirs and successors."

In each instance it is supposed there are no nearer relations than those named.

If Intestate die leavingHeritage would descend to:—

| (25) Two aunts, nephew and niece, children of deceased brother .....  | Child of deceased uncle on father's side, or (if none) child of deceased aunt on father's side.  |
| (26) Uncle or aunt's children, and brother's grandchildren through a son .....  | Nephew.  |
| (27) Nephew by brother, and nephew by half-sister .....   | Brother's grandson, or if granddaughters between, then equally (conforming to Nos. 2 and 7).   |
| (28) Nephew by deceased brother, and nephews and nieces by deceased sister .....  | Nephew by brother.   |
|   | All to eldest nephew, son of deceased brother.   |

* NOTE.—In Scotland succession to heritage on intestacy NEVER ascends to the mother and her relations. Even the mother's own estate, after vesting in her son or daughter, never ascends to the maternal line again.

SOLICITORS' CHARGES.

These are now usually regulated in conveyancing and non-contentious business by the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881, and the Scale thereunder, but the Act allows an option to a solicitor of declining to adopt it. It chiefly relates to sales, purchases and mortgages, and is based upon the value of the property or amount of the money involved. Besides this, it is legal for a client to make a bargain beforehand for a fixed sum. The amount coming to the solicitor, whether under Scale or agreement, is intended to cover the services of himself and his clerks, while it is, of course, exclusive of actual outlay for stamps, &c. On purchase or mortgage money exceeding £300 and not exceeding £1,000, the Scale charge for each party's solicitor is  $1\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.; this does not apply to sales by auction. Where a negotiation fee is chargeable, in addition, by the vendor's, purchaser's, or mortgagee's (not mortgagor's) solicitor, the Scale charge on sums exceeding £300 and not exceeding £3,000 is 1 per cent. It should be noted that if the solicitor negotiates the purchase or mortgage, he is entitled to an additional fee of substantial amount under the Scale referred to. Charges were subject to an increase of  $33\frac{1}{3}$  per cent. until Nov. 1, 1933, since which date 25 per cent. is added for litigation costs and 20 per cent. for non-contentious work, including scale charges.

Scotland.—Solicitors' fees for Conveyancing and General business are regulated by a joint table approved by the different societies of Law Agents (Solicitors). Fees for litigation are regulated by the Court of Session. The tables of fees are published in The "Parliament House Book" and in "The Scottish Law Directory." When a solicitor sues for payment of a professional account it is remitted to the Auditor of the Court for taxation of his charges.

MEDICAL FEES.

The following are the charges usually made by General Practitioners:—

GENERAL PRACTITIONERS.	RENTAL (OF PATIENT'S HOUSE).
	£20 to £25.	£25 to £50.	£50 to £100
Ordinary Visit .....	5s. to 7s. 6d.	5s. to 10s. 6d.	7s. 6d. to 15s.
Night Visit .....	Double an ordinary visit.
Mileage beyond two miles from Home .....	2s. 6d.	3s.	4s.
Detention per 4 hour .....	5s. to 7s. 6d.	5s. to 10s. 6d.	7s. 6d. to 15s.
Letters of Advice ..	Same charge as for an ordinary visit.
Attendance on servants ..	5s.	5s.	5s. to 7s. 6d.
Midwifery .....	$1\frac{1}{2}$ 6s.	$1\frac{1}{2}$ to 4s. 6s.	$4\frac{1}{2}$ to 7s. 6s.
Adminstrng. Chlfrn.	1s.	$1\frac{1}{2}$ 6s.	3 6s.
CONSULTANTS.
Advice or Visit alone ..	3 6s.	3 6s.	3 6s.
Advice or Visit with another Practitioner ..	$1\frac{1}{2}$ 6s.	$1\frac{1}{2}$ to 3 6s.	$1\frac{1}{2}$ to 3 6s.
Mileage beyond two miles from Home ..	1s.	1s.	1s.

Special visits—i.e., of which due notice has not been given before the practitioner starts on his daily round, are charged at the rate of a visit and a half. Patients calling upon the doctor are charged at the same rate as if visited by him.

When the ordinary medical attendant is called upon to meet another in consultation, he is entitled to charge double his ordinary fee. When he himself is called in in consultation, he is entitled to the minimum fee.

When more members of one family are ill at the same time, half a fee is charged for each beyond the first.

In midwifery cases the fee generally covers all charges for visits, &c., if all goes well; but if the illness be protracted, or if any special operation has to be performed, there is an extra charge.

If attendance on servants is paid for by employer, or if he send for the doctor, the charge is the same as to himself.

Certificates of health are to be charged for same as visits, except where special investigation is needed, as in certificates for lunacy, insurance offices, &c., when the charge may be from half a guinea to two guineas.

Vaccination is usually charged for according to the number of visits required.

Medical bills are commonly rendered once or twice a year.

STOCKBROKERS' CHARGES.

The Rules and Regulations drawn up by the London Stock Exchange "Committee for General Purposes" are very voluminous and technical. The customary scale of brokerage is 5s. per £100 on British (with some exceptions) or Foreign Government or American dollar stocks, and 10s. per £100 on British Railway registered stocks. On shares not exceeding 15s. the brokerage is  $1\frac{1}{2}$ d. per share; not exceeding 30s., 3d. per share; not exceeding 40s.,  $4\frac{1}{2}$ d.; not exceeding 60s., 6d. per share, and so on. There are minimum charges of 10s. on less than £100 and £1 on over £100.

ACCOUNTANTS' CHARGES.

The following scale of fees is generally applicable, but for special work fees are usually a matter of negotiation:—

Company Audits.—Fee fixed by Shareholders in General Meeting.

Preparing Balance Sheets, Investigating Accounts, &c.—Principals' time, per day of seven hours, 5 to 10 6s. Managing Clerks (if Chartered or Incorporated Accountants), 3 to 5 6s.; (not Chartered or Incorporated Accountants),  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to  $2\frac{1}{2}$  6s.; other Clerks, 1 6s. and upwards. If at a distance from the office or outside the United Kingdom, hotel and travelling expenses will be charged.

Receivers, Liquidators and Trustees in Bankruptcy.—Usually by percentage on realisation of assets and dividends paid.

Voluntary Liquidators.—Usually fixed by the Company in General Meeting.

ARCHITECTS.

Fees on New Works.—For taking the Client's instructions, preparing sketch design, making approximate estimate of cost by cubic measurement, or otherwise, preparing drawings and specifications for the purpose of estimates, obtaining tenders, advising on tenders and in preparation of contract, selecting and instructing of consultants, furnishing to the Contractor one copy of the drawings and specification and such other details as are necessary for the proper carrying out of the works, general supervision as above defined, issuing certificates for payment, and passing and certifying accounts, a percentage on the total cost of all executed works as follows:—

(a) If the contract or order exceeds £2,000, the percentage is to be 6 per cent.

(b) If the contract or order does not exceed £2,000, the percentage is to be 10 per cent. in the case of works costing £100 graduated to 6 per cent. in the case of works costing £2,000 as the special character of such works may render appropriate.

Alterations and Additions.—A percentage not exceeding twice the amount due for new works of the same cost.

Fittings, Decorations, &c.—In works in which designs for fittings, appointments, decorations, or complex detail or construction are main features, special fees may be charged according to the circumstances, and also for designs for furniture.

Omitted Works.—In addition to the percentage on the total cost of executed works, the Architect is to be paid in respect of all works included in the tender or order, but not executed, two-thirds of the charge which would have been due upon them had they been carried out.

Partial Service.—If the project or part of it be abandoned, or if the services of the Architect cease or are dispensed with before a contract is entered into or order given, the charges in respect of the works abandoned or for which the Architect was employed (as the case may be) are as follows:—

(a) For making approximate estimate of cost by cubic measurement, or otherwise, one-fourth of the percentage on the estimated cost of such works.

(b) For making approximate estimate of cost by cubic measurement, or otherwise, and preparing drawings and particulars sufficient to enable quantities to be prepared or a tender obtained, two-thirds of the percentage on the estimated cost of such works.

Instalments.—On a contract being entered into or order given for the works the Architect shall be entitled to an instalment of two-thirds of the charge calculated on the total amount of the contract or order, and no part of such payment shall be reclaimable from the Architect in the event of the subsequent abandonment of the works. The remainder of the Architect's remuneration shall be payable by instalments from time to time as the work proceeds.

Work Executed with Old Materials, &c.—In all cases where work is executed wholly or in part with old materials, or where material, labour or carriage is provided by the Client, the percentage shall be calculated as if the works had been executed throughout by a Contractor, and with new material.

Services Not Included in Percentage.—The foregoing percentages do not cover the following services, for which, and for any other services not covered by any payment herein provided for, additional charges may be made in accordance with the amount of work involved:—

Advising as to the selection and suitability of site. Negotiations relating to the site or building. Surveying the site or building and taking levels, and making surveys, measurements, and plans of existing buildings.

The preparation of further sketch designs necessitated by a material alteration in, or addition to, the Client's instructions, or altering the working drawings and specification in consequence thereof prior to the commencement of the works. Altering drawings, or preparing new drawings, and other services involved in consequence of variations or additions desired by the Client after the commencement of the works. Making extra drawings for the Client's or Contractors' use, and making drawings for and negotiations with ground landlords, adjoining owners, public authorities, or others, and making applications for licences and consents.

Making arrangements in respect of party walls and rights of light and other easements, reservations or restrictions. Services in connection with litigation or arbitration. Services consequent upon or resulting from the death or bankruptcy of Contractors or the failure or neglect of Contractors from any cause whatever to carry out the works in accordance with the contract or order or consequent upon the fraud or negligence of the Clerk of Works. Services in connection with fire, flood, or tempest during the execution of the works, and services in connection with the planning of grounds or gardens.

Housing Schemes and Laying Out Estates.—The fees are those approved by the Ministry of Health, the Board of Agriculture and Fisheries, and the Scottish Board of Health.

Approval of Lessee's Plans.—For approving plans submitted by a lessee and for inspecting the work during its progress so far as may be necessary to ensure the conditions being fulfilled, and certifying for lease when required, the charge is as follows:—

For each £100 or part of £100 of the total cost up to £500,  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. (minimum fee, £3 3s.).

For each £100 or part of £100 from £500 to £5,000,  $\frac{1}{4}$  per cent.

For each £100 or part of £100 above £5,000, 1 guinea per cent.

Litigation and Arbitration.—For qualifying to give evidence, settling proofs, conferences with Solicitors and Counsel, attendances in Court or before Arbitrators or other tribunals, and for other services in connection with litigation and arbitration the charges are based upon the time occupied and the professional standing of the Architect.

Land Surveying and Levelling.—For surveying and making a plan of a town, village, street or road, estate or grounds, or any part thereof, for taking levels, setting out streets or roads, and for other services in connection with land not otherwise specifically provided for, the charges are by time in accordance with Clause 21.

Sanitary Surveys.—For inspecting, reporting and advising on the sanitary condition of premises, the charge is by time in accordance with Clause 21, the minimum fee being £3 3s., in addition to the cost of assistance and appliances.

Expenses.—The above-mentioned fees are, in all cases, exclusive of the cost of copies of documents, lithography, travelling and hotel expenses, and all other disbursements, which are to be charged in addition.

QUANTITY SURVEYORS.

ARCHITECTURAL WORK.

Note.—In cases where any of the materials used in construction are supplied by the building owner the percentage charge is based upon the estimated or actual value thereof.

Lump Sum Contracts.

(a) Taking out and preparing Bills of Quantities:— $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. upon the estimated cost of the work up to £10,000; 2 per cent. above £10,000.

(b) Pricing out estimates:— $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.

(c) Measuring and making up account of variations upon contracts including pricing :— $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. upon the amount of the gross additions, and  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. upon the amount of the gross omissions.

(d) Preparing approximate estimates :— $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. upon the estimated cost.

(e) Surveying work in progress, taking particulars, and reporting for Interim Certificates :— $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. upon the amount of the valuation.

(f) Taking particulars on site and writing specifications for works of alterations or repair, including supervision if required :— $\frac{7}{2}$  per cent. on the amount expended or alternatively a charge based upon the time involved.

Schedule Contracts.

(a) Preparing, pricing and agreeing a schedule of prices :— $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. upon the cost of the work.

(b) Measuring, bringing to account and valuing work done :— $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. upon the gross amount of the account.

ENGINEERING WORK.

Lump Sum and Schedule Contracts.

Percentage charges half those for architectural work but the same scale in respect of charges based upon time.

LITIGATION AND ARBITRATION.

For qualifying to give evidence, settling proofs, conferences with solicitors and counsel, attendance in courts or before arbitrators or other tribunals, and for other services in connexion, the charge is based upon the time involved, with a minimum of 5 guineas per day.

The above charges are exclusive of the cost of printing, lithography, and fair copies of accounts, and in all cases travelling and other out-of-pocket expenses are payable in addition to the fees.

CONSULTING ENGINEERS.

A copy of Professional Rules and Practice and Scale of Fees may be obtained (price 1s.) from the Hon. Sec. of the Association, 11, Victoria Street, Westminster, S.W. 1.

AUCTIONEERS, SURVEYORS AND ESTATE AGENTS.

Sales by Auction.

Freehold, Leasehold, and Copyhold Properties, including the preparation of particulars, and advising as to reserves :—On the first £300, 5 per cent.; on the next £4,700,  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.; on the residue,  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.

In addition to the above charges :—On amounts paid by the purchaser for Chattels, Fixtures, Fittings, Trade Stocks, and other Movable Effects, Timber, and Tenant-right under the conditions of sale, in addition to the purchase-money of the property :—5 per cent. on £500, and  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on residue, to include inventory and valuation.

Where the division of an Estate into a number of lots involves substantial additional work, increased remuneration as arranged between the Vendor and Auctioneer.

Sale before Auction.

After issue of advertisements, the same scale as by auction.

Non-Sale.

In the event of non-sale at the auction, a fee, the amount of which is a matter of arrangement, is payable.

Sale after Auction.

In the event of the property being sold within three months after the auction, the charges for non-sale would merge into the ordinary commission then payable.

Private Treaty Sales.

Freehold and Copyhold Estates and Houses, and Ground Leases.—On the first £300, 5 per cent.; on the next £4,700,  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.; on the residue,  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.; and a commission, in addition, on the amount paid for Chattels, Pictures, Fittings, Furniture, Trade Stocks, and other Movable Effects, Timber, and Tenant-right, of 5 per cent. up to £500, and  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on the residue, to include inventory and valuation.

NOTE.—In Sales by Auction and Private Treaty Sales.—Where two Agents are co-operating at the request of the owner, the commission shall be at the rate of a scale and a quarter.

Purchases.

Freehold and Copyhold Estates and Houses, and Ground Leases.—One-half of the scale for sale by private treaty, calculated upon the amount of the purchase-money, but including inspection, advising as to value, and negotiating or bidding. If no purchase is effected, the usual scale for valuation should be charged: one guinea per cent. on first £1,000; half a guinea on next £9,000; and a quarter of a guinea per cent. beyond on the value of the property. Minimum fee, £5 5s.

Lettings.

Business Premises, Unfurnished Houses, Flats, &c., or on Disposing of all Leases (other than Ground Leases) by assignment or otherwise.—If the annual value be £100 or less 5 per cent. on one year's rent, where the term is for one year or less, and  $\frac{7}{2}$  per cent. on one year's rent where the term is for more than one year. If the annual value be over £100 the above scale shall apply to the first £100 and on the excess rental over that amount, where the term is for three years or less, 5 per cent. on one year's rent; where the term is for more than three years,  $\frac{7}{2}$  per cent. on one year's rent; in the case of leases requiring the lessee to repair the demised premises the commission is 10 per cent. on one year's rent, whatever the term. Upon the premium or consideration (in all cases), 5 per cent. up to £1,000, and  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on the residue; and the commission on any sum obtained for fixtures, furniture, or effects of any kind, of 5 per cent. up to £500, and  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on the residue. In the case of a progressive rent the commission is based on the average rent receivable. When a property, which an agent has been instructed to let or sell, is let by him with an option to purchase, and the tenant afterwards exercises his option, the commission for selling, less the commission already paid on the letting, will then become payable.

SHIPBROKERS' CHARGES.

A scale of Minimum Agency Charges became operative for Members of the Institute of Chartered Shipbrokers (Office, 57 St. Mary Axe, London, E.C. 3) from 1920, and has been revised from time to time. Copies may be obtained from the Secretary.

Ecclesiastical Commissioners (Powers) Measure, 1936	(May 29, 1936)

THE CHURCH ASSEMBLY (or "National Assembly of the Church of England") was established in 1920, "to deliberate on all matters concerning the Church of England and to make provision in respect thereof." The Assembly consists of three Houses, composed of Bishops, Clergy, and Laity respectively. The first two Houses consist of the Convocations of Canterbury and York, of which the respective Upper Houses form the House of Bishops, and the respective Lower Houses the House of Clergy; the House of Laity comprises representatives of the Laity of the Provinces of Canterbury and York, elected every five years by the Lay members of the Diocesan Conferences, who consist mainly of representatives elected, either directly or indirectly, by members of the Church of England on a roll prepared in each parish.

The Church Assembly is free to discuss any proposal concerning the Church of England, and to make provision in respect of such matters, but where this includes Parliamentary sanction for any alteration contemplated, this authority is to be sought in the manner prescribed by the Church of England Assembly (Powers) Act, 1919, often referred to as the "Enabling Act." It is specially provided that any innovation touching doctrinal formulæ, or the services or ceremonies of the Church, or the administration of the Sacraments or sacred rites thereof, must be debated and voted upon by each of the three Houses sitting separately, and must then be either accepted or rejected by the Assembly in the terms in which it is finally proposed by the House of Bishops. It is further laid down that the Assembly or any of the three Houses may debate and formulate its judgment by resolution ~~upon~~ any matter concerning the Church, or otherwise of religious or public interest, but the Assembly may not issue any statement purporting to define the doctrine of the Church on any question of theology. None of the powers belonging to the Convocations of Canterbury and York is to be diminished or derogated by the Assembly, which is also prohibited from exercising any power or performing any function distinctively belonging to the Bishops by right of their episcopal office.

Parochial affairs are managed by Parochial Church Meetings of parishioners who are members of the Church of England and by Church Councils elected by such meetings.

General Statistics.—The number of baptisms in 1935 was 390,642, the Easter communicants in the various English Dioceses numbered 2,459,113. The total gross income of 12,698 incumbents was £6,565,918, including £179,794 contributed as Easter offerings. The stipends of the assistant clergy were £1,021,568. The amount of voluntary parochial contributions in the 43 dioceses of England was £6,233,466.

DIOCESES OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

The sums appended to the various offices are the full incomes derivable from the estates and revenues of the Church. The Deans and Chapters of certain Dioceses (marked * in the following pages) preferred several years ago to retain in lieu of fixed annual money payments, estates estimated at that time to produce the same annual income.

THE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND is Presbyterian in constitution, and is governed by Kirk Sessions, Presbyteries, Synods, and the General Assembly, which consists of both clerical and lay representatives from each of the Presbyteries. It is presided over by a Moderator (chosen annually by the Assembly), to whom His Majesty the King has granted precedence in Scotland, during his term of office, next after the Lord Chancellor of Great Britain. The Sovereign is represented by a Lord High Commissioner (appointed each year by the Crown), who receives the sum of £2,000 towards his expenses. The country, for Church purposes, was, prior to the union of the Church of Scotland with the United Free Church of Scotland which was effected at a joint meeting of the General Assemblies of both Churches on October 2, 1929, divided into 16 Synods and 66 Presbyteries, and there were about 1,800 ministers and licentiates engaged in ministerial and other work. There have since been added: (1) The Presbytery of the Synod of England and (2) The Presbyteries of (a) Northern Europe, (b) Southern Europe, (c) Spain and Portugal, (d) a number of Indian and Colonial Presbyteries, making 83 in all. The number of communicants on the roll (Dec. 31, 1928) was (prior to the union of the Churches) 759,797. The sum of £809,865 2s. 3d. was (apart from Seat Rents levied by Church Authority and amounting to £73,371 6s. 7d.), but including legacies, amounting to £45,230 6s. 9d., raised in 1928 for church and missionary purposes. Within the last 80 years considerably over 500 chapels, at a cost for stipends and supplementary endowments of over £2,450,000, have been endowed and erected into parishes quoad sacra. The parish churches numbered 1,470. There were in addition 245 chapels and mission stations, in all of which worship is regularly conducted. The figures applicable to the Church of Scotland as now re-united after 86 years of separation are only partly available:—

Congregations, 2,920; total membership, 1,280,620; Sunday Schools, 3,758, with 369,115 scholars and 47,795 teachers. In 20 Foreign Mission fields there are 581 European Mission Agents (and in addition 195 missionaries' wives, many of whom are doing mission work in the various fields) and 7,807 native agents, evangelists and teachers, including in both cases those of the Women's Foreign Mission.

Until 1560 the Church of Scotland was Roman Catholic, but in that year the Scots Parliament abolished the jurisdiction of the Pope, proscribed the Mass, and ratified a Confession of Faith drawn up by John Knox and other divines. In all essentials the articles of the ancient creeds of the Church were adhered to. Ceremonies were declared to be temporary in their nature, and should be altered when they began to forest superstition. Presbytery was settled in 1590. The restoration of the rights of the Bishops, civil and ecclesiastical, was, however, sanctioned by the General Assembly of 1610, and three Scottish Bishops were in that year consecrated in London. Further innovations by King James VI. alarmed the people, and the attempt of Charles I. to impose on the Church a Book of Canons and a Liturgy was met by the National Covenant and the restoration of Presbyterian forms, which culminated in the Westminster Confession of Faith in 1646. At the Restoration the Church again became Episcopal, but in 1690 the Scottish Parliament re-established Presbyterianism. By the Treaty of Union between England and Scotland (ratified by the English Parliament 6 Anne c. ii.) the Church of Scotland was secured in its Presbyterian form of government, and the very first official act of a sovereign of the British Empire on his accession is to take an oath to maintain inviolably this settlement. In 1921 Parliament passed the Church of Scotland Act, 1921, to declare the lawfulness of certain Articles declaratory of the constitution of the Church of Scotland. These Articles were framed with a view to facilitating the union of other Churches with the Church of Scotland. A committee, appointed by the Secretary for Scotland (under the Presidency of the late Viscount Haldane), enquired into the question of endowments, following upon which the Church of Scotland (Property and Endowments Bill) was introduced and was passed into law (15 and 16 Geo. V. c. 33) in 1925. The primary purpose of this legislative measure was to transfer to and vest in the Church of Scotland General Trustees, incorporated under the Church of Scotland (General Trustees) Order Confirmation Act 1921, the whole properties and endowments belonging to the Church as it then existed, for behoof of the latter. Further legislation with reference to these was embodied in The Church of Scotland Trust Order Confirmation Act, 1932, and The Church of Scotland (Property and Endowments) Amendment Act, 1933.

ST. PATRICK'S NATIONAL CATHEDRAL, DUBLIN.

Dean and Ordinary, Very Rev. David Frederick Ruddell Wilson, M.A. (1935).

GENERAL SYNOD,

Consisting of House of Bishops (13) and House of Representatives (viz., 208 clerical and 416 lay).

Honorary Secretaries, Rev. Canon A. E. Hughes, M.A.; Very Rev. R. G. S. King, B.D.;
Major E. H. C. Wellesley and W. E. Thrift. (Vice-Provost, T.C.D.)Secretary to the REPRESENTATIVE CHURCH BODY (INCORPORATED 1870), George B. Butler, 52 St. Stephen's Green E., Dublin; Asst. Sec and Registrar, Rev. J. H. Yates, B.D.

Chief Accountant—J. G. Greene, A.C.A.

By the Act of Union, 1800, the Church of Ireland was united with the Church of England, the Sovereign, as one of its members, being supreme governor on earth. By the Act of 1869 this union was severed, and on Jan. 1, 1871, the Church of Ireland resumed her independent position. The Act of 1869 not only disestablished the Irish Church, but also took away her endowments, nothing being left but the right to the life services of the annuitant Bishops and Clergy (the annuities provided were commuted for a capital sum), the right to claim churches in use for divine service, the right to buy the See and Glebe Houses (with garden and curtilage), and £500,000 in lieu of private endowments.

The supreme governing body of the Church of Ireland is the GENERAL SYNOD, which meets annually.

Subject to the GENERAL SYNOD are 20 Diocesan Synods, which are assisted by smaller elected bodies called Diocesan Councils.

The Bishop of the Diocese is chosen by the clerical and lay members of the Diocesan Synod. The Primate is chosen by the House of Bishops from amongst their own number.

The incumbent of the Parish is appointed by a Board of Nomination, consisting of 7 persons, viz.:—The Bishop, 3 diocesan nominators (2 clerical and 1 lay) appointed by the Diocesan Synod, and 3 parochial nominators (lay) appointed by the registered vestrymen of the parish.

The financial trustees of the Church are the REPRESENTATIVE BODY, composed of the Archbishops and Bishops, 13 clergymen and 26 laymen, chosen by the Diocesan Synods, with 13 co-opted members (clerical or lay). This body holds the property of the Church, and administers its funds, subject to the General Synod.

The first property it held was the capital sum £7,581,075, representing the life annuities of the Bishops and Clergy paid over as commutation money by the Church Commissioners, and also £500,000 compensation for private endowments. The commutation capital on Dec. 31, 1935, was only £3,654,168. 12s. 6d., charged with one annuity. The funds, however, in the custody of the Representative Body amounted in all to £11,119,602 5s. 7d., made up of Commutation £3,654, Private Endowments £341,130, Parochial Sustentation £7,369,457, Episcopal Sustentation £572,087, General Synod Funds £706,944, and Miscellaneous purposes £2,136,330.

Since 1869 members of the Church have paid in to the Representative Body a total sum of £11,502,168. The interest of the Diocesan and Parochial Sustentation and other Funds is approximately £376,377. The total amount of assessment for stipend paid by parishes, 1934, was £101,288, and the total amount paid for stipends under Diocesan Schemes was £334,098.

THE METHODIST CHURCH.

UNDER the general designation of METHODISTS are included all those religious bodies which owe their existence, directly or indirectly, to the efforts of the Revd. John Wesley (born June 17, 1703; died March 2, 1791) and his brother, Revd. Charles Wesley (born Dec. 18, 1707; died March 29, 1788).

THE METHODIST CHURCH.

On September 20, 1932, the Wesleyan Methodist Church, the Primitive Methodist Church, and the United Methodist Church, were united and became "The Methodist Church."

The Methodist Church is governed primarily by the Conference, secondarily by the Synods (held in September and May), consisting of all the ministers and of selected laymen in each district, over which a chairman is appointed by the Conference; and thirdly by quarterly meetings of the ministers and lay officers of each circuit. The authority of both Synods and Quarterly Meetings is subordinate to the Conference, which has the supreme legislative and judicial power in Methodism.

Statistics.—In 1936, in association with the Conference in Great Britain and Ireland (at home and abroad), there were 5,697 Ministers, 46,406 Lay Preachers, 1,244,374 Members and Probationers, 21,124 Churches, 16,966 Sunday Schools, 202,744 Sunday School Officers and Teachers, and 1,357,113 Sunday Scholars.

The latest statistics of Methodism throughout the world (1936) are: Ministers, 55,166; local preachers, 93,992; members and probationers, 11,654,932; Sunday schools, 87,433; officers and teachers, 924,814; scholars, 9,093,377; churches and other preaching places, 101,548.

Wesleyan Methodists, the original Church founded in 1739 by the two brothers. The first Conference, consisting of six clergymen and four laymen, was held in 1744.

The Primitive Methodists, sprang up in Staffordshire, in 1820, under the leadership of Hugh Bourne and William Clowes.

The United Methodist Church was formed by the Union in 1907 of three denominations of Methodists which hitherto had been separate from and independent of each other. These were—The Methodist New Connexion, which owed its origin in 1797 to the Rev. Alexander Kilham, one of the early itinerating Wesleyan preachers. The Bible Christians, founded in 1815 by Wm. O'Bryan, a Wesleyan lay preacher in Cornwall. The United Methodist Free Churches, which was itself an amalgamation of three different secessions—the Protestant Methodists, formed in 1828; the Wesleyan Methodist Association, which sprang out of a controversy in 1834, concerning the need for a trained ministry; and the Wesleyan Reform Association, founded in 1849, during a great agitation.

The act of union of these three denominations into one took place in London on September 17, 1907, when the first united Conference was held.

INDEPENDENT METHODISTS.

Independent Methodists.—This body is Congregational in its organisation, with an unpaid Ministry. Its first Conference was held in 1805. In 1935 there were in Great Britain and Ireland, 400 Ministers, 10,388 Members, 164 Chapels and 22,825 Sunday Scholars.—President, 131st Annual Conference (1936), W. Foreman, of Sunderland.

WESLEYAN REFORM UNION.

This Union is Methodist in doctrine, Congregational in government, with, if any church desires it, a paid ministry. It is the remnant of the original Reformers expelled from Wesleyan Methodism in 1849. The adherents are mainly in the Midland and Northern counties. In 1936 there were in Great Britain 30 Ministers, 478 Lay Preachers, 13,383 Members, 229 Chapels and 23,299 Sunday Scholars.—President (1936-37), Rev. N. S. Lobb, "Homeleigh," St. Pinnock, Liskeard, Cornwall; General Secretary and Conventional Editor, Rev. G. A. Metcalfe, Wesleyan Reform Book Room, 25 Change Alley, Sheffield; Hon. Sec., W. Brookes, J.P., Pitsmoor, Sheffield.

THE CALVINISTIC METHODIST CHURCH OF WALES.

THE CALVINISTIC METHODIST OR PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF WALES is the only Church of purely Welsh origin, and embraces a very large section of the Welsh-speaking population. Its form of government being Presbyterian, it is a constituent of the Pan-Presbyterian Council or Alliance. It has foreign missions in Assam, India, and in Brittany. Churches and preaching stations in Assam, 1,517.

In 1935 the body numbered—churches, 1,488; chapels and other buildings for Sunday-school branches, 1,738; ministers and preachers, 1,120; elders, 7,251; communicants, 182,221; Sunday-school teachers and officers, 20,446; Sunday-school scholars, 128,970; adherents (including communicants), 272,935. Contributions in aid of the Ministry in 1936, £193,713. For various religious purposes (including the ministry), £402,975. Receipts from various funds, £24,587.

One of the features of the Welsh churches is the Sunday-school, which is attended by adults as well as children; Welsh is the language used generally in these schools.

The English branch of the Church has 388 chapels and preaching stations, with 34,726 communicants.

On 18 July, 1933, the Calvinistic Methodist or Presbyterian Church of Wales Act, 1933, received the Royal Assent. By this measure the autonomy of the Church in matters spiritual and the establishment of a Properties Board have been secured. The Church celebrated its bicentenary in 1935.

Moderators of Synods—South Wales, Dr. G. T. Lewis, M.A., Tregaron; North Wales, Rev. R. R. Williams, M.A., Chesle.

Moderator of General Assembly, Rev. J. G. Mochwyn Hughes, M.A., Ph.D., Hirkenhead. Chief Secretary, Rev. John Roberts, M.A., 53 Richmond Road, Cardiff.

The INDEPENDENTS, or CONGREGATIONALISTS, are the most ancient community of Dissenters. In 1831 the majority of their churches were formed into the Congregational Union of England and Wales, incorporated in 1902, and in 1920 nine districts were formed, each under a Moderator. There are 51 county and other Associations in the British Isles, with 4,821 churches and preaching stations; the number of ministers in the British Isles is 2,881. Chairman of the Congregational Union of England and Wales, 1937-38, Rev. E. J. Price, M.A., B.D. Secretary, Rev. S. M. Berry, M.A., D.D. Office and Publication Department, 22 Memorial Hall, Farringdon St., E.C. 4.

The Countess of Huntingdon's Connexion, with 38 chapels and mission stations, is governed by nine trustees assisted by an annual conference of ministers and delegates. Most of the churches are affiliated with the Congregational Union. Secretary, E. Dolby Shelton. Offices, 41, Holborn Hall, Gray's Inn Road, W.C. 1.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

Founded by General William Booth (b. 1829, d. 1912) in July, 1865, in the East of London.

After the work had spread to many English cities under the name of the Christian Mission, it took, in 1878, its present name, and adopted a military plan of organisation, with a uniform and other distinctive features. From the early 'eighties it spread to many parts of the world, and at the death of its Founder was established in 59 countries. It is now (1936) established in 90 countries and colonies. Since 1890, following the publication of "In Darkest England and the Way Out," written by the first General, the Salvation Army has added Social Work of a varied and comprehensive character to the evangelistic work with which it began, and which remains the foundation and principal features of its activities.

In 1931, an Act of Parliament provided that all future Generals should be elected by the High Council of the The Salvation Army, and that the properties and assets, hitherto held by the General as Sole Trustee, should be vested in a Custodian Trustee Company.

Minor Religious Denominations.

The General Assembly of Unitarian and Free Christian Churches, has about 320 ministers, 345 chapels and other places of worship in Great Britain and Ireland. Gen. Sec., Rev. Mortimer Rowe, B.A., Essex Hall, Essex Street, W.C.2. The Brethren number about 80,000, of whom five-eighths belong to the "Open" body. The Society of Friends (Quakers) consists of 19,301 members in Great Britain, and has 408 places of worship with 22 places of worship in Ireland and 2,053 members. Central Offices (Great Britain), Friends House, Euston Rd., N.W. 1, (Ireland), 6 Eustace Street, Dublin. The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, U.S.A. (London Offices, Donington House, Norfolk St., Strand, W.C.2), has 289 branch churches and societies in Great Britain and Ireland. The Moravian Church (Offices, 32 Fetter Lane, E.C.) has in the U.K. 40 congregations and preaching stations, with 3,291 communicants. The Catholic Apostolic Church has above 80 churches, including a fine Gothic building in Gordon Square, W.C.; the New Church (Swedenborgian), 75 societies, with about 6,700 registered members; the Latter-Day Saints (Mormons) have 82 churches. The Free

The BAPTISTS are similar to the Congregationalists in all respects but one—viz., the Baptism by immersion of believers only. Like the Congregationalists, they are for the most part grouped in associations of churches, and the majority of these belong to the Baptist Union, which was formed in 1813. In the British Isles there were, in 1935, 4,164 chapels and 2,061 pastors. The members numbered 401,175, Sunday-school teachers 57,769, and Sunday scholars 437,573. President of the Baptist Union, 1936-37, Rev. H. Townsend, M.A., D.D. Secretary, Rev. M. E. Aubrey. Office, 4, Southampton Row, London, W.C. 1.

The Baptist World Alliance (founded in 1905) is a Federation of National Conventions and Unions of the Baptist communion throughout the world. Communicant membership in 70 countries totals over 12,000,000. General Sec., Rev. J. H. Rushbrooke, M.A., D.D. Office, 4, Southampton Row, W.C. 1.

The Strict and Particular Baptists (7, Bedford Road, N. 15) have about 600 places of worship in England and Wales, and 20,000 members, with Foreign mission fields.

In Dec., 1935 (Salvation Army Year Book) the number of Officers, Cadets and Employees was 35,536, Local Officers and Bandsmen and Songsters and Corps Cadets (unpaid) 269,674, languages used 86, Corps and Outposts 16,776, Social Centres and Agencies 1,607, including 380 Shelters and Cheap Food Depôts, 222 Industrial Homes, 147 Labour Bureaux, 16 ex-prisoners Homes, 291 Homes for Women and Children, 11 Farms, 170 Slum Posts, 1,083 Day and Industrial Schools. ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL, City of London, E.C. 4. (1675-1710) cost £747,660. The cross on the dome is 365 ft. above the ground level, the inner cupola 218 ft. above the floor. "Great Paul," in S.W. tower, weighs 17 tons. Organ by Father Smith (enlarged by Willis) in case carved by Grinling Gibbons (who also carved the choir stalls). Nave and transepts free; Fees to the following parts (on week-days only, 11 a.m. to 3.30 p.m. and—during Summer Time only—4.45 p.m. to 5.30 p.m.): Crypt, 6d. after 5.30 p.m. Library, whispering gallery, and stone gallery, 6d.; golden gallery, 1s.; ball, 1s.; total, 3s. Service on Sundays at 8, *10.30, *3.15, and *6.30. Weekdays at 8, *10, 1.5, *4. ("Services are choral). To the S. are remains of the Chapter House and Cloisters of "Old St. Paul's," destroyed by the Fire of London in 1666.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY, S.W. 1 (built A.D. 1050-1760).—Open on week-days at 8 a.m. Admission to Royal Chapels by fee of 6d., except on Mondays (open free); wax effigies, 6d. Norman undercroft, 3d. Transepts open on Sundays for service only, and Nave only between services. Holy Communion at 8; Morning Prayer and Holy Communion at 10.30. Evening Prayer at 3. Sermon at 6.30. Daily—Holy Communion at 8 a.m.; School Service at 9.30; choral services at 10 and 3 (except 10 on M., W., Fri., when they are "plain.") Chapel of Henry VII., Chapter House, and Cloisters; King Edward the Confessor's shrine, A.D. 1269, tombs of kings (Edward I., Edward III., Henry V., Mary, Queen of Scots, Queen Elizabeth), and many other monuments and objects of interest, especially the grave of "An Unknown Warrior" and the Warrior's Chapel at the W. end of Nave (1920), and Poets' Corner. The Coronation Chair encloses the "Stone of Scone," brought from Scotland by Edward I. in 1297. The Chapel of the Pyx is open on Tuesday and Saturday.

SOUTHWARK CATHEDRAL, south side of the Thames, near London Bridge, S.E. 1.—Mainly

The seven largest bells are:—
Great Paul (St. Paul's)	17½ tons
Big Ben (Palace of Westminster)	13½ "
Great Peter (York Minster)	13 "
Little John (Nottingham)	10½ "
Great George (Bristol Univ.)	9½ "
Tom (Christ Church, Oxford)	7½ "
Tom (Lincoln Cathedral)	5½ "

13th century. Known as St. Mary Overie previous to 1540. Open 7.30 a.m. to 6 p.m., free. Sunday services, 7.30, 8, and 11 a.m. (choral) and 6.30 p.m. (choral). Week-days: 7.30, 8, and 5 p.m. (choral). The tomb of John Gower (1330-1408) is between the Bunyan and Chaucer memorial windows, in the N. aisle; Shakespeare effigy backed by view of Southwark and Globe Theatre in S. aisle; the altar screen (erected 1520) has been restored; the tomb of Bishop Andrews (died 1626) is near screen. The Early English Lady Chapel (behind the choir), restored 1930, is the scene of the Consistory Courts of the reign of Mary (Gardiner and Bonner); and is still used for this purpose.

ALL HALLOWS, Barking-by-the-Tower, E.C. 3.—15th century church, containing a very fine series of brass effigies; Jacobean pulpit with Sussex ironwork and font cover ascribed to Grinling Gibbons; crypt of earlier church.

ALL SAINTS, Margaret Street, W. 1.—Built by Butterfield in 1859. Anglo-Catholic and noted for its music.

BOW CHURCH (ST. MARY-LE-BOW), Cheapside, E.C. 2.—Rebuilt by Wren with beautiful steeple (222 ft.). 11th century crypt and church open daily (except M.) 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Since 17th century anyone born within sound of the bells of Bow Church has been designated a "Cockney." The 11th century church was built on stone arches or "bows."

CHRIST CHURCH, GREEFRIARS, E.C. 1.—Rebuilt by Wren. The organ (repaired 1921) is by Renatus Harris, and the marble font is attributed to Grinling Gibbons. Until removal to Horsham (1902) the boys of Christ's Hospital (Blue Coat School) attended services at Christ Church and the galleries contain seats with raised benches for the "Grecians." Blue Coat School boys still attend annually on St. Matthew's Day (Sept. 21). "Spital Sermon" is preached at Christ Church at Easter.

GUARDS' CHAPEL, Wellington Barracks (Birdcage Walk, St. James's Pk., S.W. 1).—Chapel redecorated in 1878. Open to visitors on week days, 10 to 1 and 2 to 4 (Mondays and Saturdays, 10 to 12). Parade service on Sundays at 11 a.m. (tickets of admission can be obtained on application to the Chaplain, R.M. Chapel, Wellington Barracks); Holy Communion, 8 a.m.; Evening service at 6.30 p.m. (no tickets required for these services).

HOLY TRINITY, Minories, Aldgate, E. x.—(Dis-mantled and now a Sunday school). Contains a mural monument with the arms of the Earls of Dartmouth and of a member of that family (Legge) in which the arms of George Washington are quartered with those of the Legges.

MARYLEBONE CHAPEL, High Street, Marylebone, W. x (now replaced by St. Marylebone Church).—In the churchyard lie Allan Ramsay (poet), Hoyle (whist), Ferguson (astronomer), Charles Wesley (hymn writer) and his son Samuel Wesley (musician).

ST. ALBAN, Brooke Street, Holborn, E.C. x.—A brick building by Butterfield (1858). Anglo-Catholic and noted for its music; organ by Willis. Vicar, Rev. R.S. Eves. Services on Sundays: Holy Eucharist at 7 and 8; choral at 10; solemn, with sermon at 11; matins, 10.30; baptisms, and churchings at 2.15; children's service and catechising, 3; evensong at 6.30; frequent mission services. Open daily, 6.45 a.m. to 9 p.m.

ST. ANDREW UNDERSHAFT, St. Mary Axe, Leadenhall Street, E.C. 3.—An early 16th century church, contains a monument of Stow, the London antiquary, and a memorial of Holbein. The organ is by Renatus Harris, the rival of Father Smith.

ST. ANNE'S, Wardour Street, Soho, W. x.—Built in 17th century and noted for its music. Monument of William Hazlitt in the churchyard.

ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S Priory Church, Smithfield, E.C. x, the oldest parish church in London (A.D. 1123).—Rector, Rev. Canon E. S. Savage, M.A. Fine old Norman building, with tomb of the first prior, Rahere. N. transept restored and reopened in June, 1893. Crypt, Lady Chapel and Cloisters opened 1905-1928. Open daily (Sundays 3 to 5, and for services 8.30; 11.0; 6.30).

ST. BENET, Paul's Wharf, Upper Thames Street, E.C. 4.—Rebuilt by Wren, 1683; Inigo Jones, 1573-1652, and his father and mother, were buried in former church. St. Benet is the Metropolitan Welch Church.

ST. BRIDE'S CHURCH, Fleet Street, E.C. 4.—Rebuilt by Wren, with beautiful spire (226 ft.). Samuel Richardson, the novelist, is buried in the nave. In the old church Lovelace, Sackville and Wynkyn de Worde were buried, and Samuel Pepys was baptized.

ST. CLEMENT DANES, Strand W.C. z.—Rebuilt by Wren on site of earlier church assigned to the Danish settlers. The traditional burial place of Harold Harefoot (King Harold I, see p. 185) son of Canute. The organ is by Father Smith; the bells are those celebrated in the familiar nursery rhyme "Oranges and Lemons," and the air is among those played on the chimes (since 1920). Dr. Johnson's pew in gallery and monument outside E. end.

ST. DUNSTON'S IN THE EAST, Idol Lane, Lower Thames Street, E.C. 3.—Rebuilt by Wren with fine tower and spire; rest of church rebuilt, 1817-1821; contains many monuments.

ST. EDMUND, KING AND MARTYR, Lombard Street, E.C. 3.—Rebuilt by Wren, with altar at north end; organ by Renatus Harris. Restored and reopened 1919, after damage by Air Raid, July 7, 1917.

ST. ETHELBURGA'S, Bishopsgate, E.C. z. (14th and 15th century) with two "Hudson" windows.—On April 19, 1607, Henry Hudson (the navigator who gave his name to Hudson's Bay and to the Hudson River), his son John, and his ten sailors took communion in St. Ethelburga's, "purposing to goe to sea foure days after."

ST. GEORGE'S, Hanover Square, W. x (18th century; famous for fashionable marriages).

ST. GEORGE'S, Southwark, S.E.—(Rebuilt 1736) contains the tombs of Bishop Bonner (1497-1569) and Edward Cocker (1631-1675), the author of Cocker's "Arithmetick." (The expression "according to Cocker" refers to this book.)

ST. GILES'S, Cripplegate, E.C. z (14th century).—Contains the graves of John Milton, John Foxe, and Sir Martin Frobisher, the Elizabethan seaman, who attempted to discover a north-west passage to Cathay, and commanded the Primrose as vice-admiral to Drake in his expedition to the West Indies.

ST. HELEN'S, Bishopsgate, E.C. z.—The "Westminster Abbey of the City" from its numerous monuments; building dates from 13th century. Contains a Shakespeare memorial window presented by Mr. William Prentice, an American. In St. Helen's Place the foundations of an earlier church were uncovered during rebuilding operations in 1922.

ST. JAMES'S, Piccadilly, W. x.—Built by Wren, with font and wood carvings by Grinling Gibbons. Lord Chesterfield and Lord Chatham were baptized in St. James's.

ST. JOHN'S, St. John's Square, Clerkenwell, E.C. x.—Built in early 18th century, includes part of the ancient priory of St. John (12th century crypt).

ST. KATHERINE CREE, Leadenhall Street, E.C. 3. Rebuilt in early 17th century and ascribed to Inigo Jones. Contains a catherine wheel E. window, an organ by Father Smith, Archbishop Laud's Prayer Book and Bible, and a monument of Sir Nicholas Throgmorton. The "Lion" sermon is preached here annually before the Lord Mayor and Corporation of London to commemorate the escape of a Lord Mayor (Sir John Gayer) from a lion in Algeria (Oct. 16, 1630).

ST. MAGNUS THE MARTYR, Lower Thames Street, E.C. 3.—Rebuilt by Wren, with steeple (185 feet) and lantern of great beauty, contains the tomb of Miles Coverdale (1488-1568), translator of the Bible, who was rector of St. Magnus (1564-1566) and Bishop of Exeter (1551-1557).

ST. MARGARET, Lothbury, E.C. z.—Rebuilt by Wren, contains Grinling Gibbons carvings (font, chancel screen, and pulpit).

ST. MARGARETS, Westminster, S.W. x.—Founded 11th or 12th century; buildings date from 15th century, with frequent "restorations." The parish church of the Dominions beyond the Seas.

ST. MARGARET PATTERNS, Rood Lane, East-cheap, E.C. 3.—Rebuilt by Wren, with a leaden spire, contains two canopied pews and other curious survivals and relics.

ST. MARTIN IN THE FIELDS, Trafalgar Square, S.W. x.—Built by James Gibbs (1721-6) in place of earlier church on same site. In register of burials are the names of Nell Gwynne (1687), Farquhar the dramatist (1707), and Roubiliac the sculptor (1672). A bust of James Gibbs by Rysbrack is in the church.

ST. MARY, Aldermanbury, E.C. z.—Rebuilt by Wren, contains the tomb of Judge Jeffreys and a marble monument to Lieutenant John Smith, "drowned off Staten Island in 1782." John Heminge and Henry Condell (Shakespeare's editors) were buried in the older church.

ST. MARY WOOLNETH (above the City and South London Tube Station), King William Street and Lombard Street, E.C. 3.—Built by Hawksmoor early 18th century, organ by Father Smith.

ST. MICHAEL PATERNOSTER ROYAL, College Hill, Upper Thames Street, E.C. 4.—Rebuilt after the Fire by Strong (a pupil of Wren's), the former church contained the tomb of "Dick Whittington" and a Grinling Gibbons altarpiece.

ST. OLAVE, Hart Street, Mark Lane, E.C. 3.—A 15th century church, which survived the Fire of London, contains the tombs of Samuel Pepys and his wife, and a monument of John Watts, "President of the Council of New York"; also a memorial (formerly in All Hallows Staining) to Monkhous Davison and Abram Newman, the exporters of the chests of tea which were thrown into Boston Harbour, Dec. 16, 1773.

ST. PAUL'S, Covent Garden, W.C. 2.—Built by Inigo Jones. The tombstones round the exterior of the church record the burial places of Samuel Butler (Hudibras), Sir Peter Lely (Painter), Webster (Dramatist), Grinling Gibbons (Wood Carver), Dr. Arne ("Rule, Britannia"), and Macklin (Actor); Ellen Terry memorial.

ST. PETER'S, Cornhill, E.C. 3.—Rebuilt by Wren, contains a carved choir screen also ascribed to him. The organ is by Father Smith.

ST. SEPULCHRE, Holborn, E.C. 1.—Part of this church escaped the Fire (see footnote, col. 2). The organ is by Renatus Harris, in a case attributed to Grinling Gibbons. Memorials in the church to Roger Ascham (Queen Elizabeth's tutor) and Capt. John Smith, "sometime Governor of Virginia and Admiral of New England."

ST. STEPHEN'S, Coleman Street, E.C. 2.—The Rev. John Davenport, who, with other refugees, landed at Boston in 1637, and founded the colony of New Haven, Connecticut, in the following year, was vicar of this church from 1624 to 1633.

ST. STEPHEN'S, Walbrook, E.C. 4.—Rebuilt by Wren, contains the tomb of Sir John Vanbrugh (architect and dramatist).

SAVOY CHAPEL, Savoy Street, Strand, W.C. 2 (rebuilt about 1505, on site of 13th century Savoy Palace, restored after disastrous fire in 1864).—Graves of Gavin Douglas and George Wither, and memorials of D'Oyley Carte, Laurence Irving.

ST. SWITHIN'S CHURCH, St. Swithin's Lane, E.C. 4 (rebuilt by Wren after the Fire of London, but since modernised).—Contains embedded in its external (S.) wall London Stone (mentioned in King Henry VI., Pt. II.), the milliarium from which in Roman times the miles were measured.

THE TEMPLE CHURCH, south side of Fleet Street, E.C. 4.—The largest of the five remaining round churches in England, the other four being the Churches of the Holy Sepulchre at Cambridge, Northampton, Little Mapplestead (Essex), and Ludlow. The Norman church, restored 1840-1845, is open to the public on week-days, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 2 p.m. to 5 p.m., Monday excepted. Organ by Father Smith. Church service (famous music) on Sunday at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. Service is discontinued in Aug. and Sept. Master of the Temple, Rev. Canon Harold Anson, M.A.

WREN'S CHURCHES.—Many of the Churches in the City of London were destroyed by the Fire of London (Sept. 2-6, 1666). Fifty of these were rebuilt by Wren at a total cost of £263,786 ros. 4½d., the most expensive being St. Mary-le-Bow, £15,460 6s. 8½d. (£7,388 8s. 7½d. for "Bow Tower"), and the cheapest, St. Vedast-Foster (£1,853 15s. 6d.).

Educational Statistics.

I.—ELEMENTARY

Statutes require parents in England and Wales to cause their children to receive efficient elementary instruction or to attend school from 5 to 14 years of age; in Scotland, to provide efficient education up to 15 years; in Ireland, to cause their children to attend school from 6 to 14 years.

In England and Wales (1934) there were 5,843,000 children between the ages of 5 and 14, the average in full-time attendance at grant-aided Schools and Colleges being 5,495,000 (94·0 per cent); and 1,870,000 children between the ages of 14 and 17, the average attendance being 426,000 (22·8 per cent); in addition, 102,000 over 17 years were in full-time attendance at grant-aided institutions. There were also 52,412 children in full-time attendance at 619 schools for blind, deaf, defective and epileptic children. There were (1934) 170,908 full-time teachers in regular employment (27·5 men and 72·5 women), of whom 76·4 were certificated and 5·7 graduate certificated; the average salary of men teachers being £295 per annum and of women teachers £229 per annum.

In Scotland (1934) there were 2,909 primary schools with average attendance of 607,246. There were (1934) 19,402 full-time teachers (22·7 men and 77·3 women), of whom 99·9 were certificated and 29·8 graduate certificated.

Elementary school education includes teaching in practical matters—needlework, drawing, gardening, handicrafts, cookery, &c.—and the sections upon health, medical attendance, physical training, evening play centres, home study, future employment, &c., show that the schools are valuable agencies in child-welfare generally.

II.—EDUCATION BEYOND ELEMENTARY.

Secondary.

The aims, methods, and instructions are in marked contrast to the comparative simplicity of those in Elementary Education: In all the four countries it is now felt that although technical instruction was the first branch to be promoted by statute, undifferentiated 4-year secondary (intermediate) courses should be gone through before pupils proceed to specialisation for industrial, commercial, &c., employments.

In England and Wales (1934) the number of Secondary schools recognised for grant was 1,381, with 23,024 full-time teachers (51·2 men, 48·8 women). The Authorities aim at securing graduate teachers as far as possible (77·1 in 1934), the average salary of men teachers being £383 and of women £204 per annum. The full-time pupils numbered 448,421 (53·1 boys, 46·9 girls). Of these, 74·8 were ex-public elementary school pupils, and 48·2 of the total were non-fee paying pupils. The payments per pupil in 1934 were £25 18s., the receipts per pupil being £18 2s. from Exchequer and Rates, £6 16s. from fees, and £1 from other sources; the average fee paid by fee-paying pupils being £12 16s. Many of the secondary schools are endowed or under trusts, and their trust incomes and property form a considerable asset in secondary school finance. The system in Wales is much the same as in England, though the schools are under earlier statutory provisions, and are called "Intermediate" in many cases. In Wales there is a Central Welsh Board.

In Scotland there are Preparatory and Secondary Departments under the same Commissioners and Local Authorities as the Elementary schools. In 1934 there were 251 Secondary Schools with 72,279 full-time pupils in primary departments and 86,939 in secondary departments. The full-time teachers number 6,714 (42·0 men and 58·0 women) of whom 64·1 were graduates and all were certificated.

Technical.

Technical Education in England and Wales is provided in Evening and similar schools and in Day Technical Classes and Technical Institution Courses (mostly controlled by Local Authorities). State grants are paid on the number of students, of whom about one-half are under 17 years of age. The average attendance of a student is about 50 hours per annum. There are also Teachers' Courses, Tutorial Classes, and also Schools of Art, Branch Schools of Art, and Art Classes. In Scotland Technical Education is provided in like manner.

Training.

Training is provided by the State for Elementary School Teachers, of whom 50 per cent. have been trained in Colleges having nearly 13,000 places. Progress is being made towards providing for the Training of Teachers for Secondary Schools, a small annual State grant being made for the purpose; in Scotland all candidates for employment as teachers must undertake a course of training of at least one year in teaching.

Universities.

Many of these institutions now receive annual State grants paid by the Treasury on the advice of the University Grants Committee. Substantial grants are also received from local Education Authorities in England and Wales. State grants to Irish Institutions were transferred from the Treasury to the Irish Government as from April, 1922.

In 1934-35 the Professors and Undergraduates were approximately as under:—

	Professors, &c.	Under- graduates.
Universities.
England (11) .....	4,259	39,581
Wales (1) .....	375	3,540
Scotland (4) .....	1,050	11,156

EXPENDITURE ON EDUCATION, 1935-36.

The combined total of expenditure of Local Education Authorities from the Exchequer and from the rates in 1935-36 is estimated at £87,774,742, as against £82,183,000 in 1934-35. The net expenditure falling on the Rates was estimated at £42,279,790, as against £40,095,000 in 1934-35. The grants payable by the Exchequer to Local Education Authorities are estimated at £45,494,952, as against £37,697,000 in 1934-35.

The assumed cost per child for Elementary Education in 1935-36 is estimated at £14 14s. 8d., as against £12 13s. 7d. in 1934-35. The average attendance estimated for 1935-36 is 4,670,000, as against an estimate of 4,850,000 for 1934-35. The grants to Universities is £2,290,000, as against £1,920,000 in 1934-35.

THE UNIVERSITY OF LONDON, W.O.1, 1836, 1900 and 1929.

THE year 1936 has been notable for two events in the history of the University, the celebration of its first centenary, and the removal of the University Administrative Offices from South Kensington (where they had been provided by the Government with accommodation in the Imperial Institute) to the new University Buildings, Bloomsbury, the foundation stone for which was laid in 1933.

The centenary was celebrated during the week June 27 to July 3. Other universities and learned societies, at home and abroad, were represented to the number of 166, and many hundreds of people connected with the University were invited to one or more of the functions. The events included a service at St. Paul's Cathedral, attended by the Lord Mayor in State, a lunch given by the Corporation of the City of London at Guildhall, a ball by the Worshipful Company of Drapers, a reception by His Majesty's Government at Lancaster House, and another by the London County Council at County Hall. Lunches, garden parties, and soirées were given by many of the colleges, with opportunity for the guests to see the work of the colleges. Delegates were received at the University by the Chancellor, and Honorary Degrees were conferred.

Twice since it was founded a hundred years ago the University has been reconstituted. In 1900 it became a teaching University as well as an examining University: the teaching being carried out at various colleges—general, medical, theological, post-graduate, etc. There are now about 40 of these "Schools of the University." In 1929 the chief change was the creation of a University "Court" to have supreme control of university finance as the Senate has control of its educational policy. It is the Court which now divides among the colleges the grants received, as annual block grants for university education in London, from the Treasury through the University Grants Committee, and the grants from the London County Council. These grants are at present £621,000 a year from the Treasury and £129,000 from the London County Council. Home Counties and County Boroughs contribute about £13,000 a year in recognition of the tuition given by colleges to students from the Home Counties. The London County Council also gives substantial capital grants.

In addition to the aforementioned grants for university work generally, the Court, under the chairmanship of Lord Macmillan, has been raising funds for the University's new building in Bloomsbury, a site for which, immediately to the north of the British Museum, was bought in 1927 by means of a gift of £400,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation, supplemented by part of a grant of £212,500 from the Treasury.

Towards the cost of building developments capital grants to an amount of £450,000 have been voted by the London County Council; the Corporation of the City of London have, subject to certain conditions, made a grant of £100,000 towards the cost of the Ceremonial Hall; and, for the same purpose, grants from the City Companies, amounting at present to over £74,000 in all, have been received or promised. The Goldsmiths' Company have given £50,000, and the Middlesex County Council have promised £100,000, spread over 10 years, towards the cost of the University library. Mr. Samuel Courtauld has generously provided for the cost of the building for the Courtauld Institute of Art, and the Czechoslovak Government have promised a substantial sum for a permanent home for the Institute of Slavonic Studies. The Rhodes Trustees have promised £5,000 for a new Students' Union.

Grants spread over a term of years have been promised, for general purposes, by the following local authorities: Surrey, £50,000; Kent, £40,000; Essex, £33,000; Hertfordshire, £10,000; Croydon, £10,000; Buckinghamshire, £5,000; West Ham, £2,500; East Ham, £1,000.

A number of business firms, banks and private individuals have made generous contributions, amounting in all to over £134,000.

"Generous donors" are still required for individual buildings, e.g., the Institute of Historical Research, Students' Union, etc.

The Court in 1931 appointed Mr. Charles Holden, F.R.I.B.A., the architect for the new building, and in June, 1933, His Majesty King George V., accompanied by Queen Mary, laid the foundation stone.

The buildings are designed to house the administrative offices and library at the south end, and northward of this block will be built by degrees the Institute of Education, Birkbeck College, the Institute of Historical Research, the School of Oriental Studies, the School of Slavonic Studies, the Courtauld Institute and the Students' Union. The buildings are designed with a tower to dominate the whole.

The administrative offices were moved to their new quarters in August. The library will be moved, probably early in 1937.

The accommodation at South Kensington will continue to be used for examinations.

DATES OF SESSION, 1936-37.

1st Term.—October 8 to December 17, 1936.

2nd Term.—January 12 to March 23, 1937.

3rd Term.—April 27 to June 29, 1937.

During the year 1935 the total admissions amounted to 12,419; the number of internal Students reading for Degrees and Diplomas in July, 1936, was 13,579.

COMMERCIAL EDUCATION.

Commercial Students are well served by a number of independent schools or colleges in which class or private tuition is given or coaching undertaken by correspondence. Schools of Commerce can be found in practically every town; Book-keeping, Office Routine, Shorthand, Languages, are the usual subjects. Nearly every Education Authority has its system of Evening Institutes (Session—September to Easter and sometimes July) in which tuition may be obtained in most Commercial and Technical subjects. Classes are either free or subject to nominal charges.

The London County Council has Junior and Senior Evening Institutes to serve every district in the Metropolis. A child joining direct from an elementary day school and attending regularly can obtain all evening training from 6d.

upwards. A postcard addressed to the L.C.C. making a request for details will be promptly answered.

In addition to the Secondary Schools in London, at which various stages of commercial training are included in the general subjects, the L.C.C. has a series of voluntary and low fee Day Continuation Schools at which commercial and trade subjects are taught to children over 14 years. The L.C.C. has also several Central Schools at which free training is given to children 12-17 years in general education with either a commercial or industrial bias.

THE UNION JACK CLUB.

This is one of our great National Institutions, where Sailors, Soldiers and Airmen can go when on leave or passing through London; a place where they may obtain at moderate charges good meals and comfortable bedrooms and where they find the usual amenities of a club, including Library and Writing Room, Billiard Room, Baths, Barber's Shop, and also a Club Shop in which articles of everyday use and almost everything that Service men require may be purchased. The Club is open throughout the day and night.

The Union Jack Club was erected by public subscription as a National Memorial to those who had fallen in the South African War, and other campaigns, and was opened on July 1st, 1907, by His late Majesty King Edward VII. Membership is open to those below the rank of Officer who are serving on the Active List of the Regular Forces, honorary membership being extended to the Colonial Permanent Forces and to the Navies, Armies and Air Forces of Foreign Powers visiting England. A limited number of ex-Service Warrant Officers, Petty Officers, N.C. officers and men may also be elected members.

The Club is managed by a Council and a General Committee, which includes representatives of the members.

A considerable extension of the Club with funds raised in all parts of the Empire to commemorate the services of our gallant fighting forces in the Great War of 1914-18 and to provide increased accommodation was completed in 1923.

Since 1926 the Council has been enabled, through the anonymous gift of one of its members, still further to enlarge the premises, bringing the number of beds available to 816, as against the original 208 when the Club opened.

THE UNION JACK HOSTEL.

Exton Street, Waterloo Road, S.E. 1.
 Tel.: Waterloo 4087. Opened June, 1913.
Vice-President: Sir Herbert J. Creedy, G.C.B., K.C.V.O.

Secretary: J. R. Hayward, M.V.O., M.B.E.
Warden: Miss B. R. Morris.

The Hostel provides lodging and accommodation for the wives and children (with or without their husbands and fathers) of members and ex-members of the Naval and Military Forces of the Crown, below the rank of Officer. It is managed by a Council, and though run closely in connexion with the Union Jack Club, the organisation and finances of the two institutions are quite separate from one another.

THE HEADMASTERS' CONFERENCE.—Chairman, F. B. Malim (Wellington); Sec., L. W. Taylor, M.A., 29 Gordon Square, W.C. 2.—In considering what schools shall be included or removed the Committee have regard to the Governing Scheme or other instrument under which the School is administered, and if the School is maintained or aided by a Local Education Authority (a) how the Governing Body is constituted, (b) to what extent by right or in practice the Governing Body acts independently of the Local Education Authority in directing general policy or administering disposable funds, to the numbers in the School and, in the case of Schools in Great Britain and Ireland, the number of resident Undergraduates of British Universities educated at the School. The Committee may also take into account the proportion of boys in the School who, having passed the School Certificate or other equivalent Examination, are continuing their studies beyond that stage. The number of members of the Conference is limited to 150. The Committee keep a list of schools whose Headmasters are approved as eligible for membership. The number of schools on the list of the Conference in 1935 was 216, including 26 Oversea Dominions Schools. The annual meetings are, as a rule, held in December, alternately, at some school represented on the Conference, or at London or some other University town.

Secondary Schools.

A Secondary School, as defined by the Board of Education, is a school for pupils who intend to remain for at least four years, and up to at least the age of 16. It must provide a progressive course of general education of a kind and amount suited to an age-range at least from 12 to 17. The Board of Education issues annually a list of Secondary Schools recognized by the Board of Education as efficient, with the full official name of the school, the place where it is situated, the date of recognition, the fees payable and (in many cases) the examinations taken. A similar list is published for Wales and (with less detail) for Scotland. The list, in the case of England and Wales alone, occupies over 130 pages.

The Trades Union Congress was formed in 1868 by the voluntary association of a number of trade unions. Its original membership of less than 120,000 has grown until to-day it has a membership of nearly three and a half million. It formulates through its governing body (the General Council) the main policies of Trade Unionism, and takes part in consultations with other leading economic and industrial bodies, and with Government departments, on topics affecting the lives of wage earners and salaried employees. With the Labour Party it maintains contact by means of the National Council of Labour, on which the General Council, the Executive of the Labour Party and the Executive of the Parliamentary Labour Party have representation. The T.U.C. is affiliated to the International Federation of Trade Unions, and has a seat on the governing body of the International Labour Office of the League of Nations. Its General Council is elected annually by ballot of the delegates attending Congress, exercising voting power on the basis of the membership of their unions.

THE BOYS' BRIGADE. (Incorporated.)

The senior boys' organisation; founded in 1883 by the late Sir William A. Smith. The object of the Brigade is attained by a combination of discipline and religious training. Every Company is connected with a Church or other Christian body. The total strength is nearly 120,000 Officers and Boys, with 55,000 juniors in The Life Boys.—Abbey House, Westminster, S.W. 1. Brigade Secretary, George Stanley Smith, M.B.E., M.C.

CHURCH LADS' BRIGADE.

An organisation especially valuable for helping a parish to keep the elder lads to their religious duties; was founded in 1892, and uses drill and physical training with religious instruction for character training. There are over one thousand companies throughout the Empire.—

ADELPHI, Strand, W.C. 2.—Adelphi Terrace and district commemorate the four architect brothers, James, John, Robert and William ADAM, who laid out the district (formerly Durham House) at the close of the 18th century. James, John, Robert, and William Streets (the last named is now Durham Street) commemorate these founders of the Adam style of architecture and internal decoration. In the neighbourhood of the Adelphi was York House, built by the Duke of Buckingham in 1625 (the Water Gate of which still stands in Embankment Gardens, q.v.), the commemorative streets being Charles Street, Villiers Street, Duke Street, Of Lane, Buckingham Street (Of Lane is now "York Place").

AUSTRALIA HOUSE, Strand, W.C. 2.—A handsome and imposing building, erected 1911-4 by the Commonwealth of Australia as the offices of the High Commissioner for the Commonwealth. The Agents-General for VICTORIA and TASMANIA are accommodated in Australia House. NEW SOUTH WALES, QUEENSLAND and WESTERN AUSTRALIA have separate offices in the Strand; SOUTH AUSTRALIA at B. I. House, Marble Arch.

BANK OF ENGLAND, Threadneedle Street, E.C. 2. (Not open to sightseers).—The Bank of England was founded in 1694, and, although a joint stock bank, has always been closely connected with the Government. The present building (now being rebuilt) was erected from the designs of Sampson (1734) and Sir John Soane (1788). A "Bank Guard" is furnished every evening by the Battalion of Foot Guards on duty.

BETHLEM ROYAL HOSPITAL.—The site in Lambeth, formerly occupied by this institution, will be laid out as a public park under the supervision of the L.C.C., through the generosity of Lord Rothermere.

BELGRAVIA.—A fashionable district of London west of Buckingham Palace and south of Hyde Park, extends from Grosvenor Place on the east to Sloane Street on the west, and includes Belgrave, Chester, Lowndes, and Eaton Squares and Cadogan Place.

BRIDGES.—The bridges over the Thames (from East to West) are the Tower Bridge (built by the Corporation of London and opened in 1894), with its pascules, affording a fine view of the Pool and of the metropolis; London Bridge (opened after rebuilding in 1831, and until 1750 the only bridge over the Thames in London), with the Monument (q.v.) and Fishmongers' Hall; Southwark Bridge (opened in 1819, and rebuilt by the Corporation of London, 1921); St. Paul's Bridge (proposed to be built by the Corporation of London); Blackfriars Bridge (opened in 1869 and widened by the Corporation of London in 1908); width, 105ft.; Waterloo Bridge (Rennie), width, 42ft. 6ins. (opened in 1817) commanding a fine view of western London (now being rebuilt by L.C.C.); Hungerford Bridge (for pedestrians only); Westminster Bridge (built in 1750 and then presenting a view that inspired Wordsworth's sonnet; rebuilt and reopened in 1862; width, 84ft.) with Thorneycroft's Boudicca at the north-western end; this bridge leads from Westminster Abbey and the Houses of Parliament to the County Hall (q.v.) and St. Thomas's Hospital; Lambeth Bridge (rebuilt by L.C.C. and opened in 1932) leading from Lambeth Palace to Millbank; Vauxhall Bridge (rebuilt in 1906) leading to Kennington Oval; Victoria Bridge (1858); Chelsea Bridge, leading from Chelsea Hospital to Battersea Park reconstructed and widened), 1937, and Albert Bridge (1873);

Battersea Bridge (opened in 1890); Wandsworth Bridge (opened in 1873); Putney Bridge (opened in 1886 and widened in 1933) where the Oxford and Cambridge Boat Race is started for Mortlake; Hammersmith Bridge (rebuilt 1887); Barnes Bridge (for pedestrians only, 1933); Chiswick Bridge (opened in 1933); King Edward VII. Bridge, Kew (rebuilt in 1902), leading to the Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew; Twickenham Lock Bridge; Twickenham Bridge (opened in 1933); Richmond Bridge (opened in 1777); Kingston Bridge and Hampton Court Bridge (rebuilt, 1933).

BUCKINGHAM PALACE, St. James's Park, S.W. 1. (Not open to the public).—Was purchased by King George III. in 1762 from the Duke of Buckingham, and was altered by Nash for King George IV. The London home of the Sovereign since Queen Victoria's accession in 1837. Re-fronted in stone (part of the Queen Victoria Memorial) by Sir Aston Webb in 1913.

BURLINGTON HOUSE, Piccadilly, W. 1.—Occupied by Royal Academy of Arts (for annual exhibitions, see "Picture Galleries"); British Academy; Royal, Antiquarian, Astronomical, Linnean, Chemical and Geological Societies.

CANADA HOUSE, Trafalgar Square, S.W. 1.—A conspicuous building on the Western side of the Square, in which are the Offices of the High Commissioner of the Dominion and Officials dealing with Trade, Emigration, &c. Designed by Sir Robert Smirke in 1820, it was renovated and embellished when vacated by the Union Club. Certain interior features of the original building are preserved, and the spacious, richly furnished room now occupied by the High Commissioner is much admired. Surrounded by Offices of Canadian Banks, Steamship, Railway and other Dominion Companies, the Canadian Building is one of London's new landmarks. It was opened by H.M. King George V. in June, 1925.

CANONBURY TOWER, Canonbury, N. 1.—A social club for tenants of the Marquess of Northampton's estates in the vicinity (in the remains of the 16th century house of the Priors of St. Bartholomew). Contains the "Spencer" and "Compton" oak-panelled rooms. Other relics of Canonbury House can be seen in the vicinity.

CEMETERIES.—For Bunhill Fields, see p. 445. In Kensal Green Cemetery, North Kensington, W. 10 (70 acres), are tombs of W. M. Thackeray, Anthony Trollope, Sydney Smith, Shirley Brooks, Wilkie Collins, Tom Hood, W. Mulready, George Cruikshank, John Leech, Leigh Hunt, Brunel ("Great Eastern"), Ross (Arctic), Charles Kemble and Charles Matthews (Actors), Robert Owen (Social Reformer). In Highgate Cemetery, N. 6, are the tombs of George Eliot, Herbert Spencer, Michael Faraday, and G. J. Holyoake. In Abney Park Cemetery, Stoke Newington, N. 16, are the tomb of General Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, and memorials to many Non-conformist Divines. In the South Metropolitan Cemetery, Norwood, S.E. 27, are the tombs of C. H. Spurgeon, Lord Alverstone, Douglas Jerrold, John Belcher, R.A., Theodore Watts-Dunton, Dr. Moffat (Missionary), Sir H. Bessemer, Sir H. Maxim, Sir J. Barnby, Sir A. Manns, and J. Whitaker, F.S.A. (Whitaker's Almanack). CREMATORIA.—14ford (City of London); Norwood; Hendon; Streatham Park; and Golden's Green (12 acres), adjoining Hampstead Heath, with "Garden of Rest" and memorials to famous men and women. Since cremation was first instituted (March 26, 1885) there have been over 100,000 cremations in Great Britain. Of these, 37,000 have been carried out at Golder's Green, 10,000 at Woking, 11,000 at Manchester, and the remainder at 31 different centres in Great Britain.

CENOTAPH, Whitehall, S. W. 1.—(Literally "empty tomb"). Monument erected "To the Glorious Dead," as a memorial to all ranks of the Sea, Land and Air Forces who gave their lives in the service of the Empire during the Great War. Erected as a temporary memorial in 1919 and replaced by a permanent structure in 1920. Unveiled by the King-Emperor on Armistice Day, 1920.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT, Old Bailey, E. C. 4.—Built by Corporation of London, 1902-1907. Fine mural paintings by Sir W. B. Richmond and Professor Gerald Moira in Great Hall. To be viewed on Tuesdays and Fridays (from 10 to 4) when sittings of the Court so permit. Application to be made to the Keeper.

CHARTERHOUSE, in Charterhouse Square, E. C. 1 (Master, Rev. E. St. G. Schomberg, M.A.), a Carthusian monastery until 1535, purchased from the Earl of Suffolk in 1611 by Thomas Sutton and devoted by him as a home for aged gentlemen (65). "Brothers of Charterhouse," and Charterhouse School (removed to Godalming 1872). The buildings are partly 14th (but mainly 16th) century. Chapel, great hall, and staircase. Mon., Wed., and Fridays, admission 1s., at 3 p.m. Service on Sundays at 8 and 11 a.m., and on weekdays at 9.30 a.m. and 6 p.m. Buildings not shown on Sundays. Roger Williams, the founder and governor of Rhode Island, U.S.A., was on June 25, 1621, elected a scholar of Sutton's Hospital. The Brothers assembling in chapel has been painted by Herkomer (Tate Gallery). For a famous description of "Greyfriars School" (Charterhouse), see "The Newcomes" (W. M. Thackeray), Chapters 75 and 80.

CHELSEA, S. W. 3.—A western metropolitan borough (see p. 713), with a fine embankment between Victoria and Battersea bridges over the Thames (see p. 516). "Chelsea Old Church" (All Saints) contains memorials of Sir Thomas More, Sir Hans Sloane, Shadwell (poet laureate), Woodfall (printer of "Jupius"), and many others. Steele, Smollett, Turner, Rossetti, Whistler, Leigh Hunt and Carlyle (see p. 249) lived there. The borough was formerly famous for brims and porcelain.

CHELSEA PHYSIC GARDEN, Royal Hospital Road, S. W. 3.—A garden of general botanical research, established in latter part of 17th century by the Society of Apothecaries, occupies site presented in 1772 by Sir Hans Sloane. Transferred in 1809 to the Trustees of the London Parochial Charities. Tickets of admission for approved students obtainable from the Clerk to the Trustees, 3, Temple Gardens, E. C. 4.

CHELSEA ROYAL HOSPITAL (founded by Charles II. in 1682, and built by Wren; opened in 1694). Royal Hospital Road, Chelsea, S. W. 3, for Old and Disabled Soldiers. Flags and other War Trophies in the Great Hall. Accommodation for 558 In-Pensioners. The extensive grounds include the former Ranelagh Gardens. Open daily 10 to 12 and 2 to 4, and on Sunday afternoons. Governor, General Sir Walter P. Braithwaite, G.C.B. Lieut.-Governor and Secretary, Maj.-Gen. O. H. Delano-Orborne, O.B., C.M.G.

COLLEGE OF ARMS OR HERALDS' COLLEGE (see also p. 297). Queen Victoria Street, E. C. 4.—The Royal "Officers of Arms" ("Kings, Heralds and Pursuivants of Arms") were incorporated by Richard III., and acquired "Derby House" on the site of the present College building from Queen Mary I. The building now in use was rebuilt after the Fire of London. The Powers vested by the Crown in the Earl Marshal (The Duke of Norfolk) with regard to all State ceremonial, and the granting and use of Armorial Bearings, are exercised by this College. Enquiry may be made to the Officer on duty in the Public Office every day between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Saturdays, 10 to 1.

COUNTY HALL, Westminster Bridge S. E. 1.—The Headquarters of the London County Council (see pp. 719-722) built on the Pedlar's Acre, Lambeth, from the designs of Ralph Knott, with a river façade of 750 ft. Cost about £4,000,000. The building contains a council chamber, conference hall, some 28 committee and conference rooms, education library, etc., in addition to office accommodation. Foundation stone laid by His late Majesty King George V. March 9, 1912, and the ceremonial opening of the first three sections of the building by His late Majesty July 17, 1922. The fourth (or final) section opened January 27, 1933. The Council, when in session, meets in public in the council chamber every Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. The times for public inspection of the building are, on Saturdays from 10.30 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1.30 p.m. to 3.30 p.m.; and on Easter Monday, Whit Monday and August Bank Holiday, from 10.30 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1.30 p.m. to 4.30 p.m. Admission free.

CUSTOM HOUSE, Lower Thames Street, E. C. 3.—Built early in 16th century, with a wide quay on Thames. The Long Room is 190 ft. long.

DEAN WACE HOUSE, 7 Wine Office Court, E. C. 4.
DOWNING STREET, Whitehall, S. W. 1.—Named after a politician of Charles II.'s reign. No. 10 is the official town residence of the Prime Minister, No. 11 of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and No. 12 is the office of the Government Whips.

ELY PLACE, Holborn Circus, E. C. 1.—The site of the London house of former Bishops of Ely. The 14th century chapel, now St. Etheldreda's (R.C.) Church, is open daily until dusk; a charge of 3d. is made for admission to the crypt.

EMPIRE MEMORIAL HOSTEL, 747 Commercial Road, Limehouse, E. 14 (branch of British Sailors Society).—A memorial erected by the Women of the Empire to Men of both Sea Services. The hostel contains 300 beds (separate cabins), a Restaurant and Recreation-rooms; Billiard-room; Concert Hall, Chapel, &c. Open daily, including Sunday, free; night porter in attendance. General Secretary, Herbert E. Barker.

FULHAM PALACE, Bishop's Avenue, Fulham, S. W. 6.—The courtyard is 15th century, remainder 18th century. Residence of the Bishop of London. Grounds of 37 acres, surrounded by ancient moat. Previous application to visit should be made to the Bishop's Secretary.

GUILDHALL, King Street, City, E. C. 2 (dating from early 15th century).—Grand Civic Hall, where Sovereigns and Princes are entertained, Freedoms conferred, and the great City functions take place; Offices and Council Chamber of the Corporation of the City of London (see p. 684). Library, Museum and Art Gallery adjoin. Admission free. The Library (with Newspaper Room adjoining) contains Plan of London in 1570; Deed of Sale with Shakespeare's signature; first, second and fourth folios of Shakespeare's plays, &c. is open free on week days, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Keeper of the Guildhall, G. W. Bodman (1922).

HOLBORN VIADUCT, E.C. 1.—was constructed in 1867-1869 by order of the Corporation of the City of London from the designs of William Haywood, to carry the roadway over the valley of the Fleet river (the "Hole-bourne"). The Holborn Valley Viaduct is 1,400 ft. long, and is mainly of brick with iron bridges over Farringdon Street and Shoe Lane. The cost (£1,571,000) was borne by the City of London, the loan raised for the purposes of the improvement being secured on the Coal and Corn dues; these dues were abolished in 1889 and 1902, and the loan is being otherwise discharged.

HONOURABLE ARTILLERY COMPANY'S HEAD-QUARTERS, City Road, E.C. 1.—The H.A.C. (Sec., Maj. G. G. Walker, D.S.O., M.C.) received its charter of incorporation from Henry VIII. in 1537, and has occupied its present ground since 1641. Four of its members—Duncan, Keayne, Sedgwick, and Spencer—who emigrated in the seventeenth century, founded in 1638 the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, U.S.A. American soldiers and sailors may view the armoury, on request.

HORSE GUARDS, Whitehall, S.W. 1.—Archway and offices built about 1750. The mounting of the guard (Life Guards, or Royal Horse Guards) at 11 a.m. (10 a.m. on Sundays) and the dismounting at 4 p.m. are picturesque ceremonies. Only those on the Lord Chamberlain's list may drive through the gates and archway into Horse Guards Parade, (300,000 sq. ft.), where the Colour is "trooped" on the King's Birthday. (Trafalgar Square is 168,850 sq. ft.; Parliament Square, 136,900 sq. ft.; Leicester Square, 100,000 sq. ft.).

HOUSES OF PARLIAMENT, Westminster, S.W. 1.—The "Palace of Westminster" was re-built in 1840-1850 from the designs of Sir Charles Barry and Augustus Pugin, at a cost of £2,108,000.—Open to visitors on Saturdays, and on Easter and Whit Mondays and Tuesdays and August Bank Holiday if neither House be sitting. Admission at the Norman Porch, House of Lords, on the above-mentioned days, from 10 a.m. to 3.30 p.m. Admission to the Strangers' Gallery of the House of Commons, during session, by member's order, or order obtained on personal application at the Admission Order Office in St. Stephen's Hall. The Victoria Tower (House of Lords) is 336 ft. high, and when Parliament is sitting the Union Jack flies by day from its flagstaff. The Clock Tower of the House of Commons is 330 ft. high and contains "Big Ben" (13½ tons), named after Sir Benjamin Hall, First Commissioner of Works when it was hung in 1856. A light is displayed from this tower when Parliament is sitting.

INDIA HOUSE, ALDWYCH, W.C. 2.—An impressive building designed by Sir Herbert Baker and opened by H.M. the King in July, 1930, housing the High Commissioner for India and certain of his departments. Contains Exhibition Rooms, in which are displayed many interesting articles of Indian arts and crafts, a modern Library of books on matters Indian, and many rooms panelled in beautiful Indian timbers, a further noteworthy feature being the fine mural decorations in the domed entrance hall painted by Indian artists in 1930-33. Among the Departments are that of the Indian Trade Commissioner, who is ready to advise on any matter of Indo-European trade, and the Public Department, from which any official Indian publication may be purchased.

INNS OF COURT.—The Inner and Middle Temple, S. of Fleet Street, E.C. 4, and N. of Victoria Embankment, to which the gardens extend, occupy (since early 14th century) the site of the buildings of the Order of Knights Templars, the Temple Church (q.v.) surviving. Middle Temple Hall is Elizabethan, and in Middle Temple Gardens Shakespeare (Henry VI, Pt. 1) places the incident which led to the "Wars of the Roses" (1455-1485). Lincoln's Inn, from Chancery Lane to Lincoln's Inn Fields, W.C. 2, occupies the site of the palace of a former Bishop of Chichester and of a Black Friars monastery. It was founded early in the 14th century. The new Hall is modern, the Library is 15th century, and the old Hall early 16th century, the Chapel (Inigo Jones) early 17th century. Lincoln's Inn Fields (7 acres); the Square contains many fine old houses with handsome interiors. Gray's Inn, Gray's Inn Road, W.C. 1, was founded in late 14th century. The Hall is 16th century (the "Comedy of Errors" was performed there in 1594); the Gardens were laid out (according to tradition) by Lord Chancellor Bacon (died 1626). No other "Inns" are active, but Staple Inn is worth visiting as a relic of Elizabethan London; it has a picturesque gabled front on Holborn (opposite Gray's Inn Road), and the Hall, with hammer beam roof, is intact. Clement's Inn (near St. Clement Dane's Church); Clifford's Inn, Fleet Street, and Thavies Inn, Holborn Circus. Serjeants' Inn, Fleet Street, and another (now demolished) of the same name in Chancery Lane, were composed of Serjeants-at-Law, the last of whom died in 1922.

KENSINGTON PALACE, W. 8.—Enlarged by Christopher Wren for King William III. (1691), and continued as a royal residence until 1760. The birthplace of Queen Victoria in 1819. The State Apartments are open on Saturdays and Sundays (March-Sept. 2 to 6; Oct. 2 to 5). Kensington Gardens (q.v.) adjoin.

LAMBETH PALACE, S.E. 1.—The official residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury, on south bank of Thames; the oldest part is 13th century, the house itself is early 19th century. For leave to visit the historical portions, applications should be made by letter to the Archbishop's Secretary.

LAW COURTS, Strand, W.C. 2.—The Royal Courts of Justice were erected from the designs of G. E. Street (completed by Sir A. Blomfield and A. E. Street) in 1874-1882 at a cost of £1,000,000 (the site cost £1,500,000 in addition). Until they were occupied by the Supreme Court of Judicature (established in 1873 by the fusion of High Court, Chancery, Queen's Bench, Common Pleas, Exchequer, Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty) the Courts met in Westminster Hall (q.v.). The Central Hall is 138 ft. long.

LITTLE BRITAIN, Smithfield, E.C. 1.—Benjamin Franklin lived in Little Britain on his first coming to London. It was then a centre of the bookselling and printing trade, and Franklin is reputed to have set type in the works which extended into the Lady Chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church (q.v.).

LIVERY COMPANIES' HALLS.—The Principal Companies (see pp. 717-8) have magnificent halls, but admission to view them has generally to be arranged beforehand.

LOYD'S, Leadenhall St., E.C. 3.—Housed in the Royal Exchange for 150 years; new building opened by H.M. the King, March 24, 1928. Central room for brokers and underwriters 160 ft. square. Captains' room on upper floor.

LONDON MONUMENT (commonly called "The Monument"), Pudding Lane, Eastcheap, E.C. 3.—Built from designs of Wren, 1671-1677, to commemorate the Great Fire of London, which broke out in Pudding Lane, Sept. 2, 1666. The fluted Doric column is 120 feet high (the flames of fire 42 feet in addition), and is based on a square plinth 40 feet high, with fine carvings on W. face (making a total height of 202 feet). Splendid views of London from gallery at top of column. Admission 3d., 9 to 6 (Oct.-April to 4). Parties of 20 or more school children in charge of an adult 1d. each after prior application to Town Clerk, Guildhall, E.C. 2.

LONDON UNIVERSITY.—The new University buildings are being erected in Bloomsbury on a ten-acre site. They will ultimately house not only the administrative block and library, but Departments now housed in other parts of London, or in temporary premises on the site, and also two Colleges. The administrative offices were moved from the Imperial Institute, South Kensington, in August, 1936. (Address:—University of London, W.C. 1.) The Library will probably follow early in 1937.

LORD'S CRICKET GROUND, St. John's Wood Road, N.W. 8.—The headquarters (since 1814) of the Marylebone Cricket Club, the premier cricket club in England and the governing body of cricket, the scene of some of the principal matches of the season and Middlesex County headquarters. Admission to ordinary matches 1s., to special matches 2s. or 3s. (including tax). The public can obtain reserved seats on payment from the Secretary, M.C.C. Tennis Court in building behind members pavilion, where interesting games are played.

MANSION HOUSE, City, E.C. 4.—(Reconstructed 1930-31). The official residence of the Lord Mayor; the Egyptian Hall and Ballroom are the chief attractions. Admission by order from the Lord Mayor's Secretary.

MARKETS.—The London markets (administered by the Corporation of the City of London) provide foodstuffs for 8,500,000 to 9,000,000 people. The dead meat market at Smithfield is the largest in the world, the supplies marketed amounting to nearly 500,000 tons annually. Central Meat, Fish, Fruit, Vegetable, and Poultry Markets, Smithfield; Leadenhall Market (Meat and Poultry); Billingsgate (Fish), Thames Street; Spitalfields, E. 1 (Vegetables, Fruit, &c.), enlarged 1928, and opened by H.M. the Queen; London Fruit Exchange, Brushfield Street (built by Corporation of London 1928-9) faces Spitalfields Market; Metropolitan Cattle Market (Mon. and Th.); General or Pedlars' Market, Tu. and Fri. and Abattoirs, Caledonian Road, N. 1. Other markets are—Covent Garden, W.C. 2 (established under a charter of Charles II. in 1661) and Borough Market, S.E. 1, for Vegetables, Fruit, Flowers, &c.

MARLBOROUGH HOUSE, Pall Mall, S.W. 1. The London Home of Queen Mary. (Not open to the public).—Built by Wren for the great Duke of Marlborough about 1710, and purchased as a London residence for the Prince of Wales in 1863.

MAYFAIR.—A fashionable district of London, north of Buckingham Palace and east of Hyde Park, extends from Oxford Street (N.) to Piccadilly (S.), and from Bond Street (E.) to Park Lane (W.), includes Curzon Street and Grosvenor and Berkeley Squares. The most fashionable shopping centres of London are included in Mayfair in Old and New Bond Street and Oxford Street. Regent Street almost adjoins Mayfair.

MONUMENTS.—VICTORIA MEMORIAL in front of Buckingham Palace; ALBERT MEMORIAL, South Kensington; AIR, Victoria Embankment; BEA-CONSFIELD, Parliament Square; BELGIAN, Victoria Embankment; BOADICEA (more correctly "Boudicca"), Queen of the Iceni, E. MUSEUMS, see pp. 345-351.

PATENT OFFICE (including PUBLIC LIBRARY), 25 Southampton Buildings, W.C. 2.—In 1935, the Patent Office sealed 17,675 patents and registered 18,269 designs and 5,783 trade marks. The library (275,018 volumes) is open to the public daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

PEOPLE'S PALACE, Mile End Road, E. 1.—New main building (to be opened by H.M. the King, Dec. 23, 1936) contains Queen's Hall (1,600 seating capacity) and new small hall (468), for concerts, &c., swimming bath (modern filtration), open in summer. Choral and Orchestral Society, Horticultural Society, Badminton courts. Clerk to Governors, Paym.-Com. T. M. FitzGerald, R.N. (ret.). Halls can be hired.

PORT OF LONDON.—The Port of London comprises the tidal portion of the River Thames from Teddington to the sea, a distance of 69 miles and five dock systems covering an area of 4,246 acres, of which 722 acres are water. The governing body is the Port of London Authority (see pp. 237-8) whose Head Offices in Trinity Square, E.C. 3, were designed by Sir Edwin Cooper, A.R.A., F.R.I.B.A. The value of the overseas trade of the Port, including transhipments under bond in 1934 was £469,932,016 and represents over one-third of the overseas trade of the United Kingdom. Particulars of the docks are as follows:—London & St. Katharine Docks, E. 1.—Area 123½ acres including 45 acres water. Chief commodities handled are Wool, Ivory, Spices, Shells, Tea, Rubber, Wine, Marble, Canned Goods, Hides, Perfumes, &c., and general cargo from Continental and coastwise ports. Surrey Commercial Docks, S.E. 16.—Area 38 acres, including 134 acres water. The chief centre of the London and Provincial Softwood Trade. Also handles Grain, Canadian Dairy Produce, &c. West India & Millwall Docks, E. 14.—Area 466 acres including 133½ acres water. Principal commodities handled are Rum, Sugar, Grain, Hardwood, Fruit, Plywood and Wood pulp. In Millwall Dock a special feature is the Granary. East India Dock, E. 14.—Area 67½ acres including 31½ acres water. Royal Victoria & Albert & King George V. Docks, E. 16.—Area 1,102½ acres including 246 acres water—have special facilities for handling Frozen and Chilled Meat, Grain, Tobacco. Large quantities of Wool, Fruit, Dairy Produce and general cargo are also dealt with. The King George V. Dock, opened in 1921, provides accommodation for vessels up to 30,000 tons. Tilbury Docks, Essex.—Area 745 acres, including 104½ acres water. These docks are 26 miles below London Bridge and are used principally by vessels plying on the Australian, Indian and other Eastern routes. The Cargo Jetty in the River at Tilbury is available for vessels to discharge or load part cargoes. Tilbury Passenger Landing Stage provides accommodation for liners at all states of the tide and adjoins Tilbury Riverside Station, giving direct rail connexion with London, the Midlands and the North.

POST OFFICE.—The "Head Post Office" is in King Edward Street, E.C. 1, a handsomely fronted, ferro-concrete building (Tanner), with marble inlaid hall, opened in 1910. The public Hall is open for usual postal business from 6.45 a.m. to 9 p.m. (Sat. 8 p.m.). In the neighbourhood are the Headquarters Building and the Central Telegraph Office.

PRINCE HENRY'S ROOM, 17, Fleet Street, E.C. 4 (bought by the L.C.C. in 1900, and open free to 4 or 5) is in a timbered 17th century house, and contains a Jacobean plaster ceiling and Jacobean and Georgian panelling. (Available for evening lettings—Apply Architect, County Hall S.E. 1.)

ROMAN LONDON.—Visible remains of the Roman city are now very few. The most striking is a fine piece of the city wall, including an angle bastion, beneath the pavement of the yard of the General Post Office at Giltspur Street. Other portions of this three-mile wall which encircled the city may be seen at Roman Wall House, Crutched Friars, and near the White Tower of the Tower of London. The fragments showing in the churchyards of Cripplegate, Saint Alphage, London Wall, and All Hallows, London Wall, are mediæval reconstructions, the actual Roman masonry of the lower portion being here concealed beneath the soil. Recent excavations in Jewry Street, where the wall crossed the bed of a small stream, give good grounds for supposing that it was built about 75 to 85 A.D. In the basement of the Coal Exchange of Lower Thames Street are the remains of a hypocaust, perhaps once forming part of public baths. The governmental headquarters of the town were a great basilica, more than 400 feet long from east to west, the massive walls of which have been encountered, extending from Leadenhall Market across Gracechurch Street as far as St. Michael's, Cornhill. Excavations during the past few years have shown that the river front was embanked in Roman times with a construction of huge oaken timbers for a considerable distance both east and west of the present London Bridge. Many relics of Roman London may be seen in the Guildhall, British and London Museums (q.v.).

ROYAL EXCHANGE, Cornhill, E.C. 3, founded by Sir Thomas Gresham, 1566, opened by Queen Elizabeth 1571, rebuilt 1667-9 and 1842-1844.—

Admission free. Statues of Queen Elizabeth, Charles II., Queen Victoria, Sir Thomas Gresham, Wellington (Chantry), riding without stirrups. Peabody, and others; frescoes in the ambulatory by Leighton, Abbey, Brangwyn, Wyllie, and others. The chimes of the Royal Exchange (re-cast 1921) play English, Scottish and Irish melodies at 9 a.m., 12 noon, and 3 and 6 p.m. With the exception of the ambulatory practically the whole of the building is now occupied by the Royal Exchange Assurance, which has had its head office there since 1720.

ROYAL GEOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY, Kensington Gore, S.W. 7.—Map Room open to public, free.

ROYAL MINT, Tower Hill, E.C. 3 (building erected 1810), where gold, silver, and bronze are coined. Admission by order only, application for which should be made to the Deputy Master of the Mint, about 4 weeks in advance of intended visit. Hours of admission, 10 to 3 Mon. to Fri., except Bank Holidays, &c., when the Mint is closed.

ST. JAMES'S PALACE, in Pall Mall, S.W. 1.—(Not open to the public). Built by Henry VIII. (according to tradition, from designs by Holbein); the Gatehouse and Presence Chamber remain, and part of the Chapel Royal. A royal residence from 1608 to 1837. Royal Levées held here during the season. Representatives of Foreign Powers are still accredited "to the Court of St. James's," and (by the King's permission) the Conference of the Allies was held there in February, 1921.

ST. JOHN'S GATE, Clerkenwell, E.C. 1. (Registered as an Ancient Monument).—Now the Chancery of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, and formerly the gate of the Priory of that Order, of which the gate house (early 16th century) and choir of Church (crypt 12th century) alone survive. The gatehouse may be inspected on application to the Secretary at the Chancery.

SMITHFIELD, E.C. 1.—Sir William Wallace was executed there (1305) in the reign of Edward I., and Wat Tyler was "despatched" by Lord Mayor* Walworth (1381) in the reign of Richard II. Anne Askew, a Protestant martyr (1546), was burned there in the reign of Henry VIII.; and under Mary I. (1553-1558) many suffered there for the Protestant faith. (A memorial is affixed to the W. wall of St. Bartholomew's Hospital.) The last to suffer for religion at Smithfield was Bartholomew Leggatt, Unitarian (1612), in the reign of James I. At the corner of Cock Lane (W. side of West Smithfield) is a small gilt figure commemorating the spot where the Fire of London was finally checked by the demolition of houses, Sept. 6, 1666.

SOMERSET HOUSE, Strand, W.C. 2, and Victoria Embankment, W.C. 2.—The beautiful river façade (600 feet long) was built at the close of the 18th century from the designs of Sir W. Chambers; the remainder of the building is early 19th century. Somerset House was the property of Lord Protector Somerset, at whose attainder in 1552 the palace passed to the Crown, and it was a royal residence until about the close of the 17th century. The building is now occupied by the Board of Inland Revenue and by the Principal Probate Registry and the office of the Registrar-General of Births, Marriages and Deaths. In the Probate Registry (Central Hall) are the wills (inter alia) of Shakespeare, Milton, Newton, Van Dyck, Pitt, Dr. Johnson, Nelson, Wellington and Burke.

SOUTH AFRICA HOUSE, Trafalgar Square, W.C. 2.—A conspicuous building on the east side of Trafalgar Square erected from the design of Sir Herbert Baker and opened by H.M. King George V. (June 22, 1933). The London headquarters of the Union of South Africa, Offices of the High Commissioner, with general enquiry offices, exhibition, halls, travel bureau, reading-room, cinema, &c.

STOCK EXCHANGE, E.C. 2. (Strangers not admitted).—Known in the City as the "House," was founded in 1801 and now consists of about 4,000 members. A dealer ("jobber") does business only with other members; a "broker" is the intermediary with the public. Speculators for a rise in prices are "bulls"; those for a fall are "bears." Chairman of the Committee for General Purposes, Robert B. Pearson; Deputy Chairman, Robert P. Wilkinson; Secretary, General Purposes Committee, A. L. F. Green; Secretary, Trustees and Managers, A. F. B. Cooke; Office, 13 Throgmorton St., E.C. 2.

THAMES EMBANKMENTS.—The Victoria Embankment, on the N. side (from Westminster to Blackfriars), was constructed by Sir J. W. Bazalgette for the Metropolitan Board of Works, 1864-1870 (the seats, of which the supports of some are a kneeling camel, laden with spicery, and of others a winged sphinx, were presented by the Grocers' Company, and by Rt. Hon. W. H. Smith, M.P., in 1874); the Albert Embankment on the S. side (from Westminster Bridge to Vauxhall), 1866-1869; the Chelsea Embankment, 1871-1874. The total cost exceeded £2,000,000. Sir J. W. Bazalgette (1819-1891) also inaugurated the London main drainage system, 1858-1865. A medallion has been placed on a pier of the Victoria Embankment to commemorate the engineer of the Thames waterside improvements ("Flumini vincula posuit"). The County Hall of the L.C.C. includes an embankment on the Surrey side.

THAMES TUNNELS.—The Rotherhithe Tunnel (foot passengers and vehicles), constructed by the L.C.C. and opened in 1908, connects Commercial Road East, with Lower Road, Rotherhithe; the total length is 1 mile 332 yards, of which 474 yards are under the river. The cost of the tunnel and its approaches was £1,505,914. The Blackwall Tunnel (foot passengers and vehicles) was constructed by the L.C.C. and opened in 1897, connects East India Dock Road, Poplar, with Blackwall Lane, East Greenwich. The total length of the tunnel is 1 mile 279 yards, of which 377 yds. are under the river. The cost of the tunnel with its approaches was about £1,323,663. Greenwich Tunnel (foot passengers only) constructed by the L.C.C. and opened in 1902, connects the Isle of Dogs, Poplar, with Greenwich. The length of the subway is 406 yards, and the cost was about £180,000. The Woolwich Tunnel (foot passengers only), constructed by the L.C.C. and opened in 1912, connects North and South Woolwich below the passenger and vehicular ferry from North Woolwich Station, E. 16, to High Street, Woolwich, S.E. 18. The length of the subway is 552 yards, and its cost was about £86,000. The Thames Tunnel (1300 feet) was opened in 1843 to connect Wapping (N.) with Rotherhithe (S.). In 1866 it was closed to the public, and purchased by the East London Railway Company. The Tower Subway for foot passengers was opened in 1870, and has long been closed.

TOWER HILL, E.C. 1 and E.C. 3, was formerly the place of execution for condemned prisoners from the Tower, the site of the scaffold being marked in the gardens of Trinity Square. A movement, sponsored by the Council for Tower Hill Improvement, aims at creating more open space around H.M. Tower by the demolition of encroaching buildings and by opening Trinity Square Gardens to the public, thus restoring to Tower Hill its ancient title to be the City's pleasure, or "Board-room."

TOWER OF LONDON, E.C. 3 (built by William the Conqueror, A.D. 1066-1087).—Admission to Jewel House, on all week days, 6d.; White Tower and Armouries, including Vaults, 6d.; to Bloody Tower, on all week days, 6d. Free on Saturdays (except Jewel House and Bloody Tower) by tickets issued at the office at gateway. Open from 1 May to 30 Sept., 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; 1 Oct. to 30 April, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Not open on Good Friday, Christmas Day, or Sunday. Constable, Field Marshal Lord Milne, G.O.B., G.C.M.G., D.S.O., D.C.L., LL.D.; Lieutenant, Lt.-Gen. O. C. Borrett, C.B., G.C.M.G., C.B.E., D.S.O., J.P.; Major and Resident Governor, Lt.-Col. W. F. O. Faviell, D.S.O., J.P.; Keeper of the Jewel House, Major-Gen. Sir George J. Younghusband, K.C.M.G., G.C.I.E., C.B.; Master of the Armouries, Charles Foulkes, C.B., O.B.E., F.S.A., D.Litt. The Yeoman Warders retain their picturesque Tudor uniforms. During the Great War the use of the Tower as a prison was revived. Sir William Wallace, King David II. and King James I. of Scotland, the "Little Princes" (Edward V. and his brother), Anne Boleyn, Katherine Howard, Lady Jane Grey, Princess Elizabeth, Sir Walter Raleigh, William Penn, Cranmer, Ridley and Latimer and many others were imprisoned in the Tower.

TRAFALGAR SQUARE, S.W. 1.—This space was laid out in the second quarter of the 19th century. In the Square are the Nelson Monument, 170 feet 6 inches high, with Landseer's lions round the base.

WESTMINSTER HALL, S.W. 1 (built by William Rufus, A.D. 1087-1100 and altered by Richard II., 1377-1399), adjacent to and incorporated in the Houses of Parliament.—Westminster Hall is part of the Palace of Westminster and survived the fire, which destroyed the remainder of the Palace (Oct. 16, 1834). The Hall is 200 feet long, 68 feet wide, and 90 feet high. The hammer beam roof of carved oak, dating from 1399, is one of the principal attractions. King Charles I. was tried in the Hall. For admission, see regulations as to Houses of Parliament.

WHITEHALL, opposite Horse Guards, S.W. 1.—Erected by Inigo Jones as a banqueting-house for the projected Whitehall Palace. King Charles I. was beheaded here.

ENVIRONS OF LONDON.

BARNET AND HADLEY GREEN.—Scene of Battle, A.D. 1471. Hadley Woods.

BROOKLANDS, Weybridge.—Motor and motor-cycle races.

BURNHAM BEECHES AND FLEET WOOD, Bucks.—Magnificent sylvan scenery (425 acres), purchased by the Corporation of London for the benefit of the public in 1879; Fleet Wood (65 acres) presented in 1921. During summer omnibus runs daily, Sundays included, from Slough Station, G.W.R., passing within 250 yards of "Gray's Elegy" Church, see "Stoke Poges."

BUSHY PARK (1,100 acres).—Adjoining Hampton Court, contains many fine trees and avenue of horse-chestnuts enclosed in a fourfold avenue of limes, planted by King William III. "Chestnut Sunday" (when the trees are in full bloom with their "candles") is usually about 1st to 15th May. A herd of tame deer is maintained.

CHEQUERS, a country residence for Prime Ministers (from Jan. 1, 1921), was presented to the Nation (with an endowment to maintain the estate, &c.) by Lord and Lady Lee of Fareham, as the official country residence for the Prime Minister of the day, and the gift was approved by Parliament in the Chequers Estate Act, 1927. In 1921 the Chequers Estate of 700 acres was added to the gift by Lord Lee. Chequers is a Tudor mansion in the Chilterns, about 3 miles from Princes Risborough, Bucks, and contains a collection of Cromwellian portraits and relics.

CHILTERN HUNDREDS (Stoke, Burnham and Desborough, in Buckinghamshire).—No duly elected member of the Commons can resign his seat; he must apply for some office of profit under the Crown, and so vacate his seat under the Act of Settlement, 1707 (6 Anne, c. 7), and the usual practice is to apply for the Stewardship of the Chiltern Hundreds, or of the Manor of Poyning, or Northstead, or the Escheatorship of Munster, whereupon the seat is declared vacant (under the Place Act of 1742, which expressly permitted acceptance of such offices to serve as an excuse for resignation) and a new writ is issued by the Speaker.

CUFFLEY, Herts.—Memorial to Capt. W. L. Robinson, V.C., on spot above which the first German Zeppelin (L. 21) was destroyed.

DARWIN AND DOWN HOUSE, Downe, Farnborough Kent.—Where Charles Darwin thought and worked for 40 years and died in 1882. Maintained by the British Association. Open free daily (except Good Friday and Christmas Day) 10 to 6, April to Sept., and 11 to 4 Oct. to March.

DULWICH, S.E. 21 (5 miles from London) contains Dulwich College (founded by Edward Alleyn in 1619), Dulwich Picture Gallery, built by Sir John Stane to house the collection bequeathed by the artist, Sir Francis Bourgeois (open free daily, 10 to 4, 5, or 6, and on Sunday afternoons during the Summer), the Hornerian Museum (see p. 350), and Dulwich Park (72 acres). In Dulwich Village the rural characteristics of the pre-suburban period are preserved.

ELTHAM, Kent (10 miles from London by Southern Ry.). Remains of 13th-15th century Eltham Palace, the birthplace of John of Eltham (1216), son of Edward II. The hall, built by Edward IV., contains fine hammer-beam roof of chestnut. In the churchyard of St. John the Baptist is the tomb of Thomas Doggett, the comedian and founder of the Thames Watermen's championship.

ENFIELD, Middlesex (10 miles from London by L.N.E. Ry.). Parish Church contains well-preserved brasses and monuments.

ENFIELD LOCK, Middlesex. Royal Small Arms Factory may be visited on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. (Intending visitors must be British subjects over the age of 14 years, and must obtain passes beforehand by application to the Superintendent of the Factory.)

EEPING FOREST (6,000 acres, originally purchased by the Corporation of London for £250,000 and thrown open to the public in 1882; the present forest is 12 miles long by 1 to 2 miles wide, about one-tenth of its original area; in recent years the deer in the forest have averaged 120). LOUGHTON, BUCKHURST HILL, CHINGFORD, HIGH BREECH, on L. & N.E. Railway. Beautiful forest scenery.

ETON COLLEGE.—22 miles from London. The most famous of English schools, founded by Henry VI. in 1440, the scholars numbering 1,155 in Sept. 1933. Buildings date from 1442.

FAIRLOP, Essex.—City of London Airport (in process of construction).

GATWICK AIRPORT.—British Airways Terminal (opened in 1936).

GRAVESEND, a borough and river port, 22 miles from London (Southern Ry.). A favourite resort for Londoners. St. George's Church (1277) contains memorials to Princess Pocahontas, who was buried in the former church in 1617.

GREENWICH, S.E. 10.—A south-eastern metropolitan borough (see p. 667) with a frontage of 4½ miles on the Thames. Greenwich Hospital (since 1873, the Royal Naval College) was built by Charles II., from designs by Inigo Jones, and by Queen Anne and William III., from designs by Wren, on the site of an ancient royal palace, and of the more recent Placentia, an enlarged edition of the palace, constructed by Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester (1391-1447), son of Henry IV. Henry VIII., Queen Mary I. and Queen Elizabeth were born in the Royal Palace (which reverted to the Crown in 1447) and King Edward VI. died there. In the principal quadrangle is a marble statue of George II., by Rysbrack. (For National Maritime Museum, see p. 248). Chapel open daily except Sundays and Fridays, and after 4 p.m. on Saturdays. Greenwich Park (188 acres) was enclosed by Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester, and laid out by Charles II., from the designs of Le Notre. On a hill in Greenwich Park is Greenwich Observatory (founded 1675), the zero meridian of longitude and of "Greenwich Time." Admission to the Observatory, afternoons, Monday to Friday (children excluded) only by permission of the Astronomer Royal. The parish church of Greenwich (St. Alfege) was rebuilt by Hawksmoor (Wren's pupil) in 1718, and contains a pulpit and other carvings attributed to Grinling Gibbons. General Wolfe (Heights of Abraham) and Talbot ("the father of Church Music") are buried in the church. Henry VIII. was christened in the former church. The Ministerial Whitehall Dinner, at the "Ship" Hotel, was last held in 1894.

HAMPTON COURT.—Sixteenth century Palace built by Cardinal Wolsey, with additions by Sir Christopher Wren for William and Mary, 15 miles from London. Fine view of river. Beautiful gardens with maze and prolific grape vine (planted in 1768). Old Royal Apartments and collection of pictures. Tennis Court, built by King Henry VIII. in 1530. The Palace is closed on Christmas Day and Good Friday. The State Apartments and Great Hall are open every week-day from 10 a.m., and on Sundays from 2 p.m. Hours of closing, May to Sept. 6 p.m.; March, April and Oct. 5 p.m.; Nov., Dec., Jan. and Feb. 4 p.m. Admission, Mon., Tues., Wed., Thur. and Fri., 1s.; Sat., 6d. (children half price). Admission to the Tudor Kitchen, Wine Cellars and Great Hall cellars, 3d. (inclusive charge), no half-price. Orangery (Mantegna Pictures) open as State Apartments, 3d., no half price. Sun. and Bank Holidays, free. Tickets obtainable at the King's Staircase. Bushy Park adjoins the Lion Gates of Hampton Court Palace. Refreshments can be obtained in the Tilt Yard gardens.

HARROW-ON-THE-HILL.—10 miles by Metropolitan and other railways. Large public school (about 650 scholars), founded by John Lyon in 1571. The "Fourth Form Room" dates from 1608.

JORDANS AND CHALFONT ST. GILES, near Beaconsfield, Bucks, contain the Old Quaker Meeting House (1688) at Jordans, in the burial ground of which lies William Penn (Pennsylvania); a barn in the farm ground is believed to have been built out of the timbers of the Mayflower by the 17th century owner of Jordans (Gardener). At Chalfont St. Giles is the cottage where Milton lived during the Great Plague (1665-1666).

KINGSTON-UPON-THAMES, Surrey (about 12 miles from London), is the ancient place of coronation of the Kings of Saxon England. The Coronation Stone (hence the name "King's Stone") is preserved within railings in the market place.

RICHMOND, Surrey, contains the red brick gateway of Richmond Palace (Henry VII., 1485-1509) and buildings of the Jacobean, Queen Anne, and early Georgian periods, including White Lodge in Richmond Park, the home of Queen Mary's mother (King Edward VIII. was born there June 23, 1894). The Star and Garter Home for Disabled Soldiers, Sailors, and Airmen (the Womens Memorial of the Great War) was opened by Queen Mary in 1924. Richmond Park (2,358 acres) contains herds of fallow and red deer. From the Terrace Gardens, Richmond Hill, can be obtained a wonderful view of the Valley of the Thames.

RUNNIMEDDE.—A meadow of about 100 acres, on S. bank of Thames (part of the Crown Lands), between Windsor and Staines. From June 15-23, 1215, the hostile Barons encamped on this meadow during negotiations with King John, who rode over each day from Windsor. The 48 "Articles of the Barons" were accepted by the King on June 15, and were subsequently embodied in a charter, since known as Magna Carta, of which several copies were sealed on June 19. About half a mile N.E. of the meadow is Magna Carta Island (claimed as the actual site of the sealing) presented to the Nation in 1930 by Lady Fairhaven and her sons.

RYE HOUSE, at Huddesdon, on the River Lee. Scene of the celebrated plot. Old castle and dungeons, pictures, oak fireplaces, chests and panels; Queen Elizabeth's bed. The Great Bed of Ware (mentioned in "Twelfth Night"), formerly at Rye House, is now at the Victoria and Albert Museum.

ST. ALBANS.—A city in Hertfordshire, on the river Ver, 22 miles N.W. of London. The abbey church, built partly of materials from the old Roman city of Verulamium by Paul of Caen, was consecrated in 1115. Parts still remain of the Norman structure. The city was the scene of the overthrow of Henry VI. in 1455, and of the Earl of Warwick in 1461. On a printing press set up in the abbey the first English translation of the Bible was printed. The site of the pre-Roman city of King Tasciovanus and the remains of the ancient City of Verulam, with well preserved theatre. St. Michael's Church, with tomb of Lord Bacon.

STOKE POGES (2 miles from Slough station on G.W. Ry.) contains the 14th century Church with the Churchyard of Gray's "Elegy" and "Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College." The poet was buried in the church in 1771.

WALTHAM ABBEY (or WALTHAM HOLY CROSS), 13 miles from London (L.N.E. Ry.).—The Abbey ruins, Harold's Bridge (11th century), the Nave of the former cruciform Abbey Church (the oldest Norman building in England (consecrated May 3, 1060) and the traditional burial place of King Harold II., 1066) and a Lady Chapel of Edward II., with crypt below. New evidence of the position and style of several buildings, which once stood on the site of the Augustinian monastery, were revealed by the prolonged drought in the summer of 1933. At Waltham Cross, 1 mile from the Abbey, is one of the crosses (partly restored) erected by Edward I. to mark a resting place of the corpse of Queen Eleanor on its way to Westminster Abbey. (Ten crosses were erected, but only those at Geddington, Northampton and Waltham remain; "Charing" Cross originally stood on the spot now occupied by the statue of Charles I. at Whitehall.)

WINDSOR CASTLE (begun by William the Conqueror, A.D. 1066-1087).—22 miles from London, by Great Western and Southern Railways. When the Court is not in residence, the State Apartments of Windsor Castle are generally open to the public, during His Majesty's pleasure, on every week-day except Friday. When the State Apartments are open during June, July and August, and on Bank Holidays, the charges for admission are for Adults, 6d., and for Children, 3d. On these days no guides are on duty in the State Apartments. On all other days the charges are 1/- for Adults, and 6d. for Children. Guides are then in attendance. By the King's command, the proceeds to go to local charities. An authorised guide book can be obtained at the office, price 6d. The hours of admission to the State Apartments are from April 1—May 31, and Oct. 1—31 between 11 and 4; July 1 to Sept. 30, 11 to 5; and from Nov. 1 to March 31, between 11 and 3. The Queen's Dolls' House is open on the same days and hours as the State Apartments, admission 6d. each person. The Albert Memorial Chapel is open on the same days and at the same hours as the State Apartments (except between 1 and 2 p.m.); the Round Tower or Keep is open from 1 April-30 Sept. the same days and hours as the State Apartments. St. George's Chapel may be viewed on week-days (Fridays excepted), between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m.

WOOLWICH.—9 miles from London; (Southern Railway), Dockyard and Arsenal Station for Barracks, Rotunda, &c. Royal Garrison Church; Old Dockyard; Royal Military Academy; Extensive Barracks for Royal Artillery, Royal Army Service Corps, &c. Common for military evolutions. For Rotunda Museum, see p. 355.

Buchan's Weather Periods.—It will be gathered from the fourth column of the meteorological tables on the second page of each month, that a mean temperature for each day of the year has been formed by taking the average of the observed temperatures on that day during 65 years. These mean temperatures follow in fairly uniform sequence, upwards or downwards as would appear readily if the figures were used to form a graph or curve. But the uniformity is not precise; there are occasional depressions and elevations. Alexander Buchan, LL.D., who was for many years Secretary of the Meteorological Society for Scotland, formed such a curve of mean temperatures for a station in Scotland, and these periods of non-uniformity have been handed down as his weather-periods. It is to be noted that these refer to the mean of many years, and are not to be regarded as indicating the probable weather for every year. The figures give the mean temperature at Greenwich. 1841-1905 show similar depressions and elevations which, on comparison, will be seen in some cases to agree with Buchan's periods.

(b) one lamp showing to the rear a red light visible from a reasonable distance; and every such lamp shall, while the vehicle is on any road during such hours as aforesaid, be kept properly trimmed, lighted and in efficient condition, and shall be attached to the vehicle in such position and manner as the Minister (of Transport) may by regulations prescribe.

It shall be the duty of any person who causes or permits a vehicle to be on any road during the hours of darkness to provide the vehicle with lamps in accordance with the requirements of this Act and of any regulations made thereunder." (Sec. 1 (1).)

(Regulations have been made and are contained in S.R. & O. No. 392 of 1935.)

Whole or partial exemption may be given to vehicles used for naval, military or air force purposes (Sec. 1 (3) (b)); vehicles carrying inflammable or explosive goods of a nature specified in the regulations; vehicles when standing on places specially set aside for the purpose; vehicles drawn or propelled by hand, save as provided (Sec. 1 (a)).

The Minister may by regulation require or permit, on conditions, distinctive lamps to be carried displaying coloured lights on vehicles used as Hackney Carriages or public service vehicles or vehicles used for naval, military, or air force, or police purposes, or as ambulances. The "hours of darkness" are defined thus:—

(a) As respects the period of summer time, the time between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise.

(b) As respects the remainder of the year the time between half an hour after sunset and half an hour before sunrise.

Bicycles (pedal and mechanical solo), pedal tricycles, and invalid carriages, require a single white light to the front.

Pedal bicycles and tricycles need not show a red light to the rear if they have attached an unobscured and efficient red reflector, and a white patch not less than 12 square inches in area.

Pedal bicycles and tricycles and solo motor cycles need not carry a lamp if being wheeled by a person on foot as near as possible to the rear or left-hand edge of the carriage way.

Horse Vehicles.—A separate lamp showing a red light to the rear shall not be required to be carried if the lamps showing a light to the front also show a red light to the rear visible from a reasonable distance and no part of the vehicle or load extends more than 6 feet behind such lamps.

Any vehicle carrying a load overhanging laterally more than 12 inches from the centre of the nearest side lamp must have either an additional lamp on the sides where the load overhangs or the position of the one lamp must be such that no part of the load projects outwards more than 12 inches beyond a vertical line drawn through the centre of the substituted or additional lamp.

On any vehicle carrying a load more than 6 feet behind any lamp showing a red light to the rear carried in accordance with the Act, an additional or substituted lamp shall be carried so that such load shall not project more than 6 feet beyond such additional or substituted lamp.

ON TOW.

There are special provisions as to vehicles towing and being towed. A lamp showing a red light need not be carried by the drawing vehicle; no lamp showing a light to the front need be carried on any vehicle being drawn; a lamp showing a red light need not be carried on any vehicle being drawn except the rear-most vehicle. Provided—if the distance between any such vehicles exceeds 5 feet, each vehicle shall be required to carry the same lamps as if it were not a drawing vehicle or a vehicle being drawn, and if a drawn vehicle or its load projects laterally more than 12 inches beyond the outermost of the lamps showing a white light to the front, an additional lamp shall be carried so that no part of the vehicle or its load projects more than 12 inches beyond a vertical line through the centre of such lamp.

INSIDE LIGHTING.

Public Service Vehicles must, in compliance with the requirements of The Public Service Vehicles (Conditions of Fitness) Regulations 1936 and (Equipment and Use) Provisional Regulations (No. 2), 1931, be adequately lighted inside, and must have any deck which is fitted with a permanent top also adequately lighted at all times during the hours of darkness when carrying passengers.

LONDON AMBULANCE SERVICES.

Headquarters (London Ambulance Service), London County Council, Public Health Department, County Hall, Westminster Bridge, S.E.1 (Telephone: Waterloo 3311).

The Service is established for the provision of ambulances free of cost for the conveyance to hospitals of:—

(1) Persons meeting with accidents or suffering from sudden illnesses in the streets, public places, places of employment, etc.

(2) Persons meeting with accidents in their homes.

(3) Persons suffering from illnesses in their homes if a medical practitioner certifies that the case is one of life or death, and that arrangements have been made for the reception of the patient in a hospital.

(4) Parturient women if the case is one of urgency, on the application of a qualified medical practitioner or certified midwife, provided that either a doctor or midwife accompanies the case, and

(5) Non-urgent cases of parturition to hospitals. In such cases admission to a maternity bed must have previously been arranged, and a card (issued by the Council to hospitals, &c.) for such admission obtained.

In cases coming under classes (1) and (2) calls for ambulances are made by means of the telephone, the operator being asked for "Ambulance." In cases coming under classes (3), (4) and (5) the operator should be asked for (or dial) one of the following numbers: Waterloo 6000, New Cross 2645, Central 6301, or Regent 4000. When communication is established the locality of the accident or illness should be given, and the name of the caller.

Ambulances Supplied on Payment.

The ambulances for general service are available, when not required for public purposes, for the conveyance, on payment, of private maternity, mental, medical and surgical cases, at any time of the day and night. The conveyance of private persons between addresses both of which are outside the Administrative County of London cannot be undertaken unless in circumstances of exceptional urgency. Applications for ambulances should be made to the Headquarters, County Hall, Westminster Bridge, S.E.1 (Telephone: Waterloo 3311) when the actual charge for any proposed removal can be obtained.

In addition to the above service and to that of the St. John Ambulance and Brigade. Ambulances are maintained by the City of London.

GOLD PRODUCTION AND CENTRAL MONETARY GOLD RESERVES.

This table demonstrates the expansion of GOLD production by various countries, most marked in the U.S.S.R., whose estimated annual gold production has risen from the equivalent of 5 per cent. to 20 per cent. of that of the rest of the world, during the period 1929-35. On the other hand, South Africa, although still by far the largest producer, now provides a noticeably lower proportion of the world's total gold output than hitherto.

The continued influx of gold to U.S.A. brought her monetary gold reserves by mid-year 1936 to the colossal total value of some 6,200 millions old gold dollars (1 dollar = 1.35463 grammes of fine gold); France's then existing gold reserves had shrunk to just about one-third, and U.K.'s gold reserves had risen to roughly one-sixth, respectively, of the U.S.A. total.

BILLS OF EXCHANGE AND DAYS OF GRACE.

Bills of Exchange or Promissory Notes, payable at any time after date, have three days of grace allowed; thus, a bill dated January 1 at two months' date is not due until March 4. If a bill or note is payable by instalments to be paid "punctually," this does not include the days of grace (Schacterien v. Morris, 37 T.L.R. 366). Bills drawn at sight, or on demand, must be paid on presentation without days of grace.

Bills of Exchange and Promissory Notes in Great Britain and Ireland are payable on the PRECEDING business day when the last day of grace falls on one of the days stated below:

LIFE ASSURANCE.

THE list on the following two pages contains the names of all the more important British Life offices, and of nine Colonial companies (marked C), all of which transact business in this country.

CLASS OF BUSINESS.—The second column shows whether the company is conducted on the Mutual system whereby the whole of the divisible profit is allotted to participating policy-holders (M), or whether the company has proprietors by whom part (usually a very small proportion) of such profit is received (P). Life offices transacting other insurance business are marked O in this column. In such cases the Life funds are kept separately, and are not liable for the claims of other departments. The Share Capital is usually liable for the claims of all branches. Those having an Industrial branch are indicated by letter I.

FIGURES.—These are taken from the latest annual accounts available at date of going to press, and in the majority of cases refer to annual reports for the financial year ended December 31, 1935.

LIFE FUNDS.—The amounts of these funds, though interesting, are not in themselves a sufficient indication of the financial stability of a company, which cannot be judged unless liabilities are actuarially compared with assets.

PREMIUM INCOME.—The annual premium income is in all cases stated after deduction of the amount paid to other companies for reassuring parts of the risks.

EXPENSES.—The expenses of a Life office include, in all cases where paid, commission to agents. The amount of expenses is less important in itself than in relation to premium income, consequently the percentage of the premium income absorbed in expenses is shown. The average percentage of British offices is about 12½%, of which about 5% is expended on commission and 7½% on other expenses. This ratio taken by itself is frequently misleading, because, if the proportion of new business is large, the percentage of the total premiums absorbed in expenses may legitimately be higher than where the new business is small. Moreover, where rates of premium are below the average any comparisons of percentage should be considered, with due regard to this feature, a gain to the policyholder through reduced premium being equivalent to an immediate cash bonus.

INTEREST.—The rate of interest earned is important for comparison with the rate assumed in valuing liabilities, since the greater the margin between these rates the greater is the surplus available from this source for bonus. The rate of interest given is without deduction of Income Tax except where marked (N)—net.

VALUATIONS.—The last columns of the table are derived from the valuation returns made by the companies to the Board of Trade. A valuation indicates liability under existing policies, after making allowance for the amounts to be paid and received. It is assumed that deaths will occur in accordance with a mortality table, and that interest will be earned at a certain rate. Various mortality tables are employed, those most usual being known as the H<sup>m</sup> and O<sup>m</sup>, and the corresponding Tables H<sup>m</sup>(5) and O<sup>m</sup>(5) which exclude mortality in the first five years of assurance. If a company assumes that it will earn a high rate of interest in the future, the net liability will appear less than if it assumes a low rate, while the liability on account of mortality appears greater by some tables than by others. The position of an office is most satisfactory when a stringent basis of valuation is adopted, because the margin between the calculated and experienced liability is larger and the surplus available for bonuses is greater. The O<sup>m</sup> and O<sup>m</sup>(5) tables in conjunction are more stringent than the O<sup>m</sup> table alone, the H<sup>m</sup> is more stringent than the American, and with every table the lower the rate of interest assumed the more stringent is the valuation. The foregoing remarks, however, do not apply in the case of an office which has adopted a Bonus Reserve Valuation.

FIRE INSURANCE RATES.

MOST large fire offices belong to the tariff association, charging identical rates of premium. There are, however, a number of non-tariff offices which claim to assess individual risks independently on merits. Tariff rates of premium per £100 insured against fire for the more common classes of risk are as follows:—

Private Dwelling Houses, built of brick or stone and tiled or slated and in no hazardous proximity, 1s. 6d.

Household goods therein, usually 2s.

A number of companies issue "comprehensive" policies embracing in one contract all risks incidental to private houses and contents.

Shops and Warehouses, similarly built and circumstanced, in which no hazardous goods are deposited nor hazardous trades carried on, from 2s.

Stock and Utensils in trade, fixtures, and household furniture in such shops and warehouses, from 2s.

Most fire insurance companies transact accident and miscellaneous business, and if a strong company be selected with a reputation for liberal dealing it will probably be found to the advantage of a householder that he should effect with it all such policies as he may require, in place of dividing them amongst several companies. The "comprehensive" policies previously referred to, combine in one contract protection against damage by fire to the contents of a house, or from burglary, housebreaking, larceny, theft, &c., and insurance against domestic servants' employers' liability, damage from storm or tempest, third party risks, and other hazards. This can usually be arranged for an annual premium of 5s. per £100 of the full value of the contents of the house. Fire insurance of the house itself is not included, however, in this estimate, but can be included under the same policy, if desired. The advantage of a policy of this description is that it obviates the inconvenience of payments of small amounts in insurance premiums at different dates, and that in one comprehensive form it supplies protection at a moderate cost for all a householder's ordinary insurance requirements.

ANNUAL PREMIUMS FOR WHOLE LIFE ASSURANCE.

Life assurance may be effected either with or without participation in profits. If without participation, both sum assured and premium remain unchanged. If with participation, a higher premium is charged, and bonuses can either be payable with the sum assured, applied to reduce the premium, or surrendered for cash. An alternative plan is available in some offices whereby future bonuses are anticipated and used to reduce premiums from the outset. This is called the "Discounted Bonus" or "Cost Price" system. If the bonuses actually declared exceed those anticipated, the difference is credited to the policyholder; if, however, the anticipated bonuses exceed those declared, the balance has to be liquidated by the policyholder or remains as a debt. Policies should only be effected on this system in companies which can point to good and consistent bonus records, and whose valuation reserves are particularly strong.

The ages applicable to the life and endowment assurance (but not the annuity) rates as hereafter given are "next birthday" unless otherwise stated.

The next table shows the annual premiums payable throughout life for a policy of £100 payable at death, with profits. It is not sufficient to judge a life office by premium rates only. An office charging a high premium may give higher bonuses than one charging a low premium, and therefore bonus results and prospects as well as premiums have to be considered. Some offices only allow bonuses to be taken in reduction of premium, and on this plan the rates are usually high to commence with, but are greatly reduced after a few years. Some reserve bonuses for the older classes of policyholders, and in these cases lower premiums than the average are usually charged. Most offices grant interim bonuses between valuation periods, and it is important to ascertain if this is the case before an assurance is effected, and how such interim bonuses compare with valuation bonuses, especially in cases of endowment assurance.

Provident A reduction in the rate is made for Assurances of £1,000 or over, up to £5,000, and a further reduction for over £5,000.

Refuge Reduced rates for £1,000 and over, and further reductions for £5,000 and over.

Royal Rates reduced by 2/ per cent. for Assurances of £1,000 and over.

Scottish Life Rates reduced by 2/ per cent. for Assurances of £1,000 and over on medically examined lives.

Scottish Temperance—Rates for abstainers are 10 per cent. less, limited to 6/ per £100.

Sun Life—Reductions granted to total abstainers.

Offices thus marked have a plan for accepting Assurances without medical examination, but in the majority of cases there is a limit to the amount that can be assured under this arrangement.

ENDOWMENT ASSURANCES.

Endowment Assurances are very popular, and are extremely attractive to persons who desire to combine a provision for their dependants, in event of premature death, with the investment of savings for the realisation of a fund for their own personal enjoyment in later life. For the investment of small annual sums there is no medium promising more satisfactory results than an Endowment assurance participating in profits in a good bonus-paying life office. The selection of such an office is all-important, as so much depends upon profit-earning capacity—see first page of Life Assurance section.

ANNUAL PREMIUMS FOR ENDOWMENT ASSURANCE OF £100. WITH PROFITS.

Under endowment assurances the sum assured is paid after a given number of years, or on the attainment of a fixed age. Should the life assured, however, die during the endowment period, the sum assured is paid at death together with any bonuses attaching under a "with profit" Policy.

The following table shows the annual premiums, for various ages at entry, charged by the offices named, to secure £100 at the end of 15, 20 and 25 years, or at death, if previous, with profits.

ADVICE REGARDING LIFE ASSURANCE.

Apart from the immediate protection thereby given, a life or endowment assurance policy, if effected in a first-class bonus-paying company, provides exceptional opportunity for the remunerative investment of savings. Policyholders can claim relief from Income Tax in respect of life assurance premiums not exceeding in amount one-sixth of their income, where the death risk is involved. (See also pages 652-654).

The selection of the office best suited to requirements and likely to produce the best results should be carefully made, but the study of any tables or suggestions is not sufficient to enable persons without technical knowledge to gauge the respective merits of the various companies. There are many good offices, and in the most select class some are better adapted than others for particular purposes, and large sums may be saved or earned by intending proposers through obtaining reliable advice before a proposal is made.

Medical examination is not required by all offices, but in some cases, where this is dispensed with, policies are subject to certain restrictive conditions.

HOW TO ASSIGN

When a Policy is assigned by way of Mortgage, it is better to employ a solicitor; but when the Assignment is absolute, i.e., when a Policy is sold out and out, his services may be dispensed with, provided the Title is clear.

The Assignment may be in the following form to comply with English law, but may be subject to slight variation in other parts of the British Isles:—

I, (name)....., of (address)....., in the County of ..... (occupation)....., in consideration of the sum of (pounds)..... paid to me by (name)....., of (address)....., in the County of ..... (occupation)....., the receipt of which I herewith acknowledge, do hereby, as beneficial owner, assign unto the said ..... his Executors, Administrators and Assigns, all that Policy of Assurance on my life for £..... effected with the (name of Company)..... numbered ..... and dated ..... and all monies assured by or to become payable thereunder, *And I hereby certify that the

In view of the fact that life assurance premiums are governed by age, it is advisable to produce a birth certificate or other satisfactory evidence of this, when effecting a Policy. It is not always asked for then but is required by the offices before the policy monies are paid.

INQUIRIES.—On receipt of an inquiry containing particulars of requirements (accompanied by 5s.) addressed to "The Insurance Editor, 12, Warwick-lane, E.C. 4," advice will be given as to the system and policies best adapted to the special requirements. Inquiries should state the date of birth of the person who requires the Insurance. The following are suggested as the policies most likely to be required:—

- (a) Whole Life—With and without profits.
- (b) " " —With limited number of payments.
- (c) " " —Reduced premium for first 5 years.
- (d) Endowment—With and without profits.
- (e) " " —Reduced premium for first 5 years.
- (f) Family Income Policies.
- (g) Children's Insurances—Educational, &c.

A LIFE POLICY.

transaction hereby effected does not form part of a larger transaction, or of a series of transactions, in respect of which the amount or value, or the aggregate amount or value, of the consideration exceeds five hundred pounds.* In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this ..... day of ....., 19....

Signed, sealed and delivered by the above-named, in the presence of—Name.....
Address.....

The document must be stamped by the Inland Revenue Stamp Office.

Notice of the Assignment should be sent, in duplicate, to the Head Office of the Company immediately on execution. The Company is entitled to charge a fee of five shillings for acknowledgement, and will retain one copy and the other will be returned with acceptance of service endorsed thereon.

Friendly Societies.

Great Britain.

In spite of the growth of Compulsory "Health" insurance since the introduction of the State scheme in 1911, q.v., the Voluntary business of Friendly Societies registered under the Friendly Societies Act 1836 shows a remarkable expansion, as seen by the following comparative totals for 1924 and 1913: those in ordinary type relate to registered Friendly societies proper (embracing both "Centralised" societies and "Orders with Branches"); those in italics are for "Collecting" societies, which, although registered under the Friendly Societies Acts, are subject also to the provisions of the Industrial Assurance Acts, since 1923.

Year.	No. of Societies on Register.		Members.	Assurances or Policies.	Total Funds.
			Thousands.		£000's
1924 .....	80,388	255	7,897	21,752	130,289	65,720
1913 .....	85,475	71	6,783	25,681	51,489	11,168

Thus, while fusion of branches and the tendency towards centralisation has reduced the number of "Friendly" societies proper by about 20 per cent, their membership has risen by over 1 million (due in a large measure to the growth of societies of the "Deposit" type) and their funds have increased by £70 millions. As to "Collecting" societies (the increase in their number is due to transfer from the category of "Friendly" societies of some small burial societies, under the Industrial Assurance Act 1923) the number of assurances has risen by 14 millions and their funds by £54 millions.

Following are particulars of some of the principal societies, each with funds exceeding or approaching £1 million (including the four largest Collecting societies) for their last financial year (1925):

Building Societies.

Acts 1874-1894.

Building Societies are for the most part associations incorporated with limited liability under the Building Societies Acts. The exceptions are a few societies established prior to 1857, which have chosen to remain unincorporated. The object of building societies is to assist their members in acquiring dwelling houses, business premises, or other freehold or leasehold property, for occupation or investment. Members' subscriptions are accumulated in a fund which may be augmented by deposits and loans, and advances are made from the fund to assist members in the purchase of properties. Security for advances is given by a mortgage upon the property purchased. Many, if not most, of the earlier societies were of the terminating type (vide previous editions), but such societies have been almost entirely superseded by the permanent societies, some of which have become very wealthy and important financial institutions.

All Building Societies are required to register their rules and file their accounts with the Registrar of Friendly Societies, who is also Registrar of Building Societies.

Following virtual stabilisation of arrangements made in respect of income tax by a new agreement between the Revenue authorities and Building Societies in 1935, and the prevailing cheapness of money generally, Building Societies by 1936 had almost universally reduced their interest charges for new mortgage advances to a basic rate of  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. p.a., with concessions to old borrowers e.g. shortening of term originally fixed for repayment, or by way of rebate. The consequential reduction of interest to shareholders and depositors has inevitably followed, and generally the rates now obtaining are  $3\text{--}3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on shares, and  $2\frac{1}{2}\text{--}3$  per cent. on deposits —in some cases old a/cs. & “subscription” shares earn higher rates than other classes—and societies have to a large extent been able to relax restrictions which in the last two or three years had to be imposed in an endeavour to regulate the inflow of new money for investment on share and deposit accounts—during 1935 the total of other assets (viz., apart from mortgage assets) fell by £7 millions, to £72 millions or barely 12 per cent. of total assets at the end of the year; the corresponding proportion of other assets to total assets at the end of 1932 was as high as 17 per cent.

The past half century has seen two shocks to the movement, caused by the failure of the “Liberator” in 1892 and the “Birkbeck” in 1911. In the immediate pre-war years mortgage advances by Building Societies remained steady at around £9 millions annually, until the curtailment during the war reduced slightly the balance outstanding on mortgages to £53 millions by the end of 1918. Since then the expansion in business of Building Societies has been phenomenal (following the growing demand for owner-occupier houses and intensive building activities in general in post-war years), as evidenced by a tenfold increase in their mortgage assets, viz., to almost £530 millions at the end of 1935, and for three successive years mortgage advances have exceeded £100 millions each year, advances during 1935 reaching the record figure of £131 millions. Indeed, it is hard to realise that (on the basis of the past three years) Building Societies nowadays are making advances on mortgage at an average weekly rate of fully £2 millions, which was about the quarterly average in pre-war years.

BUILDING SOCIETIES, GREAT BRITAIN, 1935.

The "Remedy" is the amount of variation from standard permitted in fineness and in weight of coins when first issued from the Mint.

Standard Gold contains twenty-two twenty-fourths (carats) of fine gold and two twenty-fourths of alloy; fineness, 916.66, or 22 carats; 240 troy ounces of standard gold are coined into 934 sovereigns and one half-sovereign; one troy ounce is, therefore, worth £3 17s. 10½d., and one ounce of pure gold, on the same basis, £4 4s. 11½d. During 1935 the average market price of gold fluctuated in accordance with the France-sterling exchange being 141/10 on Oct. 8. Bar Gold.—The "bar," as purchased in the bullion market, is 200 oz. troy (except for the Far East, which requires 10 oz. bars).

Standard Silver formerly consisted of thirty-seven-fortieths of fine silver and three-fortieths of alloy; fineness, 925. Silver for coinage, by an Amending Act (20 Geo. V. ch. 3), consists of one-half silver, one-half alloy; or in millesimal fineness, 500; 12 troy ounces of 500 fineness are coined into 66 shillings.† [Another Standard, called the New Sterling* or Britannia, of the fineness 22 oz. 10 dwt. (958.33), is practically obsolete. It is occasionally used, however, for high-class plate.]

The Average Yearly Price of Silver per standard Troy Ounce in the London Market during the last seventeen years was as follows:—1919, 57½d.; 1920, 61½d.; 1921, 36½d.; 1922, 34½d.; 1923, 31½d.; 1924, 34d.; 1925, 32½d.; 1926, 28½d.; 1927, 26½d.; 1928, 26½d.; 1929, 24½d.; 1930, 17½d.; 1931, 14½d.; 1932, 17½d.; 1933, 18½d.; 1934, 21½d.; 1935, 29½d. On Oct. 9, 1936, the price of silver was 20d. per oz.

In the United States the price of silver is quoted in cents per troy ounce fine. In order to convert an English quotation into cents per ounce fine, first express the pence as a whole number and decimal fraction and then multiply by 2.102; to express a United States price on the English system, multiply the cents by 0.4564.

‡ Bronze is an alloy of copper 95 parts, tin 4

* Issued on special occasions.

† By law a shilling weighs one sixty-sixth of 12 oz. Troy; 12 oz. of pure silver would be used in coining 72 shillings of 925 fineness and 132 of 500 fineness.

‡ The legal weight of a penny is one-third, of the halfpenny one-fifth, and of the farthing one-tenth of an ounce avoirdupois; the halfpenny is one inch in diameter.

parts, and zinc 1 part, or of copper 95½ parts, tin 3 parts and zinc 1½ parts.

Tokens.—No person is allowed to coin any token to pass for, or as representing, bronze or other money, under a penalty of £20.

Melting of Coins.—The melting of British gold and silver coin is prohibited.

Light Gold.—Any person to whom it is tendered should break, cut, or deface any gold coin below the least current weight; but under the provisions of the Coinage Act, 1891, and an Order in Council of March 10, 1892, light gold coin which has not been legally dealt with is received by the Bank of England on behalf of the Mint at its full nominal value.

Bank of England Notes are issued for sums of 10s., £1, £5, £10, £20, £50; also for £100, £500, and £1,000.

Treasury Notes. Under the provisions of the Currency and Bank Notes Act, 1928, Treasury Notes of the value of £1 and 10s. have been replaced by Bank of England Notes and the profits of the whole Note Issue paid over by the Bank to H. M. Treasury.

Bank Post Bills were discontinued on Sept. 1, 1934.

Legal Tender of Money. Bank of England Notes of £1 and 10s. are legal tender in Great Britain and Northern Ireland for the payment of any amount, those of the higher denominations are legal tender in England and Wales only. Change cannot be demanded except from the Bank of England. Gold, if of or above the least current weight, is legal tender to any amount. Silver is legal tender for sums up to £2, and bronze up to 12d.

British Coinage Statistics.—During 1934 the number of coins struck at the Royal Mint was 138,913,285, of which 50,001,785 were Imperial, 71,741,132 Colonial, and 17,170,368 Foreign.

BRITISH DOMINIONS.

Imperial Sterling Coins are the sole legal metallic currency in:—

FALKLAND ISLANDS. GIBRALTAR.
ST. HELENA. WEST INDIES.

See also JAMAICA, below.

Special Coins are current in addition to the Imperial series in:—

AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH.—Special florins, shillings, sixpences, and three-pences in silver, and pence and half-pence in bronze, of the same weights and composition as Imperial coins of these denominations, but of special designs, while the silver coins are of 500 fineness.

NEW ZEALAND.—Special half-crowns, florins, shillings, sixpences, and three-pences in silver.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Silver and bronze coins, bearing special designs, and corresponding to Imperial coins in denominations, weights and composition, except that the fineness of the silver is 800. Currency Bill of 1932 provides for a florin and cent. currency.

RHODESIA.—Pennies and halfpennies in nickel bronze.

BRITISH GUIANA.—A special groat or four-pence.

GUERNSEY.—Eight doubles (= 1 penny), 4, 2, and 1 double.

JAMAICA.—Nickel-bronze pence, halfpence, and farthings.

JERSEY.—Special pence, halfpence, and farthings.

MAITLAND.—One-third of a farthing (bronze).

HALL MARKS ON PLATE.*

Assay Office Marks.—Official marks stamped on gold and silver plate at Assay Offices:—

Assay Office ...	Distinguishing Mark.
London (Goldsmiths' Hall)	Leopard's Head (uncrowned from 1300 to 1478-9, when it became crowned until 1821, since when it has been uncrowned). From 1697-1720 this mark was not used in London.
Birmingham...	Anchor.
Chester .....	City Arms (3 Garbs and a Sword).
Sheffield .....	Crown.
Edinburgh.....	Castle.
Glasgow .....	Tree, Fish & Bell.
Dublin .....	Harp crowned.

The Assay Offices at Bristol, Exeter, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Norwich and York have long been closed.

Makers' Mark (instituted in 1363).—This is impressed by the maker, and consists of initial letter (or letters) indicating the Surname (or Christian and Surname) of the maker.

Date Mark (instituted in 1478-9).—The year in which the article is marked at the Assay Office is indicated by a letter on a shield, the type of letter and the shape of the shield being changed in cycles of 20, 25 or 26 years. In 20-year cycles (London, invariably, Chester, alternately with 25, and Sheffield, alternately with 25), the letters J, V, W, X, Y, Z are omitted; in 25-year cycles (Birmingham, Edinburgh and Dublin, and alternately at Chester and Sheffield) the letter "j" is omitted from the alphabet; at Glasgow all the letters are employed in a 26-year cycle.

The Sovereign's Mark.—The "lion passant," for silver articles only, was first used in 1544, and has been in use ever since (except during the Higher Standard period, 1697-1720). From 1544-9 it was crowned; since then, uncrowned.

The Sovereign's Head.—The portrait of the reigning Sovereign was impressed on all plate chargeable to duty assayed from 1784-1889-90. The duty on plate was removed in 1890, and the Sovereign's head does not appear on plate assayed before 1784 or after 1890.

The Crown.—On gold articles only, in lieu of the "lion passant" on silver.

Britannia.—A full-length figure of Britannia was impressed on silver plate of a special standard of fineness (11 oz. 10 dwt. of fine metal to each 10 dwt. of alloy) during a short period only, 1697-1720; since that date the Britannia quality has been manufactured in small quantities, bearing the figure of Britannia, with the lion's head erased and the date mark.

Sterling Silver.—Articles of silver plate marked at an assay office are guaranteed to be of the requisite standard of purity and to contain 11 oz. 2 dwt. of fine metal to each 12 dwt. of alloy.

Sterling Gold.—Articles of gold plate marked at an assay office are guaranteed to contain such amount of pure gold as is marked thereon by the assaying office in carats and decimals thereof. The relative values of the various standards is shown below:—

Pure gold, 24 c. 4 4 1½	(1932).

An article marked with the letter F 1721-2 can be distinguished from letter F 1801-2 by the difference in the shape of the respective shields; as also those containing the crowned leopard's head and the lion passant; the absence of the sovereign's head in the former as against its presence in the latter case; the different form of the leopard's head (which was "crowned" until 1823); and lastly, the irregularity of the stamp in the first case as compared with the uniformity of the latter stamp. These again can be distinguished from F 1881-2 as before, by the different shield of the date letter only (the shields of the remaining marks being the same as those of 1801-2); the absence of crown on leopard's head, and the presence of the Queen's vice the King's head.

Jubilee Mark on Silver, 1935.

In 1935 permission was granted to celebrate a National Event by a special mark on silver plate. This special mark was applicable only during the year 1935, the marks, as shown below, being (1) Maker's initials, (2) Sovereign's mark, (3) Assay Office mark (Goldsmiths' Hall), (4) Date mark, and (5) Special Silver Jubilee mark.

Imported Plate.

Any gold or silver plate or article manufactured out of the United Kingdom and brought to be assayed, stamped or marked at a British or an Irish Assay Office must be marked in the manner prescribed by the Order in Council of May 11, 1906, under which the mark for each Assay Office is ordained to be:—London, the sign of the Constellation Leo; Birmingham, Equilateral Triangle; Chester, Acorn and two leaves; Sheffield, the sign of the Constellation Libra; Edinburgh, St. Andrew's Cross; Glasgow, double block letter F inverted; Dublin, Bouquet. The annual date letter is to be added by the Assay Office, as for plate, etc., of home manufacture.

The Periods of English Architecture.

Date.

Style.

I. Before B.C. 55 .....	Ancient British.
II. B.C. 55 to A.D. 420 .....	Roman Period.
III. A.D. 449 to Norman Conquest (1066) .....	Anglo-Saxon.
IV. 1066-1189 (i.e. to end 12th cent.) .....	Norman.
V. 1189-1307 (i.e. 13th cent.) .....	Early English (Lancet, or Geometrical).
VI. 1307-1377 (i.e. 14th cent.) .....	Decorated (or Curvilinear).
VII. 1377-1485 (i.e. 15th cent.) .....	Perpendicular (or Rectilinear).
VIII. 1485-1558 (i.e. first half 16th cent.) .....	Tudor.
IX. A.D. 1558-1625. Early Renaissance .....	Elizabethan (A.D. 1558-1603).
	Jacobean (A.D. 1603-1625).
X. A.D. 1625-1830. Late Renaissance .....	Stuart (A.D. 1625-1702).
	Queen Anne and Georgian (A.D. 1702-1830).
	William IV. (A.D. 1830-1837).
	Victoria (A.D. 1837-1901).
	Edward VII. (A.D. 1901-1910).
	George V. (A.D. 1910-1936).
Modern Architecture (The Age of Revivals) 19th cent. to present time

This Comparative Table shows the approximate period of each style. It must, however, be remembered that the transition from one style to the next was slow and gradual, and can often hardly be traced, so minute are the differences. It is only for convenience in alluding to the different stages of evolution that the division is made, for it must not be forgotten that the Architecture of England is one continuous development.

Note.—The first portion (I-VIII) of this table is based upon that given on p. 347, Parts IX and X on p. 777, and "Modern" on p. 852, of "A History of Architecture on the Comparative Method" (9th ed.), by Sir Banister Fletcher, F.R.I.B.A., F.S.A., M.Arch. (Batsford.)

The Weights and Measures Act of 1878, superseding all previous laws, enacts the legal measures for Great Britain, basing them upon the Standard Yard and the Standard Pound, in the custody of the Standards Department of the Board of Trade.

The YARD and the POUND are the only two independent standards for weights and measures. The GALLON, the capacity standard, wet or dry, is based upon the Pound. The Act of 1878 defines the Gallon as the volume of ten standard pounds of distilled water weighed in air against brass weights, both water and air at the temperature of 62° Fahrenheit, with the barometer at 30 inches.

Apothecaries' Weight.

Measures of Weight.

- 20 grains = 1 scruple (℞) (= 1.296 Grammes).
3 scruples = 1 drachm (℥) (= 3.888 Grammes).
8 drachms = 1 ounce (= 31.1035 Grammes).

Measures of Capacity.

- 60 minims (min.) = 1 fluid drachm (= 3.552 Millilitres).
8 fluid drachms = 1 fluid ounce (= 2.84123 Centilitres).
20 fluid ounces = 1 pint (= 0.568 Litre).
8 pints = 1 GALLON (= 4.5459631 Litres).

The Apothecaries' grain is the Avoirdupois grain, and the Apothecaries' ounce is the Troy ounce, of 480 grains. The Apothecaries' drachm is not the same as the Avoirdupois dram, and is spelt differently. A fluid ounce of distilled water at a temperature of 62° Fahrenheit is equal in weight to the Avoirdupois ounce (437.5 grains). A fluid drachm (54.6875 grains) is equal in weight to two Avoirdupois drams.

Approximate Equivalents:—

1 "table-spoon" = ½ fluid oz.; 1 "dessert-spoon" = ¼ fluid oz.; 1 "tea-spoon" = ⅓ fluid oz.

Avoirdupois Weight.

- 7000 grains (gr.) = 1 pound (lb.).
16 drams (dr.) = 1 ounce (oz.) (= 28.350 Grammes).
16 ounces = 1 POUND (= 0.45359243 Kilogram).
14 pounds = 1 stone* (= 6.350 Kilograms).
28 pounds = 1 quarter (of a cwt.) (= 12.70 Kilograms).
100 pounds = 1 cental (= 45.359243 Kilograms).
4 quarters (112 lb.) = 1 hundredweight (cwt.) (= 50.8022 Kilograms).
20 hundredweight (2,240 lb.) = 1 ton (= 1.0160 Tonnes or 1016.0 Kilograms).

Troy Weight.

- 24 grains = 1 pennyweight (dwt.) (= 1.5552 Grammes).
20 dwt. = 1 ounce (= 31.1035 Grammes).

For gold and silver the ounce, divided decimally, and not into grains, is the sole unit of weight. The Troy ounce is the same as the Apothecaries' ounce, = 480 Avoirdupois grains (31.1035 Grammes) in weight. There is no Troy POUND.

Jewellers' Weight.

The metriccarat of 200 milligrammes is the legal standard of weight for precious stones and pearls.

* The Smithfield stone (for dead meat) is 8 lb. only.

Measures of Capacity.

- 4 gills = 1 pint (= 0.568 Litre).
2 pints = 1 quart (= 1.136 Litres).
4 quarts = 1 GALLON (= 4.5459631 Litres).
1 gallon = 277.274 cubic inches.
2 gallons = 1 peck (= 9.0919 Litres).
8 gallons = 1 bushel (= 3.637 Dekalitres).
8 bushels = 1 quarter (= 2.909 Hectolitres).
A chaldron is 36 bushels = 4½ quarters.

Measures of Length.

- 12 inches (in.) = 1 foot (ft.) (= 0.30480 Metre).
3 feet = 1 yard (yd.) (= 0.914399 Metre).
6 feet = 1 fathom (= 1.8288 Metres).
5½ yards = 1 pole (= 5.0293 Metres).
22 yards = 1 chain = 100 links (= 20.1168 Metres).
10 chains = 1 furlong (= 201.168 Metres).
8 furlongs = 1 mile = 1,760 yards (= 1.6093 Kilometres).
3 miles = 1 league (obsolete).
A Cricket Pitch is 22 yards (one chain) between the stumps.

A Lawn Tennis Court is 78 × 36 feet (double) and 78 × 27 feet (single).

A Croquet Lawn is 105 × 84 feet (full size) or a smaller multiple of 5 × 4 feet.

A Badminton Court is 44 × 20 ft., with net 30 ins. deep and 5 ft. high at centre.

A Polo Ground is 300 × 160 yds.

A Football Ground (Association) is 120 × 80 yds. (full size); (Rugby) 110 × 75 yds. (full size).

Birmingham Gauge.

The equivalent of an inch is 15/16 B.G. The numbers proceed by units down to 1/16 B.G., which = 0.3964 inch, and from 1 B.G. (3532 inch) by units to 52 B.G. (0.0095 inch).

Square or Surface Measure.

- 144 sq. inches = 1 sq. foot (= 9.2903 Sq. Decimetres).
9 sq. feet = 1 sq. yard (= 0.836126 Sq. Metre).
30¼ sq. yards = 1 perch, or rod, or pole (= 25.293 Sq. Metres).
40 perches = 1 rood (= 0.10117 Hectare).
4 roods = 1 acre (= 0.40468 Hectare).
10 square chains = 1 acre. (metres).
640 acres = 1 square mile (= 2.58995 Sq. Kilometres).

Dimensions of an Acre.—The acre is 4,840 sq. yards, or 220 × 220 yards. The length of a side of a square acre is 69.57 yards; an area 110 × 22 yards (or 220 × 11 yards) would be half an acre; an area 55 × 22 yards (or 110 × 11 yards) would be one quarter of an acre, and so on.

Cubic Measure.

- 1,728 cubic inches = 1 cubic foot (= 0.023317 Cubic metre).
27 cubic feet = 1 cubic yard (= 0.764553 Cubic metre).

Angular or Circular Measure.

- 60 seconds (") = 1 minute (').
60 minutes = 1 degree (°).
30 degrees = 1 sign.
90 degrees = 1 right angle or quadrant.
12 signs (4 quadrants) = 1 circumference.
Diameter of circle × 3.1416 = circumference.
Diameter squared × .7854 = area of circle.
Diameter squared × 3.1416 = surface of sphere.
Diameter cubed × .5236 = solidity of sphere.
One degree of circumference × 57.3 = radius.
Diameter of cylinder × 3.1416; product by length or height, gives the surface.
Diameter squared × .7854; product by length or height, gives solid content.

Note.—A circle of 7 yards diameter has, in practice, a circumference of 22 yards = 1 chain.

Miscellaneous Weights and Measures.

Apples (Bushel) = 37 to 43 lb. (average 40 lb.).
Ballast (Pig) = 56 lb.
Beef (Barrel) = 200 lb.
Biscuits (Bag) = 102 lb.
Blacklead (Cask) = 11½ cwt.
Butter (Barrel) = 4 firkins = 224 lb.
Camphor (Box) = 1 cwt.
Cloves (Matt) = 80 lb.
(Chest) = 200 lb.
Coal (Sack) = 224 lb.
(Bushel) = 80 lb.
(Chaldron) = 85 bushels.
(Ton) = 10 sacks.
Cocoa (Bag) = 112 lb.
(Cask) = 1 cwt. 28 lb.
Coffee (Bag) = 140 to 168 lb.
(Bale of Mocha) = 224 to 280 lb.
(Barrel) = 112 to 168 lb.
(Tierce) = 5 to 7 cwt.
Cotton (U.S. Bale) = 450 to 550 lb.
(Egyptian Bale) = 700 to 740 lb.
(Indian Bale) = 400 lb.
(Tinively) 500 lb.
Currants (Caroteel) = 5 to 9 cwt. ( obsolete ).
Flour (Peck) = 14 lb.
(Bag) = 140 lb.
Glass (Seam) = 24 stone of 5 lb. = 120 lb.
Gunpowder (Barrel) = 100 lb.
Hides (Last) = 12 dozen.
Honey (Gallon) = 12 lb.
Hops (Bag) = 280 lb.
(Pocket) = 1½ to 2 cwt.
Lead (Fodder) :-
London and Hull = 19½ cwt.
Derby and Newcastle = 22½ cwt.
Meat (Stone) = 8 lb.
Nuts (Barcelona, Bag) = 126 lb.
Oats (Barrel) = 14 stone.
Pepper (Bag of black) = 316 lb.
(Bag of white) = 168 lb.
Pork (Barrel) = 224 lb.
Potatoes (Sack) = 112 lb. (since 1923).
Raisins (Barrel) = 112 lb.
Rice (Bag) = 224 lb.
Sago (Bag) = 112 lb.
Saltpetre (Bag) = 168 lb.
Soft Soap (Barrel or Pack) = 256 lb.
(Firkin) = 64 lb.
Steel (Faggot) = 120 lb.
Sugar (Bag) = 112-196 lb.
(Hogshead) = 13 to 16 cwt.
(Tierce) = 7 to 9 cwt.
Tar (Barrel) = 26½ gallons.
Tea (Chest) = 84 lb.
Tobacco (Hogshead) = 12 to 18 cwt.
Turpentine (Barrel) = 224 to 280 lb.
Wood (Cord) = 128 cubic feet.
Wool (Sack) = 364 lb.

Wheat, Corn, and Flour.

Under the Corn Sales Act of 1921 the Corn Returns Act of 1882 is amended, and provision is made for the sale of cereals by weight in terms of the hundredweight of 112 imperial standard pounds.

100 lb. wheat produces 70 lb. flour.

100 lb. flour produces 130 lb. bread.

A quarter loaf = 4 lb.

A last of grain = 80 bushels.

NOTE.—A Quarter is a heaped measure of 8 bushels. A quarter of English wheat is reckoned as 504 lb. weight. On the Winnipeg Grain Market the standard bushel of oats is reckoned at 34 lb.; in U.S.A. at 32 lb.

Hay and Straw.

Truss of Straw, 36 lb.	Truss of Old Hay, 56 lb.
Truss of New Hay (to September 1st), 60 lb.
Load of hay or straw = 36 trusses.
Ton of hay = 36 trusses.
An acre of grass should yield 1 to 2 tons of hay.

Sizes of Barrels and Bottles. Gals.

Firkin or Quarter Barrel.....	9 = 9 × 1
Kilderkin, Rundlet, or ½ Barrel	18 = 9 × 2
Barrel .....	36 = 9 × 4
Hogshead (1½ barrels) .....	54 = 9 × 6
Puncheon (2 barrels) .....	72 = 9 × 8
Butt of Ale (3 barrels).....	108 = 9 × 12
An Anker = 10 gallons; a Tierce = 42 gallons;
a Pipe of Port or Marsale = 115 gals.; Teneriffe = 100 gals.; Marsala = 93 gals.; Madeira and Cape = 92 gals.; Sherry and Tent = 108 gals.;
Butt of Lisbon and Bucellas = 117 gals.; Aum of Hock and Rhenish = 30 gals.; Hogshead of Brandy, 60 gals.; Claret, 46; Port, 57; Sherry, 54;
Madeira, 46 gallons; Puncheon of Brandy or Rum = 120 gals.

Bottles.—The customary glass bottle of wine or spirits should contain one-sixth of a gallon = 26⅔ fluid ounces.

In the drug trade two large bottles are used:—

Corbyn.....	= 40 fluid oz. (quart).
Winchester quart = 80 ..	(½ gallon).

Water.

Cubic inch .....	= 252.458 grains.
Gallon (277.274 cub. in.)	= 10 lb. (distilled).
Cubic foot .....	= 62.321 lb.
35.943 cubic ft. (224 gals.)	= 1 ton.
Water for Ships: Tun, 210 gals., Butt 110, Puncheon 72, Barrel 36, Kilderkin 18 gals.

An Inch of Rain on the surface of an acre (43,560 sq. feet) = 3,630 cubic feet = 120.993 tons.

Cisterns: A cistern 4 feet by 2½ and 3 deep will hold brimful 186.963 gallons, weighing 16 cwt. 2 qrs. 21.6 lb. in addition to its own weight.

Railway Gauges.

In Great Britain = 4 ft. 8½ in.

„ Ireland = 5 ft. 3 in.

„ U.S.A. = 4 ft. 8½ in.

The 4 ft. 8½ in. gauge is also used in Canada, France, Germany, Netherlands, Belgium, Denmark, Austria, Hungary, Italy, Switzerland, Sweden and European Turkey.

„ Australia:—

N.S.W. = 3 ft. 6 in. and 4 ft. 8½ in.

Victoria and South Australia = 5 ft. 3 in.

Queensland and Western Australia = 3 ft. 6 in.

„ New Zealand = 3 ft. 6 in.

„ India = 2 ft. 6 in.; 3 ft. 3½ in. and 5 ft. 6 in.

„ South Africa = 3 ft. 6 in.

„ Egypt = 4 ft. 8½ in.

„ Ceylon = 5 ft. 6 in.

„ Japan = 3 ft. 6 in.

„ Spain and Portugal = 5 ft. 6 in.

„ U.S.S.R. = 5 ft. 6 in.

„ Asia Minor = 4 ft. 8½ in. and 3 ft. 5½ in.

A single track of 4 ft. 8½ in. gauge requires 12 ft. of roadway; a double track requires 23 ft. of roadway.

Electrical Measures.

It is customary to express electrical measurements in terms of the centimetre, the gramme, and the second (C.G.S. units), and the value of the units has been fixed by international agreement. The principal units are as follow:—

As a unit of resistance, the international Ohm, which is based upon the ohm equal to  $10^9$  units of resistance of the C.G.S. system of electro-magnetic units, and is represented by the resistance offered to an unvarying electric current by a column of mercury at the temperature of melting ice,  $14^{\circ}4521$  grammes in mass, of a constant cross-sectional area, and of a length of  $106^{\circ}3$  centimetres.

As a unit of current, the international Ampère, which is one-tenth of the unit of current of the C.G.S. system of electro-magnetic units and which is represented sufficiently well for practical use by the unvarying current which, when passed through a solution of nitrate of silver in water, in accordance with a certain specification, deposits silver at the rate of  $0^{\circ}001118$  of a gramme per second.

As a unit of electro-motive force, the international Volt, which is the E.M.F. that, steadily applied to a conductor whose resistance is one international ohm, will produce a current of one international ampère, and which is represented sufficiently well for practical use by  $\frac{1}{1000}$  of the E.M.F. between the poles or electrodes of the voltaic cell known as Clark's cell at a temperature of  $15^{\circ}$  C., and prepared in the manner described in a certain specification.

As a unit of quantity, the international Coulomb, which is the quantity of electricity transferred by a current of one international ampère in one second.

As a unit of capacity, the international Farad, which is the capacity of a conductor charged to a potential of one international volt by one international coulomb of electricity. The unit generally used in practice is one-millionth part of this, or the microfarad.

As the unit of work, the Joule, which is  $10^7$  units of work in the C.G.S. system, and which is represented sufficiently well for practical use by the energy expended in one second by an international ampère in an international ohm. In practice the watt-hour is usually employed. It represents the work done by such a current in an hour, and equals 3,600 joules.

As the unit of power, the Watt, which is  $10^7$  units of power in the C.G.S. system, and which is represented sufficiently well for practical use by the work done at the rate of one joule per second.  $746$  watts = 1 horse-power, and the value of a Board of Trade unit (B.O.T.U.) is 1,000 watt-hours, or 3,600,000 joules, or  $\frac{1}{3}$  horse-power hours.

As the unit of induction, the Henry, which is the induction in the circuit when the E.M.F. induced in this circuit is one international volt, while the inducing current varies at the rate of one international ampère per second.

Builders' Measurements.

Stock or kiln bricks.....	$8\frac{3}{4}$ inches	$\times \frac{4}{4}$	$\times \frac{2\frac{1}{2}}{4}$
Welch fire-bricks.....	9	$\times \frac{4}{4}$	$\times \frac{2\frac{1}{4}}{4}$
Paving bricks.....	9	$\times \frac{4}{4}$	$\times \frac{1\frac{1}{4}}{4}$
Square tiles.....	$9\frac{3}{4}$	$\times \frac{9\frac{3}{4}}{4}$	$\times 1$
".....	6	$\times 6$	$\times 1$
Dutch clinker bricks ..	$9\frac{1}{4}$	$\times 3$	$\times 1\frac{1}{2}$

A Rod of Brickwork  $16\frac{1}{2}$  feet  $\times$   $16\frac{1}{2}$  feet  $\times$   $1\frac{1}{2}$  brick thick = 306 cubic feet, or  $11\frac{1}{4}$  cubic yards, and contains about 4,500 bricks with about 75 cubic feet of mortar. The rod being 5 British metres, a rod of brickwork is 25 square metres  $1\frac{1}{2}$  bricks thick = very nearly 10 cubic metres.

Ordinary bricks weigh about 7 lb. each; a load of 500 weighs about 1 ton 11 cwt. 1 qr.

A Piece of machine printed Wall Paper is  $11\frac{1}{2}$  yd. long and 21 in. wide; of hand printed 12 yd. long  $\times$  21 in. wide. French wall papers are usually 9 yd.  $\times$  18 in.

Timber and Wood.

100 superficial feet = 1 square of flooring.

50 cubic feet of planks = 1 load.

42 do. timber = 1 shipping ton.

108 do. do. = 1 stack.

128 do. do. = 1 cord.

A standard hundred of deals contains 120 pieces.

The Petrograd standard consists of 165 cubic feet, or 120 pieces  $1\frac{1}{2}$  in.  $\times$  11 in.  $\times$  12 ft., or 120 pieces 3 in.  $\times$  11 in.  $\times$  6 ft.

A Batten is not more than 7 inches wide; a Deal not more than 9 inches; Planks are 2 to 4 inches thick, and 10 inches and up in width.

Fish.

In Scotland, and at certain places in England and Wales at which the Cran Measures Act, 1908, has been put into operation, fresh herrings must be sold by the Cran, containing 37½ imperial gallons, or Quarter Cran of 9¾ imperial gallons. In the Isle of Man and in Ireland herrings are sold by the Maze, which contains 5 long hundreds of 126 each. On the East Coast of England, at places where the above-mentioned Act is not in force, they are sold by the Last, which contains 13,200 fish. They are counted by the Warp, which is 4 fish. 33 Warps = 1 Long Hundred, 132; 10 Hundred = 1 Thousand, 1,320; 10 Thousand = 1 Last, 13,200. Cured herrings are sold in barrels, the capacity of which, in Scotland, must always be 26¾ imperial gallons, or in half-barrels of 13½ gallons. Herring barrels or half-barrels must be of corresponding capacity in England and Wales if they are presented for the Government Brand at any place at which the Herring Fishery (Brauding) Act, 1913, is in force.

A Quintal of fish (Newfoundland, &c.) is 112 lb.; a barrel of anchovies = 30 lb.: a "box of fish" is about 90 lb.; a Newfoundland "box of fish" contains 100 lb., 112 lb., or 128 lb., to suit the requirements of the different markets.

Geographical Measures.

The North and South Poles are two points at the opposite extremities of that diameter of the earth round which it revolves. The Equator is a great circle, equally distant from the North and South Poles. For geographical purposes, the surface of the earth is divided by circles, called the circles of Latitude and Longitude, the circles of Latitude being parallel and those of Longitude perpendicular to the Equator. These circles are divided into Degrees, Minutes, and Seconds. Degrees of Latitude are numbered from the Equator to the North and South Poles. Degrees of Longitude are numbered from the primary circle of Longitude, or Meridian, which passes through the astronomical observatory of Greenwich (England). The Date or Calendar Line is shown on p. 191.

A Geographical Mile is the length of one minute of Latitude. If the earth was a sphere, every minute of Latitude would be of the same length; but, as it is a spheroid, the length of a minute increases from 6,046 feet at the Equator to 6,108 feet at the Poles. The mean length of the geographical mile is 6,076·8 feet. The Nautical Mile is (strictly speaking) the length of a minute of the meridian, and is thus identical with the geographical mile. In practice, however, it is taken as the Admiralty Knot of 6,080 feet, divided into 10 cables, which are assumed to be 100 fathoms, or 600 feet.

The Polar diameter of the Earth is 7,899 English miles. The mean equatorial diameter is 7,926 miles. The circumference at the Equator is 24,902 miles.

Measures of Heat.

The comparisons in col. 2 are of Thermometers constructed by Fahrenheit, Celsius and Réaumur. Gabriel Daniel Fahrenheit, F.R.S. (1686–1736), was born at Danzig, and lived a great part of his life in England and the Netherlands. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society in 1724. Anders Celsius (1701–1744), inventor of the Centigrade Thermometer, was born at Upsala, Sweden, and was for many years Professor of Astronomy at the University of Upsala. René Antoine Ferchault de Réaumur (1683–1757), was born at La Rochelle, France, and became known as "The Pliny of the XVIIIth Century" on account of his work as a Natural Historian.

CONVERSION.

Let F = Fahr.

C = Cent.

R = Réaumur.

Below 32° F. subtract 32.

NOTE.—The normal temperature of the human body is 98·4° F., or 37° (36·9°) C., or 29° 5' R. Freezing point = 32° F. = 0° C. = 0° R.; Boiling point = 212° F. = 100° C. = 80° R.

"Absolute" Temperature is Temperature reckoned from "Absolute Zero," which is at 273° C. below 0° C., 459·4° below 0° F., and 218·4° below 0° R. and is denoted by the letter "K."

Below 32° F. subtract 32.

Nautical Measures.

6 feet = 1 fathom.

100 fathoms = 1 cable length.

10 cables = 1 nautical mile.

60 nautical miles = 1 degree.

The assumed length of the cable is 600 feet (=182·87 metres), but it is strictly 606·97 feet (=185 metres). The conventional Nautical Mile (the Knot in speed measurements) is 10 cables, assumed at 6,080 feet (strictly 6,069·7 feet), but the Nautical Mile is strictly the length of a minute of the meridian and differs according to latitude. Ship Measurement.

The Ton-measurement of cargo was originally the space occupied by 4 hogsheds (= a Tun) of wine = 50 cubic feet. It is now 40 cubic feet, which is approximately the bulk of 4 quarters, or a short ton, of wheat.

The Ton-register, the unit of capacity of a ship, was originally the space occupied by a Last of 10 Quarters of wheat = 100 cubic feet. This cubic space is the Ton-register used by all maritime nations, 100 English cubic feet.

Gross tonnage is the sum in cubic feet of all the various enclosed spaces of a vessel, divided by 100.

Net tonnage is the gross tonnage less certain deductions on account of crew spaces, engine room, water ballast, and other spaces not used for passengers or cargo.

Dead-weight tonnage, or carrying capacity, is the number of tons (of 2,240 lb.) of cargo that a vessel is capable of carrying when charged to the load water line (q.v.).

Displacement tonnage is the number of tons of sea water displaced by a vessel when charged to the load water line (q.v.), i.e. it is the weight of vessel and contents in tons.

Load-water-line is the line that would be made round the shell of a vessel when loaded as deep as the minimum freeboard regulations permit.

Draught is the distance in feet from the lowest part of the bottom of a vessel to the actual water line at which the vessel is floating. Thus the load-water-line marks the greatest, or loaded, draught of a vessel. A vessel without any cargo in her hold or passengers or their luggage aboard is said to be "light ship," or "light," or "in ballast."

Free Board is the distance from the main or upper deck to the load-water-line of a vessel. As a general rule the minimum free board provides an amount of reserve buoyancy that will keep a vessel afloat with two compartments holed.

Bells and Watches on Board Ship.

Bells.—Time is kept by means of a bell, which is struck every half hour. Anyone who, in an effort to terminate his watch prematurely, strikes the bell early, is accused of "warming the bell," an expression which has grown to include the doing of anything before the appointed time.

Watches.—For purposes of discipline, and to divide the work fairly, the crew is mustered in two divisions: the Starboard (right side, looking forward) and the Port (left). The day commences at noon, and is thus divided:—

Watch.	Bells (in ½ hours).
Afternoon.....	noon to 4 p.m., 1 to 8.
First Dog.....	4 p.m. to 6 p.m., 1, 2, 3, 4.
†Last or ‡Second Dog.....	6 p.m. to 8 p.m., 1, 2, 3, 8.
First.....	8 p.m. to midnight, 1 to 8.
Middle.....	midnight to 4 a.m., 1 to 8.
Morning.....	4 a.m. to 8 a.m., 1 to 8.
Forenoon.....	8 a.m. to noon, 1 to 8.

† Last = Royal Navy.
‡ Second in Mercantile Marine.

This makes seven Watches, enabling the crew to keep them alternately, as the Watch which is on duty in the forenoon one day has the afternoon next day, and the men who have only four hours' rest one night have eight hours the next. This is the reason for having Dog Watches, which are made by dividing the hours between 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. into two Watches.

For TIME AT SEA see p. 190.

Speed of Ships.

The Knot is a measure of speed of ships. The following table shows the equivalents of 1 to 42 knots in land (statute) miles per hour:—

Knots.	Miles.	Knots.	Miles.	Knots.	Miles.

Measures of Energy, &amp;c.

In Physics the unit of force is the *dyn*e, the amount that, acting for one second on one gramme mass, gives it a velocity of one centimetre per second. The British unit is the poundal, which in one second gives one pound a velocity of one foot per second. One poundal = 13,825·5 dynes. In Meteorology the unit of atmospheric pressure is the Bar, equal to the pressure of 1,000,000 dynes (1 megadyne) per sq. centimetre. The Meteorological Bar is thus 1,000,000 Chemical Bars.

Horse power is energy exerted at the rate of 550 foot-pounds per second; an alternative unit is the kilowatt (102 kilogram-meters per second) = 737·59 foot pounds per second.

Thermal Unit.—The British Thermal Unit (B.Th.U.) is the amount of heat required to raise one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit. The Gas Therm = 100,000 B.Th.U. If V = cu. ft. consumed, H = declared heat value of the Company's gas (in B.Th.U. per cu. ft.), P = cost of therm in pence, B = total bill in pence—then  $B = V \times H \times P \div 100,000$ , whence equivalent cost (in pence) per 1,000 cu. ft. =  $B \times 1,000 \div V = H \times P \div 100$ .

Yarn Measures.

Cotton and Spun Silk Count.—

Thread = 1½ yards.

Lea or Skein, skn. = 120 yards.

Hank, hk. = 7 Skeins, or Leas = 840 yards.

Spindle, spdl. = 18 Hanks.

Counts = the number of Hanks in 1 lb.

Bundle Hanks, either of 5 lb. or 10 lb.

Reels of cotton vary from 30 to 1,760 yards; they must be marked correctly.

Bundles of Cotton are chiefly made up for export.

Worsted Count.—Wrap, 80 yards; Hank = 560 yards = 7 Wraps; Counts or Numbers are the number of hanks in a lb.

Linen Count.—The Hank or Lea is 300 yards, and the number of these in 1 lb. is the count of the yarn. A Spindle is 48 hanks; a Bundle is 200 hanks.

West of England Count.—The Hank is 320 yards, and the number of hanks in 1 lb. is the count of the yarn.

NOTE.—Books are usually bound up in sheets of 16 or 32 pages. Octavo books are generally printed 64 pages at a time (32 pages on each side of a sheet of quad); a crown octavo book of 320 pages will therefore require 5 sheets of quad crown, and a ream will provide 100 books, the odd 16 sheets being reckoned as waste. Newspapers (and books circulating in large numbers) are printed on rotary presses, for which the paper is supplied on reels (and not in cut reams). "Whitaker" is printed on a rotary press, 192 pages at a time, the paper being served to the press from a reel, and 6 sheets of 32 pages are delivered, printed and folded, at the opposite end of the press.

Sizes of Type.

The type chiefly used in "Whitaker" is named Nonpareil (6 point). The column contains 75 lines, and is 12 Pica ems wide; on an average every column contains about 3,000 letters, or 600 words.

All Founders cast their type to one uniform height ("typehigh"), which is 1½ inch. Individual letters vary in breadth, but the "body" of each character is of uniform depth throughout the alphabet in each fount. The unit of breadth is the Pica M (Em) 6 of which, side by side, occupy one inch of space. The unit of depth is the Point (72 Points = 1 inch), so that 6 lines of 12 Point occupy 1 inch in depth. The names and sizes of the various founts are:—

Brilliant (3½ point). A column the size of this in "Whitaker," if set in Brilliant would contain 124 lines, and about 7,500 letters.

Diamond (4½ point) is the next size; the column would contain 107 lines, and about 6,000 letters.

CORRECTING FOR THE PRESS.

Copyright by WILLIAM CLOWES & SONS, LTD., Printers of "WHITAKER'S ALMANACK."

The following extract is set up incorrectly in order to explain the conventional methods of correcting for the Press:—

<sup>1</sup> 0/ The process of printing, when compared with that of writing, is unquestionably a ~~cheaper~~ process; provided a <sup>2</sup> ~~cheape~~ sufficient number of any particular book are printed, so <sup>4</sup> # as to render the proportion of the first expense upon a single copy inconsiderable. If, for example, it were required, even at the present ~~moment~~ time, to print a single copy, or even three <sup>6</sup> = copies or four, only of any production, the cost of printing would be greater than the cost of transcribing. <sup>8</sup> 9/ <sup>10</sup> trs.

1. Is the mark for changing the wrong letter in the word process.
2. To substitute one word for another.
- 3 and 21. The first is the method of marking a short insertion, the second of marking a long one
4. To have a space put between the two words.
5. To turn a letter which has been placed upside down.
6. To close the word in which a space has been improperly left.
- 7 and 8. To take away (~~dele~~, blot out) a superfluous letter or word.
- 9, 12, and 22. Different marks for transposing the arrangement of letters, words, or sentences.
10. To have no fresh paragraph.
11. To substitute a comma for a full-point or period.
12. To commence a new paragraph.
- 13, 19, 21, and 27. To insert points and marks of quotation.
14. To have any particular part printed in italic.
15. To have words or letters printed in 'lower case,' or small letters; Roman is always understood, unless otherwise directed.
16. To have a word remain which has been accidentally or erroneously marked. Set is the Latin for 'let it stand.'
17. Points out a letter which does not match with the others: a 'wrong fount.'
- 18 and 23. To have certain parts printed in small or full capitals.
19. To set straight whatever may stand crooked.
20. To remove the unnecessary black mark between the words, which arises from what should form the space not having been pushed down,

METRIC WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

See also "Double Conversion Tables for Weights and Measures."

In addition to the Imperial standard weights and measures, the use of the French or Metric system of weights and measures was made permissive in Great Britain in 1897.

In the Metric system, the standard of length is the METRE, the standard of weight is the KILOGRAM, and the standard of capacity is the LITRE. Accurate copies of the Metre, Kilogram, and Litre are kept in the custody of the Standards Office of the Board of Trade.

1.—MEASURES OF LENGTH.

10 millimetres = 1 centimetre	= 0.39370113 inch.
(mm.)	(cm.)
10 centimetres = 1 decimetre	= 3.9370113 inches.
	(dm.)
10 decimetres = 1 METRE (m)	= 1.0936143 yards.
10 metres ... = 1 dekametre	= 10.936143 yards.
	(dam.)
10 dekametres = 1 hectometre	= 109.36143 yards.
10 hectometres = 1 kilometre	= 0.62137 mile.
	(km.)

A kilometre is approximately five eighths of a mile, so that 8 kilometres may be regarded by pedestrians as 5 miles.

2.—MEASURES OF WEIGHT.

10 milligrams = 1 centigram	= 0.15432 grains.
(mg.)	(cg.)
10 centigrams = 1 decigram	= 1.5432 "
	(dg.)
10 decigrams = 1 gramme	= 15.4323 "
	(gm.)
10 grammes = 1 dekagram	= 5.6438 drams.
	(dag.)
10 dekagrams = 1 hectogram	= 3.5274 oz.
	(hg.)
10 hectograms = 1 KILOGRAM	= 2.2046223 lb.
	(kg.)
10 kilograms = 1 myriagram	= 22.046223 lb.
10 myriagrams = 1 quintal (q.)	= 1.9684 cwt.
10 quintals ... = 1 tonne (t.)	= 0.9842 ton.

3.—MEASURES OF CAPACITY.

10 millilitres = 1 centilitre	= 0.0704 gill.
(mil.)	(cl.)
10 centilitres = 1 decilitre (dl.)	= 0.17598 pint.
10 decilitres = 1 LITRE (lit.)	= 1.7598 pints.
10 litres ..... = 1 dekalitre	= 2.1997 gals.
	(dal.)
10 dekalitres = 1 hectolitre	= 2.7497 bushels.
	(hl.)
1 cubic cm. (water) = 1 gram; 1,000 cubic cm. (water) or 1 litre = 1 kilogram; 1 cubic metre (1,000 litres, 1,000 kilograms) = 1 metric ton.

4.—MEASURES OF LAND.

100 sq. metres = 1 are (a.)	..... = 0.0988 rood.
100 ares ..... = 1 hectare (ha.)	= 2.4721 acres.
100 hectares = 1 sq. kilometre	= 0.38611 sq. mile.

NOTES.

1 hectolitre.....	= 2.75 bushels.
1 hectolitre per hectare	= 1.11 bushels per acre.
1 quintal .....	= 3.67 bushels.
1 quintal per hectare ...	= 1.49 bushels per acre.
1 franc a hectolitre .....	= 3.6d. a bushel (par).
1 " a quintal ...	= { 4.3d. a cental (par).
	{ 21.3d. a quarter (par).
7 francs " (duty).....	= 12s.6d. a quarter (par).

THE UNITED STATES.

Weight.—In the short ton of 2,000 lb., the Cental of 100 lb. takes the place of the Cwt. in the long ton. There are two tons, therefore, the long ton of 2,240 lb., the short ton of 2,000 lb.

Capacity.—For grain, the old bushel of 2,150.42 cubic inches; its gallon = 268.8 cubic inches. This is commonly called the Winchester bushel, though really of the slightly different London standard.

For liquids, the old wine-gallon of 231 cubic inches, five-sixths of the British gallon and = 58.3778 grains of water. It is divided into 8 pints = 7.2897 grains of water = 16.6 Imperial ounces. In medicine the pint is divided into 16 fluid ounces = 455.6 grains of water, and the ounce into 8 fluid drachms of 60 minims.

BRITISH DOMINIONS.

Australia and New Zealand.—Same as British.
Canada.—Same as British but with short ton of 2,000 lb., as in U.S.A.

Newfoundland.—Same as British.

Channel Islands.

The weights and measures in use in the Channel Islands are those of Great Britain, the cental of 100 lb. being used as well as the cwt. of 112 lb. The Old Island Measures are as follows:—
Vergée (Normandy	Jersey.	Guernsey.
rood) .....	= 0.44 acre	0.4 acre.
Bushel.....	= 8.9 gallons	5.8 gallons.
Pound .....	= 7.561 grains	7.623 grains.
Cwt. ....(104 lb.)	= 112.3 lb.	(100 lb.) = 108.9 lb.
British India.

British India.

Ungul .....	= 0.75 inch.
Guz, usually 33 inches; also the yard.
Koss .....	= 2,000 yards.
Bigha (Bengal) .....	usually = 0.625 acre.
Cawny (Madras) .....	" = 1.33 "
Tola (rupee-weight).....	= 180 grains.
Chittak .....	= 2.0571 oz.
Seer, 16 chittak, or 80 tolas .....	= 2.0571 lb.
Maund, 40 seers .....	= 82.284 lb.
" (Bombay) ..	= 27.864 lb.
" (Madras) .....	= 24.68 lb.
Seer (Liquid) .....	= 1.760 pints.
Candy ..	= 500 lb.
Visham = 3 lb.; Dangali .....	= 3 pints.
Parah ..	= 15 gallons.
Catty (Singapore).....	= 1½ lb.
Pikul .....	= 100 catties = 133 lb.

Irish Free State.—Same as British.

Malta.

The Metric System.
Old Maltese Measures.

1 Palmo = 10.3125 inches.
8 Palmi = 1 canna = 6 ft. 10½ inches.
1 sq. Canna = 47.26 sq. feet.
256 sq. Canna = 1 tumulo = 6 mondelli = 12.700 sq. feet.
1 mondello = 10 misure.
1 are = 3 tumuli, 3 mondelli, 6 misure.

Sudan.—See Egypt.

South Africa.

The Metric System is compulsory in the case of chemists, and is permissible (along with British weights and measures) in other cases. In addition, the following old Dutch measures are still used:—Liquid Measure: Leaguer = about 128 imperial gallons; half aum = 15½ imperial gallons; anker = 7½ imperial gallons. Capacity: Muid = 3 bushels. The general surface measure is Morgen, equal to 1.165402 acres; 1,000 Cape lineal feet are equal to 1.033 British feet. The short ton of 2,000 lb. is used.

FOREIGN WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

The Metric System has been adopted by the whole of Europe (except Great Britain) and is permissive in all countries.

China.

Tael weight	=	1'33 oz.	Ch'ih	=	1'175 feet.
Catty	"	=	1'33 lb.	Chang	=	11'75 feet.
Picul	"	=	133'33 lb.	Li	.....	=	2,115 feet.
Ts'un	.....	=	1'41 inches.

Egypt.

The Metric System of Weights and Measures and the foot and pound and their multiples, are legal in Egypt. The foot and pound are rarely used and the Metric System is little known except in the large towns.

The Weights and Measures in common use, with their British equivalents, are as follows:—

Length—

Dira Baladi (used for piece goods)	=	29'83 inches.
Dira Mamari, or Pic (used by architects)	.....	= 29'53 inches.
Qasaba (used for agricultural land)	=	11'65 feet.

Area—

1 Qirat	=	209'3 sq. yards;	1 Feddân (=24 qirats)	=	1'038 acres.
---------	---	------------------	-----------------------	---	--------------

Capacity—

1 Kêla	=	0'454 bushel;	1 Ardeb (=12 kêlas)	=	5'444 bushels.
--------	---	---------------	---------------------	---	----------------

Weight—

1 Rotl	=	0'99 lb.;	1 Oke	=	2'75 lb.;	1 Qantar (=100 rotls)	=	99'05 lb.
--------	---	-----------	-------	---	-----------	-----------------------	---	-----------

A Qantar of unguined cotton = 315 lb., of ginned cotton = 100 lb.; an Ardeb of wheat = 150 kilogrammes, of barley = 120 kilogrammes, of beans = 155 kilogrammes, of maize = 140 kilogrammes, of whole lentils = 157 kilogrammes, of split lentils = 132 kilogrammes.

Germany.

The Metric System.

Old Prussian Land Measure.

Morgen (3050 sq. yds. or 0'63 English acre) is still in general use.

Greece.

1 ocque	=	2'84 lb.	1 livre	=	1'1 lb.
1 quintal	=	132'2 lb.	1 drachma	=	0'11 oz.

Japan and Formosa.

The Metric System from July 1, 1924.

Old Japanese Measures.

Shaku (10 Sun).....	=	11'931 inches.
Ken (6 Shaku).....	=	1'9884 yards.

Square ri.....	=	5'9553 sq. miles.
Cho.....	=	5'423 chains.
Square cho.....	=	2'4507 acres.
Tsubo.....	=	3'9538 sq. yards.
Liquid koku.....	=	39'7033 gallons.
Dry koku.....	=	4'9629 bushels.
Koku of capacity	=	0'1 ton.
Liquid sho.....	=	1'5881 quarts.
Dry sho.....	=	0'1985 pecks.
Kin (160 Momme)	=	1'3228 lb.
Kwan (1000 Momme)	=	8'2673 lb.

U.S.S.R.

The Metric System from Jan. 1, 1927.

Old Russian Measures.

Standard of length the Sajen, equal to seven British feet; standard of weight the Funt = 0'90282 lb.

Length.

16 vershok	=	1 arshin.
3 arshin	=	1 sajen.
500 sajen	=	1 verst.
1 verst	=	1166'66 yards (0'66288 mile).

Surface.

1 sq. vershok	=	3'0625 sq. inches.
1 sq. arshin	=	5'4444 sq. feet.
1 sq. sajen	=	5'4444 sq. yards.
1 sq. verst	=	0'4394 sq. miles.

Weight.

1 zolotnik	=	65'8306 grains.
3 zolotnik	=	1 loth.
32 loth	=	1 funt.
40 funt	=	1 pood (36'1128 lb.).
10 poods	=	1 berkovatz.

Capacity.

1 tcharka	=	0'2164 pint.
1 shottof (10 tcharkas)	=	1'0822 quarts.
1 vedro (10 shottofs)	=	2'705 British gallons.
1 chetvert (8 chetveriks)	=	5'771 British bushels.

Siam.

REPAYMENT OF PUBLIC LOANS.

SUMS needed annually for the liquidation of a debt (principal and interest) of £100, at the stated percentage, in 5 to 80 years. If the loan be for £1,000, each annual instalment must be multiplied by 10, and so on. Thus, a Municipal Loan of £1,000,000 at 5 per cent., repayable in 80 years, would cost the ratepayers £51,031 5s. annually for that period, and would then be extinguished.

REDEMPTION OF CAPITAL BY ANNUAL PAYMENTS.

THE following are the rates charged by certain first-class Insurance Companies for "Redemption Policies," to secure the payment of £100 in return for so many annual premiums, e.g., an Insurance Company will undertake to pay £100 on Midsummer Day, 1951, in return for the payment of £2 5s. 2d. on Midsummer Day, 1923, and each year afterwards until 1950, or 28 payments in all; for £1,000 the annual premium would be £22 11s. 8d., and so on. This table is of particular interest to purchasers of Leasehold property, as it enables such purchasers to see, at a glance, the amount to be paid out of the income from the property for a redemption policy to provide the sum originally expended (with a margin for dilapidations, if necessary), by the time the leasehold interest has expired.

THE RULE OF THE ROAD.

The Rule of the Road is a paradox quite, For in driving your carriage along, If you bear to the left you are sure to go right, If you bear to the right you go wrong. But in walking the streets 'tis a different case, To the right it is right you should steer, On the left should be left enough of clear space For the people who wish to walk there.

THE WALKER'S MAXIMS.

(From The Times, April 9, 1930).
Two rules the walker must obey
If he would reach his home to-day—
On Roadway always keep the Right
On Footpath just the op-po-site.

G. BUCKSTON BROWNE.

THE RULE OF THE ROAD AT SEA.

1. Two steamships meeting.

When both side-lights you see ahead,
Starb'd your helm, and show your RED.

2. Two steamships passing.

GREEN to GREEN, or RED to RED,
Perfect safety—Go a-head!

3. Two steamships crossing.

If to your starboard RED appear,
It is your duty to keep clear;
To act as judgment says is proper;—
To Port—or Starboard—Back, or Stop her.
But when upon your port is seen
A Steamer's starboard light of GREEN,
There's not so much for you to do,
For GREEN to Port keeps clear of you.
Both in safety and in doubt,
Always keep a good look-out;
In danger, with no room to turn,
Ease her—stop her—go astern.

When the annuity is payable at the beginning instead of at the end of the year, the amount for the following year, less £1, must be taken. Thus, for £1 at 25 per cent. for 25 years, take 26 years, 2'36'012, and deduct £1, £35'011.

"Right Honourable."—Members of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council are entitled to be designated "The Right Honourable," but, in practice, this prefix is sometimes absorbed in other designations; for example, a Prince of the Blood admitted a Privy Counsellor remains "His Royal Highness"; a Duke remains "His Grace"; a Marquess is still styled "Most Honourable." In the case of Earls, Viscounts and Barons a question has lately been raised whether peers of these three degrees are entitled to be called "Right Honourable" if not Privy Counsellors. While not presuming to make a statement in settlement of the question, the Editor feels bound to direct attention to the recital of Modes of Address of Peers of these three degrees (on pages 233, 237 and 240 of present Edition). The Style appearing in these headings has been recited in this manner for more than sixty years in WHITAKER, and appears to be evidence of a long standing custom; moreover, it is borne out in each instance, in A Manual of Dignities, by C. R. Dodd (Whitaker & Co., 1842), and in The Book of the Court, by W. J. Thoms, F.S.A., "Dedicated by Command to the Queen" (H. G. Bohn, 1844). Earlier evidence of the courtesy could no doubt be produced. Chief Magistrates entitled to the prefix will be found on p. 632.

EXAMPLE 1.—What is the present value of a Lease having 37 years to run of the net annual value of £100, interest being reckoned at 4 per cent.? ANSWER:—£127 years purchase, or £12,914.

EXAMPLE 2.—A man, aged 56, in the receipt of a pension or annuity of £100 a year net, wishes to commute that for a present payment, interest being reckoned at 5 per cent. How much will he receive? ANSWER:—Looking at the Table of Expectation of Life (q.v.), it will be seen that the expectation for age 56 is about 17 years; and from the above table an annuity certain for 17 years interest at 5 per cent., is worth 1127 years purchase. The present payment required would therefore be £1,27 approximately.

NOTE to Example 2.—This method is only approximate. The values of annuities which depend on lives of a given present age, when properly calculated according to a given mortality table and a given rate of interest, are always somewhat less than those given by the method used in this example.

THE BRITISH ISLES.

THE LAST DAYS OF KING GEORGE V.

(1935) Nov. 4. Duke of York announced that King George's Jubilee Trust Fund was approximately £1,000,000 and that £100,000 would be spent, mostly for existing national organisations. 6. Duke of Gloucester was married to Lady Alice Scott in private chapel at Buckingham Palace. Great crowds cheered the bride as she drove from her home, and after ceremony Duke and Duchess were warmly greeted on the Palace balcony and as they went to station on their way to Boughton House for their honeymoon. 11. Because of the weather, the King did not attend Armistice Day ceremony at the Cenotaph, Duke of York laying his wreath on the memorial before hushed crowds. Duke and Duchess attended British Legion demonstration, and Prince of Wales was at festival of remembrance in Edinburgh. 14. King George of the Hellenes left London for Athens. 19. Decorations awarded by the King for heroism during Quetta earthquake announced, recipients including 46 women. 20. Son of Duke and Duchess of Kent was christened in private chapel at Buckingham Palace, King and Queen as principal godparents being present. 25. Prince of Wales and Duke of York attended funeral of Earl Jellicoe in St. Paul's Cathedral. 30. Duke and Duchess of Gloucester returned to London. Dec. 1. King and Queen visited Chinese Art Exhibition at Burlington House. 2. Owing to serious illness of Princess Victoria, King George's sister, the State Opening of Parliament was cancelled. It was announced that Her Royal Highness, who had not been in good health for three weeks, was suffering from severe hemorrhage and that transfusion of blood had only been of temporary benefit. 3. Princess Victoria died peacefully at 3.35 a.m. Court went into mourning for six weeks. 7. King and Queen, King and Queen of Norway and King of Denmark and members of British Royal Family attended funeral of Princess Victoria at St. George's Chapel, Windsor. 16. Duchess of York suffering from a chill. 17. Queen and Duchess of Kent attended première of a British film. 19. Announced that Duchess of York was making satisfactory progress towards recovery from attack of influenza. 21. King and Queen went to Sandringham. 25. King broadcast Christmas message to the Empire from Sandringham, where he and the Queen were joined by Prince of Wales, Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret, Duke and Duchess of Gloucester, and Duke and Duchess of Kent. Duke and Duchess of York remained at Royal Lodge, Windsor, owing to latter's illness. His Majesty referred with feeling to the spontaneous offering of loyalty and love called forth by his Silver Jubilee. 26. King awarded V.C. posthumously to Capt. Godfrey Meynell, killed in action in India with all the 30 men under his command in stand against Mohmand tribesmen. 30. Announced that Duchess of York had had attack of influenzal pneumonia which was resolving. (1936) Jan. 1. New Year's Honours List included viscounties for Lord Hanworth and Lord Trenchard, four baronies, and D.B.E. for Pankhurst of Abercorn and Miss Christabel Pankhurst. 8. Body of Princess Victoria reburied at Frogmore. 15. King was riding in grounds of Sandringham.

DEATH OF KING GEORGE V.

(1936) Jan. 17. It was announced from Sandringham that King George was suffering from bronchial catarrh and that signs of cardiac weakness were regarded with some disquiet. Prince of Wales went by special train to Wolferton and motored to Sandringham. Oxygen apparatus was sent from London. 18. Although the King had some hours of restful sleep, the cardiac weakness and embarrassment of the circulation increased and gave cause for anxiety. 19. His Majesty, it was announced, maintained strength and passed quiet day. Prince of Wales and Duke of York motored to London, and Duke of Kent and Archbishop of Canterbury went to Sandringham. Crowds gathered outside Buckingham Palace to read bulletins, and prayers were said in churches of all denominations throughout the Empire. 20. In the country house that he loved so dearly, King George the Fifth, in his 71st year and 26th year of his reign, passed away peacefully at five minutes before midnight in presence of the Queen, Prince of Wales, Duke of York, Princess Royal and Duke and Duchess of Kent. Earlier in the day Prince of Wales had flown to Sandringham, and Privy Council was held to appoint Counsellors of State to act for the dying Sovereign, who, however, was too weak to sign the document. Nation was prepared by bulletin in late afternoon and at 9.25 p.m. it was stated: "The King's life is moving peacefully towards its close," a sorrowing Empire hearing the news on the wireless. The end was announced soon after midnight in the poignant words: "Death came peacefully to the King." 21. Coffin containing body of King George was borne on hand-bier to Sandringham Parish Church, followed on foot by Queen Mary, Princess Royal, Duke and Duchess of Kent and Lord Harewood. Tributes arrived from rulers and peoples of the world. 22. Thousands of people filed past the coffin of King George guarded by four foresters. Queen Mary, Princess Royal and Duke of Kent visited the church, and later King Edward and Duke of Gloucester prayed beside coffin. 23. King Edward and his three brothers walked behind body of their royal father as it was borne on gun-carriage from parish church to Sandringham station, Queen Mary, Princess Royal and her three daughters-in-law driving. At many points along train route people watched reverently. Dense crowds lined streets in London as their beloved Sovereign's body passed on gun-carriage, the coffin being draped with Royal Standard on which lay the Crown. Behind walked his four sons. The coffin was taken to Westminster Hall, where in presence of Queen Mary and all the Royal Family with Peers and M.P.'s a short impressive service was held. Both Houses adopted resolutions of condolence and loyalty. 24. Vast pilgrimage of mourners began to file past King George's body, lying in State in Westminster Hall, guarded continuously by Life Guards, Gentlemen-at-Arms and Yeomen of the Guard. 27. Nearly a million people had paid homage to a noble Sovereign by the time doors of Westminster Hall had to be closed. Queen Mary and most of members of Royal Family and foreign mourners passed through the hall on last evening, and at midnight King Edward,

Duke of York, Duke of Gloucester and Duke of Kent, in full uniform, kept vigil beside body of their father, standing motionless with the other guardians for over quarter of an hour, while public continued to file past the catafalque. 28. Multitudes of sorrowing people, in London and at Windsor, paid final tribute to King George as his body was taken from Westminster Hall to its last resting-place in St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Whole route to Paddington was thronged with silent crowds as the funeral procession moved slowly along. The gun-carriage bearing the coffin, draped in the Royal Standard, was drawn by sailors, and behind walked King Edward and his three brothers. Then followed Kings of Norway, Denmark and Rumania, the French President, King of the Belgians, King of Bulgaria and representatives of every country in the world. Queen Mary, accompanied by Queen of Norway, Princess Royal and Duchess of York, were in a glass coach. The Services were represented by many detachments. At Windsor, scene in the chapel was beautiful and impressive. As coffin sank into vault, King Edward cast handful of earth upon it, and then, with his mother, returned to London. Two minutes' silence was observed throughout the Empire during the service. 29. Great crowds inspected thousands of wreaths covering lawns outside St. George's Chapel.

CRICKET.

Cricket is played under the "Laws of Cricket" and is governed by the Committee of the Marylebone Cricket Club, Lord's, N.W.1.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP TABLE, 1936.

The first County Championship was in 1873 when Gloucestershire and Nottinghamshire finished equal on points. Yorkshire won 18 times; Surrey 9; Nottingham 8; Kent 4; Middlesex 4; Gloucester 2; Derby 2; Warwick 1; Norths and Lancs tied in 1879 and 1882, and Norths, Lancs and Surrey equal in 1889.

Points.—Side leading on 1st innings, 5 pts.; side losing on 1st innings, 3 pts.; no result on 2nd innings, 4 pts. each. Scores equal on 1st innings, 4 pts. each. Where there is no play on the first two days the match will come under the laws for one day games, except that a side may not declare its first innings closed until it has batted for at least sixty minutes. In this case, should the match be decided on the first innings, the winners will score ten points and their opponents three points. Matches in which no play takes place will not be included in the table.

OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE.

Principal Events and Winners, 1935-6.

The first Cricket Match between Oxford and Cambridge was on June 4, 1827, on Lord's Ground: the result was "unfished." Annual contests started in 1838.

In Rowing, Oxford and Cambridge met in 1829 at Henley (Bamledon Lock to Henley Bridge, 2½ miles), and Oxford won easily in 14 min. 30 sec. The next match was in 1836 from Westminster to Putney, and Cambridge won in 6 min.; but for several years Henley regatta was used for the match. The first regularly annual race on the Tideway was in 1836.

The Athletic Sports were instituted in 1864, and the first meeting was on Christ Church Cricket Ground. Since 1863, London has always been the ground.

In South America .. .. .	97,800	320,000
In Oceania .. .. .	3,300,000	9,000,000
Total .. .. .	13,909,782	493,370,000

GEOGRAPHICAL DISTRIBUTION.—The British Empire occupies over one-quarter of the known surface of the globe, and its population exceeds one quarter of the estimated number of the human race. The total area is distributed almost equally over the Northern and Southern Hemispheres, but more than two-thirds lie in the Eastern and less than one-third in the Western Hemisphere.

ETHNOLOGY.—The estimated white population of the Dominions in 1931 was 70,000,000, mainly British and Irish, but partly French, Dutch, and Spanish. The remaining 430,000,000 include 360,000,000 of the native races of India and Ceylon, 40,000,000 black races, 6,000,000 Arabs, 6,000,000 Malays, 1,000,000 Chinese, and 1,000,000 Polynesians, with various other elements, including 100,000 "Red Indians" in Canada.

RELIGIONS.—Of the total population over 210,000,000 are Hindus, 100,000,000 Muhammadans, 80,000,000 Christians (67,000,000 Protestants, 13,000,000 Roman Catholics), 12,000,000 Buddhists, 12,000,000 Animists, 4,000,000 Sikhs, Jains and Parsees, 750,000 Jews, and the remainder with tribal religions.

CONSTITUTION AND GOVERNMENT.—There is no fundamental law upon which the Constitution of the British Empire rests, but there are three main principles underlying its administration, viz., self-government, self-support, and self-defence. The first of these principles has been applied for many years, and is fully developed in the case of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, the Union of South Africa, and the Irish Free State. The second principle is equally developed, almost every unit being financially self-supporting, and few requiring aid from the central Government. The third principle is of modern growth, and may be said to be the outcome of the Imperial Conference.

THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.—The origin of the Imperial Conference may be traced to the presence in London (in 1887) of the Prime Ministers of the various Dominions, at the celebrations of the Jubilee of Queen Victoria. Similar gatherings took place in London in 1897, 1902, 1907 and 1911, and in 1907 the title of "Colonial" Conference was changed to Imperial Conference. At the earlier meetings the Colonial Secretary presided, but with the change of title additional importance was given to the assembly by the assumption of the Presidency by the Prime Minister of Great Britain. In 1917 and 1918 the Conference, which was held concurrently with the sessions of the Imperial War Cabinet, was called the Imperial War Conference, and was held under the Chairmanship of the Secretary of State for the Colonies. In 1921, the Premiers' Conference, under the Presidency of the Prime Minister of Great Britain, discussed all matters of general interest to the Empire as a whole. The constitution of the Conference, which again met in London in 1923, 1926 and 1930, and at Ottawa (for the discussion of economic questions) in 1932, is as follows:—The Prime Ministers and other Ministers of the United Kingdom, Canada, Commonwealth of Australia, New Zealand, Union of South Africa and the Irish Free State, the Secretary of State for India and other representatives of India. The Secretariat of the Conference is provided by the Governments represented.

SELF-GOVERNMENT.—(1) Great Britain.—The Constitution recognises certain great principles, including the fair administration of justice, the prohibition of taxation without the consent of the people, and a limited monarchy, the power of the monarch being, in effect, wielded by a Ministry supported by a majority of the House of Commons, the members of which House are elected on a wide franchise, exercised by electors of both sexes. The component parts of the British Government are the King; the Legislature (House of Lords and House of Commons); the Executive, appointed by the Sovereign and responsible to Parliament; and the Judicature.

(2) The Indian Empire.—India is governed by the King as Emperor, acting on the advice of the Secretary of State for India, who is assisted by a Council whose members are appointed by the Secretary of State. The latter is responsible to, and represents the authority of, Parliament. Subject to the Secretary of State's direction, the supreme executive authority in India is the Governor-General and his Executive Council, with a legislature of two houses, the Council of State of 60 members (of whom not more than 20 are government officials), and the Legislative Assembly of 145 members (26 official).

(3) The Dominions, &c.—The position and mutual relation of Great Britain and the Dominions (Canada, the Commonwealth of Australia, New Zealand, the Union of South Africa and the Irish Free State) were defined by the Imperial Conference of 1926 in the following terms:—

"They are autonomous Communities within the British Empire, equal in status, in no way subordinate one to another in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs, though united by a common allegiance to the Crown, and freely associated as members of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

By the passage of the Statute of Westminster 1931 provision was made for the removal of certain restrictions on the legislative autonomy of the Dominions.

As regards Newfoundland, in accordance with arrangements made in 1933, to which effect was given by the Newfoundland Act 1933, the constitution of Newfoundland was temporarily suspended, and the government is carried on by a Commission of Government responsible to the Government of the United Kingdom.

Southern Rhodesia is a self-governing colony possessing responsible government, but subject to certain reservations.

Malta was accorded self-government in 1921, but in 1930 the constitution was suspended; after restoration in 1930 the constitution was again suspended on Nov. 2, 1933.

(a) The Colonial Empire.—Colonies may be divided into three classes, according to the way in which they are governed:—

(a) Where there is government by legislative assembly wholly or partly elected, and an executive council nominated by the Crown or the Governor representing the Crown. In this class may be placed Northern Rhodesia, the Bahamas, Barbados, Bermuda, British Guiana, Jamaica, Leeward Islands, and Mauritius.

(b) Where there is government by a Governor acting with an executive and a legislative council, the councils being nominated by the Crown or a Governor representing the Crown. Dependencies so governed include Ceylon, Falkland Islands, Fiji, Gambia, Gibraltar, Kenya, Nigeria, St. Vincent, Sierra Leone, Straits Settlements, Tanganyika, Trinidad.

(c) Wherein both legislative and executive powers are vested in the Governor alone. In this class are Labuan and St. Helena, where power is also reserved to the Crown to legislate by Order in Council. In South Africa, Bechuanaland, Basutoland, and Swaziland are governed in substantially the same way, but no power is reserved to the Crown.

(d) Protectorates. The protectorates are countries which, as regards their foreign relations, are under the exclusive control of the Crown. The protectorates of the British Empire include Nyasaland, Somaliland, Swaziland, Uganda.

(e) Spheres of Influence. A sphere of influence may be described as an area wherein other Powers undertake not to attempt to acquire influence or territory by treaty or annexation; such British spheres exist in the Persian Gulf and in Arabia.

(f) Mandatory Spheres, where the responsibility for securing good government and a reasonable development of natural resources is confided to an already established government by mandate from the League of Nations. Such British spheres are parts of the former German Colonies in West Africa, and the former Turkish government of Palestine.

SELF-SUPPORT.—With but few exceptions the British Dominions are self-supporting, revenue being raised locally to meet the expenditure. Occasional grants are made by the Central Government to meet exceptional expenditure, or in aid of administration in the earlier stages of development. Certain capital expenses are also undertaken from time to time by the Central Authority, e.g., the Nigerian purchase, the Uganda Railway, &c. No taxes are imposed on the subjects of a Dominion or Colony by the Central Government, as such subjects are not directly represented in the British House of Commons; this principle, "No taxation without representation," was the mainspring of the revolt in the North American Colonies at the close of the eighteenth century. Since that disastrous attempt to impose taxes without the consent of the taxpayers, the principle, which had for many years been accepted in Great Britain, has become an accepted maxim of British Overseas administration.

SELF-DEFENCE.—The Dominions, generally, provide for the defence of their immediate area, but the general strategical defence of the Empire is undertaken by the United Kingdom Government. Questions affecting general strategical defence are considered and determined by the Imperial Defence Committee, which co-ordinates the work of the sea, land and air forces. In the Great War of 1914-1918 the Dominions provided Armies or Contingents, which fought in every area and bore a full share of the sacrifices by which victory was achieved. The land and air forces of the Dominions are maintained at the expense of the Dominions concerned. The amounts provided for Naval Defence in the estimates of the under-mentioned parts of the Empire for the year 1930-31 are as follows:—Great Britain £51,739,000; Canada $3,600,000; Australia £1,778,633; New Zealand £675,480 (including £125,000 as a contribution towards the Naval Base at Singapore, and £100,000 interest and sinking fund on account of H.M.S. New Zealand); Union of South Africa £78,560. The proportion of expenditure on Naval Defence to the total Import and Export trade of these parts of the Empire is as follows: Great Britain 3.04 per cent.; Canada 0.15 per cent.; Australia 1.06 per cent.; New Zealand 0.77 per cent.; Union of South Africa 0.043 per cent. Per capita of population the expenditure is, Great Britain £1 2s. 7d.; Canada 36 cents; Australia 5s. 6d.; New Zealand 9s. 1d.; Union of South Africa (European population only) 10s. 4d. As regards Colonies not possessing responsible governments, contributions to Imperial Defence are paid to the War Office.

THE LEGISLATURE.—The Parliament of Great Britain is the supreme legislative authority of the Empire. This Parliament has, with the consent of the King-Emperor, delegated its legislative authority to other parliaments constituted by itself, while retaining a general supervision of Imperial affairs. The Secretaries of State for the Dominions and Colonies are Cabinet Ministers, their active participation in the government of the nations of the Empire decreasing with the measure of self-government accorded to each. Parliament also exercises a control over Indian affairs through a Secretary of State.

THE JUDICATURE.—The Supreme Judicial Authority of the Empire is the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, before which appeals may be brought (in the form of a petition to the Crown) from Consular Courts and Courts of Vice-Admiralty, and from the Courts of India and every British Dominion. The Committee (see p. 373) consists of such members of the Privy Council as have held or are holding high judicial office, provision being made for the inclusion of representatives of India and the self-governing Dominions. India and the Dominions have each a judicial system, with judges appointed by the Crown. The Supreme Judicial Authority for Great Britain and Northern Ireland is the House of Lords.

EDUCATION.—Universities (see pp. 447-458) and University Colleges have been established and degrees are conferred. Under the will of Cecil Rhodes scholarships were founded at Oxford, his old University, for students from the British Dominions and Colonies, the United States of America and Germany. British Dominions & Colonies. Rhodes Scholarships, of the annual value of £400 tenable at any college at Oxford, are awarded in each State or Province of Canada, Australia and South Africa (where there are also scholarships for Rhodesia and for certain towns and schools in Cape Colony). In New Zealand, Newfoundland, Jamaica, Bermuda and Malta. United States of America. 4 Rhodes Scholarships are assigned annually to each of 8 regions of 6 States each, which are awarded among candidates sent from each State in the region. Germany. 2 Rhodes Scholarships are awarded annually. The normal number in residence together is 200, of whom 100 come from the British Empire, 95 from America, and 5 from Germany. Secretary to the Rhodes Trustees. The Marquess of Lothian, C.B., 17, Waterloo Place, London, S.W. 1. Oxford Secretary. Dr. C. K. Allen, M.A., Rhodes House, Oxford.

Statistics issued by the Universities Bureau of the British Empire show that the total number of students from overseas attending Universities and Colleges in the United Kingdom at the beginning of the 1935-36 session was 5,534, of whom 1,079 were from Europe, 1,971 from Asia, 960 from Africa, 1,082 from America, and 424 from Oceania. The principal figures are: India, 1,411; United States, 578; South Africa, 532; Germany, 410; Egypt, 311; Australia, 298; China, 269; Canada and Newfoundland, 262; Palestine, 160; West Indies, 154; New Zealand, 145; Iran, 97; France, 78; South America, 66; Poland, 64; Norway, 57; Netherlands, 55; Switzerland, 54; Nigeria and West Africa, 52; China, 47; Austria, 35.

The Prince of Wales's Scholarships (founded 1923).—Two scholarships tenable for two years at Oxford University by selected students of the University of Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Under The Commonwealth Fund (35 Portman Square, London, W. 1), established in 1928 by Mr. Stephen V. Harkness, there are available for candidates of British descent a varying number of Fellowships, of an annual value of approximately $3,000 each, tenable for two years at certain American Universities. For 1937 they may be awarded as follows:—

1. Twenty-four Fellowships open to men of British descent, unmarried, under thirty years of age on Sept. 1 of the year of the award, domiciled in England, Scotland, Wales or Northern Ireland, and graduates of recognised universities therein;

2. Two Fellowships open to men of British descent from the British Dominions who have studied, but not necessarily graduated, at a University in the United Kingdom or in the Irish Free State. Candidates must be graduates of a recognised University in a British Dominion or Colony, and must fulfil the conditions regarding age and marriage prescribed above, but need not show a domicile in the United Kingdom.

3. Five Fellowships open to men of British descent who hold appointments overseas under the British Government, the Government of India, or the Government of a British Dominion, Colony, Protectorate or Mandated Territory. Candidates may be single or married, but must not be more than thirty-five years of age on Sept. 1 of the year of award.

FINANCE.—Complete financial autonomy is enjoyed, in fact, by all British Dominions, and customs tariffs are in most cases the principal source of revenue. The tariffs are generally lower for merchandise of British origin than for importations from foreign countries. There is no Imperial Debt, but certain obligations of Crown Colonies and Protectorates are met in the early stages of their development by the Central Government, and occasional grants in aid of revenue are also made at need.

Stocks authorised under the Colonial Stock Act 1900 are Trustee Securities.

EMPIRE PARLIAMENTARY ASSOCIATION.—The Empire Parliamentary Association was formed at the Coronation of His late Majesty King George V. in 1922, between representatives of the Dominion Parliaments and Members of the Lords and Commons for the purpose of exchanging information and visits between Members of Parliament of the Empire. The Association has a branch in the Legislatures of each Dominion, the Central Legislature of India, Southern Rhodesia, the State Parliaments of Australia, the Provincial Parliaments of Canada, in Ceylon, Bermuda, Barbados, Bahamas and Northern Ireland, and in certain Colonies, the Legislatures of which possess unqualified minorities (i.e., Jamaica and Mauritius), making a total of 26 oversea branches.

Presidents.—The Viscount Hailsham (Lord Chancellor); Capt. Rt. Hon. E. A. FitzRoy, M.P. (Speaker of the House of Commons).

Vice-Presidents.—Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, M.P. (Prime Minister); Major Rt. Hon. C. R. Attles, M.P. (Leader of the Opposition); Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, M.P. (Lord President of the Council); Rt. ## CENSUS POPULATION OF THE BRITISH ISLANDS.

Previous to 1801 there existed no official return of the population of either England or Scotland; nor was it till 1813 that statesmen had anything more than surmise to guide them respecting Ireland, and the census then taken of that country was far from correct. The estimate formed of the English population at various periods, calculated from the numbers of baptisms, burials, and marriages, was in the years—

1570.....	4,160,221	1670.....	5,773,646
1600.....	4,811,718	1700.....	6,045,008
1630.....	5,600,517	1750.....	6,517,035

The first general Census of Great Britain and Ireland was taken in 1801, and since the time named there has been a fresh numbering every ten years, with the following results:

1801.....	16,345,646	1871.....	31,629,299
1811.....	18,509,116	1881.....	35,026,108
1821.....	20,983,092	1891.....	37,880,764
1831.....	24,132,294	1901.....	41,669,091
1841.....	26,854,969	1911.....	45,370,530
1851.....	27,533,755	1921.....	42,769,196
1861.....	29,070,932	1931.....	44,790,485

CENTRAL GOVERNMENT.

THE BRITISH CONSTITUTION.—The British Constitution is mainly unwritten and customary, but its development is marked by certain outstanding and fundamental laws, of which the principal are Magna Carta (1215), which secured annual parliaments and the equal administration of justice; the Habeas Corpus Act (1679), securing the liberty of the person; the Act of Settlement (1701), providing for the Protestant succession to the throne; the Act of Union with Scotland (1707), the Act of Union with Ireland (1800), the Parliament Act (1911), which enabled the Commons to pass certain Acts without the concurrence of the other chamber; the Government of Ireland Act (1920), the Irish Free State (Agreement) Act, 1922, and The Statute of Westminster (1931).

1. The Sovereign.—The throne is hereditary in the British house of Windsor with mixed succession, the sons of the Sovereign and their descendants having precedence of daughters, but daughters and their descendants preference over lateral lines. The Monarchy is constitutional and limited. The King has a right to veto Bills passed by both Houses of Parliament, but in practice his veto is almost obsolete. "The King can do no wrong" is a maxim of the Constitution, and consequently no action for civil wrong will lie against the Crown. A petition of right will, however, enable an injured subject to obtain redress, while, if in the administration of an Act of Parliament a Government department exceeds its rights, a declaration of right may be obtained in an action against the Attorney-General.

2. The Legislature.—Parliament consists of two Houses, the Lords and the Commons. From 1803 until 1888 reports of the proceedings of Parliament were issued under the title of Hansard's Parliamentary Debates. The proceedings are open to the Press, and are now officially reported, copies of the reports being obtainable from H.M. Stationery Office.

(a) The House of Lords consists of peers. A peer may hold his seat by (1) hereditary right, (2) creation by the King, (3) official position or election. English bishops (24), Irish peers (28) elected for life, and Scottish peers (16) elected for duration of Parliament, also sit in the House of Lords.

The powers of the House of Lords were much restricted by the Parliament Act, 1911. Thus, if a Money Bill is not passed unamended by the House of Lords within a month of its being sent up, it becomes law upon the Royal assent being signified. A Public Bill other than a Money Bill will become law without the consent of the Lords if it is passed by the Commons, and sent up to the Lords, in three successive sessions, provided two years elapse between the date of the second reading in the Commons in the first session and the date when it is passed by that body in the third session. Passing a Bill with amendments by the House of Lords is equivalent to rejection, unless the Commons approve the amendments. Any Bill by which the maximum duration of Parliament is increased is excepted from this Act. Members of the House of Lords are unpaid.

(b) The House of Commons.—This body consists of 615 elected members. The maximum duration of Parliament is five years. Members receive salaries of £400 and travelling facilities over the railways.

3. The Executive.—The Crown (the King in Council) "makes peace and war, issues charters, increases the peerage, is the fountain of honour, of office, and of justice." The Cabinet, under the presidency of the Prime Minister, consists of Ministers appointed by the Sovereign on the advice of the Prime Minister; Ministers receive salaries of varying amounts. The Cabinet has no corporate existence. Ministers are severally responsible to Parliament for their actions, and the Cabinet as a whole is responsible to Parliament for its joint and several administration. Ministers hold their office during the Sovereign's pleasure; they may be dismissed at any moment (see WHITAKER'S ALMANACK 1932, pp. 884-886—"Government by Party," 1688-1931).

4. The Judicature.—(a) England and Wales.—The laws in England and Wales are administered by judges appointed by the Crown, who hold office for life, and cannot be removed save on petition presented by both Houses of Parliament. Two Courts of Appeal hear appeals from the High Court, the ultimate Court of Appeal from all the courts in Great Britain being the House of Lords. Civil cases arising in London and Middlesex are tried at the High Court in London, but civil cases arising in the country are tried on circuit by judges of the King's Bench at the Assizes. The Chancery division has exclusive jurisdiction to try certain classes of actions. To the County Courts is relegated the duty of trying actions where the sum in dispute does not exceed a certain amount. The County Courts, too, have jurisdiction to try cases arising under certain special Acts of Parliament, e.g., the Workmen's Compensation Act. Bankruptcy cases arising in London are heard in the London Bankruptcy Court; those arising out of London are dealt with in the County Courts.

With regard to criminal law it is a general principle that, except for certain minor offences, every person charged is entitled to be tried by a jury. Courts of criminal jurisdiction in England are: (1) The judges of the High Court sitting at Assizes for the trial of cases out of London; and at the Central Criminal Court ("The Old Bailey"), for the trial of cases arising in and around London. (2) Courts of Quarter Sessions, holden for every county, and formed of justices of the peace, presided over by a chairman. The recorders of certain cities and boroughs have a jurisdiction similar to that of courts of Quarter Sessions. (3) Courts of Petty Sessions, consisting of at least two justices of the peace or a stipendiary magistrate. (4) The Court of Criminal Appeal has power to hear appeals against convictions and sentences.

(b) Scotland.—Scots civil law is administered by the Court of Session, which is a court of law and equity. The High Court of Justiciary is the supreme criminal court in Scotland. It consists of all the judges, and as a rule it is confined to the trial of serious cases. The Sheriff of the county exercises functions which correspond to those of the English County Court Judges and the Chairmen of Quarter Sessions. Burgh magistrates and justices of the peace have jurisdiction in petty cases.

(c) Northern Ireland.—The higher courts in Northern Ireland are very similar to the English courts, but the County Court Judges are also the Chairmen of Quarter Sessions.

RELIGIONS AND LANGUAGES.

Religions and Languages.—The inhabitants of Great Britain and Ireland are almost entirely Christians, the exceptions being about 300,000 Jews and a small number of non-Christian immigrants. In England the Church of England (with an Episcopal form of Government), and in Scotland the Church of Scotland (with a Presbyterian form of Government), are the "Established Religions." The Church was disestablished in Ireland in 1869, and in Wales in 1920. There has been no religious census since 1851, but many of the religious bodies publish estimates of membership, and estimated figures for 1929 will be found on p. 425. The language of the people is English. In Wales and Monmouthshire (1931 Census), 77,932 persons aged 3 and upwards were Welsh-speaking only and 811,329 were able to speak English and Welsh. Gaelic is still spoken in the Highlands and Islands of Scotland, there being 7,069 persons speaking Gaelic only (Ross and Cromarty 3,435, Inverness 3,123, Argyll 335, other counties 176), and 137,149 speaking Gaelic and English at the Census of 1931. Attempts are being made to revive the Gaelic language in the Irish Free State.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

Local Government is carried out under the central control of the Ministry of Health, which superseded the Local Government Boards for England and Wales in 1929, and under that of the Department of Health for Scotland. The subjects which local bodies administer are, inter alia, education; the poor law; public health; police; the control of the sale of intoxicating liquors; the provision of lunatic asylums. The ruling principle has been to entrust special interests to those specially interested. In England and Wales there are elective Councils for each Administrative County (under Chairmen), for each City and Borough (under Lord Mayors or Mayors), and for Urban and Rural Districts (under Chairmen), every parish being thus included. Scotland has elective County Councils under a Convener, Burgh Councils under a Lord Provost or Provost, or Parish Councils with Chairmen.

POLICE.

The strength of the Police force was 58,303 in England and Wales (1934), 6,512 in Scotland (1934), and 2,798 in Northern Ireland (1934). The Police of England and Wales are administered by the Home Office, those of Scotland by the Scottish Office. The LONDON POLICE consists of the City Police and of the Metropolitan Police. The City Police district comprises an area of 677 statute acres, and contains two courts of justice, those at Guildhall and the Mansion House, where the Lord Mayor and the Aldermen are the magistrates (see p. 377). Although the area is comparatively small, the rateable value is enormous. The night population is 10,999, but the day (or working) population is 436,721. The Force under the Commissioner comprises 1 Assistant Commissioner, 3 Superintendents, 8 Chief Inspectors, 25 Inspectors, 17 Sub-Inspectors, 125 Sergeants, and 982 Constables; also 9 Constables on private service duty. The City of London Special Constabulary (Headquarters, Mitre Court, Cheap-side, E.C. 2) numbered 2,233 all ranks in Oct. 1936.

The Metropolitan Police district embraces an area of 447,626 statute acres, with a population of about 8,360,500. There are within this area fourteen Police Courts (see p. 379). The Force on Sept. 6, 1936, consisted of 35 Superintendents, 914 Inspectors, 2,792 Sergeants, and 15,644 Constables, making a total of 19,384, with 244 horses. The strength of the Metropolitan Special Constabulary and its Auxiliary Force on Sept. 30, 1936, was 8,782. The gross expenditure of the Metropolitan Police and Metropolitan Police Courts for the year 1935-36 was £9,212,643. On March 31, 1936, there were 15,761 Police pensioners, and 2,106 pensioned widows and 505 children.

CUSTOMS TARIFF OF GREAT BRITAIN AND NORTHERN IRELAND (1936-1937).

I.—IMPORT DUTIES ACT, 1932.

This Act provides that on and after 1st March, 1932, a duty equal to 10 per cent. of their value is imposed on all goods imported into the United Kingdom. The Act empowers the Import Duties Advisory Committee to recommend additional duties to the Treasury, who may by Order charge the same. Orders have been made covering additional duties on a considerable number of articles. The following goods are exempt:—

(1) Goods for the time being chargeable with a duty of customs by or under any enactment other than the Import Duties Act 1932; except composite goods of which some of the components are liable to such other customs duty. Such composite goods are chargeable under the Import Duties Act, 1932, only up to the amount, if any, by which the aggregate amount of the general ad valorem duty and the additional duty exceeds the other customs duty, unless it is otherwise expressly provided in the Schedules of additional duties.

(2) Goods which are consigned direct to a shipbuilding yard or used for boilers or propelling machinery of ships.

(3) Goods exempt under Imperial Preference.

(4) Goods exempt as antiques or as awards for distinction.

(5) Machinery of certain classes not for the time being procurable in the United Kingdom.

(6) Educational films.

(7) Goods intended to be used in scientific research, &c., if imported under licence issued by the Treasury.

A Tenant or Ministerial part of his house may for his services obtain an allowance not exceeding the tax on one-third of the rent, or annual value.

Schedule B: In respect of the Occupation of lands used for the purposes of husbandry only, or mainly for those purposes, on an amount equal to the Annual Value; or, by special request, if made before 5th June (5th August in Scotland) in the current income-tax year, on profits of husbandry, as in case of Trades, under Schedule D. In the case of all other lands on an amount equal to one-third of the annual value.

Schedule C: Dividends or Annuities from public revenue (Government stocks, &c.)

Schedule D: Trades, Professions, Remittances from Abroad, Interest, &c.

Schedule E: Salaries, pensions, and other emoluments of Officers of Army, Navy, Civil Service, Ecclesiastical Bodies, Corporations, Public Companies, &c.

LIFE INSURANCE.—Allowance of duty may be claimed on the amount of premiums paid for insurance of self or wife in approved Companies legally carrying on business in the United Kingdom, if not exceeding one-sixth of the net personal income; but the amount allowable in respect of any premium for securing a capital sum on death not to exceed 7 per cent. of the actual sum assured, nor in respect of any premium for securing any other benefits, more than £100 in all.

RESIDENTS ABROAD.—No exemption or other relief is given to persons not residing in the United Kingdom. Exceptions: British subjects, present or former servants of the Crown, widows whose late husbands were in the service of the Crown, missionaries, servants of native States under British protection, residents in the Channel Islands or the Isle of Man, and persons, previously resident in the United Kingdom, residing abroad for the sake of their health or the health of a member of their family.

DOMINION INCOME TAX.—Relief is granted under certain conditions in the case of a taxpayer who has paid, or is liable to pay, United Kingdom Income Tax on any part of his income, and who proves that he has paid Dominion Income Tax for the same year in respect of the same part of his income.

SCHOLARSHIPS.—Income from a scholarship held by a person receiving full-time instruction at a university, college, school, or other educational establishment is exempted from Income Tax (including Super-Tax).

STANDARD RATES OF INCOME TAX.—The Income Tax year is from April 6 to the following April 5. The following were the standard rates for the years mentioned:—

	£	s.	d.
1907-8 and 1908-9	0	1	0
1909-10 to 1913-14	0	1	2

1931-32, 1932-33 and 1933-34	0	5	0
1934-5 and 1935-6	0	4	6

SUR TAX.—The Sur Tax replaced the Super Tax, which was levied up to and including the Super Tax Year 1928-9 (payable January 1, 1929), based on the statutory income of the year 1927-8). The Sur Tax is in effect a deferred instalment of Income Tax payable on January 1 after the end of the Income Tax year. Thus the first payment of Sur Tax was due January 1, 1930, and was the deferred instalment of Income Tax for the year 1928-9.

Sur Tax for the year 1935-36 (payable January 1, 1937), is at the following rates plus 10% of each rate on persons whose total incomes exceed £2,000:—

Notes on Income Tax.

Under the Finance Act of 1920 a radical alteration was made in the method of granting relief in the Income Tax in favour of earned income as compared with investment income, and in the method of graduating the burden of the tax according to the size of a taxpayer's income and his family responsibilities. The previously existing exemptions, abatements, and reliefs were replaced by the various reliefs set out below. In introducing the new system, the Act employed two terms not previously used in connection with the Income Tax, viz., "assessable income" and "taxable income."

"Assessable Income" means, in the case of "earned" income, the amount of such income as computed for Income Tax purposes, after deducting the amount of the "earned" income allowance mentioned below, and in the case of other income, the actual amount of such income as computed for Income Tax purposes.

"Taxable Income" means that part of the "assessable income" upon which Income Tax is actually charged, that is, the "assessable income" less the various deductions referred to below.

Deduction in arriving at Assessable Income.
Earned Income Allowance.—The differentiation in favour of "earned" income is made by deducting one-fifth of the "earned" income in order to arrive at the assessable income. The deduction is given irrespective of the amount of the total income, but must not exceed £300 for any one individual. The "assessable income" of a taxpayer is, therefore, his total income, as computed for Income Tax purposes, after making the appropriate deduction in respect of any "earned" income.

An allowance is also made of one-fifth of the unearned income of persons of the age of 65 years and upwards whose total income does not exceed £500. This allowance is granted, in the case of a married couple, where either the husband or his wife, living with him, has attained the age of 65 years at the commencement of the year of assessment, but the joint total income must in such a case fall within the prescribed limits. Provision is also made for marginal relief, in order to avoid the hardship which would be involved when the total income falls just over the prescribed limit of £500.

Total Exemption.—The Finance Act 1935 provided for exemption in all cases where a person's total income does not exceed £125. As a corollary to this new exemption limit a measure of relief is given to incomes (not wholly earned) lying between £125 and £140.

Deductions from Assessable Income in order to arrive at Taxable Income.—Where the taxpayer is not totally exempt, the following deductions may be claimed from the total assessable income in order to arrive at the "taxable income." The deductions may be claimed irrespective of the amount of the taxpayer's total income.

Personal allowance may be claimed of £100, or, in the case of an individual whose wife is living with him, £180.

Wife's Earned Income.—When a taxpayer's total income includes any earned income of his wife, the personal allowance of £180 is increased by a sum equal to four-fifths of the amount of such earned income, subject to a maximum additional allowance of £45.

Deduction for a Widower's (or Widow's) House-keeper taking Charge of Children.—A deduction of £50 may be claimed, under certain conditions, by a widower who has living with him a female relative for the purpose of having the charge and care of any child or adopted child of his in respect of whom the deduction for children is given or in the capacity of a housekeeper or by a widow who has a female relative resident with her for the like purpose. If the widower or widow proves that he or she has no such female relative who is able or willing to take such charge, the same deduction may be claimed in respect of some other female person employed for that purpose.

Deduction in respect of Widowed Mother, &c., taking Charge of Children.—A deduction of £50 may be claimed, under certain conditions, by an Unmarried Person who has living with him and maintains at his own expense either his mother (being a widow or living apart from her husband) or some other female relative, for the purpose of having the charge and care of any brother or sister of his in respect of whom the deduction for children or adopted children is given.

Deduction for Children.—A deduction may be claimed in respect of each child, step-child, or adopted child under the age of 16 years, or who, if over that age, is receiving full-time instruction at any university, college, school, or other educational establishment. The deduction allowable is £60 in respect of each child. No deduction is, however, allowed in respect of any child or adopted child who is entitled in his or her own right to an income which, after excluding any income to which the child is entitled as the holder of a scholarship bursary, or other similar educational endowment, exceeds £60 a year.

Deduction in respect of Dependent Relatives.—A deduction of £25 may be claimed in respect of (a) any person whom the taxpayer maintains at his own expense, and who is a relative of his or of his wife, and incapacitated by old age or infirmity from maintaining himself or herself, or (b) his or his wife's widowed mother, whether incapacitated or not, or (c) a daughter who is resident with the taxpayer, and upon whose services he is compelled to depend, by reason of old age or infirmity. The deduction under (a) or (b) is conditional, however, upon the income of the dependent relative not exceeding £50 a year. The deduction applies in the case of a female taxpayer, with the substitution of "husband" for "wife" above.

GAME AND GUN LICENCES.

GAME AND GUN LICENCES.—A licence is required by every person who hunts, shoots, or takes game, except persons (in Great Britain) taking woodcock and snipe with nets or springes; proprietors, or tenants, on enclosed land, killing rabbits; persons hunting deer, or hares, with hounds; owners or occupiers, or their servants, killing deer on their own enclosed land; beaters and others, not holding guns, attending holders of game licences. Occupiers of enclosed land, or owners, having the right to kill game, may themselves kill hares, or authorise others to do so, without a licence, but such authority must be limited to one person at a time in any one parish, and must be registered with the clerk of the Justices of the Petty Sessional Division in which the land is situate. Even when the quarry is not what is legally known as "game," a "gun" licence is necessary. A game licence, however, covers a gun licence. Sailors, soldiers, airmen, territorial soldiers, or constables, on duty or at practice, need not take out a gun licence, nor need occupiers of land scaring birds or killing vermin on such land, or persons so acting under the orders of occupiers holding a licence. Unless, however, the occupier is himself licensed, he cannot authorise any unlicensed person to carry a gun. "Scaring" birds is not to be regarded as including killing of any birds, and "vermin" does not include rabbits. The rates of duty are as follows:—

GAME LICENCES, if taken out after 31st July and before 1st Nov., to expire on 31st July following.....	£ s. d.
After 31st July, to expire following 31st October .....	3 0 0
After 31st Oct., to expire 31st July ...	2 0 0

Gamekeeper's (Great Britain), to expire 31st July.....	1 0 0
Game-Dealer's Licence, to expire 1st July, annually.....	2 0 0
DEPUTATION or Appointment of a Gamekeeper .....	0 10 0
GUN LICENCES (gun, air gun or pistol)...	0 10 0

A Firearm Certificate (5/- for the first, 2/6 subsequently—renewable every 3 years) is also necessary (with certain exceptions) for any person in possession of a firearm.

A person under 17 may not purchase or hire and a person under 14 may not have in his possession a firearm.

OTHER CAPITAL LIABILITIES.

These sums are not included in the capital on which interest is arranged for in the permanent charge. They consist of various loans contracted for Telegraph and Telephone extension, for the purchase of land for Government offices, &c. On March 31, 1936, these liabilities stood at £105,776,998, an increase of £3,780,968 upon the total for the previous year.

There are also sundry Contingent or Nominal Liabilities which the State is not likely to be called upon to any material extent to discharge. These liabilities consist of Unclaimed Dividends and unclaimed amounts due to suitors or to creditors of bankrupt estates.

Loans Guaranteed by British Government.—The Nominal Net Liability of the State in respect of loans guaranteed by the British Government was stated on March 31, 1936, to be as follows:—Turkish Loan, £1,331,039; Egyptian Loan, £2,846,500; Greek Loan, £1,774,200; Mauritius Loan, £590,086; Transvaal Loan, £2,186,554; Sudan Loan, £10,896,000; Welsh Church Loan, £1,685,864; Local Loans, £429,196,622; Irish Land Purchase Stock, £148,333,071; Ulster Savings Certificates, £1,082,604; 2½ per cent. of the Austrian Guaranteed Loan, secured on the gross receipts of Austrian Customs and Tobacco monopoly; Palestine Loan, £4,148,274; Tanganyika Loan, £5,342,984; Nyasaland, £3,546,789; and Newfoundland £17,771,316.

Unrepaid Advances.—Against these Guaranteed Loans may be set the amounts remaining unpaid on March 31, 1936, on account of Advances made by Great Britain to various Governments, viz:—Crete, £40,000; Nigeria, £865,568; Kenya and Uganda, £5,502,592; Nyasaland, £1,273,032; Nauru and Ocean Islands, £1,698; Tanganyika, £2,885,395; Somaliland, £236,000; Transjordan, £4,816; Swaziland, £227,886; St. Lucia, £4,167; Dominica, £125,792; British Guiana, £553,883; Antigua, £29,000; St. Kitts-Nevis, £5,000; British Honduras, £122,000; Montserrat, £21,000; St. Lucia, £3,333; Bechuanaland, £50,000.

The Sinking Fund.

Reductions in the Debt by means of a sinking fund were first made in 1875 by Sir Stafford Northcote, who set up the New Sinking Fund, consisting of the balance of the Annual Charge after providing for interest and cost of management. That term was afterwards applied to the fund set up by Mr. Baldwin in 1923, but has again been transferred to the 1928 Fund. The Old Sinking Fund was the application of the surplus revenue of any year for the redemption of debt when so determined by Parliament. Debt reduction is also made by means of Terminable Annuities, the capital value of which is deducted from the Debt upon the expiration of the term for which the annuities are payable, and by means of the following Funds:—

1. Victory Bonds Sinking Fund, by means of which Victory Bonds drawn for repayment on Sept. 1 of each year are discharged, £4,924,566.

2. Funding Loan Sinking Fund, £4,024,874 applied in cancellation of Debt in 1935-36.

3. 3 per cent. Funding Loan Sinking Fund, £1,668,854 applied in purchase and cancellation of debt in 1935-36.

4. 3½ per cent. Conversion Loan Sinking Fund (in operation when the average daily price is below £90). No issues made in 1935-36.

5. 4 per cent. Consols Sinking Fund (in operation when the average daily price of the loan is at or below par). No issues made in 1935-36.

6. Other Sinking Funds. Issues from the Consolidated Fund, £10,163,143 applied in Debt reduction in 1935-36.

7. Payments for Death Duties, under Section 3 of the War Loan Act, 1919, amounting at March 31, 1936, to £4,544,185 cash and £121,687,226 securities.

National Debt Redemption Fund.

This National Fund (of which Messrs. Baring Brothers & Co., Limited, 8, Bishopsgate, E.C.2, are the Trustees) has no connexion with the Government—it is a purely voluntary movement to lighten the debt burden of posterity, but not that of the present generation unless there is an undreamed-of accession of funds. It was the expressed hope of the original donor that his contribution should serve as the nucleus of a very large fund. The Fund was constituted on November 30, 1927, with a gift of £499,878 4s. 11d., and £15,261 9s. 1d. has since been contributed, arising from 72 donations. There is also a further sum of £5,000 that will pass to the Fund at the conclusion of certain life interests. The audited balance sheet, as at March 31, 1936, shows the following net additions during the year:—Donations £1,424; profit on investments realised £4,751 3s. 8d.; and income £31,966 2s. 2d. The amount of the Fund (investments at cost and cash) on March 31, 1936, was £801,005 13s. 11d. Under the provisions of Clause 30 of the Finance Act, 1928, the Fund is exempt from Income Tax.

Estimated Assets.

Against the External Debt of £1,036,545,184 owing on March 31, 1936, may be set the amounts owing to Great Britain by certain of the British Dominions and by various Countries in Europe. The amount owed to Great Britain far exceeds the amount owed by Great Britain.

The amounts remaining unpaid, and the estimated value of Investments made by the British Government in various Loans and Undertakings, are shown below (as on March 31, 1936):—

Dominions and Colonies.

Australia .....	£79,724,220
New Zealand .....	26,191,109
Newfoundland .....	400,000
	£106,315,329

In addition, there is a liability, not yet determined, on the part of the East African Colonies and Protectorates, in connexion with the cost of military operations in East Africa.

§ Payments in respect of these inter-Governmental loans due from July 1, 1931, to June 30, 1932 (the "Hoover" year) were suspended. The amounts suspended in respect of War Debts, together with interest, were to be payable by means of annuities in the period July 1, 1933, to June 30, 1941. From July 1, 1932, payments in respect of War Debts were suspended in accordance with the arrangements made at the Lausanne Conference.

Suez Canal Shares.

In Nov. 1875, the British Government authorized Messrs. Rothschild to buy the Khedive Ismail's shares in the Canal Maritime de Suez (176,602 shares out of a total of 400,000) for £4,080,000, the Khedive to receive the dividends thereon until July 1, 1894. Since that date the dividends have accrued to the Treasury. In 1935-36 the amount received on 289,414 ordinary shares and 64,090 "Actions de Jouissance" was £2,449,973.

REPARATIONS AND WAR DEBTS.

At the Lausanne Conference representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Germany reached agreement on July 8, 1923. Under the agreement (a) Reparations are cancelled, (b) Germany makes an eventual payment of £150,000,000 by means of bonds as from the year 1935. The bonds are deposited with the Bank for International Settlements, and may be marketed from 1935-1947, under certain safeguards for German credit, at a price not below 90. They bear interest at 5 per cent. with 1 per cent. amortisation, which will extinguish them in 37 years. This agreement became known as The Gentlemen's Agreement.

WIDOWS' AND ORPHANS' AND AGE 65 70 (Contributory) PENSIONS—Acts 1925-32.

The dual scheme of compulsory National (1) Health, &c., and (2) Pensions insurance (with option to certain voluntary, i.e. "excepted employment," &c., classes), embracing roughly the whole wage-earning community, has been in operation as to (1) for 24 years, but (2) only 11 years, and is interlocked by a "common" contribution by workers and employers jointly, augmented by State grants. Under (a) a weekly pension of 10s. each to the insured man and wife is payable when they reach age 65, up to 70, when it is continued as an old-age pension irrespective of means as applied to other old-age pensioners under the 1908-24 Acts, but the main benefits are for widows, viz. 10s. weekly, plus 5s. weekly for eldest and 3s. weekly each younger child of school age or under, orphans 7s. 6d. each weekly. The 1925 Act also provided pensions for a "strictly limited duration" for widows (having children of school age) of men of the insured class who having died before 4/1/26 had not contributed to the Pensions scheme, but the 1929 Act radically extended pension rights to non-contributors, e.g. all widows over age 55 of men of the insured class who died before 4/1/26, and some 500,000 widows in all benefit thereby, entailing additional liabilities to the value of some £90,000,000. Owing to the extensive non-contributory benefits, and the fact that the contribution as originally fixed barely sufficed to meet the benefits even for entrants at the lowest age 16, the Pensions scheme falls largely upon the taxpayer to provide State grants, viz., £4,000,000 p.a. from 1926-29, raised to £9,000,000 for 1930, increasing by an additional £1,000,000 each year up to £21,000,000 for each of the 4 years 1942-45, thereafter subject to such sums as Parliament decides.

The weekly "Pensions" Contributions (met jointly by employee and employer), as laid down in the 1925 Act, are:—

Jan. 4, 1926, till Dec. 31, 1935 .....	9d. (man) .....	4½d. (woman).
" 1, 1936, " " 1945 .....	*11d. " .....	*5½d. " .....
" 1, 1946, " " 1955 .....	1s. 1d. " .....	6½d. " .....
" 1, 1956 onwards .....	1s. 3d. " .....	7½d. " .....

New entrants of the younger generation will thus contribute much more than their parents did in the earlier years of the scheme.

At 31/3/35 the Pension Funds were £23,000,000, or only one-half the 1929 figure. For the year 1934 Benefits cost £43,000,000 (of which £24,000,000 was to widows, children and orphans—more than double the 1929 figure), while income was £24,000,000 Contributions, £13,000,000 State Grant, £1,000,000 Interest. Beneficiaries at the end of 1934 numbered in all 1,845,000 (or 662,000 more than at 1929), made up of 752,000 widows, 339,000 children and orphans, and 469,000 men and 285,000 women "65-70" pensioners.

The following position is shown by the first decennial valuation of the Pensions scheme† covering existing contributors and beneficiaries on 31/3/34 (made on up-to-date mortality and widows' remarriage bases) at 3½ per cent. interest, and assumed 14½ per cent. unemployment rate amongst those insurable under the scheme:—no contributions are payable while worker is unemployed for periods of a week or longer:—

Thus the above valuation (based on then existing legislation) shows that, if contributions on the scale in the 1925 Act continue unchanged, roughly two-thirds of the cost of liabilities† to be met under the Pensions scheme is likely to fall on the taxpayer to enable the State to meet the necessary Exchequer charges.

BLIND (OLD-AGE) PENSIONS.

Subject to inability to perform any work for which eyesight is needed, the Blind are by the 1920 Act, entitled to pension at age 50 on the same scale, according to means, as those to other "non-contributory" persons at age 70 under the Old Age Pensions Acts 1908-1924, q.v., but legislation is shortly to be introduced—(1) to lower the Blind pension age to 40 (owing to difficulty of training, most of the blind over this age are unemployable); (2) to render more effective the principle that all "Domiciliary Assistance" should be granted under the Blind Persons Act 1920, as distinct from payments by way of Poor Law relief which is still the practice of a few local authorities. By June, 1935, out of 146 County Councils and Boroughs in England and Wales 61 had made declarations in their administrative schemes under Part I. of Local Government Act 1929 that all domiciliary assistance to blind persons should be provided exclusively by virtue of the Blind Persons Act 1920, and not by way of Poor relief; 45 other local authorities had not made a declaration, but nevertheless gave domiciliary assistance under the Blind Persons Act; 40 other local authorities leave the provision for domiciliary assistance in a confused state, and of these 12 granted such assistance only by way of Poor relief.

In recent years the total number of registered Blind persons shows a relatively substantial increase, and there are now more than 75,000 in the United Kingdom; the proportion over age 50 and untrainable has also increased, and now 4 out of every 5 blind persons fall in the category of unemployable. Some 70 per cent. of the total Blind population are over age 50 of whom some 26,000 are in receipt of Blind old age pensions between age 50-70 at an annual cost to the State of about £650,000. It is estimated that a further 5,000 persons will benefit when the lowering of the Blind pension age from 50 to 40 becomes law.

The Braille System.

The Braille system of printing for the Blind owes its introduction to M. Louis Braille (1809-1852), himself blind, who used it in a Paris school from 1829; in 1871 it was adopted by the British and Foreign Blind Association and since then has been that most generally used. It consists of embossed characters printed on paper, recognisable by touch, formed by using varying combinations of six dots arranged in three horizontal pairs and each letter is represented by the omission of something from this root form, a special arrangement being made for the letter W, not included in the French alphabet. The dots are executed from right to left on the back of the paper so as to be turned over by the reader and read from left to right as customary. Figures, algebraical signs, punctuation marks and music notes are also provided for, and the scheme is suitable for all languages, including Chinese and Esperanto. It is said that two-thirds of those taught learn to read Braille fluently, one-third imperfectly and there are no failures.

NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE.

Acts 1924 to 1935.

All persons between the ages of 16 and 65 who are employed within the meaning of the National Health Insurance Acts and do not hold certificates of exemption from health insurance are required to be insured for both Health insurance and contributory Pensions g.v. Usually insurance is effected through an Approved society. Certain classes of persons are entitled to be insured as voluntary contributors.

Although primarily a "joint" employee and employer contributory scheme, the State provides part of the cost of benefits and administration, viz.  $\frac{1}{2}$  for men and  $\frac{1}{2}$  for women. Each valuation of the Health insurance scheme since its inception has shown a surplus, and, after providing for continuance of all statutory benefits, the latest (4th) valuation, it is reported, brings out an aggregate surplus of £30 millions, of which £16 millions has been set free to provide "additional" benefits during the new valuation period now current.

The scheme (the successful operation of which has led to its adoption in various forms by 12 other nations) now embraces for Great Britain and Northern Ireland some 19,000,000 persons (about  $\frac{1}{2}$  women), and £131,000,000 accumulated funds, while the income and expenditure annually in £ millions is approximately:—Contributions, £27; Interest and Parliamentary Votes, &c., £6 each; Benefits, £31 (made up of £10 (sickness); £10½ (medical); £6½ (disability); £1½ (maternity); £2½ (other benefits); Administration, £6.

Contribution* ("Combined" Health and Pension)—Weekly, 1s. 8d. men; 1s. 2d. women; (normally shared equally by employer and employee), of which 9d. (men) and 8½d. (women) is allocated to Health insurance account.

Benefits.—Medical attendance and treatment (except to voluntary contributors whose total income exceeds £250 p.a., their weekly contribution being reduced by 3d.). Sickness benefit, men 15s., women—unmarried and widows 12s., married 10s., weekly. Disablement benefit, men 7s. 6d., women—unmarried and widows 6s., married 5s., weekly. Maternity benefit 40s. Sickness benefit commences ordinarily on the 4th day of incapacity and continues for a period or periods not exceeding 26 weeks in all, after which disablement benefit is payable.

The Act of 1935 restored title to benefit to some 200,000 persons.—S. (1) covering unemployed persons who had been continuously insured for 10 years, by extending indefinitely the "free" insurance period (average 21 months) hitherto granted them, thus retaining in insurance for pension, medical, &c. benefits, many unemployed, who otherwise would have gone completely out of insurance at the end of 1935; but 26 weeks employment and 26 contributions in not more than 2 years to entitle the person to sickness and disablement benefit, remains. S. (2) prevented any reduction of benefits during the "free" period on account of contribution arrears—hitherto only  $\frac{1}{2}$  the arrears due to unemployment were excused; also the large number of persons in fairly regular employment but having varying periods of unemployment in the course of a year are no longer liable to suffer a reduction of benefits.

* Not payable while unemployed or sick for full week or longer.

UNEMPLOYMENT (i) INSURANCE AND (ii) ASSISTANCE, Acts 1934-36.

General Scheme:—

(i) Unemployment "Insurance."—Benefits reduced by National Economy Act, 1931, having been restored in July, 1934, the allowance for each dependent child also was raised, in Nov., 1935, from 2s. to 3s. weekly. Later, as a result of the statutory committee's review of the fund, the weekly contributions (increased in 1931) were reduced for men and women aged 18 and over by 2d. for each party, viz., employee, employer and State, as from 6/7/36. On assumption that an average 48 per cent. of total unemployed would continue to rank for insurance benefit, and probable diminution in unemployment in staple industries during next 8 years' trade cycle, the committee put the disposable annual surplus at £6,500,000, and suggested this be used to reduce contributions, as benefits were already on a higher scale than sickness benefits and often approached wage levels. The committee previously had suggested introducing a maximum total weekly allowance of 41s. for the General scheme, and later reported in favour of raising from £250 to £400 p.a. the remuneration limit for insured "non-manual" workers, which it was held would tend to strengthen the fund, but as yet no action has been taken by the Government, except to introduce a maximum allowance in the newly-formed scheme for Agriculture (see below).

Present contributions and benefits (General scheme) are:—

Contributions (Joint Weekly—shared equally by the three parties)—

Persons 21 and under 65:

Men, 2s. 3d. | Women, 2s.

Persons 18 and under 21:

Youths, 2s. | Girls, 1s. 9d.

Benefits (Weekly)—

Persons 21 and under 65:

Men, 17s. | Women, 15s.

Persons 18 and under 21:

Youths, 14s. | Girls, 12s.

with additional 9s. for adult dependant, and 3s. each dependent child. (Lower contributions and benefits for persons under 18.)

The approximate position of the fund since mid. 1934, when the accumulated debt was funded at £105,780,000 to be repaid at £5,000,000 p.a. (including principal and interest) over the next 37 years, is as follows:—

** Cost borne in full by Exchequer. Figures include unemployment allowances and administration, except such administration as borne on separate U.A.B. vote.

The surplus reserve of £29,000,000 in all on Insurance account at mid. 1936, of which one-half arose in the last year, reflects the marked improvement in employment (particularly in the South of England and Midlands, largely as result of expansion in manufacturing industries, building and transport) since the peak period of unemployment early in 1933, as follows:—

	1st Qr. 1933	2nd Qr. 1935	2nd Qr. 1936

 Women 12.5 20.5 27.9 18.1 12.9 4.9 3.1 0.1%
 (41 per cent. of unemployed women were married.)

(ii) Unemployment "Assistance."—From 7/1/35 (1st appointed day) the Unemployment Assistance Board took over the "transitional payments" class (needs hitherto assessed by local authorities), but the Board still has to take over the remaining 200,000 able-bodied unemployed as from the "2nd appointed day," now postponed till 1/4/37, and since the 1935 Standstill order has had to administer a complicated double standard of regulations involving continued allowances not less favourable than those hitherto received as transitional payments, with consequent anomalies in different areas. Revised Board regulations, passed by Parliament in July, 1936, in the main favourable to applicants, come into force 16/11/36, with proviso that cases for reduction will be gradually effected during the next 18 months to obviate undue hardship, save for grossly excessive allowances and for single persons under age 25, which call for early modification. The new regulations provide certain increased "scale rates," more flexible "rent" rule, more generous "household earnings" rule, &c., and closer working arrangements between the Board and local advisory committees. Cases for increased allowances (said to substantially exceed those for reduction) are put at over 200,000, and apart from the cost of gradual liquidation of the Standstill, the Board estimates that, roughly, £750,000 p.a. will be added to the cost being incurred under the Standstill, viz. about £38,000,000 p.a. at the rate for last week in June, 1936, when allowances totalled £730,000 to about 620,000 applicants—made up of £330,000 per Board's regulations in 255,000 cases (41 per cent.), and £400,000 at the higher transitional practice rates in 365,000 cases (59 per cent.). The reduction in the number of weekly allowances from 735,000 to 620,000 during the Board's 18 months' functioning reflects the prevailing improvement in employment, but the average payment per head had increased. A test taken in April, 1935, showed—72 per cent. of applicants (married or widowed), and 28 per cent. (unmarried); applicants or their households had no resources in 55 per cent. of cases, but 45 per cent. had resources to the annual value of, in all, £24,000,000.

Extension to "Agriculture."
 The 1936 Act introduces a self-contained scheme extended to workers in Agriculture (including horticulture and forestry) estimated to bring into unemployment insurance a further 750,000 persons, under the following scale of contributions (as from 4/5/36) and benefits (as from 5/11/36) with special conditions as to duration of claim, &c., e.g., instead of 30 contributions to satisfy the 1st statutory condition as in the "General" scheme, the "Agricultural" scheme requires 20 contributions in the preceding 2 years, with extended benefit in continued unemployment proportionate to contributions standing to applicant's credit:—

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.

The Workmen's Compensation Act 1925 (following the Acts of 1897 and 1906) applies to any employment, and provides that employers shall be liable, subject to statutory provisions, to compensate their workpeople for injury caused by accident arising out of, and in the course of, their employment, but § 31 enables employers, by agreement with workpeople, to "contract out" of the Act under schemes certified by the Registrar as being at least as favourable to the workpeople as the provisions of the Act. The number of workpeople "contracting out" reached a peak of 134,000 in 1901, when 51 such schemes were in operation, but now only a very small proportion of workpeople covered by the Act "contract out," and by 1934 the number of schemes had fallen to 13, viz., 9 factories, 2 mines, and 1 railway (covering in all 49,000 workers "contracting out," with annual contributions of £45,000, of which all but £7,000 was paid by employers)—the remaining scheme covered 89,000 Admiralty, War Office and Air Ministry workers. During the year, however, the 2 schemes connected with "coal mines" ceased operation as a result of the W.C. (Coal Mines) Act 1934, which prevents the formation and continuance of such schemes in future.

NATIONAL SAVINGS—"SMALL" INVESTORS.

The latest estimate puts the Total Savings of Small Investors in the United Kingdom at the colossal figure of some £2,800,000,000 (sufficient to redeem fully one-third of the National Debt) consisting, as to almost one-half—investments in Savings Certificates, the P.O.S.B. and P.O. Register, and Trustee Savings Banks) and rather more than one-half—(Buildings Societies, "Industrial" Assurance, Co-operative and Friendly Societies, accumulated N.H.I. Funds, Registered Superannuation, &c., Trust Funds, Railway Savings Banks and Trade Unions).

NATIONAL SAVINGS CERTIFICATES.

The total number of Savings Certificates sold from their first issue in February, 1916, to August, 1936, was 1,269,277,796 (excluding Certificates of the Conversion Issue), representing a cash investment of £593,517,477. The amount, including accrued interest, remaining to the credit of investors in National Savings Certificates on August 31, 1935, was approximately £507,500,000. In 1935-36 £25,513,797 was subscribed and £27,105,191 (excluding interest) was repaid.

First Issue (cost price 15s. 6d. and ten-year maturity value 26s.), Feb., 1916, to March 31, 1922; may be retained until March 31, 1940, with interest after the tenth year at 1d. per month per Certificate.

Second Issue (cost price 16s. and ten-year maturity value 26s.), April 1, 1922, to Sept. 30, 1923; may be held until March 31, 1941, on similar terms.

Third Issue (cost price 16s. and ten-year maturity value 24s.), Oct. 1, 1923, to June 30, 1924; may be held until June 30, 1942, with interest after the tenth year at 2d. per period of three months per Certificate.

SAVINGS BANKS.

P.O.S.B.

Post Office Savings Banks.—On Dec. 31, 1935, there were approximately 9,400,000 active deposit accounts excluding coupon accounts in the Post Office Savings Banks, with the sum of £390,337,000 due to depositors. On Dec. 31, 1934, Government Stock to the amount of £169,658,000 stood to the credit of holders in the books of the Post Office Savings Banks. Any sum from one shilling to £500 may be deposited, and interest is allowed at  $2\frac{1}{2}$  per centum per annum. A depositor may have more than one account. There is no limit to the amount which may stand to his credit, but he may not deposit more than £500 in the aggregate in any one calendar year.

TRUSTEE SAVINGS BANKS.

Trustee Savings Banks were started in the early years of the 19th century by public-spirited men who recognised the importance of individual thrift to the well-being of the Community. Their aim has always been to improve the facilities for thrift and to increase the recognition of the importance of wise spending and wise saving. They are not conducted for private profit, and their sole concern is to offer to the public the best service and the most convenient and remunerative method of saving compatible with sound administration and the greatest possible degree of security. They combine security, which is inseparable from a close connexion with the State, with the freedom which can only come from independent management. They are directed by local voluntary Trustees and Managers, whose duties are set out in Acts of Parliament and in Rules certified by the Registrar of Friendly Societies. They are subject to Government supervision, and are also inspected on behalf of the Trustee Savings Banks' Inspection Committee, a statutory body which submits an Annual Report to Parliament.

On Nov. 20, 1935, there were 2,611,023 active accounts in the Trustee Savings Banks. The total assets of the Banks amounted to £241,920,312, which included £197,400,305 due to depositors in the Ordinary and Special Investment Departments, £35,861,922 Stocks and Bonds held for depositors and £8,658,085 representing the accumulated surplus of the individual Trustee Savings Banks throughout the country. Information about these Banks and their offices, numbering 585 (principal and subordinate) in November, 1935, can be obtained from the Trustee Savings Banks Association, 5 Verulam Buildings, Gray's Inn, W.C.1. (President, Sir Spencer J. Portal. Chairman, Sir John R. Chancellor, G.O.M.G., G.O.V.O., D.S.O. Secretary, R. T. H. Scott, C.A.)

RAILWAY SAVINGS BANKS.

The Voluntary Savings Banks of the four great Railway Companies show the following balances in 1934 and 1935:—

INDUSTRIAL AND PROVIDENT SOCIETIES.

Great Britain.

A society established to carry on any industry, business or trade may be registered under the Industrial and Provident Societies Acts, 1893-1928, and obtain the privileges of incorporation with limited liability, provided that it restricts the share holding of any member, other than a registered society, to £200.

At the end of 1934, 5,673 societies were registered; they had a total membership of 8,296,000; and their balance sheets showed total assets (omitting inter-society investments) valued at £286,000,000. The societies at the end of 1934 were classified by the Registrar as follows:—

"Co-operative" General Trading Societies.

Not all of the "General Trading" societies registered under the Industrial and Provident Societies Acts included in the above table are essentially Co-operative in character. Additional particulars of Co-operative socs. follow:—

"Retail" General Supply Stores.—1,105 societies; 7,131,000 members with £128,101,000 share capital; £205,248,000 sales during the year; surplus on year for distribution £25,250,000 (of which £4,749,000 was disbursed as share interest, and £19,003,000 as dividends on sales—an average of 1s. 10½d. in the £). Since 1918 these societies have increased their membership by 87 per cent. and more than doubled their share capital.

Wholesale and Productive Societies.—Sales by the three main Wholesale societies (excluding goods invoiced by the Joint society to its two parent societies) £110,451,000; sales by 116 Productive societies £6,496,000.

Distribution and Production.—168,000 employees with salaries and wages £22,000,000 for 1934 were engaged in Distribution. Corresponding figures for Production, 94,000; £12,000,000. The outstanding Productive operations in the Retail societies are baking and slaughtering, and in the Wholesale societies, milling. The net value of Productions created within the "Co-operative" movement (viz. after deducting cost of materials) in 1934 is estimated at £25,000,000 or the equivalent of roughly 1/6 of the computed wholesale value of goods sold by the "Retail" General Supply stores.

* A considerable part of the capital of Co-operative Societies is in the form of Deposits and Loans.

† In addition Clubs registered under the Friendly Societies Acts numbered 2,169, with 645,000 members, and £4,389,000 funds.

FISHERIES.

The quantities and values of sea fish of British taking landed in Great Britain and Ireland in 1935 (exclusive of salmon) are shown in the following table. The total catch was 65,000 tons more than in 1934, and 201,000 tons less than the record catch of 1913. Representing the 1913 catch by 100, the catches during 1930-35 were respectively 92, 83, 82, 78, 78 and 83. The total value in 1935 was £320,000 more than in the previous year.

The British Fishing Fleet.—On Dec. 31, 1934, the fishing boats belonging to the United Kingdom, numbered 13,741 (278,811 net tons) of which 4,437 were sailing vessels (14,845 net tons) and 9,304 steam and motor vessels (263,966 net tons).

The estimated number of men and boys employed in sea fishing in 1934 was 56,112, of whom 49,788 were regular fishermen and 6,324 persons occasionally employed in sea fishing.

Joint Stock Companies.

On Dec. 31, 1934, there were registered in Great Britain and Northern Ireland 132,064 Joint Stock Companies, with a total paid-up capital of £5,595,000,000 (including 117,075 private companies with £1,721,000,000 capital). The total number for 1933 was 125,859 Companies, with paid-up capital £5,610,000,000.

Bankruptcy Statistics.

England and Wales (1934).

The number of debtors adjudicated bankrupts was 3,544, with liabilities £5,977,000, and assets £1,223,000; of compositions 31, with liabilities £117,000, and assets £19,000; of administration orders for deceased debtors' estates 48, with liabilities £181,000, and assets £59,000. In addition, there were 1,851 assignments, compositions, &c., under deeds of arrangement, with liabilities £3,547,000, and assets £1,399,000.

Scotland (1934).

The number of sequestrations in Scotland was 185, with liabilities £389,000, and assets £121,000.

Northern Ireland (1934).

The bankruptcies numbered 26, with liabilities £28,000, and assets £9,000; deeds of arrangement 21, with liabilities £37,000, and assets £17,000; arrangements under the control of the Court 14, with liabilities £40,000, and assets £10,000.

WORLD TRADE, PRODUCTION, PRICES &amp; UNEMPLOYMENT.*

x. World Trade—(based on average 1929=100).

Year.	QUANTUM WORLD TRADE.				WORLD SHIPPING ACTIVITY.
	Food-stuffs.	Raw Materials.	Manufactured Articles.	Total.
1928...	91	82	58	74	26
1933...	85	88	60	75	18
1934...	84	90	66	78	35
1935...	86	94	69	82	47

Since 1929 there has been some recovery each year in the QUANTUM of total World Trade, but the 1935 figure was still little more than four-fifths of that for 1929. Shipping activity in spite of sharp rises in 1934 and 1935 was barely half that for 1929—and Britain now owns little more than a quarter (as against almost half in pre-war years) of total world tonnage. World imports and exports in 1935 were each valued at some 12,000 millions U.S. GOLD dollars, roughly one-third the corresponding trade in 1929, while the STERLING value of total world trade in 1935 was about £8,000 millions or three-fifths the 1929 trade. In contrast to the earlier recovery (1925-1927), when trade expanded faster than production, the present recovery (1933 onwards) shows a marked lag in trade in foodstuffs and manufactured articles, due mainly to widespread quotas, tariffs and exchange control devices introduced to stimulate national economic self-sufficiency in promoting agriculture in industrial countries, and conversely developing manufactures in hitherto primarily agricultural countries.

The tabular indices reflect the marked demand for raw materials, trade in which rose in 1935 to within 6 per cent. of that for 1929. Trade in manufactured goods continues to rise, but, for 1935, was still only some two-thirds that of 1929. The slight expansion of foodstuffs trade in 1935 was mainly owing to the need for increased imports by U.S.A., due to successive droughts, but the 1935 world trade in foodstuffs had still not regained the level of 1932, whereas trade in raw materials and manufactured goods had risen by roughly 15 per cent. and 20 per cent. respectively beyond their 1932 levels.

Continental Shares of World Trade.

Continents.	Percentages of Total Gold Value. Imports (ordinary type); Exports (italics).
	1929	1932	1934	1935
Europe (including U.S.S.R.)	55.5	60.6	59.7	57.2
Asia, Africa & Oceania (excluding U.S.S.R.)	48.5	50.7	49.5	47.8
North America	20.8	21.5	23.1	23.4
Latin "	22.3	23.7	25.4	26.3
	16.0	12.5	11.0	12.8
	19.6	16.4	15.4	16.1
	7.7	5.4	6.2	6.6
	9.6	9.2	9.7	9.8

This table reflects the marked shift in distribution of the value of world trade in recent years. For example, Europe's share, which increased substantially in the depression period, has fallen continuously since 1932 (particularly in exports), although her share of imports in 1935 was rather more than in 1929. In quantum, European imports fell by some 2½ per cent.

between 1932 and 1935, while those of the rest of the world rose by 27 per cent.; European exports during this period rose by 4½ per cent., but those of the rest of the world rose by 15½ per cent., so clearly Europe is losing trade gained between 1929 and 1932, as seen also by the continuous expansion in the share of world trade shown for Asia, Africa and Oceania since 1932 (particularly exports). The bulk of the 1935 trade recovery was attributable to U.S.A., whose year's imports exceeded 1934 by 24 per cent. causing her "active" commodity trade balance to fall to the lowest record for 25 years; never theless the N. American continent's imports and exports 1935 were respectively only 27 per cent. and 20 per cent. of its corresponding 1929 trade—still lower levels in comparison than any other continents.

Whilst building activity and motor production have played a leading part in recovery in recent years—the effect of the more recent widespread re-armament is largely prospective—the phenomenal expansion in production by U.S.S.R. and its marked effect on the world index will be noted, e.g., between 1929 and 1935 the U.S.S.R. increased its engineering output by 500 per cent., that of basic chemicals (400 per cent.), rubber (nearly 400 per cent.), electricity (over 300 per cent.), and dyestuffs by almost 300 per cent. The U.S.S.R. has attained the following positions in raw material production—iron ore (2nd), pig iron (2nd), steel (3rd), coal (4th), petrol (2nd), and gold (2nd) among the world's producing areas; for the first quarter 1936 as (compared with first quarter 1935) production by her heavy industries (mainly producers' goods) showed a further rise of 40 per cent., but a notable rise also occurred in output of her light industries (mainly consumption goods) and food industries of roughly 30 per cent. each. Japan's rapid expansion shows a tendency to slow down, concurrent with financial difficulties and closure of some of her export markets, notably for cotton piece goods. In seven mainly agricultural countries, industrial activity also shows a notable expansion to an aggregate 1935 index of 20 per cent. above that for 1929 with a further marked spurt in early 1936. The most notable industrial expansion in 1935 (and continued in 1936), however, occurred in capital goods industries in U.S.A. (especially iron and steel, in which she still ranks first among world producers), providing the most powerful factor for stimulating industrial recovery elsewhere, owing to the great importance of the U.S.A. in world production and the great leeway also to be made up in that country. Nevertheless, recovery there and in Canada has been rapid, particularly since the end of 1934. For the seven principal countries tabulated, their indices for the first quarter 1936 were notably higher than their respective levels for the corresponding quarter 1935, but apart from the exceptional case of U.S.S.R. the only countries showing a further rise from the last quarter 1935 to the first quarter 1936 were U.K., whose index then exceeded that of her 1929 average by 15 per cent., and France which, however, was still barely three-quarters of her 1929 level (but her subsequent further devaluation of the franc in the autumn of 1936 and modification of her tariffs and quotas should help to accentuate both her industrial recovery and trade as well as those of other countries). Germany, on the other hand, has already recovered to just about the level of her industrial production of 1929. U.S.A. and Canada, by the first quarter 1936, were still some one-fifth below their 1929 levels of industrial production, but their extensive schemes for relief works, &c., should help in securing a further substantial improvement by the end of 1936.

3. World Agricultural Production.—

(Base av. : 1925-1929 = 100.)

	1932	1933	1934	1935
Europe (excluding U.S.S.R.)	111	112	113	113

Foodstuffs	104	106	106	104
Fodder Crops	102	93	81	94
Agric. Raw Materials	91	96	91	94

The above indices reflect (1) the marked fall in agricultural production resulting from restriction and successive droughts in U.S.A., whose index between 1932 and 1935 fell from 96 to 76 for food crops, and from 107 to 87 for fodder crops; (2) expansion of agricultural production in industrial Europe (notably wheat) since 1929—this has been accompanied, however, by the partial turnover from agricultural to industrial production in such countries as Denmark and some in the Danubian region; (3) recovery in U.S.S.R.'s production, notably wheat, which in 1935 was 50 per cent. more than in 1932, but practically all this excess was absorbed by her home markets.

4. Wholesale Price Movements.—The rising tendency in recent years continues in most countries, except those of the gold bloc, thereby reducing the lag between wholesale and retail prices, e.g., the marked rise in wholesale prices in U.S.A. in 1933 brought them into the same closer relationship with retail prices as for 1929, and this has since been maintained. The most important cause of the general upward tendency of wholesale prices has been the increasing demand for raw materials, particularly towards the end of 1935. In the four years ended June, 1936 raw material prices on the average rose by as much as 45 per cent. in U.S.A. and 54 per cent.

in U.K., whereas the rise in prices of manufactured goods was noticeably much less.

The main National wholesale price indices for June, 1936 (base av. 1929 = 100), were :—

U.S.A.	U.K.	France	Germany.	Canada.	Australia.	New Zealand.	Denmark.	Japan.	Argentina.
83	81	60	76	75	84	93	95	88	101

The following shows (1) the sterling price levels of certain commodities in June 1936 (base av. 1929 = 100), and (2) their percentage rise (except a fall in the case of tin) on the respective June 1935 prices :—

Wheat.	Maize.	Wheat.	Sugar.	Wool.	Cotton.	Silk.	Pig-Iron.	Tin.	Rubber.
(1) 67	53	71	87	52	70	49	106	88	73
(2) 21	18	11	7	19	4	27	16	23	25

The relative sterling index for the price of gold (163) showed a drop of 2 per cent., and silver (81) a drop of 39 per cent. on the year—China was forced to abandon her age-long silver standard in Nov. 1935; by the Silver Purchase Act, 1934, however, the U.S.A. has power to increase its silver purchases until the value of its silver and gold monetary stocks attain a ratio of 1 : 3.

The tendency to establish control over prices of important groups of commodities has been widely extended in recent years by international cartels, e.g., for some of the metals and petroleum involving output restriction; also agricultural protection in some countries, notably in U.S.A., and more recently the system of "guaranteed price" for dairy produce contemplated by the New Zealand Marketing Act of May, 1936.

5. World Unemployment.—The following international indices (base av. 1929 = 100) show the marked and uninterrupted diminution in world unemployment, since the peak in the autumn of 1932 when the total number of workers unemployed was estimated at 25 to 30 millions, which, by the end of 1935, had shrunk to some 18 to 20 millions—

Autumn	1932	1933	1934	1935
Estimated World Index	280	250	220	180

The most outstanding failures to reduce unemployment were those of gold standard countries, as seen by the following respective increases for the end of 1935, as compared with 1932, in—

France	rose by more than $\frac{1}{2}$ .
Netherlands	" $\frac{1}{2}$ .
Switzerland	" nearly $\frac{1}{2}$ .

Apart from widespread extraordinary expenditures on public relief works already made and contemplated by numerous governments, 1935 saw the notable passing of (1) the Social Security Act in U.S.A., creating a comprehensive unemployment insurance scheme, including the imposition of an annual percentage tax on wages paid to workers (excluding agriculture and domestic service) by all employers of eight or more persons, augmented by Federal subsidies; and (2) the Canadian Social Security Act providing for an unemployment insurance scheme on a contributory basis.

EXTERNAL TRADE (GREAT BRITAIN AND NORTHERN IRELAND).

IN statistics of Trade, the term TOTAL TRADE refers to the whole volume of Imports (including such as are temporarily retained and afterwards exported), and to the whole volume of Exports. The term NET TRADE includes only Imports for consumption in the country receiving them, and Exports of home produce or manufacture. Imports are taken at their C.I.F. value (which includes the Cost of the merchandise and the charges for Insurance and Freight), whereas Exports are taken at their F.O.B. (free on board) value, which includes only the Cost of the merchandise delivered to the exporting ship. Exports have an added value by the time they reach their destination, having become loaded en route with Insurance and Freight. They leave the country of origin with an F.O.B. value and arrive with an acquired C.I.F. value.

ROADS AND ROAD VEHICLES.

The total mileage of public roads in Great Britain is approximately 178,100 miles, of which 152,400 are in England and Wales and 25,700 in Scotland. The cost of maintenance, improvement (widening, etc.), and new construction in 1914-15 was £18,800,000, and in 1934-35 approximately £61,000,000. The roads of Great Britain have been classified by the Ministry of Transport, and out of the total mileage of 178,100, 27,000 (approximately) have been included in Class I, and 16,800 miles (approximately) in Class II.

Highway Authorities.—Under the Local Government Act, 1929, county councils in England and Wales, became (from April 1, 1930), the highway authorities for all roads in rural districts and all classified roads (i.e. Class I and Class II Roads) outside the county and metropolitan boroughs, together with the main roads, for which the county councils were already the highway authorities prior to the appointed day. These roads are known as "county roads" and are now a county charge, although district councils in many cases continue to carry out the actual work of maintenance and improvement. The borough and urban councils are the highway authorities for roads other than county roads which lie within their areas. In Scotland similar provisions have been made.

The Road Fund.—The motor licence duties (see above), apart from the portion due to the Exchequer under the Finance Acts, 1926 and 1934, are paid into a Road Fund which is administered by the Minister of Transport. Grants are made from the Road Fund to highway authorities towards the cost of maintenance, improvement and construction of roads and bridges. During the year 1935-36 the grants from the Road Fund amounted to £17,984,437. Under the Local Government Acts, 1929, the grants hitherto made out of the Road Fund towards the maintenance of classified roads in London and the county boroughs (England and Wales) and large burghs (Scotland), and of unclassified roads in counties, have been discontinued as from April 1, 1930 (May 16—Scotland), and a sum corresponding to the amounts paid in respect of these grants for the year 1928-29, together with an additional contribution, is paid out of the Road Fund towards the block grants to local authorities for which the Acts provide.

Under the Provisions of the Finance Act, 1936, the above arrangements will cease at the close of the year 1936-37. With effect from April 1, 1937, the liability of the Exchequer to transfer licence duties, apart from the Exchequer share, to the Road Fund ceases and, thereafter, amounts will be paid into the Fund from moneys provided by Parliament.

The total gross receipts from the taxation of road vehicles between December 1, 1934, and November 30, 1935, amounted to £30,480,176. The approximate number of motor vehicles licensed during this period was 2,554,000, while licences in respect of private and hackney horse-drawn carriages numbered 18,796. The average receipt in respect of a whole year licence was £9 10s. 6d. for cars taxed on horse-power; £2 for motor bicycles; £28 5s. 6d. for internal combustion and steam-driven goods vehicles; £31 4s. 6d. for electric goods vehicles; and £54 10s. 6d. for motor hackneys.

London and Paris.

In 1935 there were 1,113 deaths from street accidents in London, a decrease of 335 on the total for 1934. In 1930 there were 303 deaths from street accidents in Paris. In 1933 there were 687 fatal and over 10,000 non-fatal street accidents in Berlin.

TRAMWAYS, &amp;c.

The total mileage of tramways and light railways open in Great Britain on March 31, 1935, was 1,296. The total receipts in 1934-5 were £14,721,510, the working expenses £11,562,357, and the net receipts £3,159,153, the total paid-up capital being £73,676,351. 2,651,557,025 passengers were carried.

The mileage of trolley vehicle routes open for traffic was 350, the number of passengers carried being 309,489,352.

These figures exclude those relating to the undertakings transferred to the London Passenger Transport Board, the approximate length of which was 324 miles of tramways and 18 miles of trolley vehicle route.

There are 4,560 public road crossings in Great Britain, of which all but 200 are provided with gates and are attended. Total number of casualties on these crossings were 51 killed and 51 injured in 1935 and 31 killed and 68 injured in 1934.

INLAND WATERWAYS.

There are 3,825 miles of inland waterways in Great Britain (England and Wales, 3,641 miles; Scotland, 184 miles), no additions having been made for several years. In 1933 the inland waterways carried tonnage (so far as returns are available) as under:—

	Mileage of Canals.	Tonnage carried.
Railway owned .....	1,000	1,250,650
Total .....	2,425	11,434,504

The longest canal in Great Britain is the Grand Union Canal (280 miles), which links London and the Midlands and has outlets into the Thames through docks at Limehouse and at Brentford. The system embraces the Regent's, Grand Junction, Warwick and Birmingham, Warwick Junction, Napton, Birmingham and Warwick Junction, Leicester and Loughborough Navigations and the Erewash Canals. Goods can be conveyed direct from the Midlands to the Regent's Canal Dock and there loaded into sea-going vessels, or vice versa. Through tolls are available. A scheme of reconstruction and development, which cost £1,000,000, has been carried out over the whole system to permit the passage of motor barges capable of carrying eighty tons a pair. The Manchester Ship Canal, opened in 1894, has a total length of 36 miles, and connects Manchester with the Mersey estuary. In 1924 the tonnage of toll-paying traffic was 5,949,970 tons, and the tolls, dues, &c., £1,317,083.

The Shortest Private Railway in the World is that built by the Pope in Vatican City. It is one-third of a mile and cost £260,000.

The Shortest Public Railway in the World is the Romney, Hythe and Dymchurch Railway—length 13½ miles, gauge 15 inches. Engines are one-third the size of standard gauge main-line locomotives.

The World's Fastest Narrow-gauge Train is on the Java State Railway between Soerakarta and Madisen—60·8 miles in 77 minutes at 47·4 miles per hour.

The British Empire's Highest Railway.—On the Kenya-Uganda Railway, at a point near Timboroa, the line goes over a summit level of 9,330 feet, and Timboroa Station at 9,000 feet, is the highest railway station in the Empire.

The Steepest Railway is in Switzerland in the Canton Ticino. From Piotta to Lake Ritorn level has an average gradient of 72 per cent. and a maximum of 87·8 per cent.

Great Britain's only Mountain Railway is from Llanberis to the summit of Snowdon—length 4½ miles, gauge 2 ft. 7½ inches. Steam operated.

The Longest Stretch of Continuous Four-track Main Line in Great Britain is the 75 miles (L.M. & S.) between St. Pancras and Glendon North Junction, Kettering.

The World's Longest Stretch of Straight Railway belongs to the Transcontinental Railway of the Commonwealth of Australia, which is dead-straight for 328 miles across the Nullarbor Plain (but not dead-level), without a curve, without crossing a river, and without sighting a tree.

BRITISH RAILWAY RECORDS.

British Railway Companies are the world's largest dock owners. World's largest hotel owners. World's Longest non-stop runs: "Flying Scotsman," King's Cross to Edinburgh, 392½ miles, during the summer; "Royal Scot," Carlisle to Euston, 299 miles, all the year round. This train is also the oldest scheduled train in the world; it has been running from Euston Station at 10.0 a.m. since 1848. The carriages on the Hastings electric (opened July 4, 1935) are the first in the world to use air-stream ventilators. World's largest Main Line and Suburban electric train service (Southern Rly.). This railway has 350 electrified route miles at a cost of 12 million pounds. World's largest escalator (Leicester Square Underground Station), 101 feet long, with a rise of 80 ft. 6 in. World's largest covered goods station, Bristol (Temple Meads), and Europe's largest group of sorting sidings, Whitmoor (Cambs). The railways are Britain's largest private undertaking—Capital invested, £1,100,000,000. The L. & N.E., with 800 mechanical horse tractors, are the largest owners of this type of vehicle in the world.

ALL STEEL COACHES IN RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.

Railway experts state that loss of life by fire and impact would be minimized by complete substitution of steel for wood coaches. The following table shows how Britain compares with other countries in all-steel rail coaches at end of 1934.

Britain, 15 per cent. all steel.
Germany, 98 per cent. "
U.S.A., 85 per cent. "
Italy, 68 per cent. "
France, 58 per cent. "

It was decided in August, 1936, that steel coaches replace wooden ones on the Victoria (Australia) Railway.

The Steepest Adhes on Gradient in the world is a section of 1 in 11 between the River Samala Bridge and Zunil Station, on the Guatemalan State Electric Railway (Central America).

SHIPBUILDING, 1935-36

The total of new tonnage to which classes were assigned by Lloyd's Register of Shipping during the twelve months ended June 30, 1936, amounted to 296 vessels, of 1,009,207 tons gross, as compared with 280 vessels, of 755,314 tons gross, classed during the previous twelve months. Plans for 519 vessels, of 1,692,515 tons, were passed by the Society in the course of the year. This total shows a marked increase over the corresponding one for the year ended June 30, 1935, viz.: 265 vessels, of 753,410 tons, and is the highest recorded since the year 1929-30. Of this projected tonnage, 50·3 per cent. (851,085 tons) was intended to be built in Great Britain and Ireland, and 49·7 per cent. (841,430 tons) in other countries.

The countries in which the greater part of the new tonnage classed by Lloyd's Register during the year was constructed are shown in the following statement:—

CIVIL AVIATION, 1936-1937.

The net total of the Vote for Civil Aviation at £760,000 shows an increase of £65,000 over the figure of 1935-6.

In preparation for the inauguration of the Empire Air Transport Scheme, additional provision is required for improving the ground facilities along existing air routes.

The possibility of the establishment of an air service across the North Atlantic has been under close investigation by the Air Ministry for a long time past. As the result of a provisional agreement reached at Ottawa between representatives of the United Kingdom, Canada, Irish Free State and Newfoundland, and of subsequent discussions with the United States' authorities, arrangements were made for experimental flights to be undertaken by Imperial Airways Ltd. with a view to the organisation of a regular service across the North Atlantic. The new air base in Bermuda will allow of the opening of the projected air service between Bermuda and New York by Imperial Airways Ltd. and Pan-American Airways in co-operation.

Arrangements have been made with Imperial Airways Ltd. for the operation of an air service, once weekly in each direction, between Khartoum and West Africa, connecting at the former place with the Company's main service between England and South Africa.

A number of experimental flights between Penang and Hong Kong have been successfully carried out by Imperial Airways Ltd., and a sum of £20,000 has been provided for the operation of regular services to Scandinavia—a day service for passengers and mails, and a night service for mails only.

The increase of internal air services in the United Kingdom during 1935 has rendered it necessary to consider what steps should be taken in order to facilitate and safeguard civil flying under the difficult weather conditions frequently experienced in this country.

The projected Air Survey of Great Britain, which had originally been set in hand by the Aerodromes Advisory Board, was taken over during 1935 by the Air Ministry and is now virtually complete.

The number of light aeroplane clubs assisted under the subsidy scheme has increased to 41 and £25,000 has been taken in the present Estimates for grants to them. £5,000 has again been included for assistance to the Gliding Movement.

A Bill has been introduced seeking Parliamentary authority for a series of proposals of great importance to the future development of civil aviation in this country. The Bill is also designed to enable the department to carry out the main recommendations of the Committee under the Chairmanship of Lord Gorell, which reported in 1934, including those (i) for devolution of the control of airworthiness of civil aircraft and (ii) for the compulsory insurance of aircraft against third-party risks.

IMPERIAL AIRWAYS.

Imperial Airways is the British national air transport Company, and operates regular daily services in Europe from London to Paris; Brussels and Cologne; Vienna and Budapest; and at certain seasons to Basle and Zurich and Le Touquet.

There are twice weekly services via Egypt, Palestine, India, Burma, Siam and Malaya to Australia (Brisbane) via Netherlands-Indies. The service between Karachi and Singapore is operated by Imperial Airways in conjunction with Indian Trans-Continental Airways, and between Singapore and Brisbane by Qantas Empire Airways. The latter Companies are in association with Imperial Airways. There is also a weekly connexion from Penang to Hong Kong.

There is a twice-weekly service to South Africa (Johannesburg) via Egypt, Sudan and East Africa. A service has been arranged by Imperial Airways in conjunction with Elders Colonial Airways from Khartoum via French Equatorial Africa to Kano in Nigeria.

Imperial Airways and Companies in association serves 4 Continents and 29 Countries, and the fleet of Imperial Airways (1935-36) flew 4,560,718 miles. The length of the routes of Imperial Airways and Companies in association is 27,138 miles. During 1935-36 approximately 30,997,575 letters were carried by the Company's fleet.

SERVICES PROPOSED.

The Atlantic air route is under investigation (see "Civil Aviation," p. 690), and Imperial Airways is collaborating with Pan American Airways in this investigation.

The figures below show the growth in mails, passenger traffic, and miles flown by Imperial Airways from the date of inauguration up to the year 1935:—

FLEET OF IMPERIAL AIRWAYS.

The fleet of Imperial Airways and Companies in association consists of over 60 air liners. The Heracles and Scylla classes of air liner used on the European routes are the largest in the world on regular service. Conversation is possible without raising the voice and meals are served by the stewards from the kitchen on board. There is accommodation for 38 passengers. Similar amenities exist in the Hannibal class used on the service between Alexandria and Kisumu (Kenya Colony) and Athens to Karachi, and also on the Scipio Class of flying boat on the Trans-Mediterranean service of the Company.

The Atalanta class is specially designed for tropical flying, and is used on the African and the India and Eastern routes. The new Diana class is used on certain of the European services by Imperial Airways and (known as the Commonwealth class) by Qantas Empire Airways between Singapore and Brisbane. It has a maximum speed of 175 m.p.h. Air liners of the Avalon and Boadicea class, used by Imperial Airways for special charter, services also have this speed.

LONDON AIR PORT.

The Air Port of London (Croydon Aerodrome Waddon—Tel., Croydon, 4422), extended under the Air Ministry's improvement scheme, was opened on May 2, 1928. The cost of the station was about £260,000, and the buildings include hangars, offices, and an hotel with 50 bedrooms.

AIR MAILS TO COUNTRIES ABROAD.

Full information regarding these Air Mail services is given in the current Air Mail Leaflet, obtainable free of charge at any Post Office. Particulars may also be obtained by telephone from the London Postal Service Enquiry Office (National 7152 between 9.0 a.m. and 6.0 p.m.—1.30 p.m. on Saturday) and National 6321 at all other times.

Information as to local times of posting may be obtained from the Head Office of the District concerned or from the Branch Post Office nearest the place of posting.

The principal Air Mail facilities are as follows:—

LETTER AIR MAILS.

Air Mail correspondence may be posted in ordinary letter boxes, but the special blue air mail boxes, where available, generally offer a later posting time.

Any kind of letter packet may be sent by Air Mail, but printed papers, commercial papers and samples must (in most cases) be prepaid at letter rates; under services (c) and (d) below, however, the cost is 50 to 75 per cent. less. Limit of size and maximum weight as for ordinary post. Air Mail letters can be accepted for registration, but insurance is limited to letters and boxes for The Netherlands and Switzerland. The ordinary arrangements for express delivery and the use of the green label system (for articles liable to Customs duty) apply.

The special blue Air Mail label (obtainable free) should be affixed to the top left-hand corner of every Air Mail packet; its absence may lead to delay.

Stamps to the full value of the postage must be affixed.

PARCEL AIR MAILS.

The general regulations as to limits of weight, size, &c., apply, but only parcels for The Netherlands and Switzerland can be insured.

The special blue Air Mail label must be affixed close to the address, wherever it appears, to the Despatch note, and to the Trade Charge Card (C.O.D. parcels). The words "Air Mail" should also be on the cover, and postage must be prepaid.

AIR SERVICES (October).

EUROPEAN COUNTRIES.—Letter services (one to three each weekday, in some cases one or two on Sundays also) are available to most countries, to Malta and the Canary Islands. Inclusive rates of postage are: Letters, first ounce 4d., each further ounce 3d.; postcards, 2½d.; but for Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland ordinary rates suffice, as the mails may be sent by sea.

Parcel mails leave G.P.O., London, each weekday as follows (see note p); the postages given are for the first pound, and each further pound up to 22lb., respectively: (1) 9 p.m. (Sat. 8 p.m.) to Belgium and Netherlands (2s.; 6d.); Switzerland (3s.; 9d.); Germany via Cologne (2s. 6d.; 6d.); Germany via Hamburg, Hanover or Berlin, Denmark (3s.; 1s.); Norway, Sweden, Finland (4s.; 1s.). (2) 9 a.m. and Sat. 8 p.m. to France (Paris and its suburbs only), express (1s. 6d.; 6d.); or non-express (1s. 4d.; 4d.). (3) 9 a.m. Belgium and Netherlands (additional). (4) 6.30 p.m. Poland (3s.; 1s.) and Germany (both routes). (5) 3.30 (Sat. 8) p.m. to Austria (4s.; 1s. 3d.); Hungary (4s.; 1s. 6d.); Czechoslovakia (3s.; 1s.).

COUNTRIES OUTSIDE EUROPE.—The principal services, with latest times of posting at G.P.O., London, are given here, together with the inclusive rates of postage for letters (per half ounce ¶), postcards, and (applicable only to countries marked p), parcels (per half pound) respectively. For printed papers, &c., see Letter Air Mails (above).

PARCELS.

The parcel should be marked "Parcel Post."
and handed across the counter; postage must be prepaid by stamps, affixed by the sender (if underpaid, deficiency plus 1d. fine is collected from addressee). On Sundays parcels are not accepted nor (except Christmas Day) delivered. The name and address of sender should be inside or (not too prominent) on the outside of every parcel.

A rural postman must accept any packets he can conveniently carry, except overseas parcels or overseas letters intended for insurance; but if on foot or cycle not more, without notice, than 15 lb. from one person.
He may weigh parcels on request. Mail-drivers need not stop between regular stopping points.

Parcels to or from Irish Free State, Channel Is. or
I. of Man are liable to customs duty; except in last case, the sender must declare contents when posting, and addressee must pay clearance fees if any duty be payable. Addressee in I.F.S. pay 6d. anyhow; on dutiable parcels 3s. or more, unless sender arranges (fee 6d.) to sea and land services and are generally the lowest in force.

GENERAL REGULATIONS.

DELIVERY NUMBERS.—The London Postal
Area (about 232 square miles) comprises 10
Head Districts and 108 Sub-Districts; each has its own delivery number, and 114 have their own sorting office. Eleven other important cities also have numbered postal districts. To avoid delay, the proper numbers should appear at end of the address (on telegrams too, in London).

HOURS OF BUSINESS.—On ordinary Week Days the Larger Post Offices are open for all classes of business from 8 a.m. to 7.30 or 8 p.m.; at many, including all Head Offices, telegram and Express Delivery Service 5 (p. 700) business is continued to 9 p.m. Smaller offices open usually 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., but often close for a period in middle of the day; some close early one day every week, usually the local half-holiday.

Special Sunday and holiday arrangements are shown on the local window notices. Their general character is indicated on pp. 702-3.

PROHIBITED AND DUTIABLE ARTICLES. Among prohibitions are offensive or dangerous things, packets likely to impede the P.O. sorters, certain kinds of advertisement, and, by letter post, eggs, fish, game, meat, fruit, vegetables.
To I.F.S., I. of Man, Channel Is., dutiable articles must be sent as Parcels. Abroad generally they may also be sent as Insured Boxes, or (where the "Green Label" system applies) as Letters or Small Packets (p. 700).

CERTIFICATE OF POSTING unregistered parcels, free; other unregistered postal packets,  $\frac{1}{2}$ d.

UNPAID PACKETS except Business Reply packets or re-directed parcels, are charged double postage on delivery; UNDERPAID PACKETS, double the deficiency.

UNDELIVERABLE POSTAL PACKETS.—Inland packets chargeable with a postage of  $1\frac{1}{2}$ d. or more, undelivered, are returned to sender without charge, if his address is found either outside or inside. Packets without sender's address or any enclosure of importance are destroyed, except parcels which, if not applied for, are generally disposed of after 3 months, or if perishable are dealt with as requisites. Packets chargeable with postage not exceeding 1d. are redelivered to sender only on payment of a second postage, and if name, address and request for return appear on outside; those without such request are disposed of. British packets undelivered abroad are returned to sender here on payment of charges due; printed papers only if return is requested. Magazine Post packets are charged with return postage, when return is requested. Parcels further incur other charges unless (i) abandonment or (ii) delivery to another person in the same country, is requested at the time of posting.

REPLY COUPONS, for the purpose of prepaying replies to letters, are exchangeable abroad for stamps representing a minimum Imperial or Foreign letter-postage. Price (valid within the Postal Union), 6d; (valid within British Empire and Palestine only), 3d. Sold at chief offices.

POSTE RESTANTE IN THE BRITISH ISLES (solely for the accommodation of strangers and travellers and for three months only).—Any postal packet may be addressed as a rule to any Post Office except Town Sub-Offices. It should have the words "Poste Restante" or "to be called for" in the address. If addressed to initials, fictitious names, or Christian name only, it is treated as Undeliverable. Applicants must furnish sufficient particulars to ensure delivery to the proper owner. Redirection from a Poste Restante is not undertaken for more than 14 days unless longer (up to 3 months) is applied for. Letters, parcels, &c., from abroad, or letters at a seaport for an expected ship, are kept 2 months; others, 2 weeks; after which they are treated as undelivered (see above), unless bearing a request for return at end of the interval, or some specified shorter period.

REDIRECTION.—(x) By agent of addressee: Letters, post cards, printed papers, samples and newspapers may be reposted free not later than the day after delivery (not counting Sundays and public holidays), and must not have been opened or tampered with. Parcels may be re-directed free of charge, within the same time limits, if the original and the corrected addresses are both within the same Town Delivery Area (or within the London Postal District); otherwise they are charged at the ordinary pre-paid rate. Registered packets, which must be taken to a Post Office, are re-registered free only up to day after delivery. (z) By the Post Office (not undertaken during temporary absence, unless house be left empty, nor from clubs, hotels, &c.). Requests for re-direction of letters, &c., must be on printed forms, obtainable from the postmaster or postman, and signed by the persons to whom the letters are to be addressed. Re-direction is free for 12 months; thereafter costs 1s. for each surname for second, 1s. third, and 5s. each subsequent year. Separate forms must be filled in for parcels, and for the forwarding of telegrams by post (free) or by telegraph.

REGISTRATION, INLAND.—All kinds of postal packets intended for registration should be marked "Registered" in bottom left-hand corner, and must be handed to an officer of the Post Office, and a receipt taken. Parcels (or the string with which they are tied) and letters must be fastened with wax or other adhesive. Fee 3d. exclusive of postage. Advice of delivery, a further 3d. The latest time for registering is usually half an hour before the latest time for posting ordinary packets; at Head Offices, if open, this may be done later for 6d. late fee. Compulsory registration, carrying no compensation, is applied to (a) unregistered packets containing coin or jewellery, or any apparently meant for registration and wrongly posted (6d.); (b) packets found open (or undeliverable) and containing stamps, uncrossed bearer cheques, uncrossed postal orders without payee's name, &c., 10s. or more in value (3d.).

COMPENSATION, INLAND, for loss or damage is granted, though not as a legal right even if fee is paid and packing adequate.—The fees for compensation inclusive of registration are:—Fee 3d., compensation up to £5; 4d., £20; and 1d. for each additional £20 up to the maximum 1s. 11d. for £400. Compensation is given up to (a) £3 (to or from I.F.S., £2) on unregistered parcels (for loss, only if certificate of posting is produced). (b) £2 on unregistered packets conveyed by Express Delivery Service No. (x). Compensation in respect of money of any kind (coin, notes, orders, cheques, stamps, &c.) is only given if particulars (for identification) are kept and the money is sent by Registered Letter Post in one of the special envelopes sold officially (see p. 701); the maximum compensation for coin, which must be packed so as not to shift, is £5. Compensation for jewellery, watches, &c., is only given on registered packets; for eggs, fish, game and rabbits, meat, fruit, and vegetables only when sent as parcels. Compensation is not given for damage to (1) eggs, soft fruit, or exceptionally fragile articles, in any case; (2) fragile articles by registered letter post, unless conspicuously marked "Fragile, with care"; (3) liquids by letter post.

REGISTRATION, IMPERIAL AND FOREIGN (except for parcels and magazine post), is in force to almost all countries; valuable articles may not be sent in unregistered letters. Fee, 3d. If claimed within a year, compensation (in the U.K., £2) is paid for entire avoidable loss of registered packets while in the custody of a country in the Postal Union.

INSURANCE, IMPERIAL AND FOREIGN (including, except for parcels, REGISTRATION), may be effected on packets to many countries at the following rates:—5d. for £12; 2d. each further £12 up to 5s. 11d. for £400 (lower maximum in many countries). COMPENSATION up to 20s. (32s. if over 11 lb.) may be given for loss or damage in the U.K. to uninsured parcels to or from Newfoundland, India, and the smaller colonies, Egypt, with many larger foreign countries, except U.S.A., if certificate of posting is produced. Packets containing no articles but valuable papers (banknotes, &c.) or valuable documents (plans, &c.) can be insured as letters; other valuable articles should be sent as insured parcels, or as "insured boxes."

INSURED BOX POST.—Jewellery and similar articles (not letters or valuable paper) may be sent in strong boxes by letter mails to some British Dominions (e.g., India, Malaya, New Zealand), Europe (except Norway, Spain and Near East), Argentine, Brazil, China, Egypt (not A.-E. Sudan), Japan, many French colonies, and a few other countries. Postage 2d. per 2 oz. (minimum 10d.); maximum weight 2lb., size 12×8×4 in. Customs declarations must be filled in.

CASH ON DELIVERY SERVICE, INLAND (not to or from I.F.S.).—A sum (Trade Charge) up to £40 can, under certain conditions, be collected from addressee and remitted to sender of a parcel or registered letter posted at a Money Order Office, or a parcel consigned by railway. Fees (extra to usual postal or rail charges): For Trade Charge up to 10s., 4d.; up to £1, 6d.; £2, 8d.; £5, 10d.; and for each further £5 or less, 2d.; by rail, 3d. more.

CASH ON DELIVERY, IMPERIAL AND FOREIGN.—A reciprocal service exists between Great Britain and various parts of the Empire and certain Foreign Countries. Fees for collection: 4½d. for Trade Charge (amount to be collected) not exceeding £1, with 2½d. extra for each additional £1 of Trade Charge up to the maximum, which is usually £40 (fee 8s. 6d.), but in some countries less (e.g. 1,000 francs). Addressee has generally also to pay on delivery, besides Customs, if any, a further fee (4d. in U.K.) not prepayable. If Trade Charge cannot be collected, the rules for undeliverable parcels apply.

EXPRESS DELIVERY (INLAND) BY SPECIAL MESSENGER.—There are five services of which (4) and (5) alone are available on Sundays:—(1) All the way, from most offices which deliver telegrams. Inclusive charge, which must be prepaid in stamps, 6d. per mile, or part of a mile, with 1d. on each separate packet after the first. Packets must be handed over the counter with "Express" clearly marked in left-hand top corner. Live animals, liquids, and money may be delivered by this service, and persons may be conducted. The messenger may take back an inland telegram gratis. (2) After transmission by post, at sender's request: (a) from the ordinary delivery office, if open for telegraph business (maximum charge in London 6d.); or if so marked, (b) "Express Delivery from Head Office" in large provincial towns, and (c) in London "from Head District Office" or "from G.P.O." Packets must be marked "Express," and letters bear a broad vertical line back and front. Charges as for (1) in addition to postage. (3) Before ordinary deliveries, on addressee's application (6d. per mile for one packet, and 1d. for every ten or less additional packets). (4) see p. 703. (5) Of a message telephoned to an express delivery office (10 words 1d., minimum 3d., besides express and telephone charges).—Waiting fees: 10 minutes free; each additional 10 minutes or part thereof, 2d.—For Sundays and Holidays, see pp. 702-3, and next paragraph.

RAILWAY LETTERS.—An unregistered letter up to 2 oz., taken to a Parcel or Booking Office of most railways while station is open weekdays or Sundays, is sent off by next train or steamer to a station or port on any of these railways. Fee (besides postage) within Gt. Britain, or thence to Jersey, Guernsey, Douglas (I.O.M.), or chief Irish ports, 3d., elsewhere in Ireland 4d. Unless marked "to be called for," it is posted in the nearest letter-box at station of address, but (except on Sundays or in I.F.S.) can be delivered Express (from usual office or first Express office it reaches) under Service aa, or (by wiring for messenger to meet it at Station) under Service x. Under the "Railx" service the Post Office will accept (at any Express Delivery office), despatch, meet (in Britain and N. Ireland), and deliver a Railway Letter for an inclusive charge of 2s. 6d.

INTERNATIONAL EXPRESS SERVICE.—Delivery by special messenger of correspondence (locally including parcels) to or from certain countries or certain towns in the same. 6d. is paid by the sender, the rest, if any, by addressee, according to the local regulations.

POST CARDS.—The left-hand half of the address side may be used for correspondence, inland or abroad. Plain cards (minimum size 4×2½ in.), not thinner than official cards, may also be used both inland and abroad (maximum size 5½×4½).

Reply Post Cards must have the heading Carte Postale avec réponse payée on first half, and on the second half (valid only to country of origin) Carte Postale—Réponse.

BUSINESS REPLY-CARDS AND ENVELOPES, and Postage Forward Parcel labels, of special design, are for licensed senders only. These pay a deposit, and also full normal postage, plus ½d., on each packet returned by their clients: the latter pay no postage.

PRINTED PAPER POST.—For printed or written matter not in the nature of a letter (p. 698).

By this post may be sent books and other works of a literary character, with or without written dedications, and any other written or printed matter not being in the nature of a letter with personal news; drawings, paintings, photographic prints, engravings, maps, &c., together with normal non-fragile binding and anything necessary for safe transmission. Commercial printed forms, legal documents, printers' copy and proofs, examination papers, answers and corrections, the writing on which refers solely to the subject matter of the document, Christmas and picture cards with date, names and addresses of sender and addressee, and with conventional formulas not exceeding 5 words or initials, are also admitted. Receipts, invoices, and statements of account, admissible inland, go overseas only as Commercial Papers. Written chess-moves and puzzle-solutions, also blank stationery, are inadmissible. (For full conditions see the official Guide.) Printed papers being subject to examination in the post, the cover, if any, must be capable of easy removal and replacement for purposes of examination, i.e., without breaking, tearing, ungumming, or cutting.

Literature for the Blind (in other respects treated as Printed Papers):—Papers, periodicals and books, if printed in special type and subject to certain conditions of posting, marked outside "Blind Literature," with name and address of sender. Rates:—Inland: 2 lb., 1d.; 5 lb., 1d.; 6 lb. (maximum), 1½d.; Abroad: 2 lb., 1d.; 5 lb., 1d.; 8 lb., 1½d.; 11 lb., 2d.

SAMPLE POST (not to Irish Free State).—Restricted inland to bona-fide Trade Samples, without saleable value; but one key, printers' blocks, fresh-cut flowers, and some scientific specimens can be sent abroad. Rate:—Inland: Up to 4 oz., 1d.; 6 oz., 1½d.; 8 oz., 2d.; Abroad: ½d. per 2 oz., minimum 1d. Limits:—Inland: Size, 12×8×4 ins., weight 8 oz.; Abroad: Imperial and Egypt: 24×12×12 ins., 5 lb.; Elsewhere: 18×8×4 in., 1 lb. Packets must be capable of easy examination in the post.

SMALL PACKETS POST (Imperial & Foreign).—For small articles of merchandise (with "Green Label" if dutiable) by letter mails. Registration is allowed; not insurance. Available only to certain countries. Postage 1d. per 2 oz., minimum 6d. Limits: weight, 2 lb.; size, as for letters.

NEWSPAPER POST (INLAND).—For newspapers "registered at the G.P.O." (p. 698).

The cover, if any, must be open at both ends and easily removable, and copies should be folded so that title is readily inspected. No writing or additional printing is permitted, other than the words "with compliments," name and address of sender, request for return if undelivered, and a reference to a page. Newspapers not "registered at G.P.O." or supplements apart from their ordinary publications, may be charged at printed paper, letter, or (with ld. fine) parcel rate.

STAMPS, ENVELOPES, POST CARDS, &c.

POSTAGE STAMPS (used also for receipts, telegrams, and certain Inland Revenue duties) are sold of the respective values of  $\frac{1}{2}d.$ , ld.,  $1\frac{1}{2}d.$ ,  $2d.$ ,  $2\frac{1}{2}d.$ ,  $3d.$ ,  $4d.$ ,  $5d.$ ,  $6d.$ ,  $9d.$ ,  $10d.$ , ls.,  $2s.$ ,  $6d.$ ,  $5s.$ , and  $10s.$  Books of 6 ld., and 6  $\frac{1}{2}d.$  stamps, together with (a) 10  $\frac{1}{2}d.$  stamps,  $2s.$ , (b) 18  $\frac{1}{2}d.$  stamps,  $3s.$ , or (c) 34  $1\frac{1}{2}d.$  stamps,  $5s.$  Rolls of 480 or 960  $\frac{1}{2}d.$ , ld.,  $1\frac{1}{2}d.$ ,  $2d.$ ,  $2\frac{1}{2}d.$ , or  $3d.$  stamps are also sold, joined lengthwise or sideways. Stamps may be purchased at most offices between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m., and at any office open for telegraph business. Rural postmen carry  $\frac{1}{2}d.$ , ld., and  $1\frac{1}{2}d.$  stamps and registered letter envelopes.

REGISTERED LETTER ENVELOPES for foreign and inland letters, with a  $\frac{1}{2}d.$  embossed stamp (for registration and postage), are of four sizes: F,  $5\frac{1}{2} \text{ in.} \times 3\frac{3}{4} \text{ in.}$  or G,  $6\frac{1}{2} \text{ in.} \times 3\frac{3}{4} \text{ in.}$ ,  $6d.$  each; H,  $8 \text{ in.} \times 5 \text{ in.}$ , or H2,  $9 \text{ in.} \times 4 \text{ in.}$ ,  $5\frac{1}{2}d.$  each; K,  $11\frac{1}{2} \text{ in.} \times 6 \text{ in.}$ ,  $6\frac{1}{2}d.$  each.

LETTER CARDS with  $\frac{1}{2}d.$  stamp: one,  $2d.$ ; 2,  $3\frac{1}{2}d.$ ; 5,  $6d.$ .

Embossed or impressed postage stamps of the last and present reigns, cut out of envelopes, post-cards, letter-cards, newspaper-wrappers, or telegram forms, may be used as adhesive stamps in payment of postage or telegrams provided they are not imperfect, mutilated, or defaced in any way.

MONEY ORDERS.

Advice of Payment:  $2d.$  inland (and to I.F.S.),  $3d.$  for foreign and colonial orders (to certain countries). Payment may be stopped (fee  $4d.$ ); or deferred up to 10 days in case of Ordinary Inland Money Orders.

Inland Ordinary Money Orders (and to I.F.S.).

The poundage charged is, for sums not exceeding £3,  $4d.$ ; £10,  $6d.$ ; £20,  $8d.$ ; £30,  $10d.$ ; £40 (maximum), ls. No order may contain a fractional part of ld. The rules and regulations are on the forms issued. No poundage is charged for M.O. in payment of many Revenues (including Income Tax) if authorising document is produced.

Inland Telegraph Money Orders (and to I.F.S.).

Money may be transmitted by this means from most Money Order offices which despatch telegrams, and paid at most Money Order offices which also deliver telegrams, and at some other offices. On Sundays, Christmas Day and Good Friday, sums up to £5 are payable at about 33 offices in London, and all Head Offices and 34 others (88 in Scotland) outside, while such are open.

Poundage at the same rate as for Ordinary Inland Money Orders, plus supplementary fee of  $2d.$ , and cost of official Telegram of Advice. If the order is to be delivered at payee's address, portorage must be prepaid unless it be in I.F.S.

Ordinary Money Orders Abroad.

Payable in nearly all countries; should be taken out 1 or 2 days before despatch of mail. Payment may be advised by air mail (p. 697, services (a) and (b)) to some countries for an additional  $2d.$  to ls.  $2d.$  Poundage, £1,  $6d.$ ; £2, ls.; £3, ls.  $8d.$ , and thereafter  $3d.$  per £1 or part thereof. Limits of amount, £20, £30 or £40; of validity, 6, 8 or 12 months.

Telegraph Money Orders Abroad.

Only to certain countries, e.g., to Australia, Canada, India, New Zealand, Palestine, S. Africa, Egypt, U.S.A. Poundage as in last paragraph, plus cost of official Telegram of Advice (at deferred rate if desired, in most British Possessions) or "urgent" rate where available, except Canada, Newfoundland, U.S.A., Cuba), plus supplementary fee of  $6d.$  to ls. (Cuba  $4s.$   $8d.$ ).

POSTAL ORDERS.

Postal Orders (British pattern) are issued and paid at nearly all post offices in the United Kingdom during the ordinary hours of business on weekdays. They are also issued and paid in most British Possessions, Mandates, and Postal Agencies (not Australia or Canada). They are paid (but not issued) in I.F.S. They are printed, with a counterfoil, for every multiple of  $6d.$  up to  $20s.$ , and for  $21s.$  Poundage:  $6d.$  to  $2s.$   $6d.$ ,  $1d.$ ;  $3s.$  to  $15s.$ ,  $1\frac{1}{2}d.$ ;  $15s.$   $6d.$  upward,  $2d.$  In the U.K. the 5 cheapest orders are also sold in books of 12 (all of one kind, or 3 of each kind except  $1s.$   $6d.$ ) poundage  $9d.$  The name of payee must be inserted. If not presented before the seventh month from month of issue, Orders must be sent to the Controller, M.O.D. (P.O.B.), Manor Gardens, London, N.7, with request for payment at some specified office. Adhesive, unperforated current British Postage Stamps (1 or 2) may be affixed, in spaces provided, to an Order issued in the U.K., to increase its value by 1, 2, 3, 4 or 5 pence.

INLAND TELEGRAMS.

Telegrams may be handed in at a telegraph office, or, if prepaid and enclosed in envelope marked "Telegram," posted (without stamp) or handed to a rural postman. Rate, 9 words or less  $6d.$  (to, from or in Irish Free State 12 words ls.  $6d.$ ), each further word ld. Priority rate (U.K. only):  $6d.$  extra. The address is charged for. Original or redirected telegrams, or replies, sent on Sundays and (exc. Scotland) Good Friday or Christmas Day are charged  $6d.$  extra (prepayable). Replies may be prepaid up to  $4s.$  (I.F.S.  $4s.$   $6d.$ ); the voucher issued to addressee may be used, or its value refunded to sender, within 12 months. Receipt for charges free. Certified copy  $6d.$ , sometimes more. The charge includes delivery within 3 miles (1 in Irish F.S.) of the nearest telegraph delivery office, or, if this be a head office, within the town postal limits—beyond that limit the charge is  $6d.$  per mile, calculated from the free delivery limit, to be paid by sender (in I.F.S. by addressee). Usual hours 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.; larger offices 8 a.m. to 7, 7.30 or 8 p.m. (see various paragraphs below, p. 702).

ABBREVIATED ADDRESSES, registered for at least one year (£2 per annum), appear gratis in Sell's Directory (8 & 9 Johnson's Court, Fleet Street, London, E.C. 4).

DELIVERY IS BY TELEPHONE to a telephone subscriber, thus accelerating receipt and making late delivery possible. (a) If address is telephonic (exchange, number, and town or county if needed, count as 3 words only); (b) if "Telephone" (not charged for) precedes full telegraphic address, where exchange and number are unknown to sender; (c) if convenient to the Post Office, unless (i) subscriber has otherwise directed, or (ii) "Private" (charged for) precedes telegraphic address. Confirmatory copies follow, by post.

COUNTING, &c.—Plain language, i.e. Latin, Esperanto or any modern European language, if in English characters, is charged by the number of words; all other words or unintelligible combinations of letters are charged one word per 5 letters. The following count one word—(1) in addresses, as a rule, everything essential after street name; (2) all names of towns and villages in U.K.; (3) names of districts in towns; (4) names of country railway or coastguard stations with public telegraph; (5) words ordinarily written as one or with hyphen, including "couldn't," etc.; (6) Names with prefix "St.," "De," "De la," "O," "Mac," "Fitz," and surnames ordinarily hyphenated; (7) each five figures (th, &c., in ordinals count as two figures); (8) each initial, unless combined in groups of 6 or fewer; (9) signs of punctuation, and the symbols a/c, b/l, s/s, &c. (counts as one word or as three figures); (10) names of telegraph offices abroad mentioned in the International List of Telegraph Offices.

NIGHT TELEGRAPH LETTERS with full postal address, in plain language, for delivery (on week days) by first morning post, or by messenger as soon after as possible, may be sent to addresses in Great Britain or Northern Ireland and to Queenstown, Cork and Dublin. They are accepted up to midnight by telephone, or by post or hand at any telegraph office that is open. Rate: 1s. 1d. per 36 words or less, and 1d. per 3 words beyond 36. Reply may be prepaid.

IMPERIAL AND FOREIGN TELEGRAMS.

In the list of countries on pp. 706-7, the ordinary or FULL RATE per word is given (minimum charge, 1s. 3d.) from any part of the United Kingdom, whether transmitted by cable or by radio-telegraphy (wireless).

COUNTING. Office of destination counts as one word; in other names and addresses outside the text the charge for one word covers up to 15 letters. Subject to the same limit, expressions in the text of plain language telegrams, coming under classes (6) to (8), (See Inland Telegrams: Count) count as one word if written without break, hyphen, or apostrophe. The reduced CDE rate (see below) applies only where the whole text consists of groups of 5 or fewer letters or (up to 50% of the whole text) figures. Otherwise the text is regarded as in "Cypher" (full rate, 5 characters to one word, but 15 letters for words in plain language). Prepaid Replies (minimum 1s. 3d.) are allowed from most places. The indication for this "RP," counting as one word, must be paid for ("RP") if Urgent (q.v.).

URGENT and Urgent Code (CDE) telegrams or replies, at double Ordinary or CDE rates, are allowed to or from most places. The word "Urgent" must be paid for.

REDUCED RATES (priority given to the higher-rate traffic). The "indication" (shown below) must be paid for (one word) according to the kind of telegram sent. (A) Deferred Telegrams (indication I.O.) in Plain Language cost usually half the Full Rate, and may be sent to most places, except those in Europe or the European System. (B) Letter Telegrams in Plain Language; the minimum cost is that of 25 words:—European Letter Telegrams (ELT—half full rate) and Night Letter Telegrams (NLT) are for delivery next morning. Daily Letter Telegrams (DLT) next morning but one, after the day of handing-in. (NLT and DLT) cost (per word) one-third of full rate, one- and two-thirds of 1d. counting as 5d. and 1d. respectively. Post Letter Telegrams (P.L.T.) prepaid by stamps (15d. per word, minimum cost 2s. 6d.), and posted to "Post Letter Telegrams, Central Telegraph Office," London, E.C.4, or handed in at a telegraphic post office, or telephoned (1d. per 10 words, minimum 3d., besides cost of call)—but not from call offices—are wired to Montreal and posted thence to places in Canada, Newfoundland or St. Pierre and Miquelon. (C) Code (CDE) Telegrams (and radio-telegrams), benefit by reductions of full rate of about 30% (European System) and 40% (Extra-European); minimum, 5 words.

SUNDAY AND HOLIDAY ARRANGEMENTS.

On SUNDAY THROUGHOUT THE U.K. no Parcel Post, no telegraphic Money Order, Postal Order, or Savings Bank business is transacted, nor is there any delivery even to callers of letters, &c., except by Express Services (4) and (5) below. IN LONDON Central Telegraph and Leicester Square Offices and 33 others (including those named in the next paragraph) are alone open (mostly 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.) for stamps, telephone, and telegrams. 62 stations, chiefly 8. of the Thames, besides those in col. 1, send telegrams, mostly at train times. The one general collection (10 p.m. to 12) is for Monday mails and 1st London delivery. UNREGISTERED letters for Sunday Mails, if too late for Saturday collection, must be posted in SPECIAL BOXES, at the places and by the times indicated:—A.—Day Mail to Continent: G.P.O., 7 a.m., late fee 2d. B.—Night Mails: (A) No late fees (1) up to times between 4.15 and (District Offices) 6 p.m., in one of 147 places (in all the 118 Sub-districts, except E.C. 3), including the 33 offices mentioned above; (2) up to 6 p.m. at any of the termini referred to under (B) (1) below. (B) With extra stamps (late fee): (1) Inland (fee 1d.) at appropriate terminus (Euston, King's Cross, Liverpool Street, London Bridge Central, Paddington or Waterloo) up to times varying from 8.15 to 10.50 p.m. (2) Abroad (fee 2d.): (a) Europe, except countries under (b), via Hook: Liverpool Street Station, 8.15 p.m. (b) France, Italy, Switzerland, Spain, Portugal, Malta: Victoria Station (Brighton line), 8.20 p.m. REGISTERED (to be handed in): Day Mail abroad, Centr. Tel. Office, 6.30 a.m., 4d. fee; Night Mails (A) No late fee: at all the 147 offices mentioned above, up to 5 minutes before they close. (B) Fee 1s. 6d.: at sorting carriages at proper terminus up to same times as ordinary letters (except mail abroad via Hook). OUTSIDE LONDON All Head Offices and most country telegraphic Sub-offices open from 9-10.30 a.m. (Scotland 9-10 a.m.) for stamps, telegrams, registration: but all town Sub-offices, and most non-telegraphic offices, are closed. Many stations send railway letters (p. 700), and telegrams at train times. There is a collection for night despatch in most places.

EXPRESS DELIVERY (Service 4), a limited inter-city service, for London and the cities marked x on p. 702, is available only:—(1) Sundays: reciprocally between these cities (but not from Belfast to Hull; nor between Cork or Dublin and cities marked x); (2) Good Friday: to London only from the others. The handing-in offices in London are:—G.P.O., Leicester Square, W. and S.W. District Offices, and (Branch Offices) Camberwell Green, Clapham Common, Hammersmith Broadway, Holloway, Stratford, and Swiss Cottage. Packets must be handed in in time to catch preceding night mails (in London, Sat., 4.25-7.0 p.m.). Fee 1s. 6d., besides postage, covers delivery within any of the cities (except Dublin and Cork, when 6d. per mile is payable beyond the first mile). Not available for parcels.

EXPRESS DELIVERY by messenger of a telephoned message (Service 5, p. 700) is on Sundays restricted to the London Postal District. But a letter reaching "Central Telegraph Office, London, E.C.1," early on Sunday morning will be telephoned to a telephone subscriber in the London Telephone Area if the envelope be marked conspicuously "For Sunday telephone delivery," with a broad perpendicular line back and front, usual postage being prepaid on the envelope, and 3d. per 30 words or less by stamps affixed to the enclosed message.

CHRISTMAS DAY AND GOOD FRIDAY.—In London: One morning delivery of letters, parcels, &c., on Christmas Day; none on Good Friday except by Express Services 4 and 5. Offices usually open as on Sundays, in some cases for shorter hours. Outside London: In Scotland business is as usual on Good Friday; on Christmas Day some town sub-offices are shut, and after x p.m. many chief offices are open only for telegraph. In England and N. Ireland there is one delivery of letters and parcels; no acceptance of parcels; offices open as Sundays; collection as notified locally.

PUBLIC HOLIDAYS.—London: One morning delivery of letters and parcels, except on Boxing Day. Some 47 offices open for all classes of business, but parcels are not despatched till next day. Posting for night-mails, and general collection, as on Sundays. Outside London: In Scotland: chief offices open in the morning, some in evening, for all business; telegrams delivered mostly as usual, but acceptance restricted in some country offices; one delivery. On New Year's Day offices open as on Sundays, but no parcel, M.O. or P.O. business; one delivery of letters and parcels, one despatch of letters. In England, Wales and N. Ireland, one letter and parcel delivery (usually none on Boxing Day), and generally one despatch (early in rural districts). Small country, and all town, sub-offices are closed. Head offices and some others open 9 a.m. to noon, country telegraph sub-offices 9 to 10.30 a.m., for most classes of business; also head offices 5 to 7 p.m. for telegraph business (but mostly not on Boxing Day).

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

Post Office as Licensing Authority.—By the Wireless Telegraphy Acts, 1904-26, it was made illegal to install or work wireless telegraphy in the United Kingdom or on board British ships in territorial waters except with the Postmaster General's licence. By the Wireless Telegraphy Order 1908, the provisions of the Wireless Telegraphy Act 1904 apply to British Ships whilst on the high seas. The Merchant Shipping (Wireless Telegraphy) Act, 1919, made it compulsory for all British sea-going ships over 1,600 tons to carry wireless apparatus. The Post Office inspects such apparatus under the Acts, and also examines Wireless Operators for the Postmaster-General's Certificate.

Ship and Shore Service.—The ship-and-shore stations of the Marconi Company and Lloyds, 20 in number, were bought by the Postmaster-General in 1909. The service has since been reorganised and now comprises 11 short-range stations—Burnham-on-Sea, Cullercoats, Humber, Land's End, Malin Head, Niton, North Foreland, Portpatrick, Seaforth, Valentia and Wick—together with Portishead and Rugby. Portishead Radio, the most utilized coast-station in Europe, affords (a) world-wide communication with ships equipped for service on 18, 24 or 36-metre waves, and (b) communication up to a range of about 3,000 miles with ships equipped with long-wave sending and receiving apparatus. Rugby Radio can transmit radiotelegrams to ships equipped with long-wave receiving apparatus; its range is world-wide, but ships are not in a position to reply to this station. The telephone service (p. 705) between certain Transatlantic Liners and Great Britain and some European countries is also afforded through Rugby Radio.

Anglo-Continental Wireless Services.—Post Office wireless services have been instituted side by side with the cable services to the following Continental countries:—Italy, Poland, Estonia, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, the Free State of Danzig, Rumania and Latvia. The services with Italy, Rumania, Hungary, Latvia and Danzig are carried on via the Leafeld Station (near Oxford). The latter station is also used for the transmission of news and commercial intelligence intended for simultaneous reception in several European countries. A medium-power transmitter at the Rugby Station is also used for the services to Czechoslovakia, Poland and Estonia.

Super-power Transmitter at the Rugby Station.—This transmitter uses power of 1,000 kilowatts and is capable of communication with any part of the globe. It is used for the broadcasting of British Official and other news, commercial intelligence, Meteorological Office reports and Greenwich Time Signals, and for transmitting radiotelegrams and news messages to ships at sea.

Beam and Omni-Directional Wireless Stations.—The privately-owned wireless stations in this country at present carrying on commercial

WORK OF THE POST OFFICE.

The carriage and custody of the mails has been maintained by the State "from time immemorial." The telegraphs were transferred to the State on Jan. 28, 1870; the telephone service became exclusively owned and operated by the Government (with one or two minor exceptions) on the transfer of the National Telephone Company's undertaking to the Post Office on Jan. 1, 1912. The submarine telegraph cables connecting the British Isles with the various Dominions and most Foreign Countries except the Continent of Europe are maintained and operated by private companies. The submarine telephone cables from the British Isles to the Continent are either owned entirely by the State or jointly with the Foreign Administration in whose territory the other end of the cable terminates.

The following details of the work done by the Post Office have been supplied to the Editor:—

THE KINGDOM OF ENGLAND.

Position and Extent.—The Kingdom of England occupies the southern portion of the island of Great Britain and lies between  $55^{\circ} 46'$  and  $49^{\circ} 57' 30''$  N. latitude (from the mouth of the Tweed to the Lizard), and between  $1^{\circ} 46'$  E. and  $5^{\circ} 43'$  W. (from Lowestoft to Land's End). England is bounded on the north by the summit of the Cheviot Hills, which form a natural boundary with the Kingdom of Scotland; on the south by the English Channel; on the east by the Straits of Dover (Pas de Calais) and the North Sea; and on the west by the Atlantic Ocean, Wales and the Irish Sea. Area, 50,337 square miles. Population (1931) 37,354,917.

Relief.—There is a natural orographic division into the hilly districts of the north, west and south-west, and the undulating downs and low-lying plains of the east and south-east. In the extreme north the Cheviot Hills run from east to west, culminating in the Cheviot, 2,676 feet above mean sea level. Divided from the Cheviots by the Tyne Gap is the Pennine Chain, running N. by W. to S. by E., with their highest point in Cross Fell, 2,930 feet above mean sea level. West of the Pennines are the Cumbrian Mountains, which contain in Scafell Pike (3,210 feet) the highest land in England, and east of the Pennines are the Yorkshire Moors, their highest point being Urra Moor (1,489 feet). South of the Pennines are the Peak of Derbyshire (2,088 feet) and Dartmoor (High Willhays, 2,039 feet). In the western county of Shropshire are the isolated Wrekin (1,335 feet), Long Mynd (1,674 feet), and Brown Clee (1,805 feet); in Herefordshire the Black Mountain (2,310 feet), in Worcestershire the Malvern Hills (1,395 feet), in Monmouthshire the Sugar Loaf (1,955 feet) and Coity (1,905 feet), and the Cotswold Hills of Gloucestershire contain Cleve Cloud (1,134 feet).

Hydrography.—The Thames is the longest and most important river of England, with a total length of 210 miles from its source in the Cotswold Hills to its outflow into the North Sea, and is navigable by ocean-going steamers to London Bridge. The Thames is tidal to Teddington (60 miles from its mouth) and forms county boundaries almost throughout its course; on its banks are situated the capital of the British Empire; Windsor Castle, the home of the Sovereign; Eton College, the first of the public schools; and Oxford, the oldest university in the kingdom. The Severn* is the longest river in Great Britain, rising in the north-eastern slopes of Plinlimmon (Wales) and entering England in Shropshire, with a total length of 220 miles from its source to its outflow into the Bristol Channel, where it receives on the left the Bristol Avon, and on the right the Wye, its other tributaries being the Vyrnwy, Tern, Stour, Teme and Upper (or Warwickshire) Avon. The Severn is tidal below Gloucester, and a high bore or tidal wave sometimes reverses the flow as high as Tewkesbury (13½ miles above Gloucester). The scenery of the greater part of the river is very picturesque and beautiful, and the Severn is a noted salmon river, some of its tributaries being famous for trout. Navigation is assisted by the Gloucester and Berkeley Ship Canal (16¾ miles), which admits vessels of 350 tons to Gloucester. The Severn Tunnel, 14 miles below the Sharpness Bridge, begun in 1873 and completed in 1886 (at a cost of £2,000,000) after many difficulties from flooding, is 4 miles 624 yards in length (of which 2½ miles are under the river). Of the remaining English rivers those flowing into the North Sea are the Tyne, Wear, Tees, Ouse and Trent from the Pennine Range, the Great Ouse (160 miles) from the Central Plain, and the Orwell and Stour from the hills of East Anglia. Flowing into the English Channel are the Sussex Ouse from the Weald, the Itchen from the Wiltshire and Hampshire Hills, and the Axe, Teign, Dart, Tamar and Exe from the Devonian Hills; and flowing into the Irish Sea are the Mersey, Ribble and Eden from the western slopes of the Pennines and the Derwent from the Cumbrian Mountains. The English Lakes are noteworthy rather from their picturesque scenery and poetic associations than from their size. These lie mainly in Cumberland, but partly in Westmorland and Lancashire, the largest being Windermere (10 miles long), Ullswater and Derwentwater.

Islands.—The Scilly Islands (Cornwall), 25 miles from Land's End, consist of about 40 islands, with a total area of about 4,000 acres, only St. Mary's, Treco, St. Martin's, St. Agnes and Bryher being inhabited, population (1931), 1,732. The capital is Hugh Town, in St. Mary's. The climate is unusually mild, and vegetation luxuriant, semi-tropical plants flourishing in the open. The Isle of Wight is separated from Hampshire by the Solent. The total area is 147 sq. miles, population (1931), 88,400. The climate is mild and healthy, and many watering places have grown up during the last century. Capital, Newport, at the head of the estuary of the Medina, Cowes (at the mouth) being the chief port; other centres are Ryde, Sandown, Shanklin, Ventnor, Freshwater, Yarmouth, Totland Bay, Seaview and Bembridge. Lundy (= Island), 11 miles N.W. of Hartland Point, Devon, is about 2½ miles long, and 1 mile broad, with a total area of about 1,050 acres (mainly picturesque), and a population of about 50; it contains the seat of the proprietor of the island and two lighthouses.

Climate.—The south-westerly winds from the Atlantic Ocean penetrate to the heart of the country, affecting the temperature of the greater part of the kingdom, and only the coastal regions of the east have a modified continental climate. The mean annual temperature is about 50° Fahrenheit, varying from 52° in the Scilly Islands to 48° at the mouth of the Tweed, and generally the west of England is mild and wet in winter and cool and less wet in summer, while the east is cool and dry in winter and spring and hot and less dry in summer and autumn, the wettest region being the Lake district of Cumberland and the driest in the Thames estuary and the Lincolnshire Wash. The climate of England is influenced by the much-indented coastline of the west and by the flow of warm water in the Gulf Stream Drift, which strikes the S.W. projection and proceeds N. and E. along the west and south coasts.

* A Report of the Severn Barrage Committee of the Economic Advisory Council, issued in March 1933, recommends a barrage of the river Severn at the point known as "The English Stones"; the estimated cost of the scheme as fifty million pounds, spread over some years, and the estimated output is 2,200,000,000 units (about one-thirteenth of the requirements of the whole country for the year 1942).

EARLY INHABITANTS.

Prehistoric Man.—A skeleton found at Galley Hill, near Northfleet, Kent (in 1895), has been ascribed to a man of Central Asian race of the Early Stone Age, and stone implements of the remote Eolithic, Palæolithic and Neolithic periods are abundantly found throughout England. The Neolithic period is held to have merged into the Bronze Age about 2000 to 1500 B.C., and a date between these years has been given to Stonehenge (presented by Sir C. H. E. Chubb to the Nation in 1908, and now preserved as a national monument). Stonehenge (10 miles N. of Salisbury, Wiltshire) consists of two circles of menhirs (the largest monolith being 22½ feet in height), only 16 remaining in position in the outer circle, while two of the five typic sets are still in position in the inner circle. The use for which the temple or monument was erected is the subject of many conjectures.

The Celtic Invasion.—In the latter part of the Bronze Age the Goidels, a people of Celtic race, and in the Iron Age another Celtic race of Brythons, invaded the country and brought with them Celtic civilization and dialects, place names in England bearing witness to the spread of the invasion over the whole kingdom.

The Roman Conquest.—Julius Cæsar raided Britain in 55 B.C. and 54 B.C., and in 43 A.D. the conquest of the country was undertaken by the Roman Emperor Claudius, who sent Aulus Plautius with a well-equipped army of 40,000 men, and himself visited Colchester (Camulodunum) and Londinium. The British leader from 48–51 A.D. was Caratacus (strictly Caratâcus), who was finally captured and sent to Rome. By 70 A.D. the conquest of South Britain was completed, a great revolt under Boadicea (strictly Boudicca), Queen of the Iceni (Norfolk), being crushed in 61 A.D. In 122 A.D. the Emperor Hadrian visited Britain and built a continuous rampart, known as Hadrian's Wall, from Wallsend to Bowness (Tyne to Solway), remains of which are still traceable. The Romans administered Britain as a Province under a Governor, with a well defined system of local government, each Roman municipality ruling itself and the surrounding territory. Colchester, Lincoln, York, Gloucester and St. Albans stand on the sites of five Roman municipalities, while London was the centre of the road system and the seat of the financial officials of the Province of Britain. A well preserved Roman town of about 100 acres was first uncovered in the 18th century at Silchester (Calleva Atrebatum), 10 miles south of Reading, and since 1890 the whole site has been investigated. Four main groups of roads radiated from London, and a fifth (the Fosse) ran obliquely from Ermine Street (at Lincoln), through Leicester, Cirencester and Bath to Exeter. Of the four groups radiating from London one ran S.E. to Canterbury and the coast of Kent, a second to Silchester and thence to parts of Western Britain and South Wales, a third (now known as Watling Street) ran through Verulamium (St. Albans) to Chester, with various branches, and the fourth reached Colchester, Lincoln, York and the eastern counties. Christianity reached the Roman Province of Britain from Gaul in the 3rd century (or possibly earlier), Alban, "the protomartyr of Britain" being put to death as a Christian during the persecution of Diocletian (June 22, 303), at his native town Verulamium (St. Albans). The Bishops of Londinium, Ebor-cum (York), and Lindum (Lincoln) attended the Council of Arles in 314. The Roman garrison of Britain was much harassed in the 4th century by Saxon pirates, who invaded the eastern counties from the Wash to Spithead, while about 350 A.D. incursions in the north of Irish (Scotti) and Picts became most formidable, and towards the end of the century many troops were removed from Britain for service in other parts of the Roman Empire. Early in the 5th century Gaul was taken from the Romans by Teutonic invaders, and Britain was cut off from Rome; officials were no longer sent to the island, the garrison was left to defend itself, and appears to have been driven inland by the Northern and Saxon invaders, and to have been conquered and absorbed by the Celtic inhabitants, whose language and customs re-emerged. According to legend, the British King Vortigern called in the Saxons to defend him against the Picts, the Saxon chieftains being Hengist and Horsa, who landed at Ebbsfleet, Kent, and established themselves in the Isle of Thanet. In 455 Horsa was slain in battle against Vortigern, and Hengist reigned with his son in Kent. Bede describes the Kentish settlers as Jutes, and there are traces of differences in Kentish customs from those of other Anglo-Saxon kingdoms.

Anglo-Saxons and Normans.—The English (Angles, Saxons and Jutes) drove the Britons into the mountain fastnesses of the West (Strathclyde, Wales and Cornwall), the name of Welsh (old English Waelisc = Foreign) being given to the islanders by the invaders. The area thus conquered was divided into several kingdoms, of which the chief were Northumbria (Bernicia and Deira), Mercia (Middle Angles), and Wessex. The heathen Angli (whose gods Ti, Woden, Thunor and Frigg are commemorated in "Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday") were converted to Christianity by a mission under Augustine (dispatched by Pope Gregory in 597), which established Archbishoprics at Canterbury and York, and the country appears to have been again converted by the end of the 7th century. In the 8th century Offa, King of Mercia, is stated to have built a wall and rampart, afterwards known as Offa's Dike, from the mouth of the Dee to that of the Wye, as a protection against the Welsh. The greatest of the English kingdoms was Wessex, with its capital at Winchester, and the greatest of the Wessex kings was Alfred the Great (871–901), who resisted the incursions of the Northmen (Danes) and fixed a limit to their advance by the Treaty of Wedmore (878). In the 10th century the Kings of Wessex recovered the whole of England from the Danes, but subsequent rulers were unable to resist the invaders, and England paid tribute (Danegelt) for many years, and was ruled by Danish Kings from 1016 to 1042, when Edward the Confessor was recalled from exile. In 1066 Harold (brother-in-law of Edward and son of Earl Godwin of Wessex) was chosen King of England, but after defeating a Northumbrian revolt under his brother Tostig (aided by an invading army of Harold Hadrada of Norway) at Stamford Bridge in Yorkshire (Sept. 25), he was himself defeated at the Battle of Hastings (or Santlache) on Oct. 14, 1066, and the Norman Conquest secured the throne of England for Duke William of Normandy. Since the Norman Conquest all attempts to invade England have been defeated.

AVERAGE HEIGHTS AND WEIGHTS.

The average heights and weights of men in the United Kingdom have been tabulated as follows. The weights include clothing, which is generally calculated at one-twenty-fourth of the whole.

	Average Height.	Average Weight.
Scotsmen .....	5 ft. 8½ in.	11 st. 11 lb.
Irishmen .....	5 ft. 8 in.	10 st. 13 lb.
Englishmen .....	5 ft. 7¼ in.	11 st. 17 lb.
Welshmen .....	5 ft. 6½ in.	11 st. 4 lb.

LONDON, the capital of England and of the British Empire, and the greatest city in the world, is situated on both banks of the River Thames, 50 miles from its outflow into the North Sea.

The City of London represents London within its ancient boundaries. The City is the financial and business centre of London, and includes the head offices of the principal banks, insurance companies, and mercantile houses, in addition to buildings ranging from the historic interest of the Roman Wall, the Norman Tower and the 15th century Guildhall, to the massive splendour of St. Paul's, and the architectural beauty of Wren's spires (Bow Church, St. Bride's, St. Dunstan's in the East, &c.).

The City of Westminster, which is bounded by the City of London on the east, by Chelsea and Kensington on the west, by Paddington, St. Marylebone and Holborn on the north, and by the Thames and Chelsea on the south, was formed into a borough by the London Government Act of 1899, and was created a city by Royal Charter of Oct. 19, 1900, the Council consisting of a Mayor, 10 Aldermen and 60 Councillors. Extending from the eastern end of the Strand to Kensington Gardens, and from Oxford-street to the Thames, it includes within its boundaries a large number of the finest buildings in London. The Abbey and the Roman Catholic Cathedral, the Houses of Parliament and the Law Courts, Buckingham Palace and St. James's, and the principal Government offices, Clubs and Theatres are situated in Westminster, which also includes the fashionable residential districts of Mayfair and Belgravia. Westminster is the richest of the London areas.

Metropolitan Boroughs.—Under the London Government Act of 1899 the administrative functions of the various vestries in the Metropolitan districts surrounding the City of London were transferred to 28 Metropolitan Boroughs, of which one became afterwards the City of Westminster. The area covered by these boroughs extends northwards to include Stoke Newington, southwards to Wandsworth and Lewisham, eastwards to Woolwich, and westwards to Hammersmith.

London County Council.—For County purposes the affairs of London are administered by the London County Council, which was created by the Local Government Act of 1888.

Miscellaneous Authorities.—For Police purposes the administration is invested in the Corporation of the City of London as to the City Police and in the Home Office as to the Metropolitan Police. The water authority is the Metropolitan Water Board; while the River Thames is administered as to its tidal portion by the Port of London Authority and above Teddington by the Thames Conservancy, the lighthouse and pilotage authority being Trinity House. The bridges are maintained in the City of London by the Bridge House Estates Committee of the Corporation of the City, and in the remaining area by the London County Council. The London and Home Counties Joint Electricity Authority (5 Millbank, Westminster, S.W. 1) provides (or secures the provision of) electricity throughout an area of 1,797 sq. miles.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF LONDON.

LONDON was famed for its vast conflux of traders and its abundant commerce even in the first century of the Christian era. From the Romans, it is said, it received municipal institutions which have endured in their main features to the present day. In Saxon times it was, in reality, a small independent state, and its burghesses maintained their independence even after the Battle of Hastings. William the Norman only gained possession of their city by means of a treaty with them, and about eight years after he granted a charter, which is still preserved. It is addressed to William the Bishop, Godfrey the Portreeve, and all the Burghesses, and promises that they shall be "law worthy" (i.e., possessed of privileges) as they were in the days of Edward the Confessor. The Portreeve, however, received the Norman title of Bailiff, which, in 1191, was changed to Mayor; the first holder under the new name being Henry Fitzailwyn, who filled the office for 24 years. On his death a new charter was granted by King John in 1214, which directed the Mayor to be chosen annually, which has ever since been done; though in early times the same individual often held the office more than once. A familiar instance is that of "Whittington, thrice Lord Mayor of London" (in reality four times A.D. 1397, 1398, 1406, 1419); and many modern cases have occurred. The title of Lord Mayor was not in general use in the outer world until about 1545. The Lord Mayor is elected at Michaelmas; he is sworn into office on November 8, and on the following day presented to the Lord Chief Justice at the Royal Courts of Justice, to take the final declaration of office—the pageant being popularly known as the Lord Mayor's Show.

Aldermen were first appointed by a charter of Henry III. in 1242, and were elected annually between 1377 and 1394, when a charter of Richard II. directed them to be chosen for life. The Common Council, elected annually on St. Thomas's Day (Dec. 21), was, at an early date, substituted for a popular assembly called the Folkmoete. At first only two representatives were sent from each ward, but the number has since been greatly increased, some wards having as many as 16 members, and none less than four. Sheriffs (as well as aldermen) were Saxon officers who usually had charge of a large district. The time of their appointment for London is uncertain, but they appear in ancient records as early as A.D. 1130. At first they were only the officers of the Crown, and were named by the Barons of the Exchequer; but King John gave them, in the first year of his reign, permission to choose their own Sheriffs. The citizens, however, lost this privilege, as far as the election of Sheriff of Middlesex is concerned, by the Local Government Act, 1888; but they continue, as heretofore, to choose the Sheriffs of the City of London. They are appointed on Midsummer Day, and enter on office at Michaelmas.

Officers.—The Recorder was first appointed in 1208. The Chamberlain is an ancient officer. There were at one time two Chamberlains—the King's Chamberlain and the Chamberlain of the Guildhall. The former appears to have fallen into abeyance circa 1319. The first contemporary record of the office of City Chamberlain is 1276. The Town Clerk and Common Serjeant are mentioned as officers in the charter of Edward II., A.D. 1319; but the offices can be traced to a much earlier date than this.

* The above is abstracted from the 303rd "City's Cash Account" of the series extant—A.D. 1533 to 1535-36. (The Accounts earlier than A.D. 1533 were believed to have been destroyed in the Plague of London, but two years' Accounts, temp. Queen Elizabeth, have been discovered among the Corporation Archives, as exceptions to that belief.) The Volumes are in full detail, signed by the Auditors, and in perfect preservation. The above extracts are from the 152nd Annual Printed Account of the Corporation, A.D. 1784 to 1785-36. The Accounts are prepared and stated as directed by Resolutions of the Court of Common Council of the 5th June, 1703, the 14th December, 1705, and 25th January, 1717, upon Reports of the Coal and Corn and Finance Committee, and they are printed in conformity with the 87th Standing Order of the Court of Common Council. The Accounts are made up to the end of March and are issued in the form prescribed by those Orders, and show the Income and Expenditure applicable to the year on the various Funds.

THE CITY GUILDS (LIVERY COMPANIES).

The order of precedence is given in parentheses after the name of each Company. There are 78 Guilds in existence. The Marblers, Silk-throwers and Tobacco Pipe Makers are extinct.

9,716 Liverymen of the Guilds are entitled to vote at elections in Common Hall (see p. 714).

The Liveries of the Stationers and Newspaper Makers (480), Liners (363), and Haberdashers (342), are the most numerous, the Bowyers (24), the smallest.

THE LONDON FIRE BRIGADE. Headquarters: 94 Southwark Bridge Road, S.E. 1.

PREVIOUS to the formation of the Metropolitan Fire Brigade the churchwardens and overseers in every parish were required, under Acts passed in 1707 and 1774, to provide fire engines and ladders, and the leading insurance companies also organised private fire brigades, which were amalgamated in 1832 to form the London Fire Engine Establishment. On January 1, 1866, under the Metropolitan Fire Brigade Act, 1865, the Metropolitan Board of Works took over these responsibilities and established "The Metropolitan Fire Brigade," which (Jan. 1, 1867) also took over the fire escapes provided by the Royal Society for the Protection of Life from Fire, a voluntary body which had been founded in 1836. Under the Local Government Act, 1888, the London County Council assumed control of the Fire Brigade, and in 1904 the title of the Brigade was altered to "London Fire Brigade."

On July 1, 1936, the complement of the Brigade consisted of:—1 chief officer; 1 deputy chief officer; 1 divisional officer; 3 assistant divisional officers; and 1,966 officers, firemen, watchroom attendants and pilots; an administrative technical and clerical staff of 163. There were 60 land fire-stations, 3 river stations and 1 river repairing depot. The equipment included 54 Dual-purpose, 76 Pumps (including 5 breathing-apparatus pumps), 107 sets of self-contained oxygen-breathing apparatus, 22 Escape-vans, 50 Escapes, 13 Turntable ladders, 2 Emergency tenders, 1 Foam tender, 3 Foam generators, 8 Lorries, 3 Tenders, 18 Cars, 1 Canteen-van, 3 River floats, 359 Hook ladders, and 52 miles of hose. There were also 1,743 street fire-alarm posts, 31,772 Fire hydrants, 94 telephone lines from station to station, 65 exchange telephone lines, and 320 telephone lines to public and other buildings. The number of calls to which the Brigade responded during the year ended Dec. 31, 1935, totalled 9,598, the fires numbered 5,172, of which 42 were classed as "serious," and the calls to perform special services numbered 181.

Meets on Tuesday at 2.30 p.m.

THE London County Council was constituted under the Local Government Act of 1888. London is an administrative county, covering an area of 117 square miles.

The City of London is an electoral division of the county. The County of the City of London is a county for non-administrative purposes, such as quarter sessions, justices, &c.; and the Metropolis outside the City is a county for non-administrative purposes, by name the County of London, in which the justices continue their judicial duties.

The Council comprises a chairman, 20 aldermen, and 124 councillors, together 145, or, if the chairman be also an elected member or alderman, 144. The term of office for aldermen is 6 years, and ten retire every 3 years. The councillors are elected for 3 years. The councillors are elected directly by the ratepayers, and the councillors elect the aldermen. The positions of aldermen and councillors are the same, except as to the term of office.

The method by which the Council discharges the multitudinous duties entrusted to it is a generous delegation of powers to committees under well defined rules, subject to the reservation to the Council itself of all questions of principle, and to periodical reports of action taken. In addition to members of the Council co-opted members are included on the following committees: Education, Hospitals and Medical Services, Housing and Public Health, Mental Hospitals and Public Assistance.

The Finance Committee have important statutory powers. No costs, debt or liability exceeding £50 may be incurred by the Council except upon a resolution passed on an estimate submitted by the Finance Committee. The Council is the principal money-raising body for all the local authorities in the county, and has a net debt, according to the latest returns, of £77,445,928 (of which £44,005,535 represents debt incurred for housing), and an annual expenditure of about thirty-eight millions. Advances amounting to £5,019,205 have been made on loan under the Housing Acts and the Small Dwellings Acquisition Acts in respect of the building and purchase of 7,553 houses by private enterprise.

The Education Committee comprise thirty-eight members of the Council and twelve co-opted members, of whom not less than five are required to be women. The Education service involves an annual expenditure of over £13,250,000. The Council maintains 1,134 elementary schools with nearly 554,000 pupils, and 247 secondary and technical schools, evening institutes and training colleges, with nearly 173,000 students. In addition it gives grants-in-aid to the University of London and to 80 secondary and technical schools with over 76,000 students.

The Fire Brigade and Main Drainage Committee maintain the fire brigade and main drainage services. The Council has decided to erect a new headquarters of the Fire Brigade on the Albert Embankment costing, with site, £371,000. The Metropolitan Main Drainage system covers about 179 square miles, including certain districts outside the county, and comprises about 400 miles of main, storm-relief, intercepting and outfall sewers, twelve pumping stations, two sewage precipitation stations, and five sludge vessels. The total capital outlay on main drainage is nearly £16,750,000, and further expenditure is in progress for a scheme to relieve certain districts from flooding after heavy falls of rain, and for the installation of plant at the northern outfall for the treatment of sewage by the activated sludge process.

The Highways Committee deal with questions relating to the carrying out of street improvements and construction of bridges, tunnels and ferries. Among the major improvements in hand are Vauxhall Cross (£363,000), Kensington High-street (£456,050), and London Docks Approaches (£321,960), whilst the Council has also secured powers to acquire property on the south bank of the river between Westminster and Waterloo Bridges to enable it to control the development of that area. The Council is proceeding with the construction of a new Waterloo Bridge with not more than five arches over the river and of a width sufficient to take six lines of vehicular traffic. The reconstruction of Chelsea Bridge and Wandsworth Bridge is also being carried out by the Council.

The Hospitals and Medical Services Committee, among other duties affecting public health, are responsible for the maintenance of 74 hospitals, with accommodation for over 41,000 patients, the treatment of tuberculosis, the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of venereal disease or any other epidemic or infectious disease, and the Council's ambulance service.

The Housing and Public Health Committee perform the duties cast upon the Council by the various Housing Acts, including the clearance of insanitary areas, the building of working-class dwellings and providing the rehousing accommodation required to reduce overcrowding. The total capital expenditure incurred up to March 31, 1936, in respect of all schemes was £47,669,424. In addition to very large works which are still in progress the Council has approved a policy of slum clearance and improvement in London extending over a period of 10 years from April 1, 1934, involving the displacement of, and the provision of rehousing accommodation for, about 250,000 persons, at a total capital cost of approximately £35,000,000. The income (rents, &c.) for 1936-37 in respect of dwellings and housing estates of the Council is estimated at £3,577,725. The total of the exchequer subsidy in respect of the Council's housing operations is estimated at £940,153.

The Mental Hospitals Committee administer the duties falling on the Council under the Lunacy Acts, the Mental Deficiency Act, 1913, and the Mental Treatment Act, 1930. The Council has mental hospitals and institutions with accommodation for over 32,000 patients.

The Public Assistance Committee administer the duties in connection with poor relief, other than hospital treatment, including the maintenance of institutions, receiving homes and training centres, for over 10,000 inmates.

The Town Planning and Building Regulation Committee prepare schemes to control development of land, including building operations or rebuilding operations, and any use of the land or any building thereon for a purpose which is different from the purpose for which the land or building was last being used and to regulate under statute such matters as the construction and safety of buildings, building lines, space about buildings, means of escape in case of fire, and dangerous structures.

Amongst the Other Powers and Duties of the Council may be mentioned the following:—Sanctioning of loans required by the councils of the metropolitan boroughs; acquisition and maintenance of parks and open spaces; the sanctioning of local sewers; the naming of streets and numbering of houses; supervising district surveyors; cattle diseases; controlling storage of explosive substances and petroleum; infant life protection; gas, gas-meter and electricity-meter testing; testing weights and measures; licensing of slaughter-houses and of cow-houses; supervision of common lodging-houses; the granting of licences for music, dancing and boxing; historic buildings and monuments; administration of the Shops Acts, the Children Act, and the Midwives Acts; licensing and inspection of employment agencies; registration of massage establishments; licensing of premises under the Cinematograph Act; registration of motor cars; collection of duties on motor cars, dog, and establishment and certain other local taxation licences; registration of War charities; and welfare of blind persons.

The Expenditure of the Council, including loans to other local authorities, is met by two chief sources of supply—capital money raised by the issue of Stock, Bonds or bills, or by the use of the Sinking Fund of the Council's debt, and current income raised in a county rate or by the revenue of undertakings. Certain contributions, including education grants, are also received from the Imperial Exchequer. All borrowings by the Council are subject to the provision of a sinking fund, under Treasury approval, sufficient to repay all expenditure generally within a period of 60 years (in a few cases the limit is 80 years). The total Stock outstanding at September 30, 1936, was £108,135,599, which includes the issue of £10,000,000 stock approved by the Council on September 22, 1936. These figures are exclusive of the issues of Bonds, the amount outstanding at September 30, 1936, being £2,292,125 Local Bonds for Housing.

The Rating for the year 1936-37, as shown by the statement below (which relates to rate accounts only), amounted to 7s. 0½d. in the pound over the whole county, including the City, and a further rate over the county outside the City of 3d. in the pound, together 7s. 3½d. The total rate for 1935-36 was 7s. The Rateable Value of the County of London on April 6, 1936, was £60,517,074—a 1d. rate over the whole county producing £252,154.

THE PRINCIPAL ENGLISH CITIES.

BIRMINGHAM.

BIRMINGHAM (Warwickshire), the second City in England, situated in the heart of industrial England, is the chief centre of the hardware trade of the world. It is practically equidistant from the other important trade centres in the country, being 111 miles from London, 85 miles from Manchester and 91 miles from Bristol. The municipal area is 51,147 acres (about 80 square miles), with a population (1936) of 1,038,000.

It is estimated that over 1,200 distinct trades are carried on in the city, the chief industries being the manufacture of ammunition and small arms, bakelite goods, chocolate, chemicals, cycles and their component parts, magnets, railway rolling-stock, glass, motor-cars and motor-cycles, motor tyres, tyre valves, tools, toys, electrical apparatus, wireless sets and components, jewellery and brass working.

Gas, water and electricity are supplied by the Corporation, who also own the transport undertaking, markets and Municipal Bank. An Information Bureau has been opened at the Council House to deal with all enquiries relating to the Municipal and Industrial facilities of Birmingham.

The principal buildings are the Town Hall, built in 1832-1850 on the lines of the Temple of Jupiter Stator at Rome, with a large hall; the Council House and Corporation Art Gallery and Museum (1878); the University (Aston Webb, 1909); the Central Library; the 13th century Church of St. Martin (rebuilt 1873); the Cathedral (formerly St. Philip's Church, built by Archer, a pupil of Wren's), the Roman Catholic Cathedral of St. Chad (Pugin), and the Wesleyan Central Hall. Birmingham was incorporated as a borough in 1838, and was created a city in 1889; it is governed by a Lord Mayor and City Council of 34 Aldermen and 202 Councillors. The generally accepted derivation of "Birmingham" is the ham or dwelling-place of the ing of the family of Berm, presumed to have been a Saxon. Between the 11th and 16th centuries, the de Berminghams were Lords of the Manor.

Principal City Officers.

The Lord Mayor (1936-1937), H. Roberts.

Recorder, E. W. Cave, K.C. (1932).

Stipendiary Magistrate, The Rt. Hon. Lord Ilkerton (1920).

Town Clerk, F. H. C. Wiltshire (1918).

Clerk of the Peace, Joseph James (1905)

LIVERPOOL.

LIVERPOOL (Lancashire), on the right bank of the river Mersey, 3 miles from the Irish Sea and 194 miles N.W. of London, is one of the greatest trading centres of the world and the principal port in the United Kingdom for the Atlantic trade. The municipal area is 30,204 acres (which includes 2,883 acres in the bed of the river Mersey) (about 43 square miles, excluding the bed of the river), with a population at the census of 1931 of 856,072. The net tonnage of British and Foreign ships engaged in ocean trade arriving in the port during 1931 was 13,073,652, and of those departing 11,901,558; these figures exclude 2,450,801 tons for arrivals and 3,735,069 for departures in the coasting trade, while the value of the sea-borne trade of the port was stated at £244,030,625 for 1931. The docks, on both sides of the river, have a linear quayage of about 37 miles, and the Gladstone docks can accommodate the largest vessels afloat. The dock authority is the Mersey Docks and Harbour Board. The chief import is grain, whose next in importance being sugar, fruit, oil, timber, cotton and provisions.

The principal buildings are the Cathedral, erected from the designs of Sir Gilbert Scott and consecrated in 1924; when completed this will be the largest ecclesiastical building in England; St. George's Hall, erected 1838-1854, from the designs of Harvey Longdale Elmes, at a cost of £300,000, and regarded as the finest modern example of classical architecture; the Town Hall, erected 1754 from the designs of Wood; the Walker Fine Art Gallery; the University; the Royal Infirmary; the Municipal Offices; and the Custom House. A Roman Catholic Cathedral, designed to be the largest in the world, will be built on Brownlow Hill.

Liverpool was incorporated as a borough early in the 13th century and was created a city in 1880. The Corporation consists of a Lord Mayor and a City Council which comprises 39 Aldermen and 118 Councillors. The name is believed to be derived from Norse words meaning the "Pool of the Slopes."

Principal City Officers.

The Lord Mayor (1936-1937), W. Denton.

Recorder, Edward G. Hemmerde, K.C. (1909).

Stipendiary Magistrate, Stuart Deacon (1910).

President, Court of Passage, Sir Wm. F. Kyffin Taylor, K.B.E., K.C.

Town Clerk, W. H. Baines, £3,300 (1922).

Clerk of the Peace, R. D. Cripps.

MANCHESTER.

MANCHESTER (Lancashire), the centre of the world's cotton trade, is 189 miles N.W. of London. The municipal area is 27,257 acres (about 43 square miles), the population at the census of 1931 being 766,378.

Manchester is the distributing centre of the cotton spinning and weaving of Lancashire for the whole world, and of butter and foodstuffs for the most densely populated part of England. It also contains large engineering and machinery works and factories of hats, clothing, india-rubber goods, chemicals, &c. The city is connected with the sea by the Manchester Ship Canal (opened in 1894), which has a total length of 35½ miles, an excavated depth of 28 to 30 feet, and a general bottom-width (with certain exceptions) of 120 feet. The net tonnage of ships engaged in the Foreign Trade was 3,402,577 for arrivals and 2,731,668 for departures in 1934, the value of the sea-borne trade of the port being £50,532,932 in 1934. The net tonnage of arrivals in the Coasting Trade was 315,087, and of departures 814,588 net tons in 1934. In 1924 the weight of sea-borne merchandise which passed over the Waterway amounted to 5,776,819 tons.

The principal buildings are the Town Hall, erected in 1877 from the designs of Alfred Waterhouse, R.A.; the Royal Exchange, built in 1869, enlarged at cost of £800,000 and reopened by the King, 1921; the Free Trade Hall, erected from the designs of Walters, in 1856, on the site of the "Peterloo Massacres" (Aug. 16, 1819) in St. Peter's Fields; Central Library, opened by the King in 1934; the Art Gallery; the Whitworth Institute; the 17th century Chetham Library; the Rylands Library (1899), which includes the Althorp collection; the University (Owens College); and the 15th century Cathedral (formerly the parish church). Manchester is one of the principal centres of political, literary and scientific advancement, and the Hallé Concerts have placed the city in the forefront of musical development. The Manchester Guardian newspaper exercises a widespread influence throughout the English-speaking world.

The town received a charter of incorporation in 1838 and was created a city in 1853. The City Council consists of 36 Aldermen and 108 Councillors. The Latin name of the city was Mancunium.

Principal City Officers.

The Lord Mayor (1936-1937), J. Toole.
Recorder, Noel Barré Goldie, K.C., M.P. (1935).
Stipendiary Magistrate, J. Wellesley Orr (1927).
Town Clerk, F. E. Warbreck Howell (1929).
Clerk of the Peace, E. M. Redhead.

SHEFFIELD.

SHEFFIELD (Yorkshire, West Riding), the chief centre of the heavy steel and cutlery trade, is situated in the extreme south of Yorkshire, 129 miles N.N.W. of London, at the junction of the Sheaf, Porter, Rivelin and Loxley with the river Don. The city has an area of 39,596 acres (about 61 square miles), with a population (estimated in 1936) of 520,500. The principal industries are the manufacture of heavy steel (armour plates, rails, tyres, axles, engine castings, &c.), cutlery, and instruments, in addition to engines and general machinery, tanning, confectionery, bicycles, iron and brass founding, silver refining, brush making, and many other industries. Sheffield plate (silver sealed to copper by process of fusion) made during the years 1740-1850, when electro-plating superseded the process, is greatly prized by collectors.

The principal buildings are the 14th century Parish Church (St. Peter's), the Town Hall (1897), the Cutlers' Hall (1832), Corn Exchange, Market Hall, Museum, Mappin Art Gallery, Buskin Museum, the University and City Hall (1932).

The Saxon town of Escafeld was created a county borough in 1888 and a city in 1893, the Chief Magistrate becoming a Lord Mayor in 1897. The Corporation includes 25 Aldermen and 75 Councillors.

Principal City Officers.

The Lord Mayor (1936-1937), Mrs. A. E. Longden.
Recorder, Arthur Morley, K.C. (1934).
Master Cutler (1936-1937), Col. W. Tozer, T.D.
Town Clerk, E. B. Gibson (1931).
Clerk of the Peace, G. E. Smith.

LEEDS.

LEEDS (Yorkshire, West Riding) is favourably situated in the coal and iron districts of England, 185 miles N.N.W. of London, and is the centre of the woollen industry and the wholesale clothing trade. The city has also the largest share of the leather trade of the United Kingdom, in addition to large rope works, printing works, and factories of thread, glass and earthenware, with metal casting, machinery and machine tools, steam engines, railway wagons, and other engineering works. Leeds is connected with the Mersey in the west by the Leeds and Liverpool Canal, with the Humber in the east by the Aire and Calder Navigation, and is an important railway centre.

60 square miles), the population at the census of 1931 being 482,789.

The principal buildings are the Civic Hall (opened by King George V. in 1933), the Philosophical Hall, the Municipal Buildings and Art Gallery (1884), the University and the Leeds Institute of Science, Art and Literature (1865). The Parish Church (St. Peter's) was rebuilt in 1840; the 17th century St. John's Church has a fine interior with a famous Renaissance screen; the 17th century Mill Hill Chapel was rebuilt in 1849. Kirkstall Abbey (about 3 miles from the centre of the city), founded by Henry de Laci in 1152, is one of the most complete examples of Cistercian houses now remaining. Temple Newsam, birth-place of Lord Darnley, was acquired by the Corporation in 1922. The present mansion, a stately edifice in red brick, was built by Sir Arthur Ingram in 1620. Adel Church, about 3½ miles from the centre of the city, is a fine Norman structure.

Leeds was first incorporated by Charles I. in 1626, made a county borough in 1889, and was created a city in 1893. The Lord Mayor presides over a corporation of 26 Aldermen and 78 Councillors. The earliest forms of the name are Loidis or Ledes, the origin of which is obscure.

Principal City Officers.

The Lord Mayor (1936-1937), Tom Coombs.
Recorder, J. W. Jardine, K.C. (1932).
Stipendiary Magistrate, Horace Marshall (1910).
Clerk of the Peace, Geoffrey Copson Peake (1933).
Town Clerk, Thomas Thornton (1924).

BRISTOL.

BRISTOL is situated partly in Gloucestershire and partly in Somerset, is a City and County in itself, and is 119 miles W. of London. The present municipal area is 24,381 acres with a population, at the census of 1931, of 397,012. (estimated at 415,000 in 1936). Bristol is noted for its maritime history. Within one mile of the centre of Bristol is the beautiful Clifton and Durdham Down (442 acres), a popular place of resort and recreation. Clifton is a favourite place of residence, standing on the steep bank of the Avon, 200 to 300 feet above mean sea level.

The principal industries are paints, jams and preserves, milling, shipbuilding, rope making, chocolate, sugar and tobacco factories, motor and general engineering, clothing, printing, paper bag and cardboard making, glass and earthenware, soap, leather and chemical works, breweries, and copper, lead and iron works. The docks comprised within the Port are the City Docks, 6 miles from the entrance to the river Avon; the Royal Edward and Avonmouth Docks, at the mouth of the river; and the Portishead Docks, to the westward of the river entrance. The net tonnage of ships (engaged in the Foreign Trade) entered in 1934 was 2,695,283 tons, and of those cleared 757,673 tons, the value of the seaborne trade being stated at £22,678,480 for 1934; the net tonnage of arrivals in the Coasting Trade was 872,771, and of the departures 2,680,061 net tons in 1935. The principal imports are grain, cereal products, wood pulp, feeding stuffs, fruit, provisions, frozen meat, sugar, metals, ores, oilseeds, paper, petroleum and petroleum spirit, timber, tobacco and general merchandise, and the chief exports are machinery, manufactured oils, chemicals, strontia, hardware, and unmanufactured clay.

The chief buildings, in addition to the 14th century Cathedral (rebuilt by Street 1868-1888), with Norman Chapter House and gateway, the 14th century Church of St. Mary, Redcliffe (described by Queen Elizabeth as "the fairest, goodliest and most famous parish church in England"), the 15th century Temple Church, and Wesley's Chapel, Broadmead, are Canynges House, the Merchant Venturers' Almshouses, St. Peter's Hospital, the Council House, Guildhall, Exchange (erected from the designs of John Wood in 1743), the Dutch House (17th century), Colston Hall, Museum and Art Gallery, Central Library, Cabot Tower, the University and Clifton College. The Clifton Suspension Bridge, with a span of 702 feet over the Avon, was projected by I. K. Brunel (the designer of the Great Eastern) in 1836, but was not completed until 1860. It is a remarkable engineering triumph, affords by far the best view of the wonderful Avon Gorge and new low level road from Bristol to the Royal Edward and Avonmouth Docks, known as Portway, and it is seldom that such a panoramic view is to be found in such close proximity to a great city. The Leigh Woods and Nightingale Valley on the opposite side of the river to Clifton Down add enormously to the beauty of the surroundings. Bristol offers to the visitor a wealth of beauty and charm of historic and romantic associations which can in no other part of the country be surpassed.

Bristol was a Royal Borough before the Norman Conquest, and in 1899 its Chief Magistrate (Sir Herbert Ashman) became a Lord Mayor. The Corporation includes 28 Aldermen and 84 Councillors. The earliest forms of the name are Brigstowe and Bristow.

Principal City Officers

The Lord Mayor (1936-1937), Albert Francis Moon.

High Steward and Lord Lieutenant, His Grace the Duke of Beaufort, G.C.V.O.

Recorder, Ferdinand Philip Maximilian Schiller, K.C.

Town Clerk, Josiah Green.

KINGSTON UPON HULL.

HULL (officially "Kingston upon Hull") is situated in the East Riding of Yorkshire, at the junction of the Hull with the Humber, 22 miles from the North Sea and 181 miles N. of London. The municipal area is 13,392 acres, with a population of 322,200 (1936).

Hull is the third port in the United Kingdom and the chief port of North-Eastern England. Ten docks cover a water area of 210 acres and are equipped with every modern appliance for the rapid handling of cargoes. Hull has the reputation of being the cheapest port in the U.K. Net registered tonnage of ships using the docks in 1935, 6,599,148. Value of imports (grain, oilseed, provisions, wood, fruit, wool, &c.) £42,236,852 in 1935; exports (cotton, woollen goods, coal, machinery, cattle food, &c.) £22,163,492. Hull is the largest centre of the seed-cruising and oil-extracting industry in the world, the premier fishing port of the U.K. and an important centre of the flour-milling industry; other manufactures are acetates, canisters, cement, cocoa-butter, colours and chemicals, electric lamps, mill machinery, oil cakes and meals, paint, paper, polishes, power alcohol, radiators, rope, shipbuilding, soap, starch, surgical dressings, tanning, tar products, varnish, vegetable oils, wood milling, &c.

The chief buildings, in addition to the Docks, are the Parish Church (Holy Trinity), 272 feet in length (the longest parish church in England), the Guildhall (1925), Exchange (1866), Chamber of Commerce, Corn Exchange, Market Hall, City Hall, Custom House, Dock Offices, Royal Institution (1854), Wilberforce House, Trinity House (1753), and the Ferens Art Gallery. A Municipal Art Gallery has been established under the gift of the late Mr. T. R. Ferens. A municipal airport was opened in 1929.

The name of Wyke-upon-Hull was changed to Kingston upon Hull by Edward I. in the 13th century. The town was incorporated in 1440 and made a county borough in 1888. The Corporation consists of a Lord Mayor, 21 Aldermen and 63 Councilors.

Principal City Officers.

The Lord Mayor (1936-1937), Frederick Holmes.

Recorder, Charles Paley Scott, K.C. (1933).

Town Clerk, Alexander Pickard (1934).

BRADFORD.

BRADFORD (Yorkshire, West Ridmg), 192 miles N.N.W. of London and 8 miles W. of Leeds, in the coal and iron district, is the centre of the woollen and worsted trade. The city is connected with the Mersey in the west and with the Humber in the east by canals, and is an important railway centre. The municipal area is 24,341 acres (about 38 square miles), with a population at the 1931 census of 298,041.

The principal textile industries are worsteds, woollens, silks and cottons, and there are also important engineering and iron works, and quarries of freestone.

The chief public buildings, in addition to the 15th century Cathedral (formerly the Parish Church) and Belling Hall (14th century), are the Town Hall (1873), Exchange (1867), Cartwright Memorial Hall (1904), commemorating the inventor of the power loom, the Windsor (Baths and Public Halls, 1905), Grammar School (Charter, 1662), Technical College (1882), and the Mechanics' Institute (1832).

The Saxon township was created a parliamentary borough in 1832, a county borough in 1888, and a city in 1907. The Corporation consists of a Lord Mayor, 22 Aldermen and 66 Councillors.

Principal City Officers.

The Lord Mayor (1936-1937), G. R. Carter.

Recorder, Frank Beverley (1926).

Stipendiary Magistrate, F. J. O. Coddington (1934).

Town Clerk, N. L. Fleming (1920).

NEWCASTLE UPON TYNE.

NEWCASTLE UPON TYNE (Northumberland), a City and a County on the north bank of the Tyne estuary, 8 miles from the North Sea and 272 miles N. of London, has an area of 11,401 acres (18 square miles) and a population of 286,199 at the Census of 1931.

The city is conveniently placed on the estuary, in the neighbourhood of the Northumberland and Durham coalfields. The exports of the Port of Newcastle upon Tyne (River Tyne) include coal, chemicals, oil fuel (as cargo and bunkers), pig iron, iron and steel manufactures and machinery; the chief imports being wheat and grain, fruits, iron, iron ore and steel, sulphur ore, petroleum, timber and wood, and potatoes. The net tonnage of ships engaged in the Foreign Trade was 4,941,778 for arrivals and 6,345,591 for departures in 1934, the value of ocean-borne trade being £22,039,463 in 1934; the net tonnage of arrivals in the Coasting Trade was 4,059,509 and of departures 2,501,149 net tons in 1934. The chief industries are shipbuilding, metal works and machinery, chemicals, glass, brick, tile and earthenware, and rope making.

The principal buildings include the (11th century) "New" Castle, of which the walls, keep and chapel are well preserved, the Cathedral (St. Nicholas), St. Andrew's Church (11th century), St. John's (12th century), St. George Jesmond, the Roman Catholic Cathedral of Hexham and Newcastle, Holy Trinity War Memorial, Guildhall (1658), Moot Hall (1810), Exchange (1860), Central Public Library and Laing Art Gallery and Museum, Wood Memorial Hall (1870) and the Custom House. The beauty of Jesmond Dene (gift of 1st Lord Armstrong) is much appreciated by visitors as well as the Town Moor, a tract of over 900 acres of open grassland. The city is connected with the south bank of the Tyne by six bridges, viz.:—High Level (Stephenson) for road and rail, Swing bridge (road), Redheugh (road), Scottwood suspension (road), King Edward VII. (rail), Tyne (road).

The pre-Norman borough of Monkchester was re-named Newcastle in the 11th century when the castle was erected as a defence against the Scots. In 1400 it was made a county borough, and in 1859 was incorporated. The City Corporation now includes a Lord Mayor (1906), 19 Aldermen and 57 Councillors.

Principal City Officers.

The Lord Mayor (1936-1937), John Grantham, J.P. Recorder, R. Storry Deans, LL.B. (1932).
Town Clerk and Clerk of the Peace, Sir Arthur Maule Oliver, O.B.E., M.A. (1907).

NOTTINGHAM.

NOTTINGHAM (Nottinghamshire), the principal manufacturing centre of hosiery and lace, stands on the left bank of the Trent, where the tributary stream Leen enters the river, 2.5 miles N.N.W. of London. The municipal area is 16,166 acres (25¼ square miles), and includes the historic old market-place of 5½ acres in the centre of the city, recently laid out as an ornamental square and garden. Population, Census of 1931, 268,801 (est. at 281,850 in 1935).

The city is connected with the North Sea and the Atlantic by the river Trent and canals and is an important railway centre. The principal industries are cotton, silk and merino hosiery, lace, bleaching, dyeing and spinning, tanning, engineering and cycle works, brewing, the manufacture of tobacco, chemicals, furniture, typewriters, and colour printing.

The chief buildings are the 11th century Nottingham Castle (restored in 1878), and now the City Museum and Gallery of Art, Wollaton Hall (1580-88) owned by the Corporation and now a Natural History Museum, St. Mary's, St. Peter's, and St. Nicholas's Churches, the Roman Catholic Cathedral (Pugin, 1842-4), the Council House, opened by the Prince of Wales in 1929, the Guildhall and Court House (1887), Shire Hall, Albert Hall, Exchange, University College, The General and other Hospitals, Eye Infirmary, and New University College.

Nottingham or Notingham, "the home of the sons of Snod" (the Wise), is the Anglo-Saxon name for the Celtic Trinogobauc, "Cave Homes." The city possesses a Charter of Henry II., and was created a city in 1897. The Corporation comprises a Lord Mayor, 16 Aldermen and 48 Councillors.

Principal City Officers.

The Lord Mayor (1936-1937), E. Purser. Recorder, Sir Albion Richardson, K.O., O.B.E. Town Clerk and Clerk of the Peace, J. E. Richards (1936).

STRATFORD-UPON-AVON.

STRATFORD-UPON-AVON (a municipal borough in Warwickshire, on the west bank of the River Avon), had a population (Census 1931) of 11,616. As the birthplace of Shakespeare the borough is visited annually by travellers from all parts of the globe. Principal buildings, &c.:—

Shakespeare's Birthplace (April 23, 1564). Holds library of rare editions, pictures, and relics. In the garden are grown the trees and plants named by the poet.

Clopton Bridge, built of stone, on 19 arches, about 1450 by Sir Hugh Clopton, Stratford native, and Lord Mayor of London.

Guild Chapel and Guildhall.—Founded A.D. 1269. In the old hall young Shakespeare could witness strolling companies performing (mentioned in Records). In chapel, mural scriptural and other paintings, done by medieval artists.

Hall's Croft.—Unaltered 16th-century residence of Susanna, poet's daughter, wife of Dr. John Hall, churchwarden and poet's executor.

Harvard House.—Built 1566 by Alderman Thomas Rogers, whose descendant (John Harvard) founded Harvard University, U.S.A.

Anne Hathaway's Cottage.—At Shottery, one mile from Stratford, is the little thatched farmhouse, the undisturbed birthplace of Anne Shakespeare, poet's wife, who bore him three children, Susanna, Hamnet, and Judith. Contains curious Tudor and Jacobean furniture.

King Edward VI. School.—Here Shakespeare acquired his "small Latin and less Greek," and matchless English.

The Shakespeare Memorial.—Mainly due to munificence of C. E. Flower (1830-92) and his wife. Group comprises Library, with 10,000 volumes of Shakespeare editions and dramatic literature, including Irving and other collections. Gallery of pictures (including unique "Droeshout" portrait). Gardens. Theatre, burnt down in 1926, has been rebuilt. Dates of Festival, 1927, March 20 to Sept. 25.

New Place.—Site of the poet's retirement. Shakespeare bought this estate in 1597; retired to it about 1610; died there April 23, 1616. House was rebuilt about 1705, and demolished by Rev. Francis Gastrell, 1759.

New Place Museum (Nash's House).—Museum of local archaeology, contains extensive collection of Roman, Saxon and medieval antiquities and local by-gones.

The Cage.—For 36 years the home of Judith, poet's younger daughter, who married Thomas Quiney, vintner.

Town Hall.—Erected 1633; rebuilt 1768. Contains details of the unbroken sequence of Bailiffs and Mayors since A.D. 1553 (including the poet's father, John Shakespeare). Exhibits: Gainsborough portrait of Garrick; four Corporation Maces, gilt silver of 15-16th Century.

Trinity Church.—Dates from 13th Century. Shelters remains of poet and family.

Wilmcote.—House of Shakespeare's mother, Mary Arden, purchased 1930; a fine timbered manor-house of the Tudor period, with dovecot. The ancient barns house a large collection of obsolete agricultural and dairying implements. Open to the public.
